The Cooking School

The Charlevoix Courier wishes to express its grateful appreciation to the merchants of Charlevoix whose splendid cooperation has made possible the publication of this special Cooking School edition. It is our endeavor to send a copy of the special edition into every home in Charlevoix and rurals, thereby giving the advertising merchants a fine newspaper coverage.

The Cooking School, under the personal direction of Mrs. Helene Sailer, will be held in the Charlevoix High school gymnasium on Friday and Saturday, September 10 and 11, with sessions on Friday from 2 to 4 p. m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., and on Saturday from 2 to 4 p. m.

All sessions of the school are free to the public. Many local merchants will have displays in the gymnasium and their merchandise will be used by Mrs. Sailer in demonstrating numerous methods of preparing and serving delicious dishes.

The women of Charlevoix and Charlevoix county are cordially invited to attend. If you can't come to all three sessions, come to at least one; you will like Mrs. Sailer, for not only is she an expert home economist but she is a gracious and charming hostess. Bring your note books with you, take down the recipes as she demonstrates methods of preparing economical, tasty dishes, and then, when you return home, try them out in your own kitchen.

We ask you to look on this school as a community affair, to which every one of you is most cordially invited.

TRAILER MADE MEAL

This summer, during the entire vacation period, trailers are to be found on every through highway in the country, and in many sections there are full-fledged trailer camps, so a few ideas for "trailer-made" meals may be welcomed by those who are planning a vacation trip n la trailer or cabin.

Vacation meals always should be easy meals, and these are no exception. Plan to have easily prepared foods but plenty of them, because cabin or trailer appetites are always ravenous. The foods, even more than at any other time, must be substantial; therefore, see to it that generous servings of meat are included.

Canned Meats Important

Usually it will be possible to obtain fresh meats for these meals, but just in case not, have a supply of canned and cured meats on hand. There is a wide variety of canned ments from which to choose. Start the list with corned beef hash, chili con carne, dried beef, beef tongue, veal loaf, meat balls and spaghetti, and a variety of potted meats, and replenish the stock as soon as possible after one or more varieties have been used.

Ground meat, because it is cooked so quickly, is a popular fresh meat with campers, but this should be purchased only a short time before it is used, unless the trailers or cabins are really de luxe with plenty of refrigerator space. As a little different variety of hamburgers, here is one which is extraordinary good. It is suggested by a leading home economist.

Toasted Nut Hamburgers

1½ pounds ground beef
3 tablespoons chopped pecan or walnut meats
6 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons finely minced onion
3 slices bacon

Divide the ground beef into six individual servings and form each one into two round flat cakes. Press well together so that they will hold their shape. Combine chopped nut meats, onion and parsley and spread on top of six cakes. Place half of a bacon slice on top of the nuts, and the remaining six cakes as covers on each. Pinch the edges together, and broil or pan-broil the cakes until they are done.

MEAT SALAD IDEAL

Something cool and yet substantial are the requirements for the Sunday night supper, so why not have a meat salad? This is substantial enough to satisfy the heartiest appetite, and tasty enough to tempt the most lethargic one.

As to the kinds of meat salads suitable for the Sunday night supper, there are many. The meat is finely diced and combined with a variety of other foods. Crisp celery and pickles are ingredients of practically every meat salad, because of the crunchiness they add. Macaroni, carrots, apples, cucumbers, tomatoes, may be used in various combinations with meat.

Cut Meat Into Cubes

The meat for a salad should be cut into pieces which are not so small that they lose their identity. For most salads one-fourth to one-half inch cubes of meat are best. And for a meat salad, there should be plenty of meat. Left-over cold roast pork, veal, lamb, or beef are ideal for this dish. Cold baked ham makes an excellent salad as does the ends of a pot-roast. In fact, practically any kind of already cooked meat may be used, so if there are to be guests for the Sunday night supper, perhaps you will want to leave a large roast of meat for the Sunday dinner, and make the left-over into salad for the supper.

Organist

HELEN CRAWFORD, charming organist, will be featured with Jesse Crawford's popular radio and dance band, playing from the revolving stage of the Ford Exhibit at the Michigan State Fair, beginning Sept. 3. Visitors to the Ford display will be entertained every afternoon and evening, except Sunday, during the 10-day show. Playing with their orchestra at the consoles of twin electric organs, the Crawfords have created something musically different and a novelty in dance bands.

Meat and Macaroni Salad

3 cups diced meat
2 cups cooked elbow macaroni
½ cup diced celery
½ cup diced sweet pickles
Salt and pepper
Salad dressing
Lettuce or escarole
Stuffed olives

Have meat diced into one-fourth to half-inch cubes. Drain cooked macaroni and wash with cold water to prevent it sticking together. Combine meat, macaroni, diced celery and sweet pickles. Season with salt and pepper and moisten with salad dressing. Serve on a bed of lettuce or escarole and garnish with sliced stuffed olives.

Tomatoes Stuffed with Ham Salad

5 ripe tomatoes
1 cup cold diced baked ham
¼ cup diced celery
¼ cup diced cucumber
Salad dressing

Choose tomatoes of uniform size. Hollow out the centers. Combine with diced baked ham, celery, and cucumber. Moisten with salad dressing. Refill the tomatoes and serve in lettuce cups.

SHUCKS

1 egg
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon shortening
1 tablespoon milk
Pinch of salt
Pinch of nutmeg
Flour to knead very hard dough

Mix all ingredients thoroughly, roll thin. Cut in 1½ inch strips three inches long. Slit in fringes on narrow edge one inch deep; roll up and pinch together uncut edge. Shake narrow strips out, holding to top. Drop into deep hot fat, 375 degrees F. and fry to golden brown. Drain on unglazed paper, sprinkle with powdered sugar. Serve within six hours with tea or salad.

WEAR YOUR LICENSE SO IT MAY BE READ

The law has caught up with the deer hunters who smeared their license tags with mud or wore them upside down last fall.

A provision in the game bill which last year stated only that license tags be worn so as to be plainly "visible" has been corrected by the Legislature. Deer hunters will be required by law this fall to wear their tags so as to be plainly "legible" as well as visible.

TO LOVE TO LIVE

again, and received a cold retort to the effect that Edna was now old enough to take care of herself.

The effect upon Henry made her deliriously happy.

He became angry.

At last she was making some impression; at last Henry was beginning to realize she was something besides a kid sister.

She consented once to go out with him, and Henry spent the evening handing her brotherly advice, in all of which she smiled sweetly and looked wise. Henry raged and took her home in sullen silence.

Edna May found difficulty in controlling her emotions.

Henry was waking up.

He was, she was sure, beginning to fall. She could tell.

Every girl can tell when she is making an impression on a man. And the thought made her deliciously happy. Her happiness couldn't be any more complete than on that morning, two days later, when she came to the breakfast table and picked up the early edition of the Reporter that was lying there. She glanced casually at the headlines and flipped the pages to the society section.

Right then her heart stopped beating and the breakfast table and the room and everything began to swim and sway crazily.

At first she couldn't believe her eyes. But she read it again, and then a third time. There couldn't be any mistake. It must be true. And there was Henry's picture and the widow Morgan's. And there were the black headlines staring back at her, "Banker's son elopes with young widow."

• • •

Edna May got unsteadily to her feet and somehow reached her room without uttering a sound.

Even then she didn't cry.

Her hurt was too great. She just sat before her window and stared out and saw nothing.

She wished she was dead.

How easy it would be to die now. It would simplify matters so much. It would spare her all the years to come, years of torment and misery.

Edna May suddenly stood up and went into her bathroom and took down a bottle of iodine. . . . Later she opened her eyes and became conscious of a burning sensation in her stomach, and decided she wasn't dead.

Her mother was there, bending over her with anxious eyes.

She wondered why Edna May had taken such a large dose of cough medicine, and Edna May shut her eyes and didn't attempt to explain.

She'd have to try again, she told herself. She couldn't go on. She couldn't.

At noon Edna May got up and dressed and went out for a walk. At the corner of Fisher and Spruce she turned and crossed over to detour around a roped-off area where some construction work was going on.

She remembered hearing the warning cry, but her mind was too occupied to give it much heed. Then she saw the heavy crane swinging toward her, and screamed. Death stared her in the face, and she tried to avoid it.

Death! A few hours before she had sought it. And now she screamed and ran and prayed that it would not claim her. . . .

• • •

"It's a pity," the doctor was saying, "she'll be scarred for life . . . such a good-looking girl, too . . . even though they do get damages, it won't do much good . . . damages won't remove that scar. . . ."

Edna May opened her eyes and looked at the doctor and her mother and father, and smiled.

There was pity and sorrow in their faces, but Edna May still smiled.

She reached for her mother's hand and drew her toward the bed. "It can't be as bad as that," she said. "It could be so much worse. I—I'm lucky to be alive."

After a while she thought of Henry and wondered if he was happy with the widow Morgan.

She hoped he was. She wanted every one to be happy. There were so many important things to do.

Life meant so much.

It was so good—so good to just be alive. To feel that you had years and years to live. How foolish she'd been to try to crowd it all into so short a space of time, to have had but a single purpose in mind.

Edna May closed her eyes again, but the smile lingered. She shuddered, remembering how near death she had been. She sighed. Life—just to be alive—was so sweet.

It was selfish to waste life away. . . . So many things far more important and necessary than love.

Edna May at last had found herself.

A Weighty Subject

William Howard Taft, former President of the United States, was a man of big proportions, both mentally and physically. He was also blessed with a keen sense of humor. A Washington newspaper correspondent once asked him if he would tell how much he weighed. "No, sir," boomed the President. "Mr. Reed used to say that no gentleman could weigh more than 200 pounds. I have amended that to 300." Mr. Taft actually weighed more than 300 pounds at one time.

TOMORROW

Young men should learn early in life the lesson that giving full measure today is the best insurance they can buy for future years. Then tomorrow need not worry them. The man who consistently does his best usually is the best prepared for the worst.

Firestone TIRES

GIVE YOU GREATER PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING AND BLOWOUTS

YOU will know the minute you see this tire why car owners everywhere call it the greatest tire ever made to sell at these low prices. The deeper, wider, flatter non-skid tread made of tough, long wearing rubber will give you protection against dangerous skidding.

But tires cannot be judged on tread alone. Under the tread of Firestone Standard Tires are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords. This Firestone patented construction feature binds the tread and cord body into one inseparable unit. Every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply is saturated and coated with pure liquid rubber which counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life. This Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping gives greater protection against blowouts and is used only in Firestone Tires.

COUNTY RELIEF SITUATION IS OUTLINED

CASE LOAD OF 198 PERSONS REPORTED SEPTEMBER 1

Smallness of State Allotment to County Provides Relief Only for Most Needy Cases

On September 1, the active relief case load for Charlevoix county stood at 198 cases, according to Harold F. Lamb, administrator of the Charlevoix County ERA.

Because of the approach of winter, the Relief Commission wishes to again state its policy regarding extension of relief to able bodied persons.

In the first place, help must be given to persons unable to help themselves. Widows with dependent children and the disabled must be given first consideration.

State allotments to Charlevoix county are barely enough to care for those unable to work. In fact, there is not enough money to properly clothe the children for school. Because of this situation, relief to able bodied men can be given only in extreme cases.

To juatify the extending of help to the able bodied, the relief office must have definite proof that the persons applying have looked for work, not only at home, but elsewhere. Even in cases where such proof is ample, relief may have to be withheld until additional funds can be secured from the state.

EXCURSION SHIP LATE, COULD NOT STOP HERE

Communication from Transportation Company Expresses Regrets

The following communication, addressed to Gordon Todd, activities director of the Board of Commerce, expressed regret for the inability of the Str. North American to make a scheduled excursion stop at this port on Sunday, September 5. The letter follows:

We regret very much that the S. S. North American was unable to make Charlevoix port of call on our Labor Day cruise. Due to the fact that the S. S. North American encountered heavy seas and strong head winds the entire voyage out of Chicago and as she was running four hours late, it would have been impossible to put into Charlevoix and still maintain our schedule of calling at Mackinac Island and return to Chicago. It was also impossible to give the passengers any additional time past the hour that they were due in Chicago Monday night as we had another charter going out one hour after the return of the S. S. North American after the Labor Day cruise.

We appreciate all the work that you went to in making plans for the S. S. North American arrival and we are very sorry that our passengers missed the grand reception that you had planned for them. Keen disappointment was expressed among the passengers aboard the ship at missing the call at Charlevoix.

Thanking you again for past favors and assuring you our cooperation in future cruises, and with kindest personal regards and best wishes, I am

Yours very truly,
EMERY B. HATCH,
Secretary and Treasurer.

MAJOR PARTIES BEGIN 1938 CAMPAIGN

REPUBLICAN RALLY SEPTEMBER 17-18 AT BAY CITY

Democrats Set Meeting for September 10 at Houghton Lake—Toy Is After 1938 Governorship

The 1938 campaign today overshadowed the immediate affairs of state for most Michigan politicians.

Republicans were bending all efforts to set the off-year drive for votes to a record early start at their state-wide rally in Bay City on September 17 and 18.

In an effort to detruct from the GOP pow-wow, 10th district Democrats will rally at Houghton Lake on September 10 to give Democratic state officials, especially State Treasurer Theodore I. Fry, an opportunity to open the barrage.

Meanwhile, Gov. Frank Murphy was resting at an Ann Arbor hospital and state offices were completing the holiday schedules.

Harry Toy, former attorney general and supreme court justice, set off the campaign drive for 1938 last week with a bitter condemnntion of Murphy's policies. The speech at Kalamazoo tossed Toy's hat into the ring for the Republican nomination for governor.

While the Detroit attorney has sounded his hid for the nomination publicly, quietly he has been building an organization which planned to get into full swing within about 60 days. How that would fit into future plans of former Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald remained to be seen.

Senator Miller Dunckel, Three Rivers, secretary of the Michigan League of Republican Clubs, and James F. Thomson, chairman of the Republicnn State Central Committee, emphasized that every effort would be made at Bay City to keep Toy and Fitzgerald and others with aspirations for state offices in the background.

"This meeting is to lay plans for the 1938 campaign," Thomson emphasized. "It isn't to be a sounding board for candidates."

Those plan included two revolutionary ideas for Michigan Republicans. First, they planned to build nn organization in each precinct which they have never felt they needed before. Secondly, n committee will druft a "declaration of principles" which was expected to form the bnsis for the 1938 party plntform.

"We're going to be all set with a constructive program and a well-knit orgnnization," Dunckel predicted.

In building this organiznntion, the Republicans anticipnted a complete overhnuling of the pnrty's clubs throughout the stnte and closer cooperation between congressmen and the stnte organiznntion.

While the Bay City meeting essentially is a state organization rally, Republican leaders predicted that the presence of U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg would give it national significance. The Republican National Committee has arranged for his address to be broadcast on a nation-wide hookup, thereby indicating to state leaders that the man mentioned as the likely 1940 Republican presidential candidate might sound the keynote of a Republican revival.

Vandenberg has been conferring with Michigan Republican leaders since adjournment of Congress and many of them admit that his national prestige will give him greater influence in state party affairs during the 1938 campaign.

HELPFUL HINTS

The refrigerator should have a weekly cleaning. Remove all food, take out trays and shelves, and wash the latter thoroughly in hot water and soap suds. Wash the inside of the refrigerator with warm water and soap suds and rinse with a solution in which one tablespoon of soda is added to each quart of water. Rinse again with warm water and wipe with a soft cloth. Then leave the box open for five minutes or so to allow the interior to dry.

Equip the guest room closet with plenty of hooks and clothes hangers. Add a shopping bag to hold soiled clothing. If a private bath is not connected with the guest room, towel racks on the back of the closet door will prove convenient. A waste basket, clock, ash trays, and good lighting equipment for reading and dressing should be included.

If a large piece of ice is necessary for the punch bowl, remove the racks from the largest cube tray, fill the tray with water, and when it is partly frozen, add slices of lemons, oranges, and candied cherries. Green mint leaves, too, lend a colorful note.

Glue pieces of felt to the bottoms of candlesticks, vases, and other ornaments likely to scrutch finished wooden surfaces. (Discarded hats are excellent for a felt supply.) Mending glue or cement will prove sufficiently adhesive.

Canned or fresh fruit juices lend variety to the breakfast. Among the more popular juices are prune, grapefruit, cranberry, orange, pineapple, and—more lately—apple juice.

Mayonnaise should be stored in covered jars on the upper shelf of the refrigerator, since it is likely to separate if it is kept in the coldest section.

If there are several children in the family, rotate their tasks each week to stimulate a little competitive spirit.

COOKING SCHOOL

MRS. HELENE SAILER
Courier Cooking School Director

Mrs. Helene Sailer recommends and uses Occident Flour in these demonstrations because it insures uniformly perfect baking results. Notice, when you sample Mrs. Sailer's baking, the exceptionally fine texture of everything she bakes, volume per loaf, and the number of bakings obtainable from each sack. We think you'll agree after following this demonstration that Occident is the flour for your own pantry.

The reasons for the exceptional results obtainable with Occident Flour:

1. It is milled from the most carefully selected wheat.

2. The milling process is exceptionally long—each kernel of wheat passes through a full mile of equipment—grinders, sifters, purifiers, etc., before it is ready for the Occident sack.

Each sack of Occident Flour is sold by the following dealers, on an outright money-back guarantee to deliver better baking. If you do not agree after trial that Occident gives you the finest baking results you have ever had, the full purchase price will be refunded without question.

FINDS EIGHT REASONS FOR BARN CLEANLINESS

Provides Higher Quality Product and Subsequent Better Prices

Eight reasons for cleanliness in a dairy barn where much of the state's agricultural income originates are elted by A. C. Baltzer, extension dairyman at Michigan State College.

Such projects as cleanup campaigns have no place in dairying, he finds, because proper milk production requires sanitation 12 months of the year. Any one of the eight reasons can be used as sufficient ineentive to maintain a clean dairy barn.

First, and pointed right at the pocketbook, is the reasoning that sanitation means more certainty of a high quality product. This high quality product in turn is more certain of sale. Clean barns are more pleasant for employes.

There is less chance of disease in the herd. There is greater chance that farm boys and girls will be inspired and satisfied with farm life.

Fly hazards are reduced with clean barns. The cost is small but the returns are large for sanitation. Dairymen, Baltzer declares, should remember that purchase of expensive or fancy equipment is no guarantee of cleanliness. Comfortable stalls, deep bedding, electric fan for ventilation and howls for watering are more important in maintaining healthy herds.

APPLES IN MICHIGAN LOADING DOWN TREES

Bumper Crop Problem to Farmers, But Insures Low Food Cost

Five million extra bushels of apples on trees in Michigan this fall present a problem for growers but an opportunity for housewives who seek low cost foods.

Combined with a national crop of 202 million bushels of apples which is 72 per cent greater than last year, apples will be plentiful and low in price, it is pointed out by H. D. Hootman, horticulturist at Michigan State College, and member of a state and national apple stabilization committee.

Other committee members in Michigan include Wesly Mawby, Grand Rapids; Carl Steimle, Sodus; L. H. Spicer, Farmington; Arthur Seel, Benzonia; Edward Lyman, South Haven; C. C. Taylor, Albion; Edward Payne, Fennville; R. A. Buyce, Bangor; R. L. Evards, Metamora; George Friday, Coloma, and R. J. Martin, Bangor.

When the national crop loomed larger, the state committee had a meeting. That was June 10 and the apple crop within the state appeared to be about the equal of last year. Then rains and other weather factors boomed the crop and the trees are loaded with quality fruit.

Hootman and members of the committee are trying to stimulate increased uses for apples. Using them in cookery is recommended. Cider making is another process for using up the crop. Housewives also are encouraged to use apples in preserves and to can apple sauce for use during late winter and enrly spring months when storage supplies begin to dwindle.

PLAN WIDENING MACKINAW CITY FERRY DOCK

Change Will Provide Parking Space and Eliminate Present Congestion

Immediate plans to widen the Mackinaw City dock at the Straits of Mackinac to provide divided traffic nnd extensive parking facilities have been announced by State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner.

The dock will be widened 275 feet for its full length of 1,400 feet starting at US-23, the main street in Mackinaw City. When the work is completed, north-bound traffic at the Straits will drive over a minimum 40-foot concrete roadway, while south-bound travel will be directed over the present 20-foot roadway. In between, will be a parking area of 200 or more feet in width.

Included in the plans are extensive dredging operations in front of the dock. The water will be deepened to 18 feet, not only to permit easier docking for the large ferry, "City of Cheboygan," but also to provide a slip for an end-loading vessel to be constructed by the department. Fill used in the widening of the dock will be obtained from the dredging operations.

Widening of the Mackinaw City dock is part of a four-fold improvement program revealed by the commissioner for the ferry service. Other plans call for widening of the coal dock at St. Ignace to provide temporary end-loading dock facilities on the north side of the Straits, a call for bids on an end-loading streamlined vessel about September 27, and the continuation of studies for permanent improvements at the St. Ignace dock, these studies to take into account the possibility of a future bridge across the Straits.

The commissioner said the department will take bids on the dredging, fill, and breakwater extension at the Mackinaw City dock within three weeks. Construction of a minimum 40-foot pavement roadway for north-bound traffic probably will get under way early next spring. The 200-foot parking area will be left unpaved—at least for the near future.

POTATO GROWERS IN NEED OF EFFICIENCY

Specialist Finds Farmers Do Not Know Secrets of Profit and Loss

Too many farmers in Michigan grow potatoes for commercial production without knowing all the secrets of profits and losses.

This is the deduction made by H. C. Moore, farm crops specialist at Michigan State College, after studying the potato industry in the state.

"When you take 90,000 farmers and have them all grow potatoes, too many of them make mistakes on acreage, varieties and cultural practices," says Moore. "About one fourth of the 90,000 farmers are the real producers with from a few to 20 or more acres. The rest are in and out of production with plots ranging from family size gardens to several acres.

"The solution is to grow potatoes as a commercial crop and a profitable industry on a farm or else grow potatoes for family consumption."

Figures from which Moore makes the recommendation were obtained by the farm management department at Michigan State College. Even among the more capable potato growers, yields ranged from 24 to 615 bushels to the acre, and acre costs of production varied from $19.48 to $154.96.

In the last five years the premier potato growers in the state have shown up their less fortunate and less capable neighbors with acreage yields of from 466 to 584 bushels.

In 1936, J. D. Robinson, of Pellston, obtained 498 bushels to get the crown. In 1935, it was Hiltunen Brothers, of Calumet, with 466 bushels; in 1934, Alphonse Verschure, Manistique, 519 bushels; in 1933, it was John Frank, of Houghton, 556 bushels, and 1932, John Filola, Baraga, 584 bushels.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

59 Farm Account Cooperators Visited

Last week a heavy schedule of five con-secutive days was devoted to visiting all farm account cooperators who are keeping accurate farm records of their individual farms. During the five days 59 books were inspected and brought up to date. Only three cooperators failed to keep records for various reasons.

Where are cooperators had completed the 1936 book, a very detailed analysis was given which largely shows the good points and poor points in farm organizations and farm programs. A careful study of the summary for the farm reveals several pages of information. It affords each cooperator an opportunity of comparing his own operations with other farms in the same area and under similar conditions. It points out very accurately the influence of many factors such as dairy sales per cow, income per hen, per cent of land cropped, yields of crops, efficiency factors and other points of interest.

The average reveals the fact that the average farmer was something like $500 better off than in 1935. The year of 1937 will not be completed until March 1, 1938, so that no knowledge is possible of how conditions will work out this year. However, these farmers know what they are doing and, as a result, are making certain changes in their farming operations which will help them in the future.

SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE TO CHARLEVOIX COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

To Superintendents and High School Principals:

May I call your special attention to the plan for rural scholarships at the State Teachers' Colleges which has recently been set up by the State Board of Education?

You realize that there is a shortage of rural teachers. County commissioners of schools have had great difficulty this summer in providing teachers for their schools. The State Board of Education has therefore arranged to grant scholarships to suitable graduates from duly accredited high schools for the coming two years. These scholarships will relieve the recipients of state tuition amounting to ten dollars per term. (The student activities fee is not remitted. This fee at Central amounts to $7.50 per term.)

These scholarships will be pro-rated to counties in which there are no county normals on the basis of one scholarship for twelve rural teachers. The procedure for securing a scholarship is as follows:

1. The student will apply to the county commissioner of schools for an application form.

2. This application form, when filled out, is to be sent to the State Department of Public Instruction, care John R. Emens, Lansing.

3. All applications ae to be referred to a committee composed of representatives from three of the State Teachers' Colleges. This committee is as follows: President Paul V. Sangren, Western; Registrar C. P. Steimle, State Normal College, and Dr. M. L. Smith, head of Rural Department, Central.

You will be doing a favor to any of your graduates to whose attention this arrangement is called and you will also be rendering a service to the rural schools.

Very truly yours,
E. C. WARRINER, President
Central State Teachers College.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

Officials to Frame New Drivers' Rules

While the 1937 Legislature invested the Michigan State Police authorities with the responsibility of framing new mental and physical examinations for applicants for operators' licenses, the whole framework of examining and licensing will be worked out by representative enforcement officials of the state, plans indicate.

Early in September, Oscar G. Olander, commissioner of the Michigan State Police, and other state police officials, will meet with Department of State executives headed by Leon D. Case, secretary of state, to make preliminary plans for revision of practices pertaining to examinations and licensing of automobile drivers.

The executive committees of the state associations of Police Chiefs, Sheriffs and Prosecuting Attorneys will later be invited to attend conferences so that uniform practices may more quickly be put into practical operation throughout the state when they are perfected.

"Substance" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, September 12.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Prov. 3:9): "Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 278): "Which ought to be substance to us, —the erring, changing, and dying, the mutable and mortal, or the unerring, immutable, and immortal?"

Stalin's method of shooting all the leaders of the opposition party gets results for a time, but the trouble with the plan is that some day probably some obscure fellow becomes so wrought up that he is willing to forego his get-away in order to execute the dictator.

FILLER PROTECTION FOR FLOOR SURFACES

Proper Penetration Is Necessary to Guarantee Good Covering

It isn't the paint or the varnish or wax that permanently protect n floor surface. Proper penetrating wood seal used in the primary treatment of the wood or linoleum does the job.

After a period of research in laboratories of the agricultural engineering department nt Michigan State College, C. H. Jefferson, research assistant, finds that those who varnish floor surfaces which get walked upon are wasting time.

Many Michigan homes are being improved this year, in addition to the construction of new homes. Whether boots or high heeled shoes scrape across, flooring can be protected only by sealing up the surface pores of the floor.

At the college three types of wood seals were tested. One surface seal leaves a film on top of the floor similar to varnish but soon wears away. Another is a thin oil that penetrates but does not seal and requires more material to finish the same floor area. The third is the proper type as it penetrates and seals with one or two coats.

One simple test can be used in the home to select the proper type. A few drops can be placed on cardboard and let set until this dries. A first coat should penetrate and a second coat should stay on the surface. Then this selected finish, applied to the floor, can be waxed, preferably with a paste wax that is spread on thin and thoroughly buffed.

COOKING SCHOOL DIRECTOR TO GIVE HELPFUL BAKING POWDER HINTS

Mrs. Helene Sailer, who is conducting the Charlevoix Courier Cooking School, says that for best results in baking it is a good plan to follow these simple rules:

Use the amount of baking powder recommended on the can. Because of the high strength of K C Baking Powder which she is using in the cooking school, only one level teaspoonful should be used to a cup of well sifted flour for most recipes. This is equivalent to one heaping teaspoonful to a quart of flour.

Careful measurement is very necessary as using more or less than a recipe calls for will not produce best results.

Another secret of good baking is to be sure that the baking powder is thoroughly mixed with the flour and other ingredients. The more thoroughly the baking powder and flour are mixed before you add moisture, the better your results are likely to be. Sift three or four times.

For biscuits, make a smooth dough that can be handled without sticking, and bake in moderate oven. For cakes, have your oven slow to moderate at first, until the cake is fully risen; then increase heat so as to just brown lightly.

Mrs. Sailer says that K C, the brand she is using in cooking schools, is manufactured by baking powder specialists who make nothing but baking powder—controlled by expert chemists of national reputation. It is always uniform in quality and can be relied upon to produce for you, the kind of bakings you will be proud to serve.

ANCIENT AUTOS AVOIDING PATE IN JUNK YARD

Without attempting to make a contest out of the matter, Secretary of State Leon D. Case is making some interesting notations upon the longevity of a number of automobiles which are bearing 1937 license plates.

Probably the oldest belongs to W. R. Warick, of Jonesville, whose vehicle came off the production line — if there were production lines then— in 1912. Warick says that he has long since lost count of the number of miles it has travelled.

Another entry belongs to Floyd Hindbaugh and Don Emmons, of Kalamazoo. The first record of this machine is its ownership as a new car in 1916 by Harry V. Ailes, of Oshtemo, Kalamazoo county. He sold it to the present owners last year.

While motor vehicle titles are not filed according to the dates issued nor according to the date of the car's manufacture, Case believes that these cars may be the oldest in personal service on the roads today. There are several machines of greater antiquity licensed, but most of them have been resurrected and conditioned for advertising purposes.

SUSPICION

By R. K. WILKINSON

© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

THERE was no real cause for it. None other than that strange, unexplainable inner voice that is a woman's intuition.

Anne just begun to sense the feeling of suspicion when Gregg announced he would have to stay at the office at least one night a week.

"It's the depression," he told her. "We've had to let a lot of the boys go. Working overtime to fill in the gap."

Anne fought the feeling, and yet it persisted.

Why? She couldn't find an answer. Certainly Gregg had changed none in his attitude toward her.

He was the same always—loving and kind and devoted.

He'd been that way for two years.

Two years of blissful, unbelievable happiness—as far as Anne was concerned.

Suspicion is the instigator of jealousy.

It gnaws at one's soul.

It is like a malignant disease.

Time stimulates its growth.

When one is suspicious of one's husband one is apt to brood rather than confide.

Hence there was no relief, no escape from the torment.

• • •

At the end of two months Anne found herself the victim of mental torture.

Her diet was affected.

She lay awake nights wondering if Gregg really was working late every Wednesday night, conjuring up pictures of how he spent his lunch hours, visualizing him keeping secret rendezvous.

She tried mightily to cast the thing from her mind.

Not a single instant did she entertain the idea of accusing Gregg.

The thought of doing so, only to discover her fears unfounded, struck terror to her heart.

Nor did she consider trying to entrap him.

She shuddered at thoughts of sinking so low as to sneak out and spy on him.

Her love was greater than that.

And yet when, a few days later, her closest friend, Helen Browning, said in a jocular way:

"Saw that perfect husband of yours out riding with a rather attractive girl last night," it was as if Anne had been waiting for and expecting the announcement.

She had all she could do to keep her nerves under control, to return Helen's light, merry grin with a forced laugh and a bit of repartee.

So it was true?

Gregg was carrying on an affair with another woman!

No, not Gregg!

Not dear, kind, devoted Gregg!

Not the Gregg whom she adored and worshiped and loved more dearly with each passing day.

Impossible!

• • •

Anne brushed the mist before her eyes and laughed.

It wasn't true. It couldn't be.

There was some explanation for it. And yet—

It was Wednesday night and when Gregg came in the hour was past 12.

He looked wretchedly tired and miserable.

Anne lay with a book in her hand and pretended to read while he prepared for bed.

"These late hours are knocking me for a loop." He took off one shoe, yawned, stretched.

"Had to take the stenog. home. You'd think a stenog. would have sense enough to live within walking distance of her job."

Anne became rigid.

Stenographer.

Anne remembered the girl. A blonde!

It would have to be a blonde!

Sleek and young and in a cheap sort of way beautiful!

But shallow, like most girls who pound typewriters and chew gum.

Anne waited a week.

She was going to give Gregg every opportunity to come to her, to be honest and fair about the whole thing.

She waited a week because there was the bare possibility that she had been mistaken, that it was all a product of imagination.

And during the week she waited Anne tried to perceive in her husband some change, some noticeable difference in his demeanor that would betray his deceit.

But Gregg remained the same.

He looked tired and worn.

His features revealed the strain of hard work, and more than once he mentioned that if the present pace continued to be maintained at the office, he'd be a physical wreck.

• • •

Anne found herself wishing that it was work and work only that was responsible for his condition.

She wanted to believe he was telling the truth, and perhaps would have succeeded had not the germ of suspicion taken such a firm hold upon her soul.

And so when Wednesday the following week came around Anne found herself no nearer a solution.

And, acting on an impulse born of desperation, she decided to throw all sense of pride and honor to the winds.

The thing must be settled once and for all.

SAYS TAX CAMPAIGN BROUGHT 15 MILLION

Over Half Million Pieces of Property Removed from Tax List

More than $15,000,000 of delinquent taxes were paid during the last few days of August under the "pay your taxes" enmpaign, Auditor General George T. Gundry has estimated.

About 500,000 pieces of property will be removed frnnt the 1936 tax sale list as a result of payment either in full or on the 10-year moratorimm payment plan, Gundry said.

Announcing that payments thie year were nearly 50 per cent higher than thuse of the corresponding period of 1935, Gundry credited the increase to the recent advertising cempaign for collections, authorized by the State Administrative Board.

The auditor generni said that because of the large number of descriptions paid during the last few weeks, county treasurers will be unable to make returns to the state in time to prevent posting of these descriptions on the tax sale rolls. However, even though the descriptions are advertised for sale, thoso that have been paid will be withheld by the county treasurers, Gundry said.

He estimated that about two-thirds of the taxpayers came under the moratorium plen.

WAIT AT STRAITS FOR DEER HUNTERS ENDED

Deer hunters who plan to do their shooting in the Upper Peninsula will be spared hours of delay at the Straits of Mackinac this year as the result of the addition of the ferry City of Cheboygan to the State Highway Department's fleet.

The new vessel will accommodate 88 vehicles while the capacity of the largest of the remaining ships is 65.

Congestion of cers owned by deer hunters at Mackinaw City hes for years been the most disconcerting moment in an Upper Peninsula trip just before the opening of the season despite the fact that the department has operated on a continuous schedule to take care of the traffic.

At nine o'clock Wednesdsy evening Anne rnlled her husband's office on the 'phone, asked if she might speak to Gregg, and upon hearing his voice over the wire, hung up the receiver without speaklng a word.

So far so good.

It was now 9:05.

Anne backed her own roadster from the garage and drove dowu town and parked at a spot which commanded a view of the front door of Gregg's office building.

• • •

Hardly had she switched off the ignition when her heart gave a bound.

A blue coupe, with chromium covered tire racks mounted on either running board, had just pulled away from the opposite curb.

There were two people lu the car, a meu and a woman.

The man was Gregg!

There was no mistaking it.

The blue coupe with the chromium tire covers wes his. Tbere was no mistaking llde, either.

Anne eet ne if stunned.

Now that she had actually seen with her own eyes, the revelution was more of a blow than she had anticipated.

The shock of it had a sort of numbing effect.

She sat etill for five minutes. Gradually her tensed muecles relaxed. She moved automatically, etarted the car, guiding it through traffic toward hoole.

Home!

The thought eickened her, tore at her heart.

Gregg—untrue! Incredible!

Yet she had seen . . . Well, it was best she knew, best that the thing was settled.

Now she could conduct herself with some definite plan of action in mlod.

Of course ehe'd have to leave Gregg. Thie wae inevitable.

The parting would be hard.

She pictured his looking at her. That would be harder etill—meeting his oyes, which had always been so twinkly and wholly lovable.

• • •

Anne told herself ehe still laved him. Hers was the kind of love that went on and on.

It would never end.

Yet it would be easier not seeing him . . .

She left her roadster beside the house.

It would be best to leave tonight.

Perhaps before Gregg got home.

No, that wouldn't do.

She'd pack first, then wait to face him.

The house was deathly still.

It wae always still and lonesome feeling without Gregg there.

It always would be.

Anne's lips were grim.

There was a strange calm about her, a determination in her expression.

She hoped that the feeling of strength which had come to comfort her would last until the thing wae done.

Anne snapped on her dressing table light and began to gather things into a little pile.

For one brief moment she thought of Gregg and almost gave in to the ache in her heart.

Then something happened—

Another light snapped on.

Anne turned.

Gregg was sitting up in bed, rubbing his eyes, trying to adjust a sleep-drugged mind to what was happening.

"Gregg!"

"Huh?—oh, hello, Anne. Sorry I dropped off before you came in. Couldn't help it. . . . Too much work . . . . Dead tired . . . I had to quit early tonight."

He lay back.

"Dumb cluck of a stenog tried to make me drive her all the way home. I dropped her at Fifth street. . . . Get a hue there."

His voice faded.

He closed his eyes, breathing heavily in sleep.

Once he roused, brushed a hand across his cheek with a little gesture of impatience.

For even in slumber the sensation caused by hot tears splashing down on one's face is disturbing.

Buckwheat, Asiatic Product

Buckwheat, says a Chicago scientist, is not coushiered a grain at all by botanists but is a near relative of the common smartweed. It was first grown as a cultivated crop in the high plateaus of Tibet about 2,000 years ago and was not only used as a food but the Tibetans concocted a drink from it resembling our own beer. China and Manchuria took up its cultivation and traders introduced it to Europe sometime during the Fifteenth century. It made its first appearance in America about 100 years after the first English colonies were founded. Its cereal products and buckwheat cakes have become so desirable that now the United States raises about 9,000,000 bushels nunually.—Pathfinder Magazine.

TELEPHONE SERVICE in Michigan is as fine as anywhere in the world. Several factors combine to make it so, but no factor is more important than this:

The sense of personal responsibility shown in the work of the 9500 men and women who furnish Michigan's telephone service.

Their remarkable devotion to duty is an accepted fact. Time and again they have won public gratitude by their quick-witted, heroic conduct during flood, fire and storm. But their diligence is not limited to emergencies; it is carried on through every hour of every day—through all the routine necessary to maintain, without interruption, the high standards of the service.

Trained for their work, these men and women know how to do it well. Equally important, they really want to do it well.

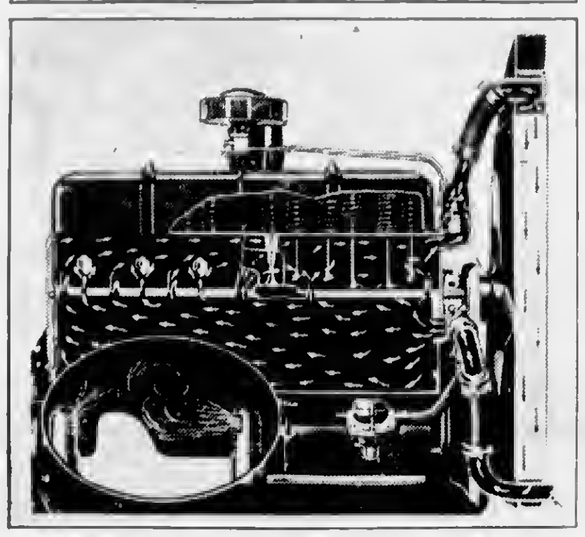
Efficient Cooling System



The flow of cool water under pressure through the Chevrolet engine maintains balanced cooling at all engine speeds. Forced through the cylinder block water jacket, which serves as a pressure reservoir, the water spurts through eight copper nozzles against the exhaust valve seats and vicinity, the points of highest heat concentration. Spark plugs are cooled by special water passageways close to and around the threaded portions of the plugs. The sketch above shows the course the water takes through the cooling system. Inset shows how the water is sprayed against exhaust valve seats through special copper nozzles.

PREPARE FOR HEAVY HOLIDAY CAR TRAFFIC

State Highway Department to Cease Building on Main Arteries

The State Highway Department was busy this week getting ready for the annual Labor Day holiday traffic rush.

Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner sent special orders to assistant district engineers directing them to put the trunklines in the best possible condition. Dust treatment for gravel roads was particularly emphasized.

"This matter is very serious," the commissioner said, "We must make absolutely sure that every mile of road is in the best possible shape in anticipation of unusually heavy traffic for the Labor Day week-end."

District engineers were directed to cease road-building activities during the three-day holiday on trunklines where traffic is maintained over construction. Construction on relocated routes will not be affected by the special order.

Capt. E. H. Doner, superintendent of the state ferries, was directed to operate the ferry boats at random without regard to any fixed schedule at the Straits of Mackinac. The new boat, "City of Cheboygan," is expected to relieve the holiday congestion materially. It has been carrying an average of 800 cars daily since it was placed in service.

The commissioner urged motorists to drive with special caution.

"Special traffic conditions," he said, "call for special driving methods. Speeds must be reduced in heavy traffic. Trips should be started sufficiently in advance to give motorists time to arrive at their destination at moderate speeds. The car and its equipment should be thoroughly checked. If every driver makes it a personal responsibility to drive safely, Michigan can reduce its holiday traffic toll."

One of the most unusual services performed with a Dodge Commercial Pickup has just been started in Toledo, O., by the city's department of public safety in its maintenance and repair of fire and police alarm systems. This truck is a standard Dodge half-ton pickup upon which has been mounted a special telescopic ladder which elevates at an angle and revolves on a steel base.

The ladder is known as a "crow's nest" and is 24 feet long when extended and 12 feet in length when folded in traveling position.

FORD BUILDS NEW CARBURETOR PLANT AT MILFORD, MICH.

Construction of a carburetor manufacturing plant was begun at Milford this week by the Ford Motor Company.

The plant will be the 12th of the "little factories" built by the company in rural Michigan as part of its program to form a closer union between farm and factory.

Power for the new factory will come from two small hydro-electric generator stations, producing nearly 450 horsepower, Ford engineers said. One of the hydro stations will be supplied with water by a flume running from Moore's Lake to the power house and the other on the Huron River just below Milford.

The hydro-electric stations will be controlled from the power station in the factory, where an auxiliary steam unit, to augment the hydro-electric stations during low water periods, is planned.

Squads of workmen now are clearing the ground for construction of the dikes, flumes and headworks required to control the flow of water to the generators. The entire project will be carefully landscaped.

Officials said the new factory would be 200 by 60 feet in size and, as in the other Ford "little factories," walls of the one-story structure will consist largely of windows looking out over lawn and trees.

The new factory is expected to begin production next winter. All workmen, except a few technicians to be brought from the Ford Rouge plant at Dearborn, Mich., will be from the village and farms nearby.

EDITORIAL

ETIQUET OF "OLD GLORY"

The following editorial is publlshed at the request of Charlevoix Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars:

"The American flag should not be hoisted before sunrise nor allowed to remain up after sunset.

At "retreat" sunset, civilian spectators should stand at "attention" and uncover during the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner." Military spectators are required by regulations to stand at "attention" and give the military salute. During the playing of the national hymn at "retreat" the flag should be lowered, but not then allowed to touch the gound.

When the national colors are passing on parade, or in review, the spectator should, if walking, halt, and if sitting, arise and stand at "attention" and uncover.

When the national and state, or other flags fly together, the national flag should be placed on the right.

When the flag is flown at half staff as a sign of mourning, it should he hoisted to full mast at the conclusion of the funeral.

The national salute is one gun for every stnte. The international salute is, under the law of nations, twenty-one guns.

Whenever possible the flag should he flown from n staff or mast, but should not be fastened to the side of a building, platform or seaffolding.

When the flag is used ns a banner the union should fly to the north on streets running enst nnd west and to the east on streets running north nnd south.

When flags are used in unveiling a statue or monument they should not be allowed to fall to the ground, but should be carried aloft to wave out, forming a distinctive feature during the remainder of the ceremony."

ADJUST YOUR AMBITIONS

According to the fable, a fox one morning stretched himself as he looked around, and said, "I will dine on camel today."

All that day he looked in vain for his quarry, and as he saw his lean shadow in the light of the setting sun, said resignedly, "A mouse will do."

Some time along the road of life most of us pass through this process of shortening our expectations. Maybe we start out in life with an unwarranted fancy for our own gifts, so that we come to look down upon the passable accomplishments which seem to content others.

But the years teach us wisdom. And it is surely wise to fit our measure to the cloth. If we are only ordinary mortals, with limited abilities and average achievements, that is something to recognize. The adjustment may be embarrassing to make, but it is nothing shameful or unusual.

Outstanding ability is a rare thing; far rarer than most disheartened men and women realize. The mine run of humanity are ordinary folk, with ordinary resources of brains and energy, which prove inadequate time after time.

Any person who started out after camel and came to be content with mouse, will please remember that nine-tenths of the people around him have had to make the same wise bow to the inevitable.—Grit.

THE SALMON INDUSTRY

The Columbia River is the greatest salmon stream on earth. Every year millions of aged salmon, returning after two to four years at sea, swim doggedly up the current, to breed and die in the creeks and pools of the Canadian Rockies. Every spring, the fingerlings come down to the sea.

There is great fear that this industry will be destroyed with the government's construction of the $75,000,000 Bonneville Dam, the first of the five dams to be constructed in the Pacific Northwest. Naturalists believe there are two reasons why the construction of Bonneville will destroy the industry. One is that above the dam there will be u 44-mile pool of still water. Salmon instinctively head against a current; in still water they just die. Seven million dollars is being spent experimentally for fish ladders and elevators, in the hope that the fish will know enough to use them, but if they do find the ladder entrunces, swim through the still water, win far upstream past other dams, there is still the question: "What happens to the fingerling coming down when they are whirled through turbines in the power house?"

Nobody knows, and the predictions are dark for the fingerlings . . . and the $10,000,000 salmon industry. — Reader's Digest, condensed from "Collier's."

IMMORTALITY

As youths unfold und get ready to live, the end of mortal existence—apparently far removed in their experience—gives them little concern. They are likely to accept or reject the conclusions of theologians without trying to think problems of destiny through. But as persons grow older and the time for transition nears they are more inclined to grapple the task of reasoning in the direction of eternal hope. A lecture by Dr. L. P. Jacks, of Manchester College, Oxford, on the subject, "Immortality in a Living Universe," encourages the inquiring mind. He closes by repeating this quotation from Thomas Carlyle: "The Great Soul of the World Is Just." Jacks emphasized an idea expressed by Plato that immortality is not to be selfishly considered, but that it is something due the many high-minded and lovable souls we know. The suggestion that life is not a by-product of death, and that, as Immanuel Kant pointed out, individuals are not mere instruments to an end, supports the rational belief in a fair, just plan. To create lives for a brief bout with the perplexities of a dead world would be wrong, as Dr. Jacks suggests. It would be senseless and beastly unjust. The many precious souls we know, brenking mortal ties and leaving unfinished work, would not be brought into the world to give passing life to an otherwise deud universe. The deeper one goes into n study of encompassing mysteries, the stronger becomes his conviction that a great purpose will do exact justice to preserved Identity.—Wsayne (Nebraska) Herald.

SOCIAL SECURITY BRIEFS

The Michigan Unemployment Compensation Act, passed by the Legislature in December, 1936, as amended by Act 347 of the P. A. of 1937, is definitely not a relief measure. It is an insurance system established for the sole benefit of those covered by the premiums which are paid by employers. The question of need does not enter into the approval or disapproval of benefit claims.

Only employers may pay contributions to the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Fund out of which benefits to unemployed workers become payable after July, 1938.

The theory and actual practice of Unemployment Compensation began more than 85 years ago in Germany. The government there cooperated with private organizations in paying benefits to out-of-work citizens. The plan has worked successfully in England for 26 years.

Administration expenses of the unemployment compensation division of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission are borne entirely by the United States government.

LIGHTER COLORS IN DRAPERY

Color consciousness is the newest "disease" affecting the housewife of America, according to manufacturers of curtains and draperies displaying merchandise during the summer market.

Lighter colors ln draperies are the coming thing. The best colors are crushed rose, turquoise, peach, lemon yellow, Dubonnet, and various shades of blue. Eggshell backgrounds are being used in connection with these colors to produce many stunning effects.

Drapery fixtures are showing some interesting changes for fall. Probahly the most outstnnding trend is the great amount of glass being used, which is expected to play an importnnt part in home furnishings for fall.

The three yard drapery panel with n pattern which doesn't repeat, is playing an even stronger part in the coming showings. Previously confined to dnrker hues, it is being shown in pnstels.

In the curtain field the accent is on lacier effects through finer weaves. Several new curtains nnde of rayon yarn are especially noteworthy. One curtain company has brought out a new line of lnce table covers in rayon which are being put on the market at surprisingly low prices.

Famed Clipper Vessel "Stera" In Sea Drama

The "Star of Finland," last of the famous old Alaska Packers fleet of square rigged ships, roused from her 10-year sleep in the mud of San Francisco Bay, is now a movie actress!

Newly rigged and caulked, stout canvas once more bellying from her yards, the three-masted steel bark that once queened it over the Alaska fishing trade plays a role in "Souls at Sea," saga of her own time before the supremacy of steam, which opens Sunday, September 12, at the Palace Theatre.

Starring Gary Couper, the picture is based on an actual case of shipwreck at sea and a man who "played God" on the brink of disaster.

Wrote Perfect Film Story Long Before Picture Ere

As the author who wrote a perfect motion picture story a long time before the motion picture was a commercial reality, Anthony Hope Hawkins, who wrote under the name of Anthony Hope, would possess one sound claim to distinction, were he lacking any other.

This is the belief of John Cromwell, who directed Hope's most famous work, "The Prisoner of Zenda," David O. Selznick's production for Selznick International Pictures, which comes to the Palace Theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday, September 14-15, with Ronald Colman, Madeleine Carroll and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., heading the cast.

HONEY BRAN MUFFINS FOR YOUR CHILDREN

2 cups pastry flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
2 cups all bran
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup honey
1¾ cups sour milk or buttermilk
3 tablespoons melted shortening
1-3 cup chopped nut meats, optional

Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt together. Stir in all bran. Mix egg, honey, sour milk, and shortening together and add to the first mixture. Stir only enough to combine. If nut meats are used stir into the dry ingredients before adding the wet ingredients. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in hot oven 15 to 20 minutes, 350-400 degrees.

CALIFORNIA MINCEMEAT

1 cup dried apricots
1 cup dried prunes
1 cup seeded raisins
½ cup chopped citron peel
Juice of 1 orange
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ cup chopped walnut meats
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup chopped, blanched almonds
1 cup granulated sugar

Rinse prunes and apricots in boiling water. Soak in cold water. Remove the seeds from the prunes. Cook in the water in which they were soaked. Combine with other ingredients. Fill uncooked pie shell, make criss-cross top. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes and then at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

TEN MINUTE ICING

2 egg whites
1½ cups granulated sugar
1 tablespoon light corn syrup or 1 tablespoon lemon juice
5 tablespoons water
½ teuspoon vanilla
Dash salt

Put all the ingredients except vanilla into the top of a double boiler. In the bottom part of the double boiler bring the water to a rolling boil. Stir the mixture in the top of the double boiler until the sugar is dissolved, then place over the hot water and cook, uncovered and without stirring, for three minutes. Remove double boiler from range and beat the icing over the hot water for 10 minutes with the food mixer on high speed. Add the flavoring.

WESTERN PIE

Cut 1½ cups cooked prunes into small pieces and place in a previously baked shell. Over the prunes place about 1½ cups sliced bananas. Mix ½ cup sugar with two tablespuons cornstarch and moisten with prune juice (the liquid in which the prunes were cooked). If there is not two-thirds cup prune juice make it up with water. One-half cup orange juice and two tablespoons lemon juice. Cook until thick and clear, stirring constantly. Add about one-eighth teaspoon salt and one tablespoon butter. Pour over the bananas and prunes and serve cold with or without whipped cream.

SIMPLE RULES FOR USE OF BAKING POWDER INSURE SUCCESS IN CAKE BAKING

Knowing that baking powder leavens cake it is natural to assume that adding an extra half teaspoun to the amount specified in a recipe will give a cake greater lightness. However, that is not true, and the best plan to follow is to use the amount recommended on your baking powder can.

Because of the increased efficiency of K C and some other baking powders in use tuday, representing about 80 per cent of the baking powder consumed, they should be used properly to insure successful bakings.

The following rules will be helpful in bringing about desired results:

First, always use the amount specified on your baking powder can. This proportion has been worked out as best for thut particular type. With K C, one level teaspoonful to a cup of sifted flour is sufficient for most recipes.

Second, measure carefully — remember that an excess amount of any baking powder does not produce best results. A level teaspoonful means that you must level off with a knife.

K C Baking Powder, the brand used in the cooking school, is one of the most economical and efficient products entering the kitchen. Properly used it will produce for you, the finest of baked goods. You will be convinced of this by giving it a fair trial and observing results obtained.

You can get additional helpful information and a number of practical, tested recipes by sending for the K C Cook's Book. A copy will be mailed, postage paid, if you will send your request together with the slip taken from a can of K C Baking Powder, to Jaques Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS NOW UNDER WAY

REGULAR ROUTINE RUNNING SMOOTHLY TUESDAY

Initial Enrollment Figures, Now Only Tentative, Show Increase of 13 Over Last Year

Charlevoix public schools are under way for the 1937-38 term. Classes the opening day, Monday, September 13, were conducted on an irregular schedule, but Tuesday the regular routine was begun.

Initial enrollment, expected to increase in subsequent weeks, is larger than a year ago. Figures made available by Supt. O. P. North show 13 more pupils than on the same day last year.

At the close of the second day of school 323 pupils were enrolled in the senior and junior high schools, as compared to 329, the figure in 1936. The grade enrollment was 265 as compared to 246, an increase of 19 pupils. These figures are a reverse from last year when the high school enrollment increased and the grade attendance dropped slightly.

Following is the enrollment by grades:

High School

Grade	1937	1936
12th Grade	53	51
11th Grade	59	55
10th Grade	66	70
Total	178	176

3rd Grade	35	36
2nd Grade	36	27
1st Grade	36	40
Kindergarten	52	30
Total	265	246

Of the high school courses being offered this year, the following tabulation of the number of pupils attracted to the various classes has been given: Algebra 55, public speaking 30, biology 59, advanced mathematics 11, mechanical drawing 16, manual arts 32, chemistry 47, general mathematics 30, geometry 30, Latin I 28, bookkeeping 58, shorthand 30. A total of 116 hours of typing is being taught, according to the report.

Due to an extra large kindergarten enrollment, the class is being divided, a portion attending mornings and the others in the afternoon.

OFFICIALS VISION A LARGER ROAD PATROL

Increasing Traffic Fatalities Will Bring More Stringent Measures

Two state officials familiar with the problem of increasing traffic tolls are agreed that regardless of any change in laws or regulations a larger highway patrol is necessary for enforcement. The two are Oscar G. Olander, state police commissioner, and Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner.

Olander, commenting on the increase in accidents, said that a fixed speed limit is needed to replace the present law which leaves the rate of travel up to the judgment of the driver.

30-POUNDER CAUGHT SUNDAY NEW SEASON'S MACKINAW RECORD

Sunday produced the record Mackinaw trout of the season from the Lake Michigan trolling grounds off South Point.

Fishing with Don Clothier, from the Charlevoix Trolling Camp, Carl Remington and H. J. Holhoff, of Buchanan, landed three, the largest a 30-pounder. The fish was 37 inches long. The party also caught a 13-pounder, another smaller one and a steelhead.

Incidentally, Saturday and Sunday provided the first steelhead catches since spring in Lake Charlevoix. With nearly a couple dozen fish caught during the two days, it is thought the steelhead "run" is definitely on for the fall season. Cooler weather has brought these scrappy fish to the surface, and a long list of persons who have been waiting for word of the "run" have been notified.

TROLLING BAN DURING CLOSED TROUT SEASON

Illegal to Take Mackinaw Trout from October 10 to November 10

The amended commercial fishing laws, by which the Legislature has set up new closed seasons on lake trout and whitefish for this fall, expressly forbid the taking of either of these species by hook-and-line or any other means for personal use during the closed seasons.

The new closed seasons vary by several days in nearly all instances from the seasons in effect last fall. They are as follows, all dates inclusive:

Lake Trout — Season closed from October 1 to October 31 in Lakes Superior and Huron, and from October 10 to November 10 in Lake Michigan.

Whitefish—Season closed from November 5 to December 10 in Lake Michigan, from November 1 to November 26 in Lake Superior, and from November 1 to December 1 in Lake Huron.

Hook and line fishermen as well as commercial fishermen must refrain from taking these species of fish during their respective closed seasons in Great Lakes waters.

COOKING SCHOOL A SUCCESSFUL EVENT

ATTENDANCE INCREASED WITH EVERY SESSION

Fine Cooperation of Local Merchants Made Event Possible—Will Be Repeated Next Year

Saturday afternoon's largely attended session brought to a close the third annual cooking school sponsored by the Charlevoix Courier.

Introduced in Charlevoix for the first time by this publication two years ago, the school increased with popularity each session. The first demonstration conducted by Mrs. Helene Sailer at the high school gymnasium drew an attendance of 175. The attendance increased to 198 for the second session, and swelled to over 200 for the third and concluding demonstration Saturday afternoon.

The Courier plans making an annual feature of the Helene Sailer Cooking School, a demonstration which affords the housewives of Charlevoix and vicinity a first-hand view of the proper methods of running that greatest of all businesses—the modern American home. Without exception, all attendants expressed their satisfaction of Mrs. Sailer's methods which, instead of a long series of dry lectures, provided practical demonstrations, step by step, in revealing the secrets of successful cooking and baking.

That Charlevoix merchants were appreciative of the opportunity of presenting their merchandise for the inspection of local housewives was indicated by the many fine displays in last week's special Cooking School edition and at the gymnasium. In fact, it was the fine cooperation of Charlevoix merchants that made the Cooking School possible. With this cooperation continued, the event will grow in its benefits from year to year.

HUNTING LEGAL ACROSS STRAITS ON OCTOBER 1

Lower Peninsula Season Opens October 15 on All Small Game

Hunting for small-game birds and animals becomes legal in the Upper Peninsula Friday, October 1, when the season opens on ruffed grouse, prairie chickens, sharptailed grouse, cottontail rabbits, snowshoe hares, fox squirrels and woodcock.

As in past years there will be no open season in the Upper Peninsula on ringnecked pheasants.

Upland small-game hunting in the Lower Peninsula of Michigan does not open until Friday, October 15. On that date ringnecked pheasants, ruffed grouse, cottontail rabbits, snowshoe hares, fox squirrels and woodcock become legal game generally throughout the Lower Peninsula.

In the case of prairie chickens and sharptailed grouse there is an open season in the Lower Peninsula throughout the area north of the north line of Townline 16 north and west of Saginaw Bay. South of that line and including all of Huron county there will be no open season on prairie chickens and sharptailed grouse.

The hunting season on ducks, geese, brant, coot, jacksnipe, rails and gallinules opens Saturday, October 9, in both the Upper and Lower Peninsulas.

FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS OCTOBER 2

RED RAYDERS PLAY GAYLORD THERE FIRST GAME

Five Veterans Among Thirty Candidates Reporting for the Initial Practice Session Monday

Football practice in preparation for the 1937 season which opens with a contest at Gaylord on October 2, got under way at south side athletic field Monday afternoon, the opening day of school.

A group of around 30 candidates, somewhat smaller than a year ago, reported to Coach Ray Kipke for the initial work-out. Five veterans from last year's squad were included. They were Keith Carey and "Chick" Gallagher, ends; Raymond Nowland, halfback; Bob Pearl, guard, and Richard Bergmann, a linesman. In addition to these seasoned veterans was an equal number of last year's reserves, many of whom saw action a part of several games. Among these men are Clement Olach, Russell Driggett, Bernard McCafferty, Harrison Bedford and Harry Withers.

Among the group of likely looking reserves are Bert Pearl, Eddie Gengle, Charles Richardson, Bruce Zeitler, Bob Goss, Lewis Bruwn, Lee Hiller, Charles Supernaw and Ernest Nowland, the latter a weighty lad who shows exceptional promise.

While Coach Kipke has prospects of a heavier team than a year ago, he faces the task of building up an entire new backfield with the exception of Nuwland. Graduation last spring took 10 of 15 letter men and broke up one of the strongest teams to represent Charlevoix High school for many years. However, a glance at the material available for the 1937 Red Rayder squad reveals some likely candidates and future weeks will tell the story.

Athletic officials have scheduled six games, one more than last year. All are with Tip of Michigan Class C conference schools as follows:

October 2—Gaylord there.
October 9—Boyne City here.
October 16—Rogers City there.
October 23—East Jordan here.
October 30—Harbor Springs there.
November 6—Mancelona here.

SKUNK UNPROTECTED IN STATE AFTER OCTOBER 29

Open Prey for Hunters Throughout Year After that Date

A year-around open season on skunks becomes effective in Michigan October 29.

On that date the general game laws, as amended by the 1937 Legislature, will go into effect throughout the state. As a result of one of the changes made by the Legislature, the skunk will be removed from the protected list and a special open season of from November 1 to January 31, allowed under the old law, eliminated. Until October 29, however, the skunk can neither be shot or trapped legally in Michigan.

SPECIAL SESSION IS A JANUARY PROSPECT

Informed capitol circles are of the opinion that the special session of the Legislature planned by Gov. Frank Murphy will be called next January or February instead of this fall as had been originally indicated.

The session also may be limited to a renewal of the governor's effort to have the Legislature pass a labor relations act which he can approve of.

COUNTY FAIR WILL OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

52ND ANNUAL EXHIBIT IS AT EAST JORDAN

Best Program on Record Arranged for Four-Day Event, According to Fair Association Officers

Charlevoix County Agricultural Society's 52nd annual exhibit opens its gates on Tuesday, September 21, for a four-day exhibit and program ending Friday night, September 24.

Premium lists with rules and regulations are being distributed this week by Secretary Charles P. Murphy and will be placed at various places of business in Charlevoix and Antrim counties so that any person interested may secure one.

Many changes have been made in Division J—Needleeraft, as well as in Divisions I and K. More than half a hundred listings are made in which liberal premiums are offered for worthy exhibits.

Free attractions at the fair this year will be many and varied. Among the outstanding will be three nights in which gorgeous fireworks will be displayed. In all seven "Free Acts" have been billed, including Parker Brothers in acrobatic stunts, Stuart Sisters—two beautiful misses in a roller skating stunt, and the Doss Animal Circus of dogs, ponies and monks.

Balloon ascensions will be featured each day. Horse racing, softball games, parade of livestock, team pulling contests, with music day and night. Friday is school day, and on that day all rides for school children will be half price.

One of the features will be the cash drawings of $100 each day from merchants' tickets now being given by business men of this region.

VAN WAGONER SETS NEW CONSTRUCTION RECORD

$48,000,000 Expended in State Since 1933 for Highway Work

At the close of the last fiscal year, June 30, the Michigan State Highway Department looked back on a four-year period of record-breaking highway construction. A total of $48,000,000 was expended by the department.

At the head of this construction program extending into every Michigan county and involving 1,800 miles of highway, 95 bridges, and 49 grade separations, was State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner. In spite of a shortage of state funds and a maze of rules and regulations, the records show the program completed without a cent of new debt for the state or any hint of scandal.

Of the $48,000,000 spent on highway improvements during the four-year period, approximately $40,000,000 was granted to Michigan by the federal government as part of the nation-wide relief program.

DUCK SEASON TO OPEN EARLIER THIS SEASON

Shooting Allowed in Michigan from October 9 to November 7

The duck and goose hunting season will open one day earlier in Michigan and throughout the country this fall under the amended migratory waterfowl regulations made effective by the United States Bureau of Biological Survey.

The season this fall on migratory waterfowl, which includes jacksnipe, coots, rails and gallinules as well as ducks, geese and brant, will be from October 9 to November 7, a full 30-day open season. Last year the season ran from October 10 to November 8.

The State Conservation Commission at its August meeting formally made the state seasons and bag limits conform with federal regulations. It extended the open season on woodcock four days in the Lower Peninsula so as to make the season on that species coincide with the upland bird hunting season in the Lower Peninsula, which runs from October 15 to October 31, inclusive.

In the Upper Peninsula the woodcock season will be the same as last year, October 1 to October 12.

CITIZENS PROVIDE MONEY FOR PARKS

SUBSTANTIAL SUM OFFERED TO COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT

Subscriptions from Local and Summer Residents Total $3,500 for the Bridge St. Park Development

Providing conclusive evidence of public sentiment favoring continuance of a parking program on the east side of Bridge street, Robert Bridge, representing interested local citizens, offered the city council substantial financial assistance toward further purchases of property Monday night.

Mr. Bridge's offer, made possible through contributions of Chicago Club, Belvedere Club and north side summer residents, together with local business men, was a cash sum of $3,500 which would go toward the purchase of the Goldstick, Wilkins, Meyer and Merriam properties adjoining on the south the new East Park development.

The sum represents approximately one-fourth of the aggregate amount demanded for the properties, based on figures in options now understood to be held by the Standard Oil Company. Previous purchases of Bridge street frontage have been at approximately $100 per foot, but the Standard Oil Company options, it is understood, are above this figure for the 113 feet.

Action of the council regarding acceptance of the financial assistance and decision to purchase the additional property will be determined Monday evening, September 20, when the matter will be made an order of special business.

At Monday night's session, Councilmen Erber, Hooker and Ranger expressed themselves as favoring the plan during a discussion which followed Mr. Bridge's offer. A proposal to submit the matter to public vote found little support.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS WIN CHICAGO TRIP

FOUR YOUTHS OF COUNTY ARE HONORED AT DETROIT

Wilbur and Howard McDonald, Irene Brintnall, East Jordan, and Melvin Somerville, Boyne City, Winners

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

Last week proved to be a most important time for four local club members who attended the State Fair at Detroit in recognition of having completed a very acceptable club program. At the State Fair several hundred club members representing all sections of the state converged in competition for further honors.

In the wood identification contest we are pleased to announce that Melvin Somerville, of Boyne City had the second highest score in the state and will receive a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress which is held in connection with the National Livestock Show at Chicago. In this competition 40 samples of wood were included, and Melvin only missed two and one-half.

In the canning judging contest, Irene Brintnall, of East Jordan, had the second highest score in this competition, thus winning her trip.

Wilbur and Howard McDonald, of East Jordan, gave a demonstration on the soil conservation project which was most favorably received by the judge. These two boys have actually mapped their own farm and showed maps of the soil types, area subject to soil erosion and the acidity condition of the various fields. Further, they demonstrated the use of the plane table by which the size of fields could be determined without actually making all measurements.

All of these trips will take place the first week of December, and will be of about eight days duration. Great credit is due O. F. Walker, district club leader, who has been largely responsible for the success of the program.

This week the second annual Conservation Camp is being held at the Pigeon River Forest headquarters. The following four boys are in attendance from this county: Einer Olstrom and Basil Holland, of East Jordan; Melvin Somerville and John Clark, of Boyne City.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

This week-end brings the deadline for action by local legislative bodies on sale of liquor by the glass. Midnight Saturday (September 18) affords the final opportunity for legalizing hard drinks by municipal council vote.

Extent of the State Legislature's liberalizing act is just coming to a focus. According to Lawrence D. Rahilly, acting secretary of the Liquor Control Commission, the trend of Michigan communities is distinctly "wet." In fact, he forecasts an increase of approximately 150 per cent in the number of townships, villages and cities which are permitting sale of hard liquor in "restaurants or hotels" for the first time since the previous referendums, years ago.

The state capital city, Lansing, favors its present policy of permitting the serving of only beer and wines. The city council voted three-to-one against a proposed change.

Increased revenues from the state's monopoly of liquor are expected to follow the spread of wet areas in Michigan. The commission is planning a step-up in liquor prices this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wolter, of Chicago, who are on a two weeks' motor trip in the Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin, visited Mrs. Wolter's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Publow, and other relatives here Monday night, leaving on their vacation Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Herbert Lake and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lake, and daughter, of Flint, started on a motor trip to the Upper Peninsula, Mrs. Herbert Lake expecting to spend her vacation with Mrs. McKay, at Norwood this week. Mrs. McKay received word Sunday, before the visiting party arrived, of the death of Mrs. Herbert Lake's sister-in-law, Mrs. George Heath, of Detroit, who had been killed in an automobile accident in Flint. The party remained with Mrs. McKay over night and returned to Flint Monday.

NORTH COUNTY

Nice rain Friday.

Wilmer Morse is working on a farm near Flint.

Norton Pearls returned for a while over the week-end, after taking their children to Detroit.

Rev. Gilliam, of Asbury College, Ky., preached a fine sermon on revival work on his world tour.

The canning factory has about completed its run on sweet corn. Several tons were spoiled during the rush last week.

Rance Holiday made a trip to Mancelona with a load of Duchess apples Saturday, getting but 50 cents per bushel for them.

Apples appear to be a drug on the market this year. It is hoped the government will buy up a lot of them for PWA people.

Lysle Morse is now back at the book accounting at the court house at Bellaire this week, having finished the soil conservation work last week.

The threshing machine of Charley Bennett, of Maple Hill, has been in the neighborhood the past week. Grain is not very plentiful this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis DeYoung have a ten and a half pound baby girl at their home, born Saturday night. Mrs. DeYoung was formerly Eda Hill, of Bellaire.

Attendances at Sunday school last Sunday were: Creswell, 16; Turner, 11; Grand View, 18; Bay View, 16; South Milton, 16; Eastport, 39, and Pentecostal, 46.

Alfred Christensen, of South Milton, was a business caller at Eastport at the home of Mr. Triplett last week. Mr. Triplett's farm at Maple Hill has been sold.

Andy Dunsmore's smile went over big at Central Lake last week. He and his wife will leave soon for the coast. Mr. Wilhelm, of Rapid City, was the auctioneer.

Bean picking is about ended. The bean business has been very unsatisfactory this year, as so little was obtained for them on account they ripened too fast and made too many big beans. Cucumbers were about the same, getting too large on account of severe hot weather.

If strikes had not held up people's work there would have been a good market for farm products notwithstanding the heavy crop, as there are lots of people to consume the food, but they have had little or no work, consequently no money to buy with. The administration tha first two years killed industry with useless alphabets and last two years has killed it with strikes, so that there has been no real recovery, just used the ten billion dollars which went mostly for administration officials. The next two years will probably be the hardest times yet.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

Car Information Fee Is Increased

Because of the marked increase in the volume of requests for details concerning motor vehicle registration, as it pertains to financing and car "histories," Department of State officials at Lansing have increased the fee for furnishing this information.

Previously a charge of five cents per car description was made; the new price is 15 cents, made imperative if the Motor Vehicle Division is to be self-sustaining in this respect, Frank W. Carney, director, points out.

No charge is made for information sought by any branch of government anywhere, nor for information requested infrequently, and to a limited degree, by attorneys and others whose business would entail the necessity for such information. Business firms frequently submitting lengthy lists of car descriptions, however, are billed monthly for the service requested, when charge accounts with the department are opened.

The increase in motor vehicle registration and motor car sales is reflected in the daily requests, frequently by automobile finance firms checking such matters as liens and other details of automobiles passing through their hands.

"Youth In Crime" by J. Edgar Hoover

That's the title of the second of a series of articles on crime by the chief of the G-Men. Don't fail to read this important article and learn how the young are initiated into gangs and criminal rackets which cost the Nation over $15,000,000,000 every year.

DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT

George Miggison's herd of Jerseys placed first last month among the medium sized herds in Northwest Michigan Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Average production per cow for the August test period was 671 pounds milk and 35.0 pounds butterfat. One cow in the herd was second high mature cow for the association with 998 pounds milk and 55.9 pounds fat.

Hill View Dairy Jerseys ranked second among the large herds. Average per cow was 672 pounds milk and 29.3 pounds fat.

Average per cow for all herds on test was 638 pounds milk and 26.0 pounds butterfat. Nine cows produced over 50 pounds fat apiece. Only 13 (less than five per cent of the total) were dry. Production showed some increase for August in most herds, largely because of improved pastures.

COUNTERFEIT MONEY

Could you tell whether a $10 bill with the portrait of George Washington on it was counterfeit or not? William H. Moran, a writer for "American Magazine," says that the average citizen knows very little about the money which he handles. He should easily detect that the above bill is a forgery because Washington's picture appears on our $1 notes. Bills of each denomination carry different portraits.

Another money fact which I recently learned is that the ink used on the U. S. notes never thoroughly dries. Counterfeiters cannot duplicate this ink. If you rub a valid note on a piece of paper, it will leave a smudge from the wet ink which no counterfeit bill will ever do.

Mr. Moran also says that nickels are counterfeited for slot machines. One side of these coins is blank and only the good side is visible in the machine. Many of these coins get into circulation and pass through many hands without detection.

TECHNICALITY ERASES COMMERCIAL FISH LAW

Ban on Licenses to Non-Resident Operators Not In Effect

hh One of the 1937 legislative acts, which in eyect would have prevented all non-resident commercial fishermen from fishing in Michigan waters, has been nullified hy a technicality.

The act, an amendment to the commercial fishing laws, was in full force and effect for 14 days this summer, having been signed by Governor Murphy, July 23. It forbade the issuance of commercial fishing licenses to non-residents whose states have commercial fishing laws that are not in agreement with those of Michigan as to minimum size of fish and mesh measurements.

The commercial fishing laws were further amended by another bill, which was signed and made effective by Governor Murphy, August 5. This act did not include the foreging provision on non-resident licenses, which provision therefore automatically became null and vold.

According to the attorney general a statute as last amended and made effective, supersedes any prior amendment or provisions of the law.

Since the commercial fishing laws of other states do not substantially agree with those of Michigan, the bill signed by Governor Murphy, July 23, would, in effect, have eliminated Michigan commercial fishing licenses for non-residents. Authorities say, however, that in its brief existence it focused wide attention on the need for uniform commercial fishing regulations among the lake states as further protection to the commercial fish supply.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the puhlic to our service and reading room.

"Matter" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday,September 19.

Among the Bihle citations is this passage (Matt. 6:25): "Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what we shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body more than raiment?"

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, inelude the following (p. 62): "The divine Mind, which forms the bud and hlossom, will care for the human body, even as it clothes the lily; but let no mortal interfere with God's government hy thrusting in the laws of erring, human concepts."

A joint hank account: he deposits the money, she draws it out.

STATE FORESTS WILL GET HEAVY PLANTINGS

Higgins Nursery Has Stock of Forty-Nine Million Small Trees

With the Higgins Lake state forest nursery at full capacity and approximately 49,000,000 young pine trees in the ground, state forestry officials are hoping for favorable weather so as to be ahle to plant as much as 20 per cent of the nursery stock this fall.

The normal heavy plantings of young pines have not been conducted In state forests during the past two years because of near-drought conditions in the soil. These conditions were greatly aggravated last year by a serious early-summer hot spell and a prolonged absence of rain in many parts of the north, making the soil unfavorable for transplanted trees. The customary fall planting was suspended.

During the past spring, the only state forest areas found favorable for plantings were in the Upper Peninsula where approximately 4,000 acres of land in the Lake Superior and Mackinac state forests were reforested.

With moisture conditions improved somewhat throughout Northern Michigan, authorities believe there is a fair chance of a high survival of planted trees and are planning to reforest approximately 18,000 acres of land this fall. The work will be done by 14 CCC camps and on 11 of the 12 state forests, conditions remaining favorable.

LININGS INCREASE USE OF CARPETS

Rugs, like human beings, can't take too many hard knocks.

To make floor coverings wear longer, soften the hard knocks with a good rug lining or cushion, advises Winifred S. Gettemy, associate professor of related arts at Michigan State College.

The Value of a good rug lining cannot be overestimated, according to Miss Gettemy, who has found that the use of a lining not only makes rugs wear longer, hut makes them softer and more luxurious under foot.

Miss Gettemy urges homemakers to be sure their rug linings are guaranteed mothproof. Othsr tips for the homemaker:

A well-laid linoleum over old floor hoarding will lengthen the life of rugs.

Cork linings may be put undsr small scatter rugs to prevent slipping.

Congoleum and linoleum floor coverings likewise should be protected with a lining—increased wear and improved appearance will justify the expense.

Borders around rugs should he protected by surface ssal and wax. A dark walnut stain usually is preferable to a light oak stain because it makes better background for carpets and rugs.

Polygamy would never work in this country. Think of six wives in a trailer.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Keep Out of the Stagnant Waters of Life

Life, like every other stream, has its shallow, stagnant part where the current of existence is slow and there is no progress.

Pulling against the stream is hard work, but hard work is only another name for progress.

If you have rowed a boat in a swift stream, you know that going upstream is difficult; but you know that along the bank there are "quiet waters," sluggish without movement, where boat and oarsman may rest.

There is pease in those quiet waters, but there is no progress upstream.

Life is another stream; the same rule applies. If you want to move up the stream instead of floating with the current or idling near the edge, you must pull.

The foregoing is a word picture of what the sanitary inspector sees as he goes from one country school district to the next school district. The one district has managed somehow hy careful management to give the school children the advantage of having sanitary school equipment; the representatives of the other school district have decided that what was good enough for them when they were at school is good enough for their children. The one attitude represents growth; the other stagnation.

This is the job of the sanitary inspector in his contacts with school children and with the adult representatives of the school board with whom he has to do:

1. To point out ways of improving sanitary living in the school.

2. To make the health inspection work of the school an integral part of the regular health education program of the school.

3. To make all inspections of the school an educational experience for the children to the end that:

(a) The children become aware of the meaning and value of sanitary environment and its best use;

(h) The teacher hecomes interested and helps the children to evaluate and improve their school living;

(c) The teacher and children influence parents and school board to improve school conditions.

To him who is a representative of a school district or to him who is chosen to any responsible representative office, as the chosen leader it is imperative that he be not content to sit in stagnant waters or drift back with the current, but to put his back to the task of pulling against the current if that way means progress. A leader is one who shows his people the way.

AT THE MOVIES

"Sing Band" Debuts in New Crosby Film

Bing Crosby croons and people dance to the strains of the strangest orchsstra ever assembled in "Double or Nothing," the brilliant comedy with music which opens September 18 at the Palace Theatre.

It's an orchestra of some 25 musicians—and none of them plays a musical instrument! It is composed entirely of human voices and has been named "The Sing Band." And yet the music supplied by this aggregation resembles the music of a full instrumental dance band so elosely that it is not only impossible to tell the difference with the human ear but engineers who have studied the "sound track" of its music have been unable to discern any difference.

The band is made up of talented hoys and girls who are "good at" imitating musical instruments. The idea was conceived by Ted Reed, director of the film, which includes in its line-up of talent Martha Raye, Andy Devine, Mary Carlisle, William Frawley, the famed Calgary Brothers and many others, and placed in the hands of Max Terr, vocal coach, for execution.

"Saratoga," Thrilling, Virile Drama of Race Track, Tops in Story and Acting

A gripping romance, comedy, some of the finest character portrayals in years, and thrills of a thundering racetrack are highlights in "Saratoga," the picture that brings Jean Harlow and Clark Gable to the Palace Theatre, September 23-25.

Never was Jean Harlow lovelier. Never has the virile Gable been given a greater opportunity than as the "square" gambler and bookmaker in the new racetrack story, penned by the authors of "San Francisco," Anita Loos and Robert Hopkins. Jack Conway's deft direction is apparent at every moment.

"Saratoga" tells the story of the spoiled daughter of a wealthy horse-owner, and a gambler and hookmaker whom she first hates, fights, then loves. The background of the swift action ranges from penthouses and a London hotel to a Kentucky horse farm, the Saratoga racetrack, and famous races on tracks in various points of the United States. The final racing climax, photographed by special equipment, provides a genuine thrill.

CITY FELLOWS MOST FREQUENT VIOLATORS

Conservation Department Records Reveal This Fact

The "city slicker" either is not as slick or he has less respect for Michigan game and fish laws than rural residents, figures released by the Conservation Department indicate.

Of 269 persons arrested by conservation officers for law violations during July, 197 lived in metropolitan areas and only 72 in the country or in towns of less than 10,000 population.

Most of the city violators were residents of Detroit, Flint, Kalamazoo, and Battle Creek, the department reported; but 67 were non-resident vacationists from Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and California.

One hundred and nine of the July violators were accused of fishing without licenses and 94 with possessing undersize fish. Sixteen were arrested for carrying guns in game areas without permits; two for setting fires without permits; and one for operating a motorboat recklessly and without a muffler.

Fines and costs assessed against the offenders totaled $2,886.

Many people who like to be referred to as dreamers are merely sleepers.

The message must go through-
Loyal, alert, your operator meets her responsibility in emergencies and on the every-day job.
In a crisis, and in discharge of ordinary duty, Michigan's telephone men live up to the highest traditions of the service.

even when it has to go AROUND!

AT THREE O'CLOCK in the morning, near Flint, a gasoline truck and trailer caught fire by the roadside. The blast of flames, shooting upward, melted 75 feet of telephone cable—severing 250 important wires that linked Detroit to northern and central Michigan.

Immediately, quick-witted operators began routing Long Distance calls over substitute routes made available by the foresight of telephone engineers. And before it was possible to go near the white-hot mass of twisted wreckage, telephone plant men were on the scene, laying temporary circuits around the break.

This incident shows the spirit of the men and women who service your telephone . . . intelligent, responsible workers whose attitude toward the job can be summed up in these words:

At all times, at any cost, your message must go through!

LABOR DAY PROVIDED NEW TRAFFIC RECORD

Single Day's Autos at the Straits Eclipsed All Former Figures

Michigan's summer tourist season was rounded out Labor Day weekend with the greatest traffic rush in history.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissionar, reported new travel peaks at the Straits of Mackinac and at the highway department's tourist lodge near the Indiana state line on US-12. These two locations are regarded as good barometers of tourist traffic in Michigan.

For the second successive holiday, one-day traffic on the state ferries at the Straits reached a record volume when 3,995 vehicles were transported on the Saturday preceding Labor Day. This topped the previous record of last July 4 by 576 vehicles.

The 11,083 vehicles carried by the ferries during the three-day holiday through Monday represented an increase of 50 per cent above the traffic for the same period a year ago. An even greater increase was reported for the first six days of this month with 18,314 vehicles, a 03 per cent boost over the same period in 1936.

At the department's tourist lodge near New Buffalo 3,711 persons registered during the three-day holiday compared with 2,796 last year at the same time. Approximately 90 per cent of the registrations were visitors from other states.

At Menominee where the department's second and newest lodge is in operation on US-41, there were 1,748 registrations with 80 per cent of the visitors coming from other states. The Menominee Lodge was opened for the first time this summer.

Six boats operated at random schedule at the Straits over Labor Day week-end including the "City of Cheboygan" in its first "holiday" runs. Commissioner Van Wagoner said that the new boat materially reduced the usual traffic tie-ups at Mackinaw City and St. Ignace.

LUECKE ANNOUNCES ELECTRIFICATION ALLOTMENT

Fund of $250,000 Made Available to Four Northern Counties

Rep. John Luecke, of this district, has been advised by the Rural Electrification Administration authorities in Washington, D. C., of an REA allotment of $250,000 for the construction of power lines to service patrons in Antrim, Charlevoix and Otsego counties.

It is expected that the funds allotted will build about 455 miles of line and serve 1,720 customers when completed. Negotiations are under way to secure wholesale power from the Michigan Public Service Company.

The "allotment" means that REA has approved the project and set aside money to build it. The funds will become available in the form of a loan at 2.88 per cent interest, secured by a mortgage on the new lines and to be repaid over a period of 20 years from the revenues accruing from operation.

Forms and suggestions for incorporation of the project will be furnished by REA. As soon as a cooperative is formally organized, a loan contract will be executed, engineering plans and specifications for line construction approved, and the project released for bids.

UNLICENSED DOGS NO PROBLEM IN OTSEGO

Officials There Demand They Be Licensed; Otherwise Killed

Charlevoix county officials can learn a lesson in handling the unlicensed dog nuisance from Otsego county. The following item, taken from the Otsego County Herald Times, reveals how successfully the situation is handled there:

"The county officers have done a real jab of collecting dog licenses this year.

"Every dog that was listed by the supervisors last spring has been accounted for by being either paid for or killed.

"There were 719 licenses issued, bringing $800 into the county treasury.

"The sheriff killed 20 dogs and investigated 53 dogs that were listed and found that they had been killed by their owners."

APPEAL FOR FEDERAL AID TO REMOVE STATE ENORMOUS APPLE CROP

The United States Department of Agriculture has under consideration the purchase of 100,000 bushels of Michigan fall apples for removal from market in an attempt to stabilize market for winter apples, according to the announcement made by John B. Strange, commissioner of Department of Agriculture. The request that the Surplus Commodities Corporation purchase the apples, with suggestion that one bushel be distributed to a family on welfare, was made by Commissioner Strange after grower's organization pointed out necessity of removing portion of surplus crop from the market.

In making appeal to Secretary Henry Wallace for aid, Commissioner Strange pointed out that the gift of apples to welfare families would remove the fruit from the market, that if proper instructions were given for preparation that one bushel would provide a family with this fruit during the winter months.

UNITE EFFORT TO HOLD PENNSYLVANIA SERVICE

Cancellation of Night Train Would Curtail Mail Deliveries

Chambers of Commerce from Grand Rapids north have embarked on a campaign to prevent cancellation of night train service on the Pennsylvania railway between Grand Rapids and Mackinaw City.

The railway recently announced that, effective September 26, the night trains which leave each end of the line late in the evening would be cancelled, leaving cities on the line with but one train a day each way.

Mail service would be curtailed if the train is cancelled, it was pointed out. Establishment of a star route by truck from Grand Rapids would probably care for the first class mail, but delivery of second, third and fourth class mail would be delayed considerably.

FIVE THOUSAND STEELHEAD TROUT RELEASED

Hatch of Stover Creek Ponds Placed In Lake Charlevoix Waters

Given the assistance of equipment and employes from the Oden state fish hatchery, the Charlevoix Sportsmen's Club released the season's steelhead crop from Stover Creek rearing ponds last Thursday.

Approximately 5,000 fish were planted in the south arm of Lake Charlevoix near Ironton. The fish, advanced fingerlings when placed in the rearing ponds this spring, ranged in size from six to nine inches, and were the finest released in recent years. Due to their size and subsequent enormous appetite, the early planting was necessary to eliminate feeding.

Brook and brown trout held in the ponds will be released at a later date.

ATTENTION IS CALLED TO NEW POTATO AND APPLE GRADING LAWS

Commissioner John B. Strange, of Department of Agriculture, today called attention of apple and potato producers to changes in laws which will affect the marketing of both of these crops this year. There has been completet revision of apple grading requirements, with material change in marketing requirements of potatoes.

Federal grades in their entirety, with exception of change in unclassified and addition of grade known as "Michigan drop," are provided for in the new law, made immediately effective by the Legislature. All apples offered for re-sale must be graded in accordance with the federal grades and comply in all respects to federal requirements.

Larger number of federal grades have been provided for grading of potatoes, with addition of grade known as "Michigan commercials." The new law, effective October 29, provides that each container shall be branded as to contents, bearing the identifying number of the grader. This feature eliminates the use of tags, as in the past, and places the responsibility for the proper grading upon the grader.

In both of the laws, the producers are exempted where they dispose of their products directly to the consumer. Copies of both laws, embodying the new grades, may be obtained by writing Department of Agriculture, Lansing, Mich.

HARBOR HEARING REPORT IS GIVEN

WAR DEPARTMENT OUTLINES RESULT OF HEARING

N. Upper Channel Revetment, Shoal Removal Turned Down; Would Survey for 18-Foot Channel

The following report, directed to this publication from the U. S. War Department, gives the department's findings on requested harbor improvements outlined by local interests at a hearing earlier this summer. The letter follows:

"It having come to the notice of the undersigned that you have expressed an interest in the pending proposition for the further improvement of Charlevoix harbor, Mich., you are hereby informed that the review of the report of the Army engineers submitted December 7, 1931, as called for by resolution of the Committee on Commerce of the United States Senate, adopted March 30, 1937, has been made and is partially unfavorable in that the survey recommended excludes consideration of the channel revetments requested and removal of the shoal in the vicinity of the Chicago Club boathouse. The principal grounds upon which adverse conclusion with respect to these features is based are that the revetments are not necessary for the maintenance of the federal channel, and that removal of the shoal is outside channel limits and should be removed at local expense. The survey recommended is to determine the advisability and cost of providing a channel 18 feet deep from that depth in Lake Michigan to Lake Charlevoix.

"You are further notified that all interested parties have the privilege of an appeal from this conclusion to the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, a permanent body sitting at Washington, D. C., to which all examination and survey reports of this character are referred. Parties desiring to do so may be heard on appeal by the Board, either orally or in writing. Written communications should be addressed to the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, Munitions Building, Washington, D. C., and should be mailed in time to be in the possession of the said Board within four weeks from the date of this communication. If, however, you have important data to communicate to the Board which cannot be collected and put in shape for proper presentation within four weeks, the Board should be informed of this fact without delay and request made for an extension of the dimiting date for submitting information. If oral hearings are desired, dates for the same may be arranged for by correspondence with the Board.

"Any further information needed may be obtained by application to the office of the District Engineer, U. S. Engineer Office, 408 Federal Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis., but attention is invited to the following regulations as to the manner in which such information may be furnished:

"'Where interested parties desire data necessary for the preparation of their appeal to the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, they will be afforded full opportunity to examine the copies of the reports of the district and division engineers in their respective offices, subject to the understanding that no part of the contents of these reports will be published in the newspapers or otherwise until the reports have been submitted to Congress. Copies of the reports will not be furnished or loaned for use outside of the office; but interested parties will be permitted to make such notes of the contents as they desire.'

"You are requested to communicate the foregoing to any persons known by you to be interested in the improvement and who, not being known to this office, do not receive a copy of this communication.

"Very truly yours,
"L. V. FRAZIER,
"Colonel, Corps of Engineers,
"Division Engineer."

LANSING LETTER

"Second Dillinger"

Capture of Al Brady's "Second Dillinger" gang is the immediate objective of state police forces in Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Kentucky. Leaders met at Indianapolis and mapped plans for codeil radio messages and emergency interstate highway blockades.

The Indianapolis conference is considered an effective answer to the charge of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the G-men, that the Indiana state police captain was "not cooperating" with federal operatives who are leading the Brady manhunt. Hoover's statement led to the resignation of the Indiana official.

Michigan's state police commissioner, Oscar G. Olander, preaches cooperation with all the ferver of a farm bureau organizer. Whereas jealousies formerly thrived between local law enforcing authorities and the state troopers, friendly teamwork has been established in Michigan. "Horse and buggy" conditions have been outmoded by speedy automobiles and wide highways.

Public Enemy No. 1

America's foremost motor-minded state is Michigan.

There is no speed limit on its highways.

The fact that automobile accidents during the first seven months of 1937 showed an increase of 30 per cent over the corresponding period in 1936 constitutes a shameful record—one which has induced state authorities to seek drastic remedial steps.

"Something must be done," insists Dr. C. C. Slemons, state health commissioner. The Labor Day week-end toll was 39 lives.

Following a state-wide study, the head of the Michigan State Police uiformed division recommends a fixed speed limit of 50 miles an hour.

The careless driver, Public Enemy No. 1 in Michigan is held responsible for 1,913 deaths in 1936.

Perolysis Preventotive

Out of Michigan may emerge a much-sought preventive of infantile paralysis.

Such is the hope of scientists who are watching anxiously the outcome of tests being conducted by researchers of the University of Michigan medical school.

In a quest for some medical weapon to check the parslysis virus which enters the body through the nose, Dr. Erwin W. Schultz, bacteriologist at Leland Stanford University in California, developed a nasal spray consisting of a solution of zinc sulphate. The spray was tried out repeatedly on monkeys and found to be 100 per cent effective.

The Michigan medical school added a local anesthetic — pontocaine — to zinc sulphate. A close check is being kept on the human "test tubes." Medical history may be in the making, right at home.

"Eliminated?"

The recent illness of Governor Frank Murphy prompted the Lansing State Journal's legislative correspondent, J. H. Creighton, to suggest Murphy's retirement from Michigan public life. Creighton points to the "possibility that Gov. Frank Murphy, strong, wiry, and tenacious as he has demonstrated himself to be, may have ruled himself out of the political picture by reason of the impression of physical exhaustion he has painted for himself in the minds of the public in the past few weeks."

The Lansing newspaper believes that Murphy "eliminated himself as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination for the admittedly killing job of president" and it comments that "the hint recently that he might not attempt to succeed himself as governor was not a surprise" to many observers.

A recent nation-wide poll revealed that Murphy is the No. 5 presidential choice of Democrats for 1940. And there is no denying that Michigan's New Deal executive has evinced a keen personal interest in another presidential possibility, Gov. George Earle, of Pennsylvania.

Second Special Session

Now that the civil service issue has been sidetracked temporarily at least, Murphy's No. 1 problem is to find a labor relations formula which will be acceptable to the Senate's solid Republican phlanx and the handful of Democratic stalwarts.

Lawmakers are to be recalled probably in January for the chief purpose of passing an act. Labor trouble has persisted throughout the state. Because the law now prohibits picketing, injunctions have been issued by the courts in several cases which have not been to organized labor's liking.

The Pennsylvania Legislature, prodded by Governor Earle, passed a "Little Wagner" labor relations act which is distinctly pro-labor. According to statehouse observers, Murphy wants a Michigan law as liberal as the one in Pennsylvania.

In Detroit the UAW and A. F. of L. cannot agree on a candidate for mayor. The division is illustrative of the labor schism, nation-wide in scope, which makes political unity of action very problematical. It is a touchy situation, one that complicates Murphy's problems.

SCHOOL FUNDS SLASHED BY THE STATE DIRECTOR

Smith Ordered 10 Per Cent Cut in Appropriation by Legislature

Michigan schools will receive $2,800,000 less than was appropriated for them by the 1937 Legislature for this year, it has been revealed.

A 10 per cent reduction in the $28,000,000 appropriation for school aid was made by State Budget Director Harold Smith under the "financial dictator" powers granted to Governor Frank Murphy by the Legislature after its appropriations exceeded estimated revenue by $18,000,000.

The slash was announced by Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, who said that it would affect adversely nearly all 15 mill cities. The reduction still left the state aid to schools higher than last year, when they received, including the primary school fund, $37,400,000. For this year, the Legislature appropriated $43,000,000, of which $15,000,000 was for primary schools.

TRAVERSE CITY MAN IS KILLED BY FALL

Fractured Neck at County Jail Following Car Accident Friday

Ray Dewyer, 37, of Traverse City, died in the Charlevoix county jail early Friday morning shortly after he suffered a fractured neck when he fell to the cement floor of the jail cell from a top bunk. Dewyer had been placed in jail by the Charlevoix sheriff's department following an automobile accident at 3 a. m., in which he was involved. His companion, H. W. Crankshaw, manager of the Singer Sewing Machine Company agency in Traverse City, was treated at Charlevoix Hospital, suffering from scalp lacerations and bruises.

According to Sheriff Floyd Ikens, of Charlevoix county, who investigated the case, the two men were about nine miles north of Charlevoix early in the morning when the car, driven by Dewyer, left the highway and rolled over. Crankshaw sustained a severe cut above the right eye, but Dewyer was uninjured. The men were rushed into Charlevoix, where Chankshaw was taken to the hospital, and Dewyer to the jail, where he was subjected to questioning by Sheriff Ikens, who stated that it appeared that Dewyer was intoxicated. After being questioned by officers, Dewyer was placed in a cell, on the top bunk.

At approximately 6:45, Sheriff Ikens reported, Dewyer accidentally tumbled from the bunk, landing on the concrete floor and fracturing his neck. He died within 15 minutes.

Dewyer, who was unmarried, had been living at the Whiting Hotel, Traverse City, for slightly more than a year.

SECONDARY HIGHWAY PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Amount for Charlevoix County Set at $6,966 by Van Wagoner

Minimum allocation of secondary road construction funds for the 83 Michigan counties were set up this week by State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner.

Under the secondary road program, $1,136,910 will be available to the counties during the next two years for construction on county roads. The counties, however, must match these allocations to qualify for this work.

The State Highway Department is allotted $420,502 from the federal government for construction on secondary trunklines under the same two-year program. It, likewise, must match available funds.

The minimum allocations accompanied by questionnaires and additional information on the program will be mailed by Commissioner Van Wagoner this week to the county road commissions. They will be given until December 1 to notify the department as to their ability to match available funds. The commissioner pointed out that this deadline would permit the commissions to confer with their boards of supervisors over the program.

Charlevoix county's share of the program has been set at $6,968, according to figures released.

EAST PARK CONTINUATION APPROVED

COUNCIL VOTES ACQUISITION ADDITIONAL PROPERTY

Goldstick, Wilkins, Meyer and Merriam Parcels Will Be Added to Round Lake Development

Continuation of the East Park project to include all Bridge street frontage between Mason and Clinton streets excepting the Boal and Block properties was assured by action of the city council Monday evening.

Acting on the proposal as a special order of business, the couneil, by a four to two vnte, approved acquisition of the Goldstick, Meyer, Wilkins and Merriam properties through a lease and purchase agreement at a price not to exceed $14,000. The resolution empowered the mayor and city clerk to enter negotiations which will be subject to council approval. Affirmative votes were cast by Aldermen Erber, Hallett, Honker and Ranger, negative by Aldermen Cartier and Kibbe.

In approving the proposul, the council voted acceptance of a $3,500 cash fund offered through Robert Bridge and contrihuted by Belvedere Club, Chicago Club and local residents to apply on the purchase. The amount represents approximately one-fourth the property cost.

Options on the properties involved are held by the Standard Oil Company and that this corporation contemplated constructinn of a service station providing a building permit could be secured, was fnr the first time officially revealed Monday night through L. J. Thompson, of Grand Rapids, who presented such plans before the council prior to action on the park-proposal. Action of the council on acquisition of the property eliminates the service station possibility.

Future development of East Park remains to be worked out. The 1937 summer program included construction of yacht slips, landscaping, etc. In all probability, recreatiunal facilities will be added and the additional property landscaped to conform with the present holdings.

Prior to his death, Mr. Johnson was honorary member and sole survivor of the Charlevoix G. A. R., an honor bestowed upon him over 40 years ago despite the fact he had heen a Confederate soldier. His service for the Confederacy wus not of his own chuice. His mother, Katherine Johnson, was a Carnlinian, while his father, Samuel Johnson, was a Virginian. After heing drafted, Johnson's company was sent to Clarkeville, Tenn. Following the fall of Fort Donnelson, his company was ordered to fall back to Nashville, Tenn., where the officers and many men, including Johnson, deserted. Johnson came north with his wife, intending to join the Union army, but was persuaded not to in view of his previous service.

Mr. Johnson's wife was Marian Boss, whom he married before the Civil War. After short residences in Ohio and Iowa, they came to Michigan, settling on a homestead near Ellsworth. They moved five years later to Charlevoix, then a small community of log cabins.

One of Mr. Johnson's first jobs was to assist in cutting a road through virgin timber between Charlevoix and Petoskey. Few white men were on the job, most of the work heing done by Indians. He later worked as a lumber scaler und farmed for many years. About 45 years ago he became groun lskeeper at the Belvedere Club. He wus caretaker for a number of cottagers until a couple years ago.

Mr. Johnson was a faithful churchgoer and a charter member of the local Methodist church. He voted personally or by absent voter's hallut at every election.

JOHN JOHNSON

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. John Foley and Mrs. Nannie Lynde, Petoskey; a son, Thomas Johnson, of Madison, Wis.; 11 grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren, and three great-great-grandchildren.

Brief services were held at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning from the Stono funeral home, Petoskey, and funeral services were from the See funeral home here at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. C. E. Pollock and Rev. John Alexander were the officiating clergymen. Interment was at Brookside cemetery.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Wielding a vigorous axe on legislative appropriations, Gov. Frank Murphy's budget chief, Harold D. Smith, has stirred a storm of controversy.

While the governor was busy mediating labor strikes last spring, the Legislature authorized expenditures totaling $18,000,000 in excess of prospective revenues. A last minute bill was rushed through both houses giving the executive department the right to take a lateral cut in all appropriations.

Among the beneficiaries of the legislators' generosity were public school teachers, as the state's public school aid was increased from $38,000,000 to $43,000,000. Smith pared it down to $40,800,000. Immediately a flood of protests poured into the statehouse from all parts of the state. The Michigan Education Association, headed by Harley V. Holmes, president, declares that the reduced appropriation left "most school boards with only two alternatives—either to finish the school year with a deficit or to cut teachers' pay."

Since adoption in 1932 of the 15-mill tax limitation amendment, the Second Year Nutrition to Be Studied by Home Economics Groups

The regular home economics extension project will start on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 28 and 29, with Miss Roberta Hershey, extension specialist in nutrition, Michigan State College, the specialist in charge. Prospects point to another highly successful project with practically all of the old groups enrolled again and one or two new communities being organized.

How to plan and prepare 1095 meals each year that will please the family as well as provide all essential elements is a problem to be considered. Suggestions for community meals and the question of food combinations will be included in the lesson. Methods for extending the nutrition program to all sections of the communities will also be discussed. As has been the case in the past, two training centers will be held. The first training meeting will be held in the basement of the Boyne City library on Tuesday, September 28, beginning promptly at 10 o'clock. The second meeting will be held in the Charlevoix M. E. church at the same time on Wednesday, the 29th. We are extremely anxious to have new communities organized and participate in this year's project.

If your community does not have an extension group, kindly get in touch with this office and every effort will be made to organize your community for this highly important program.

Sewing Machine School Scheduled for Thursday, September 30

The second sewing machine school to be held in the county has been arranged for the East Jordan community on Thursday, September 30, in the basement of the public library. Several ladies have already requested this instruction in the care and repair of the sewing machine. A. J. Bell, extension agricultural engineer of the Michigan State College, will be present and conduct the demonstration.

Not more than 10 machines may be brought in for cleaning and repairing, so kindly get in touch with your county agent at Boyne City, and make a reservation for your machine if you would like to have your machine included. Inasmuch as the meeting starts at 10 and continues until 4 o'clock, it is suggested that you bring your lunch with you.

Each person bringing in a sewing machine should also bring a pie tin, a spool of 40 or 50 thread, one-quarter yard of muslin, some old cloth to clean the machine, and a pint of kerosene. It would be entirely proper to wear a wash dress, as remember this is more or less of a repair school and you will not want to spoil a fancy dress. Mr. Bell will not have repair parts for machines, consequently broken machines will not be considered unless the new parts are brought in with them. Kindly remember that all services rendered by Mr. Bell of course will be without expense to those who bring the machines for cleaning, repairing and adjustment.

Due to the fact that only 10 machines may be worked on, and the first 10 that are offered will be accepted, it is suggested that you notify your county agent if you wish to bring in your machine, so that a reservation may be made.

SAVING MONEY HERE!
MEANS GREATER VALUE HERE!
COLLECTING LIQUID RUBBER ON FIRESTONE PLANTATIONS IN LIBERIA
From these plantations comes an ever-increasing supply of the world's finest rubber. Money saved here and in manufacturing and distribution enable Firestone to sell first-quality tires at lower prices.
PRICES AS LOW AS $6.40

THAT'S WHY YOU GET MORE FOR YOUR MONEY IN FIRESTONE STANDARD TIRES

FIRESTONE builds a first-quality tire made of top grade materials and sells it for less money because Firestone passes savings along to you in the form of extra values. Firestone controls rubber and cotton supplies at their sources, manufactures with greater efficiency and distributes at lower cost. Because of these economies —

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. By this process every fiber of every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber. This counteracts dangerous internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because under the tread are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING — because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE—because of the extra tough, long-wearing tread.

Make your car tire-safe now for fall and winter driving. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires — today's top tire value.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON SMOOTH WORN TIRES!

DO YOU KNOW

THAT last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children?

That a million more were injured?

THAT more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to smooth, worn, unsafe tires?

At right is a section cut from a smooth, worn tire, with non-skid protection worn off. Tires in this condition are liable to punctures, blowouts and skidding.

At left is section cut from a new Firestone Tire. Note the thick, non-skid protection against skidding, blowouts and punctures. Come in and see a demonstration.

U. S. MAY PURCHASE MICHIGAN'S POTATOES

Federal Agency Watching Situation In Case of Surplus

Rep. John Luecke, of Escanaba, has been advised by officials of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, Washington, D. C., that the potato situation in the 11th Michigan District is being carefully watched with the view of facilitating the sale of potatoes in the event a surplus develops this year.

Luecke was informed that the commercial movement of this year's crop indicates pending surpluses in several producing states and that the FSCC is making preparations to assist potato growers wherever circumstances warrant.

In all probability a representative of the FSCC will be assigned to the producing area in Michigan to investigate conditions and, if adjudged necessary, initiate a purchase program. Assurances were given Luecke by H. C. Albin, procurement officer, FSCC, Washington, D. C., that, as far as possible, all potato growers would be given an opportunity to participate in the program.

POPULATION PREDICTIONS

There are about 17 babies born for each 1,000 population, according to present birth-rate statistics, as compared to the death rate of 10 for every 1,000. The latter is still exceeded by the birth rate, but statisticians and other experts are observing that population is slowing down and that within a generation the birth and death rates will be even.

This prospect is viewed with alarm as American values always have been built on prospects of increased population. "The Digest" editor says that our statisticians discuss the saturation point for population in the same fatalistic vein that bankers used in prophesying a saturation point for automobiles 30 years ago. At any given moment the bankers could prove they were right; but before the period of prophecy drew to a close the situation changed. Someone invented a self-starter, someone built more and better roads.

He says that social evolution may produce a better world with a future so rosy that adult will want many children to share its blessings. It will, however, be necessary for political management to improve sufficiently to reassure parents that their children will be something more than debt-bearers and arms-totters, and when it does the baby business may again boom in America.

More than 20,000 Michigan employers of eight or more persons are now subject to the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Act and are paying contributions based on their payrolls, for the financing of unemployment insurance.

SCHOLARSHIP GRANTS

During the depression the evil of giving scholarship grants to just anyone who came along grew as rapidly as a good crop of weeds.

Institutions were guilty of keeping up the average enrollment by giving free aid to students for every reason except scholarly achievement. The practice has tended to lower the standards of learning in these institutions for education which is handed out on a silver platter is not appreciated.

Most of these students had no right to be in college.

There is a form of deceit prevalent that has led parents to believe their sons and daughters, irrespective of their qualifications, must go to college. Yet, in recent years, there is a dearth of jobs for the professional workers, many living upon starvation wages, while their fortunate brothers, the craftsmen, lead very comfortable lives.

When colleges reshape their policy of aid-giving, and when parents realize that a child may even be much happier if he never sees the inside of a college, we will see the professions filled with those who are especially qualified to fill them.

GOOD NEWS DAY

It might be interesting to set aside one day out of each week when the only news to be published would be good news.

Goodness is as infectious as badness. Instead of assigning reporters to find the sensational in crime, why not assign them to find everything which is good and beautiful? And see what the effect would be.

Yes, it would be very interesting; and who knows, more papers might be sold on Good News Day than on the days when crimes were headlined.

FIRE PREVENTION

With the approach of autumn vegetation along the roadside dies and becomes a potential fuel bed for carelessness.

Motorists are asked to use every precaution to prevent fires.

Put out each cigaret!

Smother every ember of a camp fire! Too often fires started by carelessness along the wayside spread into neighboring fields and result in considerable damage to private property.

WHAT TO EXPECT

"The utilities have a right to know, officially and not by guess, exactly what the government plans to do with them. That includes their quarter of a million employes and their four or five million investors. And the American people have the right to consider these plans in advance and to determine whether or not their execution is desirable." — Wendell L. Wilkie, President Commonwealth and Southern Corp.

American Boy Introduces a New Football Game

In the early fall issues of THE AMERICAN BOY there'll be presented the story of a new game—six-man football—fast as professional football, wide open as basketball, thrilling as hockey!

The game came to life through the need of small schools for some substitute for 11-man football, which was too expensive. Stephen Epler, a Nebraska graduate student in athletics, developed the game of six-man football to meet this need. In six-man football anybody can score, the possibility of injury from mass plays is minimized, and the game is open enough for spectators to follow every exciting development.

The new game is a hit. New schools are taking it up every day. In coming issues THE AMERICAN BOY tells the world about this practical new game. In addition, it presents The American Boy Official Handbook, which can be obtained from the magazine at 20 cents a copy, or 15 cents when bought in bulk.

NOTE: Subscription prices of THE AMERICAN BOY will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect: one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00. Foreign subscriptions 50c a year extra. Send your name, address and remittance to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. On newsstands the price is 15c a copy.—Adv28t1

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Reality" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, September 26.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Rev. 21:4): "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 353): "All things will continue to disappear, until perfection appears and reality is reached."

AT THE MOVIES

"Big City"

"Big City," an original story written and produced by Norman Krasna, brilliant young New York playwright now devoting his talents to the screen, opens Sunday, September 26, at the Palace Theatre, with Luise Rainer and Spencer Tracy, co-starred.

The story is powerful and the acting is equal to it. An excellent supporting cast includes Charley Grapewin, Janet Beecher, Eddie Quillan, Victor Varconi, Oscar O'Shea, Helen Troy, William Demarest, John Arledge, Irving Bacon, Guinn Williams and Regis Toomey.

"London By Night"

Three established stage players win new honors on the screen in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's mystery picture, "London By Night," which opens Thursday, September 30, at the Palace Theatre.

George Murphy, former Broadway dancer, more recently in pictures, has his first dramatic role and proves his ability without question. Rita Johnson, likewise a product of the theatre, who starred in George M. Cohan's "Fulton of Oak Falls" and other plays, makes her screen debut in the feminine lead and assures her career in Hollywood.

Leo G. Carroll, also a former stage actor, appears in a role of mystery and promises to become a make-up wizard of the Lon Chaney school. Others in the cast are uniformly good in their respective parts. They include Virginia Field, George Zucco, Montagu Love and Eddie Quillan.

All of the 48 states, District of Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii now have unemployment compensation laws which have been approved by the Social Security Board. Wisconsin has already started paying benefits and Michigan probably will start payments on July 1, 1938.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

New Car Makes Two Quick Ocean Trips

One Detroit-made automobile which traveled probably farther in shipments than it did under its own power, for the first year of its life, was recently turned up in records of the Department of State at Lansing.

Late in 1936, a new 1937 model rolled off the assembly lines of a Detroit factory, to be shipped to Germany. There it was purchased, and shortly thereafter, brought by its owner back to Detroit, his home.

Friedrich Hopfield, 2275 Calvert avenue, Detroit, bought the car at Koln-Sola, Germany, on November 11, 1936. The unusual history of the car was revealed when the owner applied to Leon D. Case, secretary of state, for a Michigan title. Employes of the Department of State were hard pressed trying to read the German title. It was in the form of a pamphlet, voluminous with information—all in German.

Wonders of an unseen world! Astonishing things we would see if we had eyes like a microscope, explained in a double page illustrated feature in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Declare War On the Sex Criminal, Says J. Edgar Hoover, Chief of the G-Men!

NEW FARM PROGRAM IS OUTLINED BY WALLACE

Benefits Scheduled for New 1937 Soils Conservation Plan

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has announced a sharply revamped soil conservation program for 1938 which would slash from 15,000,000 to 80,000,000 acres from the average harvesting of major crops over the pest ten years.

The benefit payment schedule for specific commuditles will be:

1. Corn, 10 cents per bushel of the farm's normal per acre yield on each acre in the corn goal.

2. Cotton, two cents per pound of the normal per acre yield for each goal acre.

3. Tobacco, from one-half cent to 1.7 cents per pound of the normal per acre yield for each goal acre.

4. Rice, 12-100 cent per pound of the normal per acre yield for each goal acre.

5. Peanuts, 2-10 cents per pound per acre yield for each goal acre.

The new program sets a broad base of $1.50 per acre benefit payment for each acre in general soil depleting goals but this does not include the "specific" crops.

Our new season began last Sunday. It will take a few weeks to settle down in earnest because we are not quite through with caring for summer and hay fever guests.

Last Sunday the pastor began a new and interesting series of sermons. A quotation from Eldridge P. Hatden, Bryn Mawr, will furnish one reason for this series. He says: "This poor, starving world is hungry today for God and that fact alone, if there were no other, is sufficient to make the preacher put Christ to the front in all his preaching. The world does not publish its hunger, but the hunger is there just the same."

The subject for our series will be "The Pre-eminence of Christ," and will include such sub-titles as "Christ's Cure for Troubled Hearts," "The Price of Christ," "Modern Crucifixion of Christ," and others.

Sunday the subject will be "The Chiefest."

You can learn a lot about Christ in these sermons. Some truths will be revolutionary to some.

The young people met last Sunday and planned quite an enthusiastic program of religious and social activity. Any young person of high school age who is not otherwise connected will find a helpful and interesting season with these young people.

Ironton is to be organized soon.

WISE GARDENERS CAN BEAT THE FIRST FROST

Desirable Plants Should Be Potted and Placed In Homes

Gardeners watching leaves turn brown are getting trowels in action to beat the time of Jack Frost with any specimen or house plants that are worthwhile to nurse in the house.

A few pointers rounded up by C. E. Wildon, in charge of floriculture studies at Michigan State College, may save grief for the man or woman gardener lacking in experience. Pointer first on the list is to limit the size of the catch.

"Pot up the most desirable plants, but do not take in more than will have room in the house or that can be tended correctly," says Wildon.

Most potted plants should be potted up in as small a pot as the root system will allow. Fuchsias and geraniums will go into five or six inch pots, Jerusalem cherries in four, five or six inch pots, and begonias in five or six inch pots. The everblooming begonias can be divided up and the divisions planted in four inch containers.

Potting soils can be prepared before the trowel goes into action. A good garden loam of four parts can be mixed with one part of well rotted cow manure and one part of shredded peat. If the garden soil is poor, then a teaspoon of complete fertilizer can be added to the soil for a six inch pot.

The job is hardly completed. Wildon points out that the ten days after potting are important. Plants should be set away in light but not in direct sun for 10 days after a thorough watering. The plants should not be in a draft, for rapid circulation of air dries out the newly potted flowers.

HOLIDAY TURKS GET FEAST FIRST

It won't be long until Michigan's crop of turkeys are stuffed with dressing yet in the meantime the best dressed gobblers are the ones who are going to have daily feasts of all they can eat of mash and grain.

Estimates of the crop are being made by Verne Church, federal state crop statistician, but early guesses place the number of turkeys in Michigan at a lower total than a year ago.

Growers wondering about possible prices and profits are advised by O. E. Shear, extension specialist in poultry at Michigan State College, to be more concerned right now with feeding the birds to a good finish. Give them all they will eat, Shear suggests, because the quality birds are the ones that command the better prices and are more easily sold on any kind of a market.

"It's also wise to look into a good market," suggests Shear.

In Michigan fewer turkeys are produced than are consumer, especially during holiday times. The solution is to try to find a special market. Turkey producers who do not have too large flocks often can market to better advantage if they dress their birds and sell direct to retailers or to consumers.

Back in 1930 the census indicated Michigan produced 230,000 birds. In more recent years the turkey production has been expanding. Last year estimates placed the state total at near half a million turkeys, but still considerably below the Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year and other season consumption within the state.

Explaining gets to be a chronic habit with a lot of people.

NEW GASOLINE ANNOUNCED FOR 1938 AUTOMOBILES

Anticipating the fuel requirements of the 1938 model automobile, Standard Oil Company of Indiana has perfected a new gasoline which will be advertised during the fall and winter in some 1,600 daily and weekly newspapers in the central west.

The newspaper advertising campaign will begin today, and will feature a typical American newsboy in action. Terse copy in bold type will be used to present the facts about the fuel.

According to the announcements, this new gasoline will give faster starting, longer mileage, more power and has a higher anti-knock quality. No increase in price is contemplated.

EPOCH MAKING DATE

In June of the summer of 1787 there met in Philadelphia 55 representatives of the Colonies of America in order to draw up a Constitution for this country. By September their number had depleted to 39. These 39 affixed their signatures to a finished document on September 17, this same year, which a few years later was to be called by one of England's greatest statesmen as the "greatest piece of constructive statecraft ever struck off by the brain and purpose of man at a given time." We wish to emphasize a few of the things which took place at that convention. George Washington sat as leader. He took no part in its debates. By his side were many men of sterling character. Their ability as statesmen was to be demonstrated by the results of their labors. The convention was then sworn to secrecy. This, to us, is one of the most important phases of their meeting. For four, long, weary months these men held heated debate after debate. They were men who had made a study of every system of government used on this earth up to that time. They were as fully aware of pitfalls of a too liberal Democracy as of those existing in a Monarchy. As a result their finished work evaded both by bringing forth a system of government founded upon a new basis, consisting of three separate and distinct branches, the legislative, judicial, and executive, all interdependent upon each other, and no one of which could ever supersede the other.

At first their work was criticized. They were accused of building a government "all sail and no anchor," but the years following have shown the falsity of this type of accusation. Many times our Supreme Court has proven to be the anchor to the windward in times of stress. Strongly led majorities have made repeated efforts against the rights of the minority and each time the assault has been repulsed by the Court. This is as it should be for in its supremacy it can, and has, protected the strong from the weak as well as the weak from the strong. Burke, a famous English statesman, made this statement, "the tyrannies of Monarchies are bad, but the tyrannies of the multitudes are worse because they are multiplied tyrannies." Truly then we can be thankful for our Constitution which, as the fundamental law of our land, has so far enabled us to evade these tyrannies. We can also be thankful to these men who were capable of carrying on bitter debates behind closed and closely guarded doors and who not once uttered one word outside these doors as to what was going on within. There were giants in those days. Therefore let us resolve not to let them down now when some demagogue speaks against the finished product of their labors and tries to get us to abandon the Constitution in favor of some Brain Trusters' pet theory of government.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS
By Ann Page

Breakfasts take on added importance now that the weather is cooler and children are in school. A substantial breakfast eaten leisurely is one of the best guaranties for health and good school marks that a mother can give her child.

National lamb week and apple week suggest two foods that are excellent values this week. Cranberries, grapefruit, pears, plums and peaches are also good fruit values. Among the vegetables the cabbage family, iceberg lettuce, onions, celery, potatoes and yellow turnips are outstanding.

Eggs are still cheaper than last year at this season though seasonally higher. Butter, too, is more expensive.

Seasonable foods make up the following menus:

Low Cost Dinner

Shepherd's Pie with Mashed Potato Crust
Creamed Yellow Turnips
Bread and Butter
Stewed Apples Cup Cakes
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner

Fried Chicken Sweet Potatoes
Creamed Celery and Onions
Bread and Butter
Apple Pie Cheese
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner

Appetizer Salad
Roast Lamb Pan-browned Potatoes
Creamed Broccoli
Mint Jelly
Rolls and Butter
Deep Apple Pie Hard Sauce
Coffee

THE BALANCED BUDGET

Yes—they are still planning and talking about the balanced budget. When Congress reconvenes there's to be a "curtailment of federal spending, accompanied by a limited upward revision of the tax system."

We hope this report is true. But did you ever see a family who had become accustomed to lavish spending do any actual reforming in time of necessity?

There is an election due next year. What effect will this have upon the budget? Taxes are already too high. How can Congress vote for higher taxes in an effort to balance the budget, and keep themselves popular with the voters? Well, it will all make interesting reading, and furnish material for radio speeches, but John Q. Public now has his eyes and ears open. He isn't going to be continuously taken in by promises.

More than one million Michigan workers are now protected against involuntary unemployment. Hundreds of thousands of them will be eligible for weekly job insurance benefits if they become unemployed through no fault of their own. Payment of benefits may begin July 1, 1938.

customay school tax limit is four mills.

A bit of irony, however, is seen in the Legislature's 11th hour action last June, increasing the budget director's salary from $5,000 to $7,500.

Old Age Pensions

Old age pensions are next on Smith's economy list, as the legislative appopriation is $10,000,000, an "increase of $8,000,000 over the 1936 amount." The state relief fund of $8,000,000 has been lowered two per cent, while the children's aid total of $4,000,000 has been cut $240,000.

Dole cases last winter numbered 91,000, and it is estimated that the coming peak load will be 10 per cent less.

While state old age pensions are given only to indigent persons, federal old age benefits under the social security act are payable to employed persons who reached the age of 65 in 1937. Federal old age pensions total $1,100,000 a month in Michigan. Approximately 1,700,000 persons are taxed for pensions, and 60,000 are receiving public assistance.

At Lansing a federal old age benefit bureau has been opened. The state director, B. C. Schuette, asserted: It is apparent that hundreds of persons have reached 65 without realizing that they are entitled to lump sum payments under the social security act." Payments can be made only to persons who contributed by wage deductions since January 1, 1937, and prior to their 55th birthday.

August's cost of state old age assistance was $869,115, distributed among 48,422 persons with an average amount of $18.02. The cost is steadily rising.

"Speed-up" Results

The "speed-up" of the automobile assembly line is accredited by federal authorities for a large amount of unemployment in Michigan among men over 50 years.

"Men are often 'washed up' at 50," said P. D. Fahenstock, of Washington, D. C., social security board executive, in an address in Lansing.

"You can't have men sitting around worrying and brooding until they are 65 when they become eligible for old age assistance. This is where our new program of vocational rehabilitation comes in. This will mean a great deal to automotive centers."

The federal movement is designed to provide new means of livelihood for middle-aged men who can't stand the pressure of industrial work and who are ineligible for old age pensions.

CIO Indictment

Out of the epidemic of "sit-down" strikes in Michigan automobile plants—both authorized and unauthorized—came dire predictions that CIO irresponsibility would induce manufacturers to move factories to other states—preferably in the Tennessee Valley Authority where government-made electricity is available at low rates.

One answer to these speculations was provided at Flint a few days ago when Harlow H. Curtice, of the Buick Motor Company, informed newsmen that the company has spent $40,000,000 in three years for plant expansion and retooling — $10,000,000 of this amount within the last year. Under the new program, 300,000 Buick units will be produced in 1938.

The strongest indictment of the CIO in many months was made by Flint delegates to the Third Archdiocesan Catholic Action convention of the Federation of Catholic Study Clubs, meeting in Detroit. The Catholics declared that the CIO in Flint was lawless and terroristic, forcing many workers to join against their will.

Cheap Electricity

One of the cards in Governor Murphy's "New Deal" for Michigan has been rural electrification through federal cooperative associations. The movement is intended to furnish cheap electricity to farmers.

At Ubly, in the "Thumb" district, a huge electric generating plant is to be constructed. The government is loaning several million dollars to the Thumb co-op.

According to the State Utilities Commission, private power companies have been purposely building rural power lines in the better farm areas, leaving sparsely populated districts for the federal co-ops to serve. The commission now seeks an injunction to restrain the Consumers Power Company, of Jackson, from building any more rural power lines until the commission has approved plans and specifications. A bill specifically granting this supervisory power to the state commission was introduced in the 1937 Legislature, passed by the House, but died in Senate committee.

Michigan now leads all mid-west states in per capita progress of rural electrification, according to national statistics.

No Drouth Here

Fall trade prospects continue to improve throughout Michigan, as the conditions of crops remain good and as fall planting is made without handicap of drouth. In many states — Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Kansas, and Nebraska—drouth conditions prevail for fall plowing and planting.

Whereas Wisconsin's cherry and potato crops were greatly reduced this year due to widespread drouth, Michigan growers enjoy fine yields.

Proof of the economic improvement is seen in bank deposits which have soared $67,154,000 and reserves have climbed $24,000,000.

Beer Embargo Unpopular

An embargo in Michigan against Indiana-made beer would be very unpopular with Michigan growers of fruits and vegetables, judging from protests which have reached Lawrence Rahilly, secretary of the State liquor Control Commission. Indiana provides a big market for Michigan fruits and vegetables, and growers fear retaliatory embargoes.

The 1937 Legislature made mandatory an embargo on beer in states which imposes a higher tax on out-of-state brews than on home beer. The law is now before Attorney General Starr for a ruling on its validity.

Apples vs. Doctors

If there is any truth to the old saying, Michigan doctors can take a vacation next winter.

Michigan's apple crop is bumper in size, enough to provide father, mother and all the kids with an apple a day. In fact, the big crop has worried officials of the Michigan Apple Institute, headed by Roscoe J. Martin, of Bangor. The federal government through the AAA has offered to buy 600 carloads of apples for distribution among relief recipients. Another factor to help stabilize the apple market will be participation of chain store and independent food retailers in a statewide sales program this fall.

How to dispose of Michigan apples is not so easy as it would seem. More Washington-grown apples have been sold in Michigan than Michigan apples, and Institute leaders believe the answer lies in an advertising campaign to acquaint Michigan and the Mid-West with merits of our home-grown product.

Michigan Miscellany

A survey by the United Press reveals that two-thirds of Michigan legislators are opposed to a special session this fall.

The legislative investigating committee into gambling has reached the point where members are promising criminal indictments. The House voted to legalize slot machines and dog racing.

Millions of white pine, Norway spruce and red pine seedlings are being planted this month in national forests by CCC youths.

New state park sites will be bought this fall on the Great Lakes and the St. Clair River. The Legislature appropriated $300,000.

ELLSWORTH PIONEER IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Falls Hansen Skow, Prominent in Village Affairs, Died Thursday

Falle Hansen Skow, one of Ellsworth's pioneer citizens and widely known and highly respected by all, died at his home Thursday evening, September 16. He was born in Schleswig, Denmark, on November 7, 1855. At the age of 16 he came to the United States and worked in the lumber woods in Wisconsin and Michigan.

Mr. Skow made three visits back to Denmark. These visits were only short, as he had taken out citizenship papers and had planned to make America his home. His last visit was made in 1888-1889, and on his return a number of young Danish people came with him, including Anna Kudsk (now Mrs. John Nasson, of Charlevoix), and Christine Sandberg, whom he married on November 28, 1889, at Ironton, Mich. At this time Mr. Skow worked in the iron furnace there, but after his marriage he came to live on property in Section 23, now known as Ellsworth.

In 1892 when the Pere Marquette railroad was being built, Mr. Skow and Datus Parks had some of their properties divided into lots for the plat of the village of Ellsworth. To induce the railway company to build a station, Mr. Skow donated the land for the present station site. At that time much of the surrounding country was virgin hardwood timber and there were three sawmills in the village, one of them owned by Mr. Skow.

The New Orient Hotel, which burned in 1922, was owned by Mr. Skow and later sold to Lewis Van Skiver. He owned and operated a general store for 15 years, which was sold in 1910 to Klooster & Son. In 1907 he built a pipeline for water for his residence from a spring nearly a mile away. From time to time neighbors would ask to be connected to it, until at present nearly one-half of the homes at Ellsworth are being supplied with water.

Mr. Skow was very public spirited and cooperated in every project which was for the betterment of the community. He acted in some official capacity in the Traverse Bays Telephone Co., Community Electric Light Plant, and the Banks Township Marketing Association when these firms were organized. In 1924 he was appointed receiver for the Ellsworth Canning Co., at the age of 68 years, and held this office until 1930 when the property was purchased by Reid, Murdoch & Co. During the last year as receiver, his health began to fail and from that time his activities in business and public affairs ceased. He was generous hearted and during his life in the community saw it grow and progress. He gave liberally to the building of all churches in the community and was a member of the Pilgrim Holiness church at the time of his death. His passing on September 16 is one of the last of the early residents of Ellsworth who has lived a continuous life of 48 years in the community.

He leaves the widow; one son, Dr. John Skow, of Toledo, O.; four daughters, Mrs. Delbert E. Clow, of Detroit, Mrs. Walter Oliver, Panama City, Panama, Mrs. Clinton J. Bushey, of Olivet, Ill., and May Ruey, at home; eight grandchildren, and one brother, Christian, in Denmark.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in the Christian Reformed church, and burial was in Ellsworth cemetery.

COMMUNICATION

The City Council at its last session took another decisive forward step toward the improvement of Charlevoix as a resort by voting to acquire the old Ayers property and adjoining property on Round Lake. The Mayor and City Clerk were instructed to complete the negotiations at the best obtainable price not to exceed $14,000. The exact costs will not be known until the deal is concluded. However, the old hotel site cost about $109 per front foot for the bare land. Doubtless, the buildings on this new tract will bring the cost a trifle higher. This new development will add another step toward the beautification of the shores of Round Lake and its surroundings.

The decision of the Council was encouraged by voluntary contributions by citizens and summer residents interested in the development in the tidy sum of $3500 secured largely by the work and enterprise of Robert Bridge and others. Bob had the money on the spot ready to be turned over when asked for.

The Council meeting which was attended by a number of citizens, was productive of results in other directions. The Mayor stressed the need of a comprehensive plan to run over a number of years so that there would be a system to work to. It was brought out in the way of statistics that approximately $225,000 was brought into this town by summer visitors and deposited in local banks to defray personal expenditures, practically all of which passed in the channels of trade in this vicinity. This does not include the large sums expended and paid by checks drawn directly upon home banks which is the practice of a large number of our visitors. This is a huge payroll, and proves the assertion that our resort business is a big and important business and one that should be increased by us at every opportunity within our reach. Such a payroll far exceeds that of any single factory we would be able to secure and surely that of a large number of smaller ones.

One of the best methods of increasing that payroll is to provide the things which a prospective summer vacationist expects to find in a first class place. Not necessarily a lot of playthings and gadgets, but substantial, visible improvements which attract and allure those in quest of a place to spend their vacations and their money. For years, our summer visitors have expressed their displeasure with the appearance of Round Lake. In fact, they and local citizens have often referred to it as an "eye-sore." That is not good. Already much has been accomplished and it is gratifying to see the signs of approval and hear the favorable comments. That is good advertising. However, the progress has been slow. There have been too many critics who do not fully understand the situation and this naturally retards our officials in moving along. Many of these critics balk at the cost although conceding the desirability of the improvements. They quite forget that these summer visitors who like to see things advance are large taxpayers and that all of these non-resident taxpayers combined pay nearly 80 per cent of the total annual tax. This being so it would seem that they are entitled to some consideration and are justified in urging progress.

Another thing is important to bear in mind. All these developments provide a large amount of labor to our citizens and indirectly furnish employment for many years to come. It is not a mere temporary employment like the building of a small building or station on this parcel of land which is ordinarily completed in a few weeks at the most.

There are many things to look at in this picture of the further awakening of Charlevoix to the necessity of improvement and continued improvement to keep abreast of the keen competition from resorts all around us that are not afraid of investments of this kind. That competition is becoming more and more evident and is having its effect even though we boast of our location and natural advantages.

So far as our finances are concerned we are practically out of debt. The self-liquidating utilities are not supported nor paid for out of tax money, so it cannot be said that we cannot afford to improve. We can afford it and our elective officers can be trusted to go ahead within our means and according to our ability to invest.

These improvements ARE investments, pure and simple. They are not idle luxuries fit only to be looked at. Why does the merchant spend so much time and money to improve the looks of his place of business? As an investment, of course, and he knows it is his best advertising. In the case of a town the investment adds to its payroll and to its business, and payrolls and business pay taxes, feed and clothe people and make prosperity and happiness. That is the main thing.

The Council is to be commended for its progressive spirit. More power to them.—Contributed.

HEALTH LECTURES TO BE CONOUCTEO

DISTRICT HEALTH DEPARTMENT SPONSORING SERIES

Starting October 11, Lectures Will Continue for Six Weeks — Schedule Is Announced

Through the courtesy of Dr. C. C. Slemons, state commissioner of health, and Dr. Lillian R. Smith, director of the bureau of child hygiene, the District Health Department has succeeded in obtaining a series of health lectures for this county.

Women of Charlevoix county will have an opportunity to attend this series of free health classes during the next six weeks upon the general subject of maternal and child hygiene. The groups will be addressed by Dr. Berneta Block, lecturer for the Michigan Department of Health. Child study clubs, parent-teacher associations, and other groups are sponsoring the lectures here.

The series will start the week of October 11 and will continue at the same time and place for six succeeding weeks. The following centers will have an opportunity to hear Dr. Block:

Monday, October 11—

1:30 p. m., Horton's Bay, Mrs. O. M. Bailey's home; chairmen: Mrs. J. A. Kotesky and Mrs. W. B. Burmister.

3:30 p. m., Walloon Lake Community House; chairman: Mrs. G. J. Whitfield.

7:30 p. m., Boyne City Library; chairman: Mrs. Russell Barden.

Tuesday October 12—

1:30 p. m., Norwood Town Hall; chairmen: Mrs. Earl Publow, Mrs. George Light and Mrs. Clyde Warner.

3:30 p. m., East Jordan Community House; chairmen: Mrs. J. F. Bugai and Mrs. John Porter.

7:30 p. m., Charlevoix School; chairmen: Mrs. Charles Bellinger and Mrs. Oakley Hammond.

Wednesday, October 13—

1:30 p. m., Hayes Town Hall; chairmen: Mrs. Henry Hair, Mrs. Georgia Burnett and Mrs. Leslie Howe.

3:30 p. m., Ironton, Mrs. Ross Alexander's home; chairmen: Mrs. Ralph Price and Mrs. Ross Alexander.

In view of the nation-wide demand for lower maternal and infant death rates, Dr. Block's lecture series is especially appropriate. The first lecture is entitled "First Aid," and will include a discussion of the more common emergencies met in the home and the first aid treatment of these. In the second lecture on "Our Body and How It Functions," there will be a practical discussion of human anatomy and the physiology of the important systems of the body.

The third and fourth lectures deal with prenatal care and the development of the baby, together with a discussion of problems of the care and training of babies and young children. Cause and prevention of infectious diseases of children and the newer immunization methods will be discussed at the fifth meeting. The sixth talk will be a discussion of the cancer problem.

The complete series as sponsored by the Michigan Department of Health offers an excellent opportunity to gain the basic knowledge of modern maternal and child hygiene. Dr. Block accompanies her talks with moving pictures, lantern slides and other illustrative material. Each member of the classes receives an outline. An opportunity is given for an open discussion of individual problems following each talk.

CARE IS NECESSARY IN GRADING OF POTATOES

New State and Federal Laws Are More Stringent This Year

Potato producers were cautioned today by Commissioner Strange to use every care in the harvesting of the potato crop of 1937, if they expect to receive top market prices. Federal-state inspection service is expected to result in stricter interpretation of grades than in former years and producers should take every step to eliminate mechanical damage to potatoes, according to Commissioner John B. Strange.

Commissioner Strange said that to meet requirements of No. 1 potatoes the product must be "free from damage," damage being defined as "any injury or defect which materially injures the appearance of the individual potato or the general appearence of the potatoes in the container, or which cannot be removed without loss of more than five per cent of the total weight of the including peel covering the defective area.

Particular care should be taken in digging the potatoes, avoiding marking the tubers with forks. Potatoes should not be thrown into crates from a distance and care should be used in emptying potatoes into storage, according to Commissioner Strange.

Finances in "Black"; Plans Started for Bigger, Better 1938 Exhibit

Last Friday evening brought to a close the 52nd annual exhibit of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society at East Jordan, and brought the curtain down on one of the most successful events in years.

Charles Murphy, secretary of the society, was here Monday to express the appreciation of the management for the fine attendance and interest of local citizens.

Mr. Murphy stated that the 1937 fair will come out in the "black" financially and that plans for a better and bigger exhibition in 1938 are already in progress.

GAME LICENSES ARE READY FOR RELEASE

SAME LOCAL DEALERS HAVE NEW 1937 SUPPLY

Expect Nearly Half Million Licenses Will Be Sold for the Opening of Season October 1

Sales of 1937-38 hunting licenses were under way today as sportsmen prepared for the state's first fall open season, beginning October 1.

Figures on first permit sales, started two weeks ago, were not available, but early reports from scattered areas indicated this year's total would approximate the 1936 sale of 434,153 resident and 5,522 non-resident licenses. New trapping licenses will be in effect October 29.

Both hunting and trapping licenses, on sale by license dealers, conservation officers, and district and regional conservation posts, will be accompanied by cards on which permit holders must report the season's bags of game.

Early sale of deer licenses, which may be procured now, was authorized by the 1937 Legislature. As before, a limited supply of low-number tags will be reserved for persons desiring them.

Bow and arrow licenses for the special deer season in Newaygo and Iosco counties, November 1 to 14, will be distributed only through the Lansing, Roscommon, and Marquette conservation offices. Deer licenses last fall, when no bow and arrow season was in effect, totaled 137,720, an increase of 40,000 over the previous year.

Prospects for a satisfactory hunting season appeared good. The conservation department reported that the number of young antlered deer, particularly, was expected to be larger this season than last because of the preceding mild winter.

State and federal regulations will prohibit shooting of Ross's geese, swans, and canvasback, redhead, wood, ruddy, and bufflehead ducks this fall.

DETROIT TIGERS TO APPEAR AT GAYLORD

Rogell's Team to Play Northern Michigan Stars October 11

One of the biggest baseball attractions of the year for Northern Michigan will be at Gaylord on Monday afternoon, October 11, when Bill Rogell, crack infielder of the Detroit Tigers, brings his touring Tiger Stars for a game. Opposing his outfit will be the cream of Northern Michigan players.

Being invited to participate in the game are Sebo, Weinrich, Zarinski and one or two other Petoskey players. Other players will come from Charlevoix, Harbor Springs, Cheboygan, Indian River, Grayling, Onaway and Gaylord to make up the Northern Michigan All-Stars.

The game is booked for 2:30 o'clock at the fair grounds at Gaylord and the funds realized from the afternoon of sport will go to the Gaylord High school athletic department. John Makel, principal of the high school, is in charge of the affair.

Several auto loads of fans are already making plans for the trip.

Frog Season Closes Sunday

Sunday, October 31, is the last day of the five-month frog fishing season in Michigan. After that date it will not be legal to take frogs in any part of the state. The frog season opens each year on June 1.

FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS SATURDAY

RED RAYDERS MEET GAYLORD THERE IN INITIAL GAME

Local Team, Inexperienced and Shy of Veterans, Is Heaviest to Represent School In Years

The 1937 football season for Charlevoix High school opens at Gaylord on Saturday, October 2, when Coach Ray Kipke takes his Red Rayders away from home for the initial contest of a six-game schedule.

The heaviest team to represent Charlevoix in several years will be pitted against a veteran Gaylord team which has the advantage of experience gained in one contest so far this year—a 7 to 0 victory last Saturday over Petoskey.

Four of five veterans from last year's squad will have places in Saturday's line-up. They are "Chick" Gallagher at fullback, last season an end; Raymond Nowland, who returns to a halfback position; Bob Pearl, guard; Keith Carey, shifted from end to a halfback berth. Richard Bergmann, who last year played in several games in the line, is this year one of several favored for ends.

Along with this quintet of veterans is a likely group of last year's reserves and new material who so far in practice have shown up well. In view of the fact none of the players are sure of positions up to the present time, their play against Gaylord will probably determine their standing in future games.

Players named as almost positive starters are Bert Pearl and Bernard McCafferty, ends; Russell Driggett and Ernest Nowland, tackles; Bill House and Bob Pearl, guards; Harrison Bedford, center; Harry Withers, quarterback; Raymond Nowland and Keith Carey, halfbacks; "Chick" Gallagher, fullback. Others favored to play Saturday include Olack and Allison, tackles; Ira Smith, halfback; Robert Bergmann, guards, and Goss and Richard Bergmann, ends.

The six-game schedule includes three home appearances and as many away from home. Games following the Gaylord tilt are: October 9, Boyne City, here; October 16, Rogers City, there; October 23, East Jordan, here; October 30, Harbor Springs, there; November 6, Mancelona, here.

HUNTERS SHOULD NOT DRESS GAME IN WOODS

New Laws Make It Illegal to Remove Identity of Game Killed

Do not dress out pheasants, squirrels, rabbits or other small game until you get home! That is the advice conservation officers throughout the state are instructed to pass out to small game hunters this month.

The game laws expressly forbid sportsmen to clean their game in the field in such a way as to prevent proper identification of sex or species.

Conservation authorities say that the violation of the section of the law forbidding this type of offense has been common during past hunting seasons. On being arrested, the violator usually insisted he was not acquainted with the law and that he was innocent of intent to violate.

BOYNE CITY MAN GIVEN PRISON TERM AT JACKSON

Leonard Haddix, Boyne City, was sentenced to serve from 20 months to 15 years at Jackson prison for breaking and entering by Judge Parm C. Gilbert at an adjourned court session last week.

Haddix pleaded guilty to entering a gasoline service station at Boyne City.

LEGION PLANNING WINTER ACTIVITIES

INSTALL A NEW FURNACE AT GARFIELD QUARTERS

Game Hunt, Series of Kano Parties, Toy Repair Project Listed During Future Weeks

Leslie T. Shapton Post, American Legion, is arranging a schedule of activities for this fall and winter, and is looking forward to a great deal of interest. A new furnace is being installed in the Legion hall and will make it possible to have a comfortable club room throughout the winter. It is expected that the furnace will be ready for use within a week.

Among activities planned is a game supper. All war veterans are being invited to join the hunt and two teams are being organized with Sam King as captain of one and Charles Hamlin as captain of the other. The captains are arranging for a system of scoring and the losing side will put on the feed the night of October 19.

Other activities being planned include a series of keno parties. With the prospect of a comfortable club room, interest is increasing and many activities are being suggested. Plans are for continuing the Legion drum and bugle corps with short rehearsals each meeting night. The German band is showing signs of life and will be in operation very shortly.

With a Christmas toy renovating project in prospect, there will be plenty for everyone to do. The accent is upon a desire to serve the community in whatever way possible. In a short time persons having old toys will be asked to get in touch with the Legion members and a repair shop will be set up just prior to the Christmas season.

POMONA GRANGE WILL ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Meeting Scheduled for October 6 at Peninsula Grange Hall

Frances Looze, secretary, has announced a meeting of Charlevoix County Pomona Grange No. 40 for Wednesday evening, October 6.

The meeting, to be held at Peninsula Grange hall, will open with a pot-luck supper at 6:30 o'clock. At the business session following the annual election of officers will be held.

JERSEY PARISH EXHIBIT FINE SUCCESS

HELD FIRST TIME AT CHARLEVOIX COUNTY FAIR

George Meggison, Marion Township, One of Several Prize Winners in Three-County Competition

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

The Jersey Parish Show, held for the first time in connection with the Charlevoix county fair, proved to be a most worth while event. The three counties of Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet were represented by selected Jerseys from the leading herds in each county.

Fifty per cent of the premium money was contributed by the State of Michigan in cooperation with the Michigan Jersey Cattle Club. A forward step in the plans of the show was the fact that each exhibitor won the same amount of premium money in the same class. This more or less guarantees the exhibitors a definite amount and seemed to be very favorably received by those participating in the event this year.

In the county herd competition which consisted of eight animals, first place was won by Antrim county. In the produce of dam, consisting of two animals out of one cow, Charles Therry, of Petoskey, was awarded the blue ribbon. In the get of sire class, consisting of four animals sired by one bull, George Meggison, of Charlevoix, was the winner. The grand champion female of the exhibit was owned by Herm Fielstra, of Ellsworth, and the grand champion sire was owned by Nick Dekkenga, of Ellsworth.

Other winners were as follows: Bull three years and over, Edward VandenBerg, of Antrim county; bull two-three years of age, Nick Dekkenga, of Ellsworth; bull senior yearling owned by Daniel Griffin, of Emmet county; bull junior yearling owned by George Meggison, of Charlevoix. Cow five years old and over owned by Herm DeYoung, of Ellsworth; cow four years old owned by Charles Therry, of Emmet county; cow three years old owned by Nick Dekkenga, of Ellsworth. Cow two years old owned by Herm Fielstra, of Ellsworth; senior yearling heifer owned by George Meggison, of Charlevoix; heifer junior yearling owned by Clare McGhan, of Charlevoix, and heifer calf owned by George Meggison, of Charlevoix.

It is hoped that a similar event may be held next year. This type of exhibit is becoming more popular throughout the state and doubtless additional interest will be aroused in the future.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Prospects for a second special session this fall of the State Legislature grow stronger daily despite disinterested law-makers.

The situation is being sized up about as follows:

1. The entire state welfare machinery, involving the expenditure of millions for direct pauper relief, dependent children assistance and old age pensions, may be stopped in October by the filing of petitions for a referendum on the new state welfare setup.

2. Labor trouble is breaking out again. The furniture industry, for example, is having strikes under CIO leadership.

3. Federal rural electrification is somewhat "up in the air" due to the failure of the Legisinture to invest the Public Utilities Commission with power to require the state's approval of any extensions into rural areas by private utility companies.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Donaldson and family, of Lansing, visited over the week-end with the Robert Batterbee family at Creswell, and the Harry Batterbee family at Green River, returning to Lansing Monday morning.

Miss Martha Fuller, of Bellaire, visited over the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Morse, at Bay View. She returned to her home at Bellaire Sunday evening. She is employed on WPA work at the court house.

A reunion of the Arnold family occurred at the Howard Arnold home, at Eastport, last Sunday, when 28 people were present. Those attending were James Dawson, Kurgy Arnold, Ed. Yettaw, Will Yettaw, Hannah Arnold and Ray Wilkinson.

Margaret Grant Scores New Success

"Thirsty Soil," an epic story of love and conflict against the storm-swept background of the Dust Bowl is the newest effort of the popular author of "Call Back Love." Don't fail to read this dramatic novel. It starts in This Week, the magazine with next Sunday's Detroit News.

In the capital city of Washington alone, there are 117,000 federal employes. This is more than at any other time—even at the peak of the World War.

Adventure Is Coming In The American Boy

Readers who like adventure and the lure of far places will find plenty to please them in coming issues of THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine. They'll read, for instance, of seamen and sabotage and San Francisco water-front trouble; of daring adventure in the world of pseudo-science, and of a feud aboard a plunging, rolling battleship.

They'll read, too, of excitement aboard a transport plane blaring over jungled Mexican mountains, and of stranger planes that are not bound to earth but swing through the noiselessness of space. Readers can follow a young ex-Mountie as he searches for clues in the wild northlands, and Tierney, the pie-eating detective, on the trail of city criminals.

A new feature in THE AMERICAN BOY is picture pages that tell stories. Pictures, for instance, that vividly show a day in the life of a coast guardsman, and how an Eskimo husky sled dog does his work. They transmit the thrill of battling a hundred pound, water-churning tarpon. Tips on how it's done are also given pictorially—ranging from how to run a broken field to how to be correct in a ballroom!

NOTE: Subscription prices of THE AMERICAN BOY will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect: one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00. Foreign subscriptions 50 cents a year extra. Send your name, address and remittance to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. On newsstands the price is 15 cents a copy.

Grapes are in full season, including native Concords and other slip-skin varieties and the California eating grapes such as Thompson seedless, Tokays, Malagas and Ribiers. Apples, cranberries and grapefruit are also helping replace the summer fruits.

Ducklings and lamb are the best buys in the meat line though pork is a little lower. Both beef and veal prices have risen. Eggs and butter are showing the usual fall increases in price but are still reasonable.

WORTH KNOWING

The editor of the Evening Star was deeply engrossed in his work when he was suddenly interrupted by the office boy, who remarked:

"There's a tramp at the door, Mr. Hyde, and he says he ain't had nothin' to eat for six days."

"Fetch him in," said the editor. "If we can find out how he does it, we can run the paper for another week."

AT THE MOVIES

"Dead End Kids" "Helped" Wyler Direct Picture

There were seven directors on the set of Samuel Goldwyn's "Dead End," which brings Sylvia Sidney and Joel McCrea to the Palace Theatre on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, October 2, 3 and 4.

One was William Wyler, and as directors go he's more than good. He's the man who made "Dodsworth" and "These Three."

Mr. Wyler's associate directors were young fellows. The oldest, Leo Gorcey, is 15. Billy Halop and Huntz Hall are 14. Bobby Jordan, Gabriel Dell and Bernard Punsley are 13. They never saw a film studio before, but that didn't matter. Weren't they in the New York production of the Sidney Kingsley stage play? Weren't they born in New York?

When Mr. Goldwyn brought the boys to Hollywood, he expected them to act, not direct. The direction part was their own idea.

The dialogue in Lillian Hellman's script is a good deal different from Mr. Kingsley's. The boys didn't understand that you can say things on the stage that you can't say on the screen. Whenever they got a chance they'd put back some of Mr. Kingsley's lines.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Infantile Paralysis

While the term infantile paralysis is really not a correct name for the disease, still the term emphasizes the point that it is found chiefly in children and that paralysis frequently takes place. We can say that at least 80 per cent of the cases occur in children under 10 years of age but that the disease also does occur in the adolescent stage and in adults. Poliomyelitis is an acute infectious disease which attacks chiefly the brain or spinal cord, often leaving some group of muscles weakened or paralyzed. Usually during the acute stage the weakened or paralyzed muscles become sensitive so that a child may cry or resist being moved. During this period it is necessary that the child be kept perfectly quiet and flat in bed because rubbing or massaging the sore muscles usually prolongs the condition and no beneficial results can be obtained by attempting to hurry recovery.

Studies have shown that this is not a disease in which the patient can improve who is untreated or has been imperfectly treated. Patients who refuse or are unable to obtain proper treatment usually show a slight improvement at first but later the partially paralyzed muscles may become totally paralyzed and deformities may appear at the joints. On the other hand, in those cases where careful medical supervision is given, there is no limit to the benefits derived and many muscles that appear hopelessly paralyzed develop strength and power, often allowing the patient to avoid operative measures. We cannot stress the importance of this any too vigorously as some definite improvement in the return of muscle function can be promised the patient who receives intelligent after care.

The District Health Department is fortunate in having had only one resident case of infantile paralysis or poliomyelitis this year. Indications are that we will not have an epidemic in this area this year.

READ THE COURIER

Every line of type in the Charlevoix Courier is news—of interest to somebody in this community. The local news field is well covered. Society and personal news notes are stories by themselves. Everything of interest to the people of Charlevoix and the county is covered.

You can get a lot of reading when you read the Courier. Not a line of reading material is placed there just to fill space. It is placed there because it is of interest to somebody in this community.

READ THE ADVERTISING

Merchants of Charlevoix advertise in the Courier to tell you, the readers, of their offerings in merchandise. Sometimes they offer you some special bargain prices. Sometimes they just tell you in plain English what they have, so that you may know, before coming to the stores, what to expect there. The advertisements are inserted in the newspaper for you to read.

Intelligent buying on your part demands that you read these advertisements. You will be better equipped with more knowledge of merchandise, and the experience of the store sales people who serve you will be more pleasant if you indicate a knowledge of the merchandise, as gained from the advertisement. You can save money by "reading before buying."

EMILY'S LIZARD

By R. H. WILKINSON

© Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

MRS. EMILY METCALF is a gushy sort of person.

She also coos very well.

Last month I met her on Tremont street.

I say "met." Perhaps I should say "ambushed."

Having observed her when some distance away I shamelessly stepped into a doorway to avoid meeting her.

Unfortunately the door was locked, and whereas I suddenly became intensely interested in the vague printing on its soiled glass, I was trapped.

Mrs. Metcalf espied me.

I should have known better than to attempt escaping her.

"How do you do! My dear, it's ages—ages since I've seen you. You've grown thinner? I do think you have. And younger looking. Much. . . . Such a becoming tie! . . . Now, if I were a bit younger . . . But there, what would your wife say if she heard me talking like this . . ."

That's how she is.

Always trying to say the right thing; nearly always failing.

She's one of those persons who excite your wonder.

You wonder if she's serious, you wonder if about everything she says isn't superficial.

She pretends to be well read, to have broad intelligence about any matter that might be under discussion.

She has social aspirations.

She caters to people who have family backing, wealth or social prominence.

* * *

Three days after my chance meeting with Mrs. Metcalf I met her again, at a party held by some mutual friends.

The party was given in honor of one Miguel Rosalia de Villareal. Miguel, I learned, was a descendant of Spanish nobility, a cousin of a one-time president of Mexico, a son of a wealthy Mexican rancher.

In fact, Miguel was quite a guy. He was tall and dark and slender and intelligent looking. . .

It wasn't surprising to find, upon being introduced to Miguel, that Mrs. Emily Metcalf had already had that honor and that she had claimed him for the evening. (Mrs. Metcalf, it must be explained, is a widow of five years standing.)

But it was genuinely surprising when toward the end of the evening I discovered that Miguel had not succeeded in ridding himself of the gushy Emily.

In fact, he seemed quite attentive to her, quite pleased with her company.

This was puzzling, as the Mex looked to me like a pretty bright chap.

* * *

Miguel remained in Newton for a period of two months. And during that time he was a frequent caller at the home of Mrs. Emily Metcalf. But never again did he appear with her in public.

For a time the thing was a mystery, for Miguel was honored during his brief visit to our city at dozens of public functions, and still more private affairs.

Yet, somehow, Mrs. Metcalf was never included in the private affairs and seemed unaware of the public events until after they were over.

The mystery remained a mystery until the very day of Miguel's departure. And then it was explained only to my satisfaction.

However, I will set down here the happenings as they occurred up to the date of Miguel's departure.

On the day following that first party at which Mrs. Metcalf had been presented to the descendant of Spanish nobility, Miguel was seen to approach the door of Mrs. Metcalf's home. He was admitted by the lady herself.

Five minutes later he departed.

* * *

Ten minutes after that, Mrs. Metcalf scurried across the street to Mrs. Hodgson's house, her face fairly beaming with excitement.

"Whatever do you suppose has happened? Imagine!"

Mrs. Hodgson compressed her lips. "I can't guess. What?"

"Miguel, the dear boy, has given me a present!"

"A present? What kind of a present?"

"A lizard!"

Mrs. Hodgson blinked her eyes.

"A lizard!"

Emily nodded.

"Isn't it just too thrilling? He says it's a very rare lizard which he brought up from Mexico. He says if I take good care of it, it will do strange things."

Two days later Miguel again called on Mrs. Metcalf, and after his departure the widow flew across the street to Mrs. Hodgson's.

"Imagine what has happened! Just imagine!"

"I can't," said Mrs. Hodgson. "What?"

"It's the lizard. He's twice as big as he was yesterday. Think of it! Twice as big in a day's time!"

Mrs. Hodgson was as perplexed as the rest of us about this lizard business, but she reported faithfully all that happened.

Miguel called on Mrs. Metcalf on an average of once every two days.

Twice she saw him approach the house after dark when Mrs. Metcalf was away, hence we were reasonably sure that none of his visits were prearranged.

* * *

And each day Mrs. Metcalf came

JAMES COUZENS WEEK IN MICHIGAN PLANNED

Period of October 17-23 Designated In Honor of His Work

The week of October 17-23 has been set aside as James Couzens Memorial Week, when the work of the late United States Senator from Michigan will be honored throughout the state. A committee composed of prominent educators and civic leaders assembled at Lansing, instituted the movement, selecting Congressman Albert J. Engle, of Lake City, as chairman, and Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, as secretary.

The committee's aim is to make the organization permanent. The committee will be enlarged and the scope of the work extended considerably, Dr. Elliott announced. Special programs for the schools are being arranged.

"James Couzens rendered an untold amount of service to the children of Michigan and our aim is to honor his memory during this week," Dr. Elliott declared.

Other members of the committee are: William J. Norton, of Detroit, chairman of the Children's Fund of Michigan, a Couzens sponsored organization; Frank Cody, superintendent of Detroit schools; Dr. C. C. Stemons, state health commissioner; Webster H. Pearce, president of Northern State Teachers' College, Marquette; and John A. Crawford, of Traverse City.

Although there are around 12,000,000 less unemployed than in 1933, federal relief expenses are more today than they were then. In 1933 the relief bill was $1,276,795,622 while in the fiscal year 1936-37 it was more than $2,000,000,000. —Public Service Magazine.

FARMERS ENDORSE NEW POTATO CONTROL PLAN

Charlevoix County Farmers Vote to Reduction 35 to 1, Reported

Michigan farmers have endorsed a proposed 1938 federal potato crop limitation by a vote of 2,939 to 641, nearly complete records at the state agricultural conservation committee offices show.

Maurice Doan, the committee chairman, said the total included results from all except nine of the state's counties, in which balloting was conducted last week.

The heaviest vote was recorded in Menominee county, where farmers favored a potato crop quota by a 251-to-49 vote. Five light-voting counties, including St. Clair, Schoolcraft and Ingham, cast no opposing votes.

Doan said that if the proposal carried in a majority of the northern states, the federal government would set next year's potato acreage at between five and eight per cent less than a recent several-year average.

Results of balloting in other heavy producing potato counties are listed below, with favorable votes first.

Alcona, 21 to 1; Alpena, 79 to 3; Antrim, 90 to 17; Charlevoix, 35 to 1; Cheboygan, 118 to 3; Emmet, 117 to 23; Grand Traverse, 76 to 1; Kalkaska, 72 to 3; Lapeer, 38 to 18.

Mackinac, 28 to 1; Manistee, 39 to 2; Missaukee, 81 to 9; Montcalm, 109 to 54; Montmorency, 23 to 1; Oakland, 13 to 7; Ogemaw, 40 to 1; Otsego, 120 to 15; Presque Isle, 170 to 14; Wexford, 58 to 11.

SAVE CHILDREN'S EYES

"Blindness may be just as effectively prevented as smallpox," says Lewis H. Carris, managing director of the Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

When your child begins school have his eyes examined. By observing all of the rules for conserving sight it may be possible to strengthen poor eyesight so that when a child is grown he may have no necessity for glasses. Science and education working together can decrease blindness.

WILL YOU DO YOUR SHARE?

J. Edgar Hoover, chief G-man, is beginning a new war on crime which is to be taken into the citizen's camp, where every man and woman in the country will be asked to do his part in combating an ever growing horror.

Hoy can "you" help?

As a preliminary to the drive why not ask yourself a few questions.

Do you leave your precious possessions unguarded?

Do you set an example of moderation in your driving, in your living?

Do you talk or print crime so that morons become imbued with the crimea you describe?

Do you, a law abiding citizen, hold the law lightly, sneaking opportunities to "run a light," "double park," etc.?

How do you score yourself as a "decent" citizen of your community?

While this is being written several major crimes have been committed. And you who would be horrified to be classed a criminal may, however, be just that, for you may have contributed through your laxity or your influence to these crimes.

Begin now to do your share in making America as crime free as England.

AND THE WIFE ASKS "WHY"?

When Scotland Yard chooses new policewomen they are selected by their score on the following points: "Kindliness," "a sense of humor," "physical strength," "an observant eye," and "a mind which never tires asking 'why?'."

Excellent points these, but the order of their listing is not in the order of their manifestation.

* * *

Let us see how the qualities evidence themselves in a domestic situation—Husband comes home from a church social which wife was unable to attend. There is a filmy white substance on the lapel of his coat. With her "observant eye" the wife spots same immediately. Then with "a mind which never tires of asking 'why?'" she questions. He explains that he went into the church kitchen to talk with the minister's wife, and found her powdering doughnuts, the powder sifting through the air naturally settled upon him—or he says. But no matter his story, her "sense of humor" now comes into the situation. If she has any she will say to herself, "the big calf has got himself in a mess, talked some of his smooth talk until that little fool of an organist threw herself on his neck."

Then her "physical strength" displays itself—the amount used determined by her instanct of "kindliness." So we see all of the attributes as they come to the front in an "emergency."

But we believe that our order of listing would give a more accurate check. "Operator, Scotland Yard at once!"

TIME TO LIVE

You are alive. You arose this morning, you washed, dressed, ate and drank. It is safe to say you enjoyed the process.

Yes, you enjoy life, but how much? Some ow you who read these lines may be the ones to headline future fatalities, all because you did not realize how much you enjoyed to live. You did not set aside time to keep on living.

For it takes time to live. It takes no time to die, but it takes time to keep on living. It may take an extra hour a day to assure yourself of life. This extra hour, provided for by early rising, retiring, or careful planning, will take you through the day without the risk of speeding, cutting corners and needless rush. This extra hour may provide you with a longer life. It may provide you with Time To Live.

FALL TO INCREASE TOURISTS

Coming weeks will see an increase in traffic on Michigan's state highways as thousands of travelers enjoy her famous scenery. Michigan is gaining a wide reputation for its varied scenery at each season of the year, but no time of year holds more allure than autumn.

Autumn, with tiers upon tiers of multicolored tree tops, rolling hills, and lake tempered climate can give any traveler a trip bathed in beauty.

We wonder why many of our own Wolverines stay close at home while out-of-state folks pour in? With such beauty near at hand can it be we lack the proper appreciation?

Why not journey out some weekend and discover what we have in Michigan.

WARNING REPEATED

There are so many causes for accidents in the home that we are apt to overlook some of them. So we remind you again to watch the extension cords on all lamps or other electrical fixtures. When the corda bend too easily or the outside covering is frayed it is almost a sure sign they should be replaced. Negligence may cause a severe and burning shock as well as firea.

To be eligible to receive unemployment insurance benefits a worker must, in addition to having been employed in a subject occupation, have a Social Security account number. Such numbers are used for identification purposes so that wages received by the worker can be properly credited to his account by the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission.

After 1942 an employer in Michigan who has had comparatively stable employment in his organization may obtain a reduction in his contribution rate. The state Unemployment Compensation Commission may fix the rate according to each employer's employment record. The rate may be as low as one per cent or as high as four per cent of the employer's payroll.

All of the money collected by the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission is to be used exclusively for payment of benefits to workers who become unemployed through no fault of their own. All items of expense for administering the act are paid by the federal government.

The whole problem of relief is enough jobs for those who can work; then feed those who cannot work, and drown those (if any) who can but will not work.

JOB COMMISSION FORMS MAILED TO EMPLOYERS

Liability and Contribution Report Deadlines October 15 and 31

Liability and contribution report forms covering payrolls for the first nine months of 1937 were mailed today by the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission to 35,000 employers throughout the state.

The liability report form (UC-9) must be filled out in detail and returned to the commission's offices in the Fox Building, Detroit, by October 15.

The contribution report form (UC-10) must be returned to the commission by October 31 with the employer's two per cent contribution on all wages paid for subject employment during the first nine months of 1937.

When unemployment compensation benefits become payable, probably on July 1, 1938, the payments will amount to approximately one-half the average weekly pay of the unemployed worker, but not more than $16 a week for not more than 16 weeks in any one year.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO BUY STATE APPLES

Agree to Supply Outlet for Portion of Big Bumper Crop

Agricultural Commissioner John B. Strange has received word from Washington that the surplus commodities corporation will help Michigan farmers dispose of their bumper 1937 apple crop.

The corporation, according to Strange, will buy a large quantity of Michigan fruit, but the exact amount will depend upon "ability to distribute without waste or loss."

In a recent communication to Washington it was suggested that 100,000 bushels be purchased.

It was planned to establish a purchasing and distribution depot either in Grand Rapids or Lansing.

K. OF P. SOFTBALL TEAM WINNER AT COUNTY FAIR

Took Three Straight Victories to Win Charlevoix-Antrim Championship

The K. of P. team of the Charlevoix Softball League walked off with the Charlevoix-Antrim county championship series at the county fair at East Jordan.

Junior Supernaw hurled his team to a 5 to 4 victory over Manceiona on Thursday. Friday's double-header resulted in a 11 to 3 win over Bellaire, and a 9 to 2 victory over East Jordan. Charles Carey was on the mound for the Bellaire tilt, and "Chick" Gallagher hurled for the East Jordan contest.

HUNTERS REQUIRED TO REPORT KILL THIS YEAR

Forms Attached to License Are Not Meant for Report of Prior Year

Hunters should not use the blank form attached to their new hunting license for the purpose of reporting last season's kill, the Department of Conservation announced today.

The amended game laws say that the form must be used to report all game killed during the coming season by the licensee and that the report be made to Lansing before February 15.

Several hunters already have used their report forms to itemize game bagged last fall. It is the report of this season's kill rather than last season's that is required.

MIDDLE AISLE DRIVERS

Many times in this column we have discussed various phases of automobile driving which, to us, are the cause of serious accidents on the highways. One we somehuw have overlooked is the driver on a three or fuur lane highway who insists on pointing his radiator cap down the black line between the second and third or the third and fourth of these lanes. An appallingly large number of accidents are the result of head-on collisions, more often than not caused by some driver attempting to pass one of these middle aisle drivers.

The other night we were returning home when we attempted to pass one such driver. The traffic was heavy from the opposite direction and it was some number of miles before we were able to go around this car without crossing the middle line of the highway. Certainly this is an unnecessary practice on the part of any driver. Many people we know would never have waited until he finally drew over to his own side of the road before they would have sped past him even to taking the chance of hitting an oncoming car. There is great truth in the statement that the toocautious driver may be as great, if not a greater menace on the highway than the speed demon.

HOME OWNING

We heard a man say the other night that he didn't "believe" in owning a home, or real estate. "First think you knuw," said he, "you aro sunk with a white elephant."

What a sorry slate of affairs the world would be in if every man felt as he does! Countries and governments are founded upon the pride people take in "belonging" to communities, the pride which makes citizens share in making better cultural and living conditions for the community. If they could pick up and be gone the next minute their interest would be of little value. A man's interest in his town is as deep as the roots of the tree which grows in his own back yard.

When a man bargnins to huy a home he assumes a major obligation. But responsibilities courngeously assumed bring rewards doubled by the sacrifice made to attain them. And the reward of home owning is security from any storm or wind that blows, the right to do what you will with one little corner nf God's earth —and the happiness of sharing that pleasure and those sacrifices with others in your own family circle.

THE CORN GROWS HIGH

The tall corn is so tall this year that little piggies are going to be well fed. And when little piggies are well fed the price of pork is sure to drop. This is encouraging to town and city folks. But Secretary Wallace reminds us "that it takes even the best farmers several months to convert corn into pork chops and beef steaks."

So, although the price of pork dropped a very little in August, the tall corn crop isn't generally appreciated as yet when ye housewife goes a-marketing. Secretary Wallace says too, that the city man must remember that fair prices for farm products are the best guarantees of continuing city prosperity.

Yes—we will remember that, Mr. Wallace. But wo will also remember that high cost of government and Mr. Profiteer are two worms which can eat a long way into an abundant harvest.

We would that these two pests could be kept out of the horn of plenty this fall.

FAVORS OF AUTUMN

The spicy odors of ketchup and chili sauce drift through kitchen doors to put an edge to appetites that wore jaded in the long summer heat. The rows of pickled peaches, canned tomatoes, spiced crab apples, grape and apple jellies add their charm to the shelves of winter supplies.

The pastel colors of summer have given place to the rich and vivid shades of autumn. The dainty garden flowers, daisies, phlox and scabiosa have new rivals for our affection when we see the beauty of bright zinnias, perfect and colorful dahlias and gorgeous red-orange tithonias.

The beach picnics are a summer memory and the outdoor roasts take their bow, with the delicious odor of steaks cooked over charcoal. Indours the grate fires offer the cheeriest background for a pleasant evening of conversation. Getting back to work, back to school, harvesting crops, renewing all tasks with a fresh viewpoint.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

New Peak Reached By August Gas Tax

August gross gasoline tax collections by the Department of State for gas sold during July were the highest for any one month in the history of the tax, Leon D. Case, secretary of state, has announced. The figure was $3,096,480, topping the July collection total of $2,868,499.

The increase in collections is being watched with interest by state officials directly concerned with budget balancing as the 1937 Legislature provided a $5,000,000 a year maximum appropriation to the State Highway Department, to match federal aid grants. The new law provides that the state will provide, up to $5,000,000 annually, nny sum by which gasoline collections fall short of $32,000,000 a year. Thus, as gasoline tax collections increase, the amount payable to the highway department from the state's general fund, diminishes.

The state's gasoline tax of three cents n gallon is devoted exclusively to highway purposes; a large portion of it is returned directiy to local governments.

LANSING LETTER

During the early depression years, the burden of caring for jobless families became too heavy for local governments. First the state intervened; then the federal government.

Direct relief has been a centralized responsibility of the state, and the results prompted the Legislature to seek a reform whereby the money would be administered locally through a county welfare commission but under definite rules and regulations as made by the State Welfare Commission.

Except in counties where a municipality comprises 50 per cent or more of the county's population, the welfare personnel shall consist of three members, two of whom are to be appointed by the county board of supervisors and a third member to be appointed by the State Commission of Public Assistance.

Where a municipality is a main factor, the city shall appoint one member, the county board shall pick one, and the state commission one.

Supervisors Oppose Plan

The county supervisors through their state association opposed the welfare bills in the Legislature. In fact, the activity of Melville B. McPherson, of Lowell, as a spokesman for the supervisors, prompted Senator Ernest C. Brooks (D), of Holland, to introduce a bill which would have abolished the State Tax Commission, of which McPherson is the chairman.

In the welfare bills which passed, party lines being somewhat divided, is a proviso that referendum petitions must bear signatures of at least five per cent of the total vote for governor (this being 1,749,769) and that they must be filed with the secretary of state within 90 days after adjournment.

October 29 is the deadline. It is the opinion of Senator Brooks that filing of the petitions would automatically suspend the state welfare machinery. Attorney General Raymond Starr may be asked to settle the legal question, one which has an important bearing on a second special session this Fall.

$5,650,000 Power Loans

Armed with $5,650,000 in federal loans, the Rural Electric Administration at Washington—REA in the New Deal alphabet—is sponsoring a vast program in Michigan.

Over 2,305 miles of power lines, now being stretched, will go electricity to 10,000 Michigan farms. Such, at least, is the publicized objective.

How the experiment will work out is a subject of heated discussion. The arguments evolve around (1) private utilities have "gobbled up" the "choice" rural areas where extensions of power lines can be made to pay out; and (2) electric rates—can and will they be reduced?

Legalize Gambling?

While the Liquor Control Commission has routed the slot machine operators and Attorney General Raymond Starr continues to demand cleanups in metropolitan areas, the Legislature's special investigating committee is doing all it can to popularize the idea of legalized gambling.

In fact, the main purpose of the three-man committee, comprising Representatives Carl DeLano, John Hamilton, and Chester Fitzgerald, was "let out of the bag" the other day. Representative Hamilton said that futile efforts to suppress gambling justified only one conclusion—regulate it through state licenses.

According to the committee, the question is not a moral one . . . it is economic.

Investigations "Dead"

The gambling probe of the House committee ran into serious legal trouble when Attorney General Raymond Starr, in one of the most important opinions rendered in years, declared that legislative committees were without legal authority to contract obligations after final adjournment of the Legislature.

Among a batch of $170 vouchers held by Budget Director Harold D. Smith was an item for $20.18 for "four chrome plated badges." The badges said: "House of Representatives—Investigator."

The question of the legislative committee status had never been ruled on by any previous attorney general.

Speaker George Schroeder said the Legislature "certainly will appeal to the court." Representative Hamilton of the gambling committee retorted: "That's only one lawyer's opinion."

Keweenaw Peninsula

We hesitate almost about proclaiming the scenic grandeur of the Keweenaw Peninsula, that "hitchriding" finger of the Upper Peninsula which wags into Lake Superior.

As guests of a group of Upper Peninsular newspaper publishers, the Michigan Press Association's executive committee recently enjoyed a sightseeing tour through this Copper Range area. From Houghton to Fort Wilkins State Park at the very tip, this little peninsula is one continuous forest of pines, spruce and hardwoods amid a setting of picturesque small mountains. The highway is perfect; overnight cabins, restaurant, and even a nine-hole golf course are available at Copper Harbor; and the lake shore vistas are truly impressive.

The Brockway drive at Copper Harbor is without a peer in the Middle-West.

It is a region unspoiled by commercial billboards that blemish the landscape. We advise you to visit the Keweenaw Peninsula before it "grows up" with blaring roadside signs, filling stations and taverns.

Billboard Regulation

Along the scenic shore drive No. 2 west from St. Ignace, which is a favorite route for tourists into the Upper Peninsula, commercial interests have already made advances to lease choice sites far advertising signs.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, commissioner of the State Highway Department, recently registered a protest with several firms. There is an increased likelihood that this important agency of state government will use its influence to obtain passage of billboard regulations at a future session of the Legislature.

Michigan, a leading resort state, faces competition from rival vacation states.

Massachusetts, Indiana, Maryland, and some Canadian provinces have enacted effective regulation on highway routes. If it is a good investment to spend public money on trees, shrubs, and picnic tables, it seems to be good common sense to protect these investments that appeal to the tourist's eye.

Millions from Sneezes

That much of Michigan's popularity as a tourist vacation land is due to its Great Lakes' air-conditioning with a resultant freedom from hay fever is a conclusion that merits serious consideration. Michigan leads all states in tourist income.

O. C. Durham, Chicago scientist, made a survey of ragweed pollen in various parts of North America.

Upper Michigan is an ideal haven for hay fever sufferers during the months of August and September. Isle Royale lends with a rating of two points; Sault Ste. Marie, six; St. Ignace, 13; Petoskey, 13; Alpena, 21, and Frankfort, 63. In contrast with Indianapolis' 124 and Peoria's 113, the two towns highest on the allergic list, these North Michigan ratings are worth a good fortune.

Michigan's sandy soil makes ideal bathing beaches on its countless inland lakes and along the Great Lakes, Michigan and Huron. Yet this same sandy soil is inhospitable to the lowly ragweed. The combination is nearly perfect. Practically, it brings millions of dollars to the state each year—all because of some worthless weeds!

"Better Than Average"

Whereas business in Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska has been below the national average, Michigan enjoys the distinction along with such states as Indiana, Ohio, Oklahoma and those in the Southwest and Pacific slope of having economic conditions "better than national average."

The authority is the Federal Reserve Board as reflected in check payments in 271 cities.

Considering the fact that no bonus money was injected into 1937 trade, Michigan's prosperity is significant. Industrial wages are higher; crops are generally above average, and the tourist yield was the best in years.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Unreality" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 3.

The Golden Text, from Jeremiah 2:5, is: "Thus saith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me, and have walked after vanity, and are become vain?"

Among the Bible citations is this passage (John 1: 1, 3): "In the beginning was the Word, the Word was with God, and the Word was God. All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 525): "Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is valueless or baneful, He did not make,—hence its unreality."

We would have real cause to shudder if everything the CIO and the A. F. of L. said about each other were true.

EMILY'S LIZARD

across the street to report the tremendous strides in the growth of her lizard.

Twice Mrs. Hodgson went over to look at the strange beast.

On the last occasion she fled in mortal terror. For the lizard had grown, in two weeks' time, into a full-sized crocodile, and was chained up in a pen in Mrs. Metcalf's cellar.

Mrs. Metcalf's delight was something to wonder at.

"And to think," she'd say, "only two weeks ago he was a little bit of a fellow that you could hold in the palm of your hand."

It was all very puzzling.

We didn't know whether the woman had gone insane or not.

But facts were facts. There was a lizard. Mrs. Hodgson had seen it. And Miguel didn't deny that he was the donor. But, on the other hand, lizards don't grow into man-eating crocodiles in two weeks' time.

We agreed it was a very rare species.

Suddenly a change came over Mrs. Metcalf.

For more than a week Mrs. Hodgson saw nothing of her, although Miguel was seen making his usual calls at the house.

After two more days had passed, Mrs. Hodgson decided to run over and see if things were all right. It was, I am inclined to believe, curiosity as much as concern, that prompted the act.

Mrs. Hodgson found Emily in a state of utter despair. There were deep rings under her eyes, a haggard look about her face. Questioned, she replied it was the lizard. Mrs. Hodgson was aghast.

"The lizard? What's happened to the lizard?"

"He's growing smaller. Every day he reduces in size, quite as fast as he increased."

* * *

Mrs. Hodgson became alarmed. She wondered whether or not it were best to summon a doctor.

But upon being shown the lizard she was forced to agree that its size had shrunk. It was no longer a crocodile. In fact, it was nothing more than a fair-sized lizard.

Thereafter Mrs. Hodgson made daily trips across the street. And each day she reported that the lizard was growing smaller and smaller.

It was truly a remarkable thing.

It was alarming, too, because with each passing day Emily became more haggard looking. She had lost her gushy and cooing ways. She grew morose and taciturn.

And then, one day Mrs. Hodgson came over and discovered Emily on the floor in a dead faint. Quite concerned with the widow's plight, Mrs. Hodgson did what she could and at last revived the victim.

Immediately upon regaining consciousness, Emily burst into a fit of weeping.

After considerable questioning she announced that the lizard had become so small as to be scarcely discernible, and then had vanished altogether. She admitted, also, that Miguel was angry and had said he would not come to see her any more.

* * *

Miguel remained in town two weeks longer. He had become tremendously popular and was discovered to be quite a fun-loving and social sort of person.

On the last day of his stay I dropped in at his apartment to say farewell and was surprised to find the place filled with a number of boxes in sizes varying from one an inch square to another ten feet high. Miguel was industriously pounding slats over the top of the largest.

He grinned at me and winked.

"I've been so darned busy it's just now I've found time to send these things back."

"What things?" I asked.

He beckoned to me and I looked in one of the boxes. At sight of a great crocodile reposing inside I drew away in some alarm.

Miguel and I stared at each other for some time. Finally he said: "Down in Mexico we go to great extents to have our fun."

He grinned, and I extended my hand. "Friend," I said, "come visit us again."

Jiu-Jitsu Rough Sport

The Jiu-Jitsu bout of Japan is the roughest two-man sport. All kinds of fouls are permitted and broken necks and ankles, dislocated hips and shoulders and torn tendons are not uncommon. When a combatant is in a painful grip and about to receive a disabling injury, he is supposed to give in and end the round. Rather than face this humiliation, however, he sometimes allows himself to be punished to the point of insensibility.—Collier's Weekly.

A Well of Grease

For a number of years a freak oil well near Lamar, Okla., has produced grease at an average rate of 350 barrels daily. It is thought to be the only well of its kind in the world and has made its owner a fortune. The well is 3,170 feet deep. All other wells drilled in the neighborhood have turned out to be "dusters." When it reaches the surface the grease is a dark green, but turns to a brilliant golden yellow when struck by outside air.

Cause of Rain and Snow

All the rain and snow that falls is present in the atmosphere because the heat of the sun, plus the lower heat of the earth, causes water to evaporate and turn from its liquid form into water vapor. Anything which lowers the temperature cuts down this rate of evaporation. Thus in winter the moisture content of the air is generally less than in the summer as measured by the humidity.

PAY CONTRIBUTIONS ON TIME IS WARNING GIVEN

Employers Have Until October 31 to Remit for First Nine Months

Frank A. Picard, chairman of the state Unemployment Compensation Commission, today advised Michigan employers subject to the act that failure to pay their job insurance contributions on time may result in their having to pay a double tax on their 1937 payrolls.

Picard reminded employers that they have only 30 days left before they must pay the state commission a two per cent contribution on wages paid during the first nine months of 1937. That contribution is due October 31. Contributions thereafter will be due and payable monthly.

Things that are easy to do are seldom worth the effort.

WISE DEBTS

Many persons boast they have never been in debt. They are the kind of people who think of debts as a form of disgrace. Some times these people do well enough without contracting debts, but frequently they are the cautious kind who carefully acquire a little property or a few possessions, and that is all.

Indebtedness has helped many people to success. By assuming a debt they have pinned themselves to a goal. Without it the money would have slipped away anyway.

Debts are only disgraceful when they are contracted beyond the ability to pay. No man should obligate himself to the point where he loses security. There must be a margin of protection, so that in the event of sickness or reverses he is not immediately engulfed.

A Glimpse Behind the Scenes

An important phase of the behind-the-scenes activity in Michigan's giant automobile industry consists of the arrival of raw materials by rail and water from all quarters of the globe.

In the picture, great magnetic hoists, lifting nearly two tons of ingots at a time, are building a mountain of "pigs" beside the steamship dock. These are for use by Chevrolet's huge Saginaw Grey-Iron Foundry in turning out Chevrolet cylinder blocks.

DEER LICENSES WILL GO ON SALE EARLIER

Law Holding Sale to 20 Days Prior to Season Is Lifted

In contrast to the custom of past years, Michigan deer-hunting licenses may be purchased by resident or non-resident sportsmen as soon as they are placed on sale.

The law in the past seasons has permitted the sale of deer licenses only within the 20 days next preceding opening of the deer season. Under the law as amended by the 1937 Legislature, it is legal now to buy a deer license as soon as it is placed on sale.

RECORD ATTENDANCE IN STATE PARKS REPORTED

Labor Day Week-End Brought Great Throngs to Playgrounds

Attendance at Michigan state perks neared an all-time record today, the State Department of Conservation revealed.

Park visitors during the Labor Day week-end boosted the 1937 total attendance to 9,277,000, only 407,701 short of the state's peak figure of 9,634,701 in 1931, officials said.

Grand Haven, with 1,699,935 visitors, led all Michigan parks in attendance through September 11, the last date for which reports were made. Bay City was second with 1,532,638, and Holland third, with 1,282,500.

Visitors to Northern Michigan parks being kept open through the middle of next month for hay fever sufferers and to Wayne and Monroa county tracts, which will not be closed, are expected to increase substantially the 1937 attendance.

Michigan employers who contribute to the State Unemployment Compensation fund should keep an accurate record of all payments made, since the amount of such contribution payments, if made in time, mey be credited against the federal excise tax on payrolls. This permits Michigan employers to credit the amount of their Michigan contrihution up to 90 per cent of the amount of the excise tax imposed by Title IX of the Federal Social Security Act.

Agricultural labor and domestic services in a private home are among the few occupations excluded from provisions of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Act.

AGE PENSION COSTS ARE ON THE UPTURN

Number Receiving Aid in Michigan Greatly Increased Also

Old age pensioners in Michigan are receiving more aid today than they have been, records of the State Welfare Department show. The average check in July was $17.68, compared with $18.02 in August.

Number of pensioners is also increasing, according to James G. Bryant, director. The total of pensions last month was $869,115 compared with $744,045 the month before. Bryant said that indications are for a further advance in September.

DEER POPULATION OF MICHIGAN IS HIGHER

CCC Drives in Various Areas Point to Considerable Increase

Michigan's deer population has increased slightly this year, State Conservation Department officials estimate, on the basis of drives CCC enrollees have made in designated areas.

H. D. Ruhl, of the game division, said preliminary surveys indicated the 1936 total of approximately 877,000 deer would be boosted this fall because of mild weather last winter. Between 30 and 50 were noted each square mile in the Crawford game refuge, in which a census was conducted recently.

CHARLEVOIX WINS OPENING CONTEST

DEFEATED GAYLORD 26 TO 7 LAST SATURDAY

Gallaghar and Carey Laading Ground Gainers — Maet Boyne City, Defending Champs, Hara Saturday

Opening the 1937 football season at Gaylord last Saturday, Charlevoix's Red Rayders scored an impressive 26 to 7 victory over the Otsego county Class C outfit to join other undefeated teams in the race for Tip of Mlchigan conference honors. Charlevoix defeated Gaylord 20 to 0 to open the 1936 season.

In vlew of the scarcity of veterans and lack of experience, Charlevoix's performance Saturday was gratifying. The team appeared well balanced, strong on defense and possessed sufficient line strength to pave the way for power plays. In fact, Charlevoix gained most of its ground through the line.

The Rayders tallied touchdowns in all but the second period, scoring one in the first and third quarters and two in the fourth. The first touchdown came mid-way in the initial period when Gallagher, quarterback, romped 35 yurds over the goal after catching a Gaylord punt which was short against the wind. Carey missed a place-kick for the extra point.

Gaylord went into the lead before the period closed. Return of Charlevoix's kick-off had the ear-murks of a touchdown had not the Gaylord player stumbled in an open field on Charlevoix's 45-yard line, from which point a series of end runs and line plays provided a touchdown. A line plunge netted the extra point and Gaylord led 7 to 6.

The second period was scoreless, ending with Charlevoix on the Gaylord live-yard strip.

The Rayders lost no time in scoring in the second half. Taking Gaylord's kick-off, they alternated end runs and line plunges to cross the goal, Gallagher going over for the second time. The try for extru point failed and the score stood 12 to 7 for the balance of the period.

A "break" provided the third touchdown early in the lInal period. Gallagher dropped on Olach's short kick-off, giving Charlevoix the ball on Gnylord's 45-yard line. Carey nnd Gallagher plunged the remaining distance with Carey going over. Gallagher missed a plnce-kick for extra point and Charlevoix led 18 to 7.

The final touchdown followed shortly. Recovering a Gaylord fumble on the loser's 30-yard line, Charlevoix passed for the marker on the next play. A forward to Nowland and luteral to Gallagher prnvided the combination. Carey made the extra point for Charlevoix's 26 to 7 advantage.

Charlevoix's line-up Suturday follows: McCafferty, le; Olach, lt; Bob Pearl, lg; Bedford, c; House, rg; Driggett, rt; Bert Pearl, re; Gallagher (Capt.), q; Withers, lh; R. Nowland, rh; K. Carey, f.

The Rayders will make their first home appearance next Saturday against Boyne City's veteran outfit at south side athletic field. The contest, with Boyne defending the conference championship won last year, will provide a real test of Charlevoix's strength.

SPORTSMEN'S CLUB TO INTRODUCE NEW TYPE STEELHEAD TROUT HERE

Through the efforts of the Charlevoix Sportsmen's Club, a new species nf steelhead trout will be introduced in Lake Charlevnix next spring.

Early this summer the Club received a consignment of 50,000 Washington mountain steelhead spawn. Following hatching nt the Oden state hatchery, the fingerlings were divided, and half, totaling around 21,000, have been delivered here. They will be fed through the winter nnd released next spring or fall in the advanced stage.

The Washington steelhead, a gamer eater equal in fighting ability to those already abundant in Lake Charlevoix, should prove a valuable addition tn the fish stock of local waters.

STATE PARK ATTENDANCE IS THE HIGHEST SINCE 1933

Over 9,000,000 Tourists Ragistarad at 55 Parks During 1937 Saason

That Michlgan's tourist industry this year is comparable to that of the prosperity era of seven years ago, is indicated by state park attendances now being compiled.

The tntal numher of visitors to Michigan's 55 open state parks during the past summer has exceeded 9,000,000. This is the highest total since 1933.

Parks authorities expect that when attendance reports are received from the parks that have remained open throughout September, the attendance mark for 1937 may be boosted to near-record breaking proportions.

The highest totul number of visitors to Michigan's state parks was recorded in 1931 when 9,634,701 persons were tallied by parks authorities. In 1932 and in 1933 the attendance figures again exceeded the nine-million mark, but they began to decline in 1934.

Three of Michigan's state parks had in excess of a million visitors each this year, Grand Haven state park coming closer to the two-million mark. Bay City, Holland parks had total attendances of well over a million while Muskegon state park approaches the half-million mark.

HUNTING SEASON OPENS OCTOBER 15

ARMY OF 250,000 EXPECTED TO BE IN WOODS

Partridga, Pheasants, Rabbits Are Legal Game In Lowar Peninsula—Season Three Days Longar

Special details of conservation officers attached to district headquarters posts in the north are to be brought into Southern Michigan to give added protection to game during the upland hunting season which opens in the Lower Peninsula, Friday, October 15.

Conservation authorities have estimated that approximately 250,000 hunters will take the field on opening day and that this vast number of sportsmen will create serious shooting hazards. The department issued a request to all hunters to be particularly careful in the use of firearms.

Three af the most common violations on opening day, says H. R. Suyre, chief of law enforcement, involve the shooting of protected hen phensants, exceeding the bag limit on phensants, nnd dressing out game in the field.

The last-named violation, if the game happens to be pheasants, removes the sex identity and subjects the hunter to arrest by conservation officers. Sayre advises hunters to wait until they get home to pluck the feathers from their pheasants.

Beginning on Friday, October 15, the open seasons on small game in the Lower Peninsula, dates inclusive, are as follows:

Male pheasants — October 15 to October 31.

Ruffed grouse—October 15 to October 31.

Fox squirrels—October 15 to October 24.

Woodcock—October 15 to October 31.

Prairie chickens north of north line of Townline 16—October 15 to October 31.

Sharptailed grouse north of north line of Townline 16—October 15 to October 31.

Rabbits from October 15 to January 1 in the Lower Peninsula; October 1 to January 31 in the Upper Peninsula.

Townline 16 is described as the south boundaries of Mason, Lake, Osceola, Clare, Gladwin counties projected through Bay county to Saginaw Bay.

The open hunting season on ducks, geese and brant, coot, jacksnipe rails and gallinules which opens on October 9, continues to and including November 7 throughout the state.

GRANGERS TO CONVENE AT ALPENA

STATE CONVENTION IS SCHEDULED FOR OCTOBER 26 TO 28

Platform Is Being Drawn Up for Vote of Michigan Farmers—Four Points Outlined by Bramble

Definite recommendations for national and state legislation are expected to be made hy delegates to an annual meeting of the Michigan State Grange in Alpena, October 26 to 28.

C. H. Bramble, Lansing, master of the Grange, said the convention undoubtedly would take a stand regarding a balanced budget for Michigan, rural electrification, welfare legislation, a balanced tax program, and national farm agriculture programs. The state's proposed labor relations act will be discussed, Bramble said, hut it is uncertain if delegates will either endorse or condemn it.

"We recognize, of course, the right and duty of labor to organize," Bramble said, "hut we helieve that labor organizations should be obliged to incorporate and assume financial responsibility, as they don't now."

Bramble also indicated the convention's probable attitude on other controversial questions by saying the Grange favored:

1. A taxation program based upon ability to pay and a reasonable income tax to replace the sales tax, "which violates that principle."

2. A balanced state budget based on economy in government.

3. Regulation of REA activities to prevent a paralleling of existing lines.

4. A national soils conservation program, possibly including crop control; crop insurance; the "family-sized" farm; a program hy which the federal government would "stop price fluctuation hy absorbing and carrying over to lean years the surpluses."

"We are also insistent that the American market be secured and maintained for the American farmer for all the crops he can produce," Bramble said. "We are opposed to any reciprocal trade agreements unless they are approved by the Senate."

Action expressing the Grange's stand on legislation is scheduled for the closing session. Bramble will speak at the opening meeting, and L. J. Taber, Columbus, O., master of the National Grange, has been engaged for an address at a hanquet on October 28.

New Enrollment in County Will Be Concluded on October 6

The Charlevoix county welfare office has been notified that the new enrollment of young men for work in the CCC camps will be concluded on October 6. Young men wishing to enroll should call in person at the welfare office, here, any time before that date.

Applications are now being received from young men 17 to 23 years of age, inclusive, who are in need of employment. Young men must be out of school and in need of jobs. They do not need to be from families now on welfare relief.

Young men who have previously worked in the CCC camps and who have honorable discharge, may reenroll, if they have been away from camp six months or more.

NEW LEGISLATION FAVOR TROLLERS

WESTERMAN PREDICTS LAWS ON POPULAR SPORT

Conservation Official Sees Conflict Between Commercial and Hook and Line Sport Ramedied

Future legislation to regulate the increasingly popular sport-trolling for Great Lakes trout is predicted hy F. A. Westerman, of the State Conservation Department.

Westerman indicated that although the 1937 Michigan Legislature for the first time prohibited sportsmen from trolling or spearing lake trout during the closed season, other problems requiring disposition were arising. Chief of these is slight conflict between sportsmen and commercial fishers, he said.

Before the 1937 Legislature revised the game laws, no license was required for any sport-trolling or for boats used by sportsmen. Michigan residents need no license yet, but non-residents will be made to procure permits if Attorney General Raymond W. Starr rules the new law allows it.

The Legislature also provided that sport-trolling hoats for hire must operate under $10 annual licenses. Commercial fishermen have for long sought hoat permits, averaging between $25 and $30, hased on size and length.

The closed season on Great Lakes trout, which the Legislature advanced 10 days, will he effective hetween October 1 and 31 in Lakes Huron and Superior, and October 10 and November 10 in Lake Michigan.

Westerman said conservation officers assumed the closed season on lake trout applied to sportsmen as well as to commercial fishermen until arrest of a sportsman several years ago resulted in acquittal. Between then and this year no attempt was mude to prevent sport-trolling although the conservation department favored identical restrictions for both groups.

"We think it's wrong to let people take the trout when they go to the shoals to spawn," Westerman said. "Besides, we weren't certain all the trolling was done hy sportsmen."

Two other closed seasons will be in effect in the Great Lakes this fnll. White fish may not be taken legally in Lake Huron between November 1 and December 1; in Lakes Michigan and Erie between November 5 and December 10; and in Superior between November 1 and 26. Chubs will be protected between October 15 and November 20 in Lakes Huron, Michigan, and Superinr.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Infant Mortality's Downward Trend Effected by Medical Supervision and Public Health Endeavor

During the past 30 years a great deal has been accomplished in the saving of infant lives. If we look back to 1907 we find that in the statet of Michigan, out of every 1,000 babies born, approximately 122 lost their lives before they became one year of age; while in the year 1936 a little less than 51 babies out of every 1,000 born alive died before they reached one year of age. This would indicate there has been a reduction of 58 per cent within the last 30 years in this state, a record of which we are justly proud.

In this area the infant mortality rate for the five years preceding the formation of the District Health Department, namely 1925-1929, inclusive, was: 1925, 93.8; 1926, 76.4; 1927, 92.3; 1928, 96.0, and 1929, 91.3, which means that an average of 90 babies lost their lives out of every 1,000 babies born alive each year. During the last five years since the establishment of the Health Department, namely, 1932 to 1936, inclusive, the infant mortality rate was: 1932, 49.3; 1933, 50.8; 1934, 59.6; 1935, 57.1, and 1936, 57.6, which was an average of 54.8 per cent. This means that there is being an average of 35 more human lives saved than was previously accomplished before the organization of the Health Department in our counties. However, this rate seems to have remained quite stationary instead of progressing downward, which means that still further work must be done along this line.

The saving of infant lives depends upon prenatal, natal, postnatal, and maternal care with adequate medical supervision of the health of the baby, prevention of communicable disease and sound nutrition for both mother and child. The maintenance of the present low infant death rate and the further reduction in that rate will only be accomplished by continued effective medical care and public health endeavor.

Have you consulted your county nurse on the large variety of pamphlets she has in her office? You will find pamphlets on infant care in general, infant feeding, all the communicable diseases, booklets on food and nutrition, dental health and on almost any other phase of health you might be interested. If you are interested in forming a library of health pamphlets, call on your county nurse or your District Health Department at Charlevoix who will be glad to help you make your selection.

THE PROFIT MOTIVE

We wonder just what is meant when we hear people say "The profit motive must be eliminated."

In the long history of man every step upward has been made possible by profits, in one form or another. The first cave man, who by working just a little harder than his fellows, laying up a store of food for his family, was the pioneer of the profit system. Because he had an eye toward the future would it be sane to class him as a profiteer or dishonest capitalist?

Railroads, telephone and telegraph systems, water works, utilities—even public schools—we have because in the beginning profits of individuals went into the capital used to build them.

Profits are not confined entirely to large corporations, for even the money which a family saves over its annual income is profit money.

How, we ask, can it be "eliminated"?

WINNERS OF A. & P. NATIONAL CONTEST NAMED; SIX IN MICHIGAN SHARE

Miss May Newburn, of Chicago, and Mrs. B. Jarvis, of Detroit, each submitted the winning name, "Woman's Day," in the contest to name the new magazine for A. & P. Store distribution, it was announced today.

Among the 60 winners of consolation awards were: Mrs. Charles Broad, Detroit; Mrs. Celia Davis, Detroit; Mrs. W. J. Doucette, Flint; Mrs. L. H. Thompson, Dowagiac; R. D. Jenks, Jackson.

A total of 215,447 entries competed in the contest. Reuben H. Donnelley, Inc., sorted all entries alphabetically to facilitate the judging, which was done by the editors of the new magazine.

"Judging this contest was one of the most difficult jobs I ever undertook," said Haydie Yates, editor of Woman's Day, and one of the six judges. "The names submitted were nearly all excellent. Fully 95 per cent of them were names that made good sense for the type of magazine we had announced."

The first issue of Woman's Day appears in A. & P. Stores on October 7. Thereafter it will be published monthly, appearing always on the first Thursday of each month.

AT THE MOVIES

Dunne and Scott Star In Historical Film

The strife and courage that marked the birth of the American oil industry form a surging background for one of the most touching love stories of the screen in "High, Wide and Handsome," which comes Saturday and Sunday, October 9-10, to the Palace Theatre.

The romance of Irene Dunne, a spirited young carnival singer, and Randolph Scott, a steel-willed and inarticulate former of Pennsylvania, is motivated throughout by oil, which brings them together, almost smashes their love, and finally reunites them.

The entire story is interwoven with the music of Jerome Kern, composer of "Showboat," and is directed by the well-known Rouben Mamoulian. The cast includes such names as Raymond Walburn, Akim Tamiroff, Elizabeth Patterson, William Frawley, Ben Blue, Lucien Littlefield, Dorothy Lamour and Alan Hale.

The equality of women gets better than an even break in "My Dear Miss Aldrich," the amusing comedy which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer provides at the Palace Theatre for Monday and Tuesday, October 11-12.

With Edna May Oliver, Maureen O'Sullivan and Walter Pidgeon topping a first-rate cast, this picture ranks as one of the better laugh films of the age. It tells the story of a school teacher who inherits a newspaper. The managing editor, strong in the belief that no woman is fitted for work beyond the home, attempts to block her at every turn until, of course, he falls in love with her.

A recent proposal to have WPA labor clean and repair all the statues in the country might be confusing. Some of us might have difficulty telling which was the statue.

DAIRY

CONTENT OF MILK CERTAIN TO VARY

Many Factors in Butterfat Production.

By FRED M. HAIG, Associate Professor of Dairying, North Carolina State College.—WNU Service.

While dairymen ponder the cause of variation in the butterfat content of milk from the same breed of cows and between individual cows of the same breed, investigation shows there are at least ten different factors associated in this cause.

When we consider the single milkings of individual cows, the butterfat content varies from about 2 per cent to 10 per cent. The first of these factors is of course the influence of the individuality of a cow. Seldom do we find two cows, even of the same breed, whose milk contains the same amount of fat. Then there is the influence of the breed. When the average of several cows in the same breed is taken, there will usually be a fairly uniform difference between two breeds. The age of the cow also has effect. The milk is usually less rich in fat with each succeeding period of lactation. As each lactation period advances, however, the amount of fat increases as the stage of lactation becomes more advanced. This is especially apparent after the third month.

In addition to these four influences, we find the difference in time between milkings has some effect, and milking at regular intervals gets best results. The last milk drawn from the udder is richer than the first few streams and shows why a cow should be thoroughly stripped. A cow in good flesh will produce more milk and fat than a thin one. Dairy cows should not be allowed to get too fat, but they should be kept in good condition.

Records of Purebreds Well Worthy of Study

Purebred cows gave, on the average, 1,110 pounds more milk and 31 pounds more butterfat in a year than grade cows, according to a summary of the records of more than 30,000 cows in the New York state dairy herd improvement associations, reports Prof. W. T. Crandall of the New York State College of Agriculture. The study also showed that, on the average, cows make their best and most profitable production at from six to eight years of age. Forty-seven per cent of the cows in the associations were from two to four years of age and only 28 per cent from six to eight years of age. The replacement and depreciation in New York state herds could be reduced if more good heifers were raised and if diseases were better controlled, he says, for the good cows would remain longer in herds than they do nowadays.

Plan Ahead

"To be wise in time," says Professor Eckles, Minnesota specialist, "applies to cow owners as well as to the affairs of government. The farmer who waits until cold weather before planning what to feed during the winter, is not wise in time.

"Experienced dairy cattle feeders the world over have learned the foundation of a good dairy ration must be a succulent feed of some kind and a legume hay. To provide this foundation for successful feeding means either corn silage or roots for the succulent feed, and clover or alfalfa for hay.

"The farmer who neglects to provide in time for enough of these necessities will find himself next winter without a satisfactory ration, and must either be content with a small cream or milk check or be willing to go to the feed store and spend good money for feed to balance up his ration."—Exchange.

DAIRY FACTS

Milk absorbs odors quickly, therefore it should not be kept in the barn in open pails or cans.

• • •

The principle of correct feeding applies to all kinds of live stock, the same as to dairy cows.

• • •

If the separator is cold, a gallon of hot water run through it will warm it up to the proper separating temperature.

• • •

Most separators are adjusted at the factory to skim cream testing about 35 per cent butterfat, and this gives about the most satisfactory results.

• • •

Cream testing too high causes more waste by sticking to the separator bowl, buckets and cans; but may be better for special market conditions.

• • •

After calves have been fed whole milk for five or six weeks, they may be continued on calf meal gruel, gralo and hay.

• • •

Corn may be cut at various stages of maturity and ensiled under varying conditions, and in most cases satisfactory ensilage is obtained.

• • •

A good quality of silage can be made from slightly frozen material of good quality. Apparently slight freezing has very little detrimental effect on corn for silage.

House Trailers Now Total Over 8,000

For the first time in the history of motor vehicle registrations, statistics indicating the number of house trailers licensed in Michigan will be available for 1937. No distinct license application form was provided for this type of vehicle until this year.

According to the records in the office of Leon D. Case, secretary of state, there were 8,549 house trailers in Michigan registered for the first eight months of this year.

Although there can be no comparison with the number of house trailers registered for the corresponding period in 1936, the total combined registration of house and commercial registrations on September 1, 1936, was 107,863 as compared to registrations on September 1, 1937, amounting to 117,739, being an increase of 9,876.

House trailers are licensed at the regular 35 cents per hundredweight pasenger car rate. The total revenue this year from this source, up to September 1, is $45,274.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS By Ann Page

Seasonable fruits and vegetables in profusion fill the markets and, on most items, the price is very reasonable. Outstanding values will be found in apples, grapes and grapefruit, beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, mushrooms, lettuce, onions, peppers, potatoes and tomatoes.

First quality beef is prohibitive in price but lamb and pork loins are reasonable. Ducklings and turkeys also are good value. The housewife will get particularly good value if she buys eggs and cheese at this time for use in luncheon and dinner menus.

Seasonable foods make up the following menus.

PRICE CONSCIOUS

Old Prof. Facts and Figures has visited us again and these are some of his findings. It is costing us 20 per cent more to live in this year of 1937 than it did in 1935. This is the average rise of all commodities.

The rise in certain living costs has been felt by all of us, but we could not say just how great it was in many instances. Roger W. Babson says that pork chops are up 120 per cent since 1933, the average rise in all meats is 75 per cent, rents have risen 37 per cent since 1935 and all food prices 29 per cent, with clothing up since last fall 14 per cent.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

State Ram Truck Will Make Stop In County

Charlevoix county will be included in the itinerary of the state ram truck this month. This truck is sponsored by the extension department of the Michigan State College and by the several state breed associations. On the truck will be something like 30 head of purebred rams of all leading breeds generally found on Michigan farms. Each ram will be personally selected by representatives of the animal husbandry department and the breed associations. The prices will probably range from $25 up to $60. Also it will be possible to make a trade if any farmer has a good purebred which he desires to exchange for another.

The location of the demonstration has not been definitely selected but will be held on Wednesday afternoon, October 27. This will be a wonderful opportunity for anyone interested in sheep to see the kind of animals that should head up the flocks in the county.

AMERICA'S FINEST TASTING BEER

FRIENDLY ENEMIES

Joe plays bridge. I prefer hearts. Joe claims baseball is the world's most exciting game. I say hockey is. Joe's a political conservative. I'm a liberal. And so we get into plenty of arguments. But there's one point on which we always agree—the extra goodness of Goebel beer! Joe claims, of course, it's mellowing in the Cypress casks and thorough aging that gives this creamy brew its marvelous flavor. I claim it's the skill of Goebel's renowned brewmaster. But we never fight about it because we're both right about it . . . as you'll find when you drink a bottle.

CHARLES DICKEN CLUB MEETING HELD MONDAY

Mrs. A. L. Fochtman Hostess at Silver Anniversary Occasion

The home of Mrs. A. L. Fochtman, Dixon avenue, was the setting for the opening meeting of the Charles Dickens Club Monday.

The living room and dining room were festive with autumn flowers. Luncheon was enjoyed at charmingly appointed tables. In the soft light of silver candles and with a dainty silver favor at each cover, members were reminded that the club had reached its 25th anniversary. The crowning event of luncheon came when a lovely white cake, decorated in silver, was cut and served by the president, Mrs. Fochtman.

Other officers for the ensuing year include: Vice-president, Miss Minnie Payton; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Harry Ladd, and librarian, Mrs. Clinton Cooper.

The Club was honored by the presence of one of its former members, Mrs. Linda Campbell, of Jackson.

At the business session Club programs were distributed and to further carry out the silver motif, the books were attractiveiy bound in deckled siiver covers. After a perusal of the year books, members ali look forward to a most enjoyable and profitable year, and were brought to a further realization nf what a woman's club should be in a poem on one of the opening pages which read: "A place where kindly thought is cherished."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.
Sunday school, 12 o'clock.
Meets first Wednesday evening each month at 7:45 p. m.

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 10.

The Golden Text, from Romans 8:2, is: "The law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Romans 13:12): "The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 472): "All reality is in God and His creation, harmonious and eternal. That which He creates is good, and He makes all that is made."

POTATO POSTER CONTEST IS ANNOUNCED

Students of State High Schools Eligible for $400 in Prizes

Students in Michigan high schools are eligible to compete for $400 in prizes in the second annual poster contest sponsored by four district and a state potato show association. Winners are to be named in Detroit January 21 to 30 in the state quality potato show in Detroit's Convention Hall.

Four district shows first will display the high school posters, it is reported by H. C. Moore, member of the farm crops department at Michigan State College.

These district shows include the one at L'Anse October 19 to 21 for the Upper Peninsula. The Northern Michigan Potato and Apple Show is to be held at Petoskey November 3 to 5 for 32 northern counties in the Lower Peninsula. Nineteen southeastern counties will exhibit potatoes and posters at Lapeer November 9 to 11. The Southwestern Michigan Potato Show will be at Kalamazoo on the same dates for 17 counties.

Contest rules are similar to those used a year ago. Additional information can be obtained from district show associations or from the office of Professor H. C. Moore at Michigan State College, East Lansing.

Purpose of the shows and the poster contest is to call attention to the state's potato crop which this year totals 31 million bushels. In spite of quality, too many potatoes leave the state and too many spuds from other states are purchased by Michigan consumers, sponsors believe.

Last year 250 high school students completed posters. The winner was Walter Kreek, of Cass High school, Detroit. Other prizes went to students in Lansing, Muskegon, Eaton Rapids and Battle Creek.

Au Sable River, famous for trout fishing. Boasting a $60,000 theatre of ultra modern standards, Grayling has demonstrated its civic spirit by financing through private funds a large fish hatchery, now operated by the state. The Hartwick Pines Forest, a state park containing nearly 100 acres of virgin pines, was the gift of the widow of the late Major Edward Hartwick, military and lumber leader. The nearby national guard military reservation, situated on picturesque Margrethe Lake and fringed by hills, was the gift of a Grayling resident who made a fortune from lumber.

Grayling residents raised nearly 1,200 to send its American Legion drum and bugle corps to the national convention in New York City. Farmers include many Danes and Finns, a thrifty lot.

Next winter you will hear more about this spot in the pines country, for Grayling will hold a winter sports festival at a nearby park with special equipment for tobogganing, skiing and skating.

Gaylord at "Top"

The "Top of Michigan" is at Gaylord, so proud home-town boosters proclaim at this city of Otsego county.

Its high elevation prompted state officials to select the city as a site for a new tuberculosis sanitarium.

Millions of years ago when the ice glaciers receded from the northern part of North America, a belt of sandy dirt loam was left on the surface of the land from Traverse City on the west coast to Alpena and Harrisville on the east coast.

Like the Aroostook region in Northern Maine, this belt across Northern Michigan is ideal for the culture of potatoes. Gaylord is the self-appointed capital of Michigan spuds.

"Deep Sea Fishing"

One of the novel sports attractions offered by Michigan is "deep sea fishing."

The phrase is somewhat of a misnomer, but it does provide the thrills of ocean fishing to a limited degree and with all the hazards.

Traverse City promotes its Muskegon tour fishing on Grand Traverse Bay of Lake Michigan. There are numerous fishing camps, equipped with motor cabins, which cater to this highly specialized sport.

Petoskey and Charlevoix share honors from the popularity of cabin trolling for gamy steelhead trout, imported from Northwest Pacific lakes and now propagated in state hatcheries. The steelhead strikes best when the temperature is near freezing and when the west winds are howling over the lake.

Through the courtesy of Arthur Hinkley, editor of the Petoskey Evening News, we had the privilege of enjoying a three-pound steelhead landed by Art's wife on Lake Charlevoix. In flavor and texture, it excelled anything we tasted in Maine last year.

"One-Armed Bandits"

Taking a cue from Michigan, the Illinois liquor control commission has cleaned up several cities where the slot machine racket had infested drinking places to a point where merchants were complaining of unpaid bills.

One town of several thousand inhabitants had 80 of these "one-armed bandits."

Michigan's control commission wavered temporarily after promulgating its prohibition of the coin devices from state licensed establishments. The showdown came when the Michigan State Elks Association petitioned for exemption on the grounds that proceeds were used exclusively for charity.

The commission, led by Chairman Edward W. McFarland, rejected the plea, suggesting diplomatically that the matter be taken up with the State Legislature. The House gambling committee tried to create sentiment for licensed gambling until Attorney General Raymond Starr divested it of legal authority. The Elks' appeal adds another incentive to the movement which will likely come to a head in 1939.

Backfire on Saloon?

When the State Legislature revised the liquor act, permitting return of the saloon bar and opening the way to local sanction of liquor by the glass, legislative prophets warned of a future rising protest from the voters.

Senator Brooks, Democrat, of Holland, forecasted a popular reaction to further encouragement of the use of hard drinks.

At the annual convention of the Michigan Baptist Association at Sault Ste. Marie last week, Judge E. J. Millington, of Cadillac, state president, declared that "the saloon has come back" and that a non-sectarian conference would be held in the Lower Peninsula this month to map a campaign against liquor sales by the glass.

In the meanwhile, the liquor commission contemplates installation of illuminated signs over entrances of state liquor stores. Clerks may wear attractive jackets. Display cases may contain a bottle of each kind of spirits for sale.

The state is going to try to capture a larger share of liquor sales, most of which now go to the private designated distributors.

Midland's Bank Robbery

The vigilante movement for protection of banks against bandit raids was given 100 per cent recommendation at Midland where a sharpshooting dentist bagged his man a block away with a deer-hunting rifle.

Another reaction to the Midland foray was the revelation that the slain bandit was released on parole July, 1936, from the state prison in Jackson. Two days before the Midland gun battle the chairman of the Michigan parole board, M. Hubert O'Brien, proclaimed on the radio that the recent prison reform act, passed by the State Legislature, was one of the most advanced in the United States.

It was significant that the director of the state corrections department announced, following the Midland party, that his department would inaugurate a program of "closer supervision of parolees" by requiring them to report bi-monthly to parole officers.

Extra Session Deferred

According to statehouse reports, Governor Murphy has taken cognizance of the political cross winds between Lieutenant Governor Nowicki, Speaker George Schroeder, Attorney General Raymond Starr, and Budget Director Harold Smith, and has decided to defer the second special session until winter.

While Speaker Schroeder was taking a pot-shot at Director Smith for his initiative in sidetracking special legislative committees from state funds, Nowicki walked out of the legislative council in protest against a stringent gag rule and star chamber sessions in secrecy.

The attorney general had ruffled legislators by establishing a precedent that deprived committees of the right to incur expenses after final adjournment.

With this "teapot tempest" raging at Lansing, the governor discreetly concluded to proceed with caution. Speaker Schroeder then announced Murphy had promised that no legislation would be presented to the special session until the legislative council had studied it.

87 SPEED RECORDS BROKEN TO MAKE TIRES SAFER FOR YOU

Never Before Have Tires Been Put to Such Gruelling Torture

Ab Jenkins, World's Safest Driver, Establishes 87 New Records for Safety, Speed, Mileage and Endurance . . . He Drove 3,774 Miles in 24 Hours on the Sharp Granite-like Surface of the Bonneville Salt Beds at Average Speed of 157.27 Miles an Hour

AT SPEEDS as high as 180 miles an hour — with the hot, coarse, abrasive salt grinding, tearing, scorching his tires — Ab Jenkins' special racer, weighing nearly three tons, pounded over the Bonneville Salt Beds last week at such terrific speed that it caused the surface to break up. Before the end of the run the track was so pitted and rough that it was almost impossible to hold the car on its course. Yet Jenkins set 87 new World, International and American speed records on Firestone Tires.

Building tires capable of establishing such records is made possible only because of patented Firestone manufacturing processes. These exclusive features enable Firestone to provide car owners with tires that are extra safe.

For the greatest protection of yourself and your family equip your car with Firestone TRIPLE-SAFE Tires. By TRIPLE-SAFE we mean —

1 PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING — The scientific tread design gives longer non-skid mileage and stops your car up to 25% quicker.

2 PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS — Firestone Tires run up to 28 degrees cooler because every fiber of every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. This counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

3 PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES — Two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread add strength to the tire and give extra protection against punctures.

Now is the time to make your car tire-safe for fall and winter driving. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new FIRESTONE TRIPLE-SAFE Tires—the safest tires that money can buy!

MEADOWS-WARD WEDDING IS SOLEMNIZED

Well Known Young Couple United in Marriage at Mancelona

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday noon, September 29, in the beautifully decorated Church of Christ at Mancelona, when Althea Rose Meadows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meadows, and Archie William Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ward, of Charlevoix, were married, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Malcolm Authouse, of Grand Rapids.

After the bridal couple, attended by her sister, Mrs. Mae Stapleton, and his brother, Wilson Ward, took their places, Mrs. Rita Bengton sang "I Love You Truly" very effectively. She was accompanied by Rebecca Movety, who also played the wedding march and recessional by Mendelssohn.

The bride was very lovely in royal blue velvet and carried white chrysanthemums and Talesman roses. Mrs. Stapleton, in blue taffeta, carried pink chrysanthemums and roses.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride, with about 40 guests present. The out-of-town guests were: Rev. and Mrs. Authouse and children, of Grand Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Ward and son, Billy, Mrs. Kenneth Krulik, and Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Baumbach and daughter, Beatrice, of Charlevoix; Mrs. T. Baker, of Harbor Springs, and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Saunders, of East Jordan, besides the members of the bride's family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meadows, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Stapleton, and a host of other relatives and friends.

They have the best wishes of many friends in both localities.

COUNTY SOLONS IN OCTOBER SESSION

CONVENED MONDAY MORNING AT COURT HOUSE HERE

Ira D. Bradshaw, East Jordan, Named Road Commissioner; James Leatch Appointed Poor Commissioner

Charevoix county supervisors convened Monday for their annual October session and, with the major business items still in the hands of committee, are continuing their work.

A break in tha regular routine will be provided Thursday at noon. Supervisors, county officers and business men will meet at St. Mary's school hall for their annual banquet. A program of talks and entertainment has been arranged for this event.

At Tuesday morning's session, Ira D. Bradshaw, of East Jordan, was named county road commissioner to succeed the late Frank Wangeman. Bradshaw won the office by a margin of 19 votes to six over Samuel E. Rogers, East Jordan. The board accepted Bradshaw's resignation as poor commissioner from the East Jordan district, and appointed Rev. James Leatch, of East Jordan, to fill the vacancy.

Up to the present time the board has heard numerous reports, communications, and the usual requests for appropriations. These matters have been referred to committees.

A fish and game committee report recommending the appropriation of $800 for activities of the several sportsmen's organizations of the county, is now in the hands of the ways and means committee. Clair S. Webster, president, roported activities of the Charlevoix Sportsmen's Club and asked for continued support. East Jordan, Boyne City and Beaver Island groups made similar requests and, if approved, the recommended $800 will be divided $300 each for Charlevoix and East Jordan, $100 each for Boyne City and Beaver Island.

Of more than usual interest is a report of the Sinking Fund committee, revealing that the county's outstanding bonded indebtedness, which has been reduced to $32,500, will be completely retired on February 1, 1938, leaving the county free of bonded debt.

Among the reports heard were those of William C. Palmer, county school commissioner, who again requested financial support to hire a rural school music teacher; Dr. Carleton Dean for the District Health Unit; Clarence B. Meggison for the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Commisaion; Charles Murphy for the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society, and Miss Dancey for the Michigan Children's Aid Society.

MERCURY DIPPED BELOW FREEZING FRIDAY NIGHT

Low of 28 Degrees Reported from Many Inland Points of County

Old Man Winter really laid his icy grasp on Charlevoix and the surrounding region Friday night, as a heavy frost combined with freezing weather sent the thermometer tumbling to the lowest point thus far this year.

Friday's highest official mark was only 47 degrees, weather charts at conservation department headquarters revealed, with the mercury sinking down to 28 degrees, four below the freezing mark, during the night.

Prices which farmers are receiving for their produce this fall are declining faster than the prices of comodities which the farmers buy, the State Cooperative Crop Reporting Service has discovered.

BAN LOADED GUNS OF ALL KINDS IN AUTOS

Law States Guns Must Be Unloaded In Both Magazine and Barrel

Loaded shotguns or rifles may not legally be kept or transported in or on an automobile under Michigan hunting laws at any time, reminds the department of conservation.

The reminder is given to all sportsmen who wish to keep within the law during the fall hunting season. It is not legal for a hunter to stand or ride on the running board of his car with a loaded shotgun or rifle. Conservation officers who found hunters thus breaking the law last season were forced to take them into custody.

The law states that hunting guns should be unloaded both in the magazine and in the barrel when placed in or on an automobile.

Annual Meeting Announced

W.C.T.U. OFFICERS BEGIN YEAR'S WORK

PRESIDED AT FIRST MEETING FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Reports of Progress During the Past Year by Retiring Officers Was Extremely Gratifying

There was an unusually large attendance at the October meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union held last Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. F. W. Milner, on Clinton street.

It was the beginning of the year of service of the newly-elected officers, who are: President, Mrs. Annie Saltonstall; vice-president, Mrs. Ida Burns; recording secretary, Mrs. Lillian Bartholomew; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ella Usher; treasurer, Mrs. Gladys Palmer.

The meeting opened with the U. S. flag salute and the singing of "America." Mrs. Campbell led the devotional service. Mrs. Palmer completed a very enjoyable account of the World Convention which she attended last summer in Washington, D. C. The hostess aerved refreshments during the social period.

Very gratifying reports of tha past year's work were read by the retiring officers. Fourteen meetings had been held at which temperance topics and related activities had been presented and discussed. Various educational projects for children and young people had been carried on. Temperance periodicals and other literature had heen supplied to some of the city and rural schools. The local quota of the Temperance Education Fund had been completed. A membership campaign had been conducted resulting in eight additions. The present membership is 80.

It was reported that the city council had re-enacted the zoning ordinance of three years ago which permits the sale of hard liquor hy the glass at The Inn, Beach Hotel and the Colonial Club during the resort season only.

Committees were named to urge the observance of World Temperance Sunday in the local churches and Sunday schools. It was voted that after today refreshments shall not he served except at designated meetings.

The State Convention was announced for October 20 to 22, at Saginaw. The local union will be represented hy the president. Mrs. Burns was appointed to receive gifts for the Souvenir booth. These should be brought in before the 15th.

The Novemher meeting will be a Roll Call luncheon at the Congregational church.

COUNTY-WIDE VETS GROUP IS PLANNED

MOVE UNDER WAY TO UNITE ALL WAR VETERANS

Square Deal in Regards to Government and Relief Agencies Aim of Contemplated Association

A movement is on foot to organize an all-inclusive, county-wide association of ex-service men. This organization will take in not only World War veterans now members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled Veterans of America, etc., and those eligible to membership in such bodies, but all men who ever served a hitch in tha armed forces of the United States at any time—either during the World War, Spanish-American or Civil War or outside of such periods.

The purpose of this organization is to secure justice for the ex-service man—especially in his relations with the government and its various relief agencies. A number of laws ara now on the statute books of the states and nation providing preference for the veteran in the matter of jobs on public works, but they are but lamely enforced. Relief for the disabled veteran and hospitalization for the sick are hard to secure. Red tape is plentiful and rank injustice occurs in many cases. This is mainly due to politics.

Provisions in the charters of some now-existing veterans' organizations prohibit their activities along political lines. The proposed organization will be free to operate politically and bring pressure of voting strength and public influence to bear on flagrant cases of official neglect or malpractice.

An organization meeting will he held at an early date and, prior to that time, all veterans who can be reached by mail will he notified. It is hoped that the attendance at this meeting will indicate the support which the new organization may expect to receive from those whom it is designed to benefit.

CITY COUNCIL AGAIN SUPPORTS RESORT ASSN.

Vote $300 for Page Advertisement in 1938 Summer Booklet

Continuing a long-standing policy of cooperation with and support of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association, the city council Monday night voted $300 for a page advertisement in the association's 1938 booklet.

The resort promotional association was represented before the council by Hugh J. Gray, secretary-manager, who outlined the promotional activities of the tourist body. Members of the executive committee of the Board of Commerce were present at the meeting, urging the resort bureau support. The Board of Commerce advertising committee will furnish the material and lay-out for the advertisement.

In all probability the city's contracting space in the booklet will give Charlevoix another double spread as in previous years, with the larger hotels cooperating individually in the block advertising.

O. P. NORTH GIVEN KIWANIS HIGH POST

NAMED LIEUT.-GOVERNOR OF THE NINTH DISTRICT

Charlevoix's Bid for 1938 State Convention Failed—Given Promise of Meeting Succeeding Year

The Charlevoix Kiwanis Club and Oscar P. North particularly, were honored at the Kiwanis state convention held October 6 and 7 at Battle Creek.

In the selection of district officers, Mr. North was named Lieutenant-Governor of the ninth district, comprising the region from Charlevoix north to Sault Ste. Marie. Clubs in the district include, in addition to Charlevoix, those at Petoskey, Rogers City, Cheboygan, and the Soo. Mr. North succeeds James Robertson, of the Sault.

Charlevoix's bid for the 1938 Kiwanis state convention failed by the margin of 15 votes. The convention was awarded to Ann Arbor. This city's bid for the big state meeting was extended by Oscar P. North, M. A. Levinson and Robert Bridge, representing the local Kiwanis Club, and by Harold Hallett, president of the Charlevoix Board of Commerce. While failing to land the 1938 meeting, Charlevoix stands at the head of the list for the succeeding year, when no doubt an invitation will again be extended.

The state convention would be very desirable, particularly in view of the fact that the meeting convenes after Labor Day, the close of the summer resort season. The convention normally draws about a thousand delegates, many with their families.

BOYNE WINNER OF SATURDAY CONTEST

DEFEATED CHARLEVOIX BY 31 TO 0 COUNT HERE

Red Rayders No Match for Defending Class C Champions—Play at Rogers City Saturday

Coach Brotherton's Boyne City gridders, Northern Michigan defending Class C champions, dafeated Charlevoix's Red Dayders hy a 31 to 0 count at south side athletic field Saturday afternoon.

With exception of the first period, when play was fairly even, Boyne's hacks ran the ends, passed and otherwise took advantage of Charlevoix's mis-plays to score five touchdowns. They counted two in the second period, one in the third, and two more in the fourth. Kanipe particularly, and Hausler and Beeman were Boyne's outstanding ground-gainers.

The closest Charlevoix got to Boyne's goal was the 30-yard strip in the first period. In an exchange of punts, Boyne fumbled, giving Charlevoix the ball in the visitors' territory. The Rayders gained two yards through the line, tried a pass and lost the ball on downs. Boyne's punt from deep in their own ground was short to the 35-yard line. Boyne held again for downs and that was Charlevoix's last scoring opportunity.

Boyne's first score came early in the second period. Hausler ripped off 30 yards to Charlevoix's 35-yard line, Kanipe advanced nine yards and, after two plays which netted no ground, tossed a pass to Harper. The try for extra point failed. Late in the period Boyne intercepted a Charlevoix pass and advanced to the 20-yard strip. Hausler skirted right end for a touchdown on the next play. A pass for extra point failed and the visitors led 12 to 0.

Kanipe acounted for the rest of Boyne's touchdowns. He alternated with Hausler to advance from midfield in the third quarter, going over from Charlevoix's three-yard strip. Kanipe kicked the extra point for a 19 to 0 advantage. The same Kanipe took two plays to cross the goal early in the fourth period and near the close of the game advanced 30 yards on three plays for the final marker.

There were two bright spots in Charlevoix's play. Pearl's punting pulled his team out of had spots on numerous occasions and the work of the line was hardly to be criticized. Boyne's gains were practically all around the ends.

LANSING LETTER

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Mihigan's czar of state finances, Governor Frank Murphy, is demonstrating that he means business in trying to balance the budget.

Faced with the prospect of an $18,000,000 deficit due to legislative generosity in granting requests of home pressure groups, Murphy asked for and received extraordinary power from legislators, before they adjourned, to trim appropriations as he saw fit.

In the matter of finances, the Legislature abdicated.

Invested with al lthe authority of a financial dictator, the governor has reduced an estimated deficit from $18,000,000 to $3,000,000. President Roosevelt announced last week that the federal government would balance its budget beginning July 1, 1938. Governor Murphy is determined, so he professes, to maintain the "financial integrity of the State," in 1937.

Budget Director is Republican

President Roosevelt's appointment of two Republicans—Ickes and Wallace—to his cabinet has an equal, in spirit at least, to Governor Murphy's appointment of Republican Harold Smith to be budget director. The se-

FIRE PREVENTION

Anniversaries creep up on us unawares, and another one has arrived—annual Fire Provention Week.

It is easy to pay our fire insurance on home and furnishings and then dismiss the subject from our minds. But fire destroys in breath taking minutes the accumulation of years, and cremates irreplaceable keepsakes.

For this reason a yearly checkup on the chief fire hazards around your house and in the basement should be made. In addition remember that piles of old papers under stairways should be destroyed or removed; cords on lamps should be checked and all extension cords replaced if they are damaged. The carelessness of smokers in leaving live ashes in trays or dropping them in waste baskets has caused many fires.

And a final word of advice which should be followed by all of us is to know where valuable papers are and which articles should be rescued first in case of fire. Every member of the family should have this information as it may prove valuable protection if fire menaces your property.

STATISTICS FAVOR MEN

"Nation-wide tests conducted by the American Automobile Association show that men park better than women, have better vision, are less easily blinded by the glare of headlights, hear better, concentrate better; in short are better equipped to handle the wheel." So says "The Digest."

The trouble with women drivers, Professor H. R. DeSilva, head of Harvard University's traffic bureau, explained last week, is that they are muscle-bound. "They get set mentally and physically. Their muscles refuse to respond at the speed necessary to modern driving conditions."

We can see the "I told you so grins" of our gentlemen readers. It is, however, our contention after several hair-raising escapes recently involving men drivers, that proof of the above lies in our daily driving experiences. As long as there are as many "boob" male drivers as frivolous feminine ones, we'll keep our watchword, "Beware the careless driver, male or female."

NUMEROUS CHANGES IN TRAPPING LAWS

SEPARATE LICENSE REQUIRED FOR 1937-38 SEASON

Unlawful to Bait Traps With Carcass of Any Protected Game Animal —Other Changes Listed

Any individual who plans to trap wild animals in the state of Michigan this fall will do well to study carefully the new regulations placed upon this occupation by the 1937 Legislature.

The new game law takes effect on October 29. Trappers will then be required to obtain a trapping license, instead of a combined hunting and trapping license as heretofore.

The general hunting license will be sufficient authority for resident or non-resident trappers to take unprotected species until October 29. After that date non-residents may not trap, and resident trappers must have a general trapping license which sells for $1 plus 10 cents for each additional trap over 20, except that the owner or lessee or his minor children may trap without a license on inclosed fur mlands on which he is regularly domiciled.

The skunk will remain on the protected list until October 29 at which time the new game law removes protection on this animal and it may be taken at any time in the same manner as other unprotected species.

Other regulations are fully covered in the 1937-1938 Michigan game law digest, but trappers should pay especial attention to changes such as the prohibition of the use of any portion of any protected animal or bird for bait and the regulation which now makes it unlawful for trappers to have traps in possession in areas frequented by wild animals unless the name and address of the owner is securely fastened to the trap.

HUNTERS ARE URGED TO USE GREATEST CAUTION

Observance of Simple Rules Will Eliminate Many Accidents

Be careful! That is the advice of Conservation Officers, to those who go afield in Michigan this fall to hunt small game.

The use of extreme caution by all hunters, should help to reduce the number of persons annually killed or injured by the accidental discharge of hunting arms.

During the small-game hunting season of 1936-1937, there were 14 hunters who lost their lives and 19 others who were injured in the accidental discharge of firearms.

Statistics indicate that the average hunter may have as much to guard against in the handling of his own weapon as in the carelessness of other hunters. Eighteen hunters who were killed or injured during these small-game seasons last fall and winter were victims of others, while 15 received injuries, some fatal, as a result of their own carelessness in handling guns.

CHEVROLET DEALERS SEE NEW 1938 MODELS

Pre-View at Flint Will Be Held on Wednesday, October 13

Chevrolet dealers of the Flint zone will obtain their first opportunity to see the new Chevrolet for 1938 at an all-day meeting to be held at Flint, Mich., October 13, under the direction of L. F. Vollmer, manager of Chevrolet's Flint zone, which includes Charlevoix.

The presentation of the new car will include a detailed outline of Chevrolet's introductory advertising campaign—the most extensive in the company's history—as well as an explanation of the many new features of the 1938 car, Mr. Vollmer said. The meeting is the sequel to the recent National Sales Convention at Detroit, where the entire Chevrolet field organization saw the 1938 cars and were informed of Chevrolet's elaborate plans for the coming year.

EMPLOYERS RECEIVE CONTRIBUTION REBATE

A cash rebate of $4,400 has been mailed to 200 Michigan employers who overpaid the state unemployment compensation fund that much money in contributions on their 1936 payrolls.

The overpayment, according to Frank A. Picard, commission chairman, was discovered after a complete audit of employers' books and payroll records recently made by commission auditors.

Labor will benefit greatly from the passage of Michigan's unemployment compensation act. When workers become unemployed through no fault of their own they will be entitled to weekly benefits of about one half of their average past wage under the act.

Sailing Ships Held Own After Fulton's Invention

Sailing ships ruled the waves for many years after Robert Fulton and others had proved beyond question the feasibility of propelling vessels by steam power applied to paddlewheels and later to screw propellers. Fulton, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune, in association with Robert Livingston, built his first steamboat, the Clermont, in 1807. It was not the first experiment with steam power navigation, but it was the most successful, and it marked the advent of a new era. The Clermont was 133 feet long and had a beam of 35 feet. It was powered by engines built in England by Boulton and Watt Fulton later designed steam vessels for the United States navy.

For many years after steam engines came into general use for ships, they were used as auxiliaries to sail. The first transatlantic crossings by steamships really were made by sailing vessels aided by steam-powered paddlewheels. During the Civil war most of the naval vessels of both the Federals and Confederates were ships of this type. Notable examples were the Kearsarge of the United States navy and the Alabama, Confederate warship, which fought the memorable battle off Cherbourg, France, in 1864. The Civil war did produce, however, a radical departure from orthodox ship design which was to influence all future warship building. This was the building of the Monitor, an iron-armored warship with a circular gun turret and armored decks almost flush with the water line. The success of the Monitor marked the advent of iron and steel armor-plated warships such as those of the present day.

Hwang Ho, Yellow River, Called "China's Sorrow"

The Hwang Ho, or Yellow river, has been called "China's Sorrow," the "Ungovernable," and the "Scourge of the Sons of Han." This river never seems satisfied to remain within one set of banks but always desires a change. Once, says Pathfinder Magazine, it tried to return to the channel it abandoned in 1852. When the Crusades were being fought the Hwang Ho emptied near Tientsin into the Gulf of Pe-chih-li a hundred miles north of its present outlet. Within a single week, however, it twisted its mouth southward 400 miles and continued to pour into the Yellow sea until 1852, when it swung around the point of Shan-tung, its present outlet, 165 miles away.

The Hwang Ho, according to a bulletin of the National Geographic society, is a constant menace to millions of people, for when it hurdles its banks it spreads death and destruction in its path and even swallows up rescue parties that come to relieve the distress.

This "Scourge of the Sons of Han" is the second largest river in China with only the Yangtze exceeding it, and in spite of its great size is not navigable by deep-draft vessels. Its course is either too swift in plunging over rapids, or else it spreads and becomes clogged with sand bars. Along its 2,500-mile path to the sea only in its upper reaches before it emerges from the hills into the lowlands does it bear any boat travel.

Romans Had First Circus

The modern circus where animals and acrobats perform feats of daring for the amusement of the public, owes its name to that of the building used by the Romans for public entertainments. There were eight or ten circuses in Rome, long rectangular enclosures, open to the sky, with one short side forming a half-circle. The seats of the spectators were in tiers, sloping backwards. The exteriors of the circuses were surrounded by colonnades, shops and galleries. In the circuses were celebrated the "circensian" games, or games of the circus, the greatest of which were held from September 4 to 14, in honor of the great gods. A splendid procession opened the festival. Then sacrifices were performed, the spectators took their places, and the games commenced. These consisted of horse and chariot races, gymnastic contests, prize contests on horseback, combats with wild beasts, and representations of naval engagements. For the last of these entertainments, the circus could be laid under water.

Location of Hongkong

Hongkong, often erroneously written "Hong Kong," is not, as popularly supposed, a city in China, writes G. H. Turner in the Kansas City Times. It is an island off the southeast China coast. Together with a compact group of neighboring islands, the Kowloon peninsula, and a small area on the mainland, it constitutes the British crown colony of Greater Hongkong. Victoria, a populous city on Hongkong, is the capital. Not only is the island the British center of trade in the Far East, but it is one of the most important British military and naval stations in the Pacific.

Branding Runaways

The Statute of Laborers, passed in the reign of Edward VI, ordered a runaway servant to be branded on the breast with the letter "V" for vagabond, and judged him to be the slave of any purchaser for two years. His owner, we are told, was to give him "bread, water and small drink and refuse meat and cause him to work by beating, chaining or otherwise." If the man absented himself for 14 days during his two years of servitude he was to be branded on the forehead with a letter "S." Montreal Herald

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

4-H Forestry Club Visits Fire Tower

Monday afternoon, upon invitation from O. F. Walker, District 4-H Club agent, the Boyne Falls Forestry Club visited the conservation headquarters at Boyne City. The club, with Mr. Barton, their leader, made a very careful study of conservation equipment and its uses in this northern region. The conservation officers showed and explained the engines for water supply, the tank pumps, plows, and other equipment for fire control. They interpreted the maps, showing predatory animal control, fire plan, places of law violation such as shooting deer and fishing out of season, districts, fire locations, and conservation officers' area. There was a radio demonstration showing its help in conservation. They explained to the boys how information for weather reports was obtained.

At the fire tower the warden explained how to locate fires, tell kind of fire from the map, how to give the alarm. The boys took great interest and the trip was well worth the time spent.

Huge Caterpillar Trator to Be Used In Land Clearing Demonstration

Of great interest to many farmers is the announcement that a huge land clearing demonstration will be held at the farm of Leon Massey located two miles south of Boyne Falls on M-131 on Thursday, October 21. The Caterpillar Tractor Company are furnishing one of their 13 ton Caterpillars equipped with a bull dozer which tumbles over stumps like top blocks. Not being content with this accomplishment it will knock over standing timber of good size.

The bull dozer is a blade approximately two and a half feet wide and about eight feet long which is attached in front of the Caterpillar and which can be raised or lowered while in operation.

The machine will be at work all day long commencing at 9:30. If more convenient come in the forenoon and you will see everything that will interest you. Without a doubt a good attendance of farmers will attend this demonstration from the nearby counties, as only four demonstrations are planned for Northern Michigan, and the nearest one is in Montmorency county the day previous. For those coming from the south this demonstration is about six miles north of the West Elmira junction.

Two County Wide Dairy Meetings Announced for Wednesday, Oct. 20

The Michigan Butter Industry committee, composed of representatives of cooperative, centralizer, direct shipper and local creamery is cooperating in staging these two dairy meetings. The committee meets every month and arrangements have now reached the point where definite pans have been made to hold producer meetings so that the message can be effectively given all producers in the county.

The first meeting will be held in the Marion Center Grange Hall at 2 o'clock p. m. This location is about four miles south of Charlevoix on the Ellsworth road. The second meeting will be held in the East Jordan High school auditorium beginning promptly at 7:30. It is hoped that all producers of dairy products will attend their nearest meeting, as never before have they had the opportunity of having as good a program presented for their approval. In addition four door prizes are to be given away at each meeting.

Whether you believe it or not it still might be possible to sell underthings in a nudist camp. Cushions for instance.

THIS MEANS PROGRESS

Every town, no matter how small, needs to spend a certain amount each year to promote worthwhile undertakings. In a small town it may be a band concert or a homecoming. In larger places the promotion goes all the way from needed schools, hospitals, hotels and new industries. Promotion is everyone's business — and so often it works out that it is regarded as nobody's. Business concerns or individuals cannot hire someone to do it for them. It is a legitimate and needed part of the progress of every town, large or small.—Schuyler Marshall, St. Johns Republican.

LACK OF PERSISTENCE

A bulletin, "Distribution by Causes," discloses a "lack of persistence" as the chief reason for class failures among high school students.

What takes our attention is that the largest percentage of failures is not caused by lack of mental ability but by lack of sticking to the task at hand.

These pupils are the first harvest of the newer fads in education — along the line of freer discipline in which the pupil is allowed to "make his own choice."

When a young child runs from a paint can to a hammer and then to something else while teacher allows him to express his own individuality he is not learning to stay by the job until he finishes it. What he needs at this age is a little straight-along-the-narrow-line discipline which helped to develop character in grandfather's day.

MAIDS

Did you notice a recent cartoon of a discussion between a parlor maid and the cook after a big party given by their mistress? The maid glowingly described the guests, their limousines and their costumes. Finally the cook asked what they talked about and the maid replied, "Us."

We are reminded of this little culinary scene because of the recent controversy waged in Detroit newspapers between housewives and maids. The maids protested "the long hours, the pay, and their treatment." The housewives were wearled from a long succession of "poor maids who want big wages and who are not competent or interested in their jobs."

We may have thought those women very lucky who had maids, hut it seems that very luck complicates their household problems considerably.

It's too awfully bad that our grandchildren and great-grandchildren can not be here to see the wonderful things we are doing with their money.

NIGHT SMELT FISHING IS PROVING POPULAR SPORT

Night fishing for smelt is proving popular with local sportsmen since the advent of cold weather.

Good catches of these fish are being made off the Chicago Club and Belvedere bathing piers in Lake Charlevoix. Small hooks and pinhead minnows are the best combination of tackle for smelt. Catches running up into the hundreds are being made nightly at the present time.

lection of Smith was particularly disappointing to expectant Democrats, and it has not been altogether "one happy family" to have a Republican in the position of slashing legislative appropriations and then receiving the governor's public praise for doing it.

Speaker George Schroeder has been touchy about this situation, claiming that legislative prerogatives were being usurped by a state appointee.

It has been a bitter pill for some legislators to have Smith, a Republican, become the recipient of commendation by the governor for doing something which the Democratic-controlled Legislature failed to do.

Labor Trouble Grows

The nomination in Detroit of the CIO candidate for mayor has given fresh impetus to the growing labor movement in Michigan. It presages new and determined efforts of the CIO to organize workers in industries throughout the state. It increases the likelihood that Governor Murphy may call the next special session of the State Legislature sooner than next January for the primary purpose of passing a labor relations act.

Michigan's present law prohibits picketings. Under the labor relations bill passed by the State Legislature but vetoed by the governor, picketing would have been legalized although restricted to employes who were on strike. It would have been illegal to block the entrance or exit of any building.

Saginaw was one of the many cities in Michigan to experience labor trouble. At the Fame Laundry Company plant, 50 members of an A. F. of L. union were prevented from entering their place of work by striking employes of a competing laundry, all of whom were members of the CIO. A court injunction was ignored by the CIO workers.

CIO organizers are busy in Grand Rapids. At Port Huron the police attempted to enforce an injunction writ against pickets. Many picketers were injured.

At Eaton Rapids a woolen mill has been idle for many months, due to labor demands for higher wages.

Thus the labor movement grows in Michigan. Results o fthe Detroit primary demonstrate that the CIO is still a powerful factor—one not to be lightly ignored.

Farm Prices Dropping

Industrial workers are getting $70,000,000 more weekly in their pay checks, and prices have been climbing steadily. For automobiles alone, consumers will pay more.

But while commodity prices have been going up, farm prices have been going down.

Farmers must pay out more, yet receive less.

The state cooperative crop reporting service, for example, points out that on September 15 the price of wheat was 10 cents lower than on a corresponding date a year ago; dry beans were $1.50 less a hundredweight; potatoes, down 70 cents a bushel; apples, off 25 cents a bushel.

The industrial worker will pay less for food, but the farmer will have to pay more for industrial products.

Price-Fixing Fails

Legislative attempts to tinker with the economic law of supply and demand are plaguing Michigan grape growers.

Along with an act setting up a retaliation tariff on imports of beer, the 1937 Legislature passed a bill setting a price of $55 a ton which wineries must pay in cash for Michigan grapes. Wine manufacturers who bought grapes in lesser quantities were to be taxed 50 cents a gallon.

Price-fixing has been tried before with little success.

Here's how it is working out for the grape growers this fall. Nature provided a bumper yield to the tune of a 7,500-ton harvest. The open market price is $8 a ton.

Why then, the $55 price? That's just the rub. Sixteen per cent of the Michigan harvest is at stake in the latest demonstration that law-makers can't control supply and demand no matter how hard they try.

Newspapers Take a Bow

In these days of increased governmental spending, it is news when someone voluntarily returns unexpended money.

Newspapers of Michigan received $10,000 from the state last year for the purpose of advertising the state through a four-day tour this summer of newspaper editors, members of the National Editorial Association.

A special train was chartered. Nearly 300 editors were taken from Detroit to Mackinac Island.

Michigan editors who took the tour paid a higher rate than the visitors. Members of the tour committee paid their own expenses, rather than use state money.

The net result was the presentation to Secretary of State Leon D. Case at a Lansing luncheon last Friday (October 8) of a check for $2,629.57. Newspapers voluntarily refunded more than 26 per cent of the state appropriation, much to the surprise of politicians. Again the sanity of newspaper editors is being questioned.

Low-Priced Homes

Michigan's booming automobile factories, setting a pace for general improved economic conditions, have created a widespread housing shortage. In fact, the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association is authority for a statement that Michigan leads all other states "by a wide margin" in home building interest.

Construction is centered mostly in low-priced homes.

The shortage has been acute in many cities, leading to mushroom trailer camps and inducing a trailer concern at Mount Clemens to build "trailer cottages."

Muskegon's success in stimulating building of homes has brought inquiries from a number of Mid-West icties. Holland rates high also. One lumber dealer in Holland has built 35 houses prices from $2,700 to $4,000—all since January 1.

Duke Knows U.S.A.

The forthcoming visit to Detroit of England's former king, the Duke of Windsor, and his American-born wife is another confirmation of the international prominence of Michigan in world commerce.

When foreigners come to the United States for the purpose of getting a cross-section understanding of America, they always include these four cities on the list:

New York City, world's greatest metropolis with its towering skyscrapers.

Chicago, capital of Mid-West agriculture, home of the stockyards.

Hollywood, world center for motion pictures.

Detroit, world motor metropolis.

Because of the automobile, Michigan will be host next winter to Edward and Wallie. Their visit should be worth millions to the state's growing tourist business.

Editor's Note: Michigan hometown newspapers present a 15-minute review of the news each Thursday at 1 p. m. over Radio Station WKAR (850 kilocycles), East Lansing.

FORD AND THE SCHOOLS

Up at Pequamiag, where the Ford Motor Company operates a large sawmill, Henry Ford has undertaken some novel experiments in rural education. At Pequaming, Dearborn and other points where Mr. Ford has endowed grade schools, students are given special training in the manual arts and some of the nther practical things of life.

"What we are trying to do," Mr. Ford explains in an interview just published in The Country Home Magazine, "is to develop non-failure schools, which means more than non-failure in the classrooms. It is non-failure in life that we are aiming at. If the farmer knows how to farm, and also how to do other occasional work, he is not so likely to find himself hard up. If the mechanic knows his machine, and also how to grow his food, he has insurance against trouble, and the kind of insurance we all need most is that which comes from individual skill and the ahility and opportunity to do more than one thing well, plus energy, of course.

"That kind of insurance must be written and underwritten by and in the common schools. And remember, the lowest grades are most important, because they are the only grades attended by all boys and girls."

There is food for thought in the famous automobile manufacturer's last statement. There has been a tendency to place the emphasis on high school and college education, and it may be possible that not enough attention has been given to the educational needs of the boys and girls who will not be going in for higher education.—Escanaba Press.

We are told that no new sin has been discovered in the last 2000 years, but you can't blame the most of us if we keep on trying.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

Fast Title Service Provided by Case

Time required to secure automobile titles from the Department of State has been shortened; care in making application will make it still shorten, Leon D. Case, Secretary of State points out.

While the daily peak of from 8,000 to 9,000 titles mailed out to applicants, has passed for this year, the handling of the current volume of from 2,000 to 3,000 titles daily, has been greatly expedited hy a change in routing and bookkeeping procedure within the Department.

In every case when correct applications for title are received in Lansing, titles are mailed out that same day. Approximately 20 percent of the applications are returned, however, for correction. The most frequent defect is failure of the applicant for title of a used car, to enclose the $1 fee for transfer of the plates.

This fee is imposed by law; no titles will be transferred until plates also are re-registered in the names of the new owners of the cars involved, Case has directed. In previous years, this collection was at times defered until the new owner applied for his succeeding year's license plate. Case proceeds on the theory, however, that failure to transfer plates to the new owner's name, permits incorrect identification of the car until such transfer is made.

SIX COAST GUARD STATIONS TO BE ABANDONED

Orders Call for Closing in Chicago District by May 1, 1938

Rear Admiral R. R. Waesche, coast guard commandant, has ordered six coast guard stations in the Chicago division to be decommissioned.

The stations, which must be closed by May 1, 1938, are the Point Aux Barques, Sturgeon Point and Middle Island bases on Lake Huron, the Sleeping Bear Point station on Lake Michigan and the Two Heart River and Deer Park stations on Lake Superior.

The closings were ordered in connection with a modernization and consolidation program under which faster equipment can patrol longer stretches of shoreline. Most of the men at the affected stations will be transferred to other points on the lakes.

MICHIGAN FARMERS TO HAVE EXCELLENT YEAR

Predict Income Will Be As Good As Before the Depression

V. H. Church, senior statistician for the U. S. crop reporting service at Lansing, predicts a pre-depression level income for Michigan farmers this year.

"We think final tabulations will show a larger income this year than in 1936," he said. "Michigan's farm income has been increasing steadily since 1932 until we've nearly reached the 1930 level again."

Last year's farm income in this state was placed at $213,000,000. Early estimates indicate the 1937 increase will total at least $20,000,000.

Civil Service Starts

Preparation for the huge task of classifying the thousands of state employes under civil service has been started under the direction of William Brownrigg, state director.

CHANGES ARE MADE IN STATE POLICE OFFICERS

Highway Patrol Officer Is Assigned to Each of Eight Districts

Changes in the state police posts in Michigan have been announced by Commissioner Oscar G. Olander at Lansing with a new man placed in charge of the post at Cheboygan.

Sergeant George Aldrich, who has been in charge at Cheboygan for several years, will go to Traverse City with the new rank of first sergeant to assist District Commander Earl Hathaway.

Corporal James Demaray, of the Traverse City post, will go to Cheboygan to take charge. Troopers Barton, Hedt, Young and Garton will remain at the post.

An officer charged solely with highway patrol supervision has been assigned to each of the eight districts. Twenty-five transfers were made in preparation for adding 45 junior troopers now in the final classes of a seven weeks training school at East Lansing.

TRAVERSE CITY SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICE IS SERVING NORTH REGION

Clifton H. Little, district manager, announces that on September 17, 1937, the Social Security Board took formal action changing the name of the "Bureau of Federal Old-Age Benefits" to "Bureau of Old-Age Insurance."

This action has been under consideration for some time and it is believed that the new name of the Bureau will in itself at least partially describe the functions of the field office which was opened in the Weaver Building, 118 South Union street, Traverse City, Michigan, on August 23 of this year. Fifteen counties are in this service area, the territory extending from Cheboygan to Cadillac and Manistee. Traverse City was chosen because of its central location in the area and also on account of the large number of workers located there.

For the worker in the shop, store, or office, a Social Security account number may be obtained by calling at this office or by filling out Form SS-5, Application for Employe's Account Number, and sending by mail. All workers in covered employment should have a number and keep that number through their working lifetime, that at age 65 they may receive all the benefits that are due them.

In no case will monthly benefits be paid under the provisions of the Social Security Act before January 1, 1942, but any worker reaching age 65 may obtain assistance in filing claim for lump-sum due him under the Act before that time.

Another function of this office is to assist the family of the deceased worker in filing claim for amounts due from wages earned by the deceased worker since January 1, 1937. It is known that there are many families of deceased workers in this area who are entitled to lump-sum payments at this time, and information and assistance will be given them if they will write or call at the office of the Social Security Board, Bureau of Old-Age Insurance, Weaver Building, Traverse City, Mich.

Resume speed does not mean resume carelessness.

STATE FARMS REPORT SHORTAGE OF LABOR

Statistician Claims There Are But 68 Men for Every 100 Jobs

Michigan's farm labor shortage has been more acute this season than at any time during the last 12 years, reports reaching the U. S. Crop Service at Lansing.

Letters V. H. Church, the seninr agricultural statistician, has received during the last month indicate no change in the mid-summer ratio of 68 men for every 100 farm jobs despite a marked increase in wages.

The labor shortage has been general throughout the state, Church said, but is most noticeable near large cities, where many men of farm families have found more lucrative jobs in industrial plants. Farmers, in addition, have reported inability to compete with wages paid for state highway construction, WPA and PWA work. Many have told Church they were able to secure only high school age boys for farm labor.

FOUR MILLION PINES ARE PLANTED BY CCC WORKERS

State Forest CCC camps in both peninsulas of Michigan have planted more than four million Norway Pine and Jack Pine seedlings thus far in the fall planting program, Camp Supervisor William Gardipee said today.

Camp Mackinac, in the Mackinac State Forest, leads with 490,000, closely followed by Camp Black Lake in the Black Lake State Forest with 475,000.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p.m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Doctrine of Atonement" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, Oct. 17.

The Golden Text, from I. Cor. 1:9, is: "God is faithful, by whom ye were called unto the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalm 51): "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me. Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free spirit. The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 201): "The way to extract error from mortal mind is to pour in truth through flood-tides of love. Christian perfection is won on no other basis."

"Tough Baby", a short fiction story of a girl who tried to break up a love triangle with a gun. In The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Aspire to be happy.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES
Charlevoix and Ironton

Next Sunday we will speak again from the general theme: "Straight Talks to Saints and Sinners." Our subject will be, "A Modern Crucifixion of Jesus Christ."

For several weeks previous to Rally Day, our Sunday school scholars wondered at "It's In the Bag." Tuesday night the bag was opened and an event in the nature of a Sunday school banquet was served. The dining room was well filled with scholars. To say the least it was a howling success. New leadership in music was discovered in none other than "Spike" Goss, Jr.

Our young people's programs are in full swing. Juniors meet at 5 p. m., and the Seniors at 6:45 Sunday afternoons.

Because each plan is financed by contributions based on payrolls much confusion exists regarding old age benefits and unemployment compensation. One should remember that the collector of internal revenue collects the old age benefit contributions, while the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission collects unemployment compensation contributions. The social security board in 1942 and after will pay old age benefits. The Michigan job insurance commission may pay benefits after July 1, 1938.

MANY CCC VACANCIES FOR ARMY VETERANS

Enrollments Open During October With Last Day on the 27th

Guy F. Palmer, manager of the Detroit regional office of the Veterans' Administration, announces that there remain a great many vacancies in the veterans' contingent of the Civilian Conservation Corps to be filled during the month of October, 1937.

Needy veterans are urged to apply for enrollment. If during the six months' enrollment period more lucrative employment is found an honorable discharge will be granted at any time prior to the expiration of the six months' period, upon presentation of evidence of such employment to the commanding officer of the work company to which the veteran is assigned.

Veterans desiring enrollment in the Civilian Conservation Corps are admonished that they should not go to Washington, D. C., or a state other than that of their permanent address for the purpose of bringing about more expeditious action because in so doing they will subject themselves to considerable expense and inconvenience, in that enrollment will be denied and they will be required to return home at their own expense for such purpose.

Any veterans who are interested in enrollment should immediately contact the Veterans Administration, Federal Building, Detroit, Mich.

The enrollment dates for October, 1937, are the 6th and the 27th.

1938 DODGE CAR HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Models Now Being Shown by Brown Motor Sales in Charlevoix

Announcement description of the 1938 Dodge passenger car models will make interesting reading to the many followers of this popular make, especially in view of the fact that the new line, offering ten body selections, is said to incorporate some 47 progressive improvements affecting appearance, comfort and performance.

Coupes come in three styles—business, rumble seat and convertible. Sedan and touring sedan models include two and four-door closed types and a convertible style. There also are two 132-inch wheelbase vehicles—ruted as seven-passenger sedan and seven-passenger limousine, but in reality accommodating eight passengers.

Changes and improvements distinguishing the 1938 models from their immediate predecessors are found in nearly every major element of the new series—in the power plant, transmission, brakes, steering mechanism, clutch, wheels and other components. Outstanding engineering features, such as floating power and other engine details, silenced all-steel safety bodies, hydraulic brakes, hypoid rear axle, and a variety of automatic operating features are either retained or used with modifications. Entirely new are such units as the radiator shell and grilles by which the head-on appearance of the new cars is beautified. New also are hood louvres, fenders and their mountings, windshield, instrument panel, seat adjustment, head lamps, door and luggage compartment locks, brake drums, engine impulse neutralizer, muffler, clutch facings, clutch baffle and release bearings, generator and interior treatment.

At least we have in the United States personal dictatorship if not political dictatorship.

Loretta Young, Warner Baxter, Virginia Bruce Star in Year's Gayest and Grandest Romance

The talents of three grand stars, Loretta Young, Warner Baxter and Virginia Bruce are brilliantly blended in "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," gay and penetrating Twentieth Century-Fox drama with a catch in its heart and a twinkle in its eye, which opens Sunday, October 18, at the Palace Theatre.

Two modern women who thought they could reason about love, and a man who wouldn't listen to reason, are the highlights of one of the year's most exceptional pictures, a gay romantic story in the mood of today, which features an important supporting cast including Jane Darwell, Sidney Blackmer, Maarice Cass, Minna Gombell and Marguret Irving.

Soon it will be comparatively easy for anyone to pick out the "ecunomic royalists." They'll be the ones who can't quit when the 4 o'clock whistle blows.

OLD AGE BUREAU IS LOCATED AT BOYNE

ESTABLISH OFFICE THERE FOR CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

Duties and Purpose of Bureau Are Outlined in Communication From District Office

An Old Age Assistance Bureau has been established at the Bank Building in Boyne City for Charlevoix county.

The office hours are from 8 to 12, and 1 to 5, Monday through Friday.

The staff consists of William Lindsay and Richard Nachazel.

"This office administers Old Age Assistance only," said James G. Bryant, director uf the State Welfare Department, under whose jurisdiction this Old Age Assistance operates. It is explained that:

"Old Age Assistance is given to persons in need who are over 65 years of age and do not have an income of over $30 per month nor the ability tu earn $30 per month. It is granted to eligible applicants 65 years of age or over, who, after investigation are found to possess insufficient resources to live. Applications fur Old Age Assistance are made to the Old Age Assistance Bureau which is located in each county. It is not a pension. It ia paid 50 per cent from state funds and 50 per cent from federal funds. It is a form of relief for the aged.

"Old Age Insurance, on the other hund, is a benefit hased on past earnings of the individual which is paid entirely by the federul government. The benefits depend entirely on the amount of wages received and the length of time the individual has worked.

"Old Age Insurance is not available until January 1, 1942. To quallfy for Old Age Insurance, application should be made to the Social Security Board, Bureau of Old Age Insurunce, with offices at 118 South Union Street, Traverse City, Mich.

"Some people confuse Old Age Insurance with Old Age Assistance. Old Age Insurance is for workers. Old Age Assistance is for those incnpable of earning $30 per month.

"Many persons believe that Old Age Assistance is n pension, but such is not a fact. The state law provides and requires that an applicant must provide legal proof of age, (65 years or over) and that n thorough investigation of ull his resources must be made, and it must he shown that there are no relatives willing or obligated to assist. The amount of Old Age Assistance depends upon the actual need of the particular individual."

OLDSMOBILE INTRODUCES LINE OF NEW '38 MODELS

New Features Embodied in Cors Shown at Auto Electric Service

Oldsmobile, America's oldest manufacturer of automobiles, today announced its 41st series of cars, the Oldsmobile Six and the Oldsmobile Eight for 1938.

Distinctively different in appearance and styling, the two cars are now on display at Auto Electric Service, local Oldsmobile dealers.

Both the six and eight present much that is new in performance and mechanical design and hoth now offer as an extra-cost option the new automatic safety transmission, developed and introduced by Oldsmobile. This new development, regarded as one of the major automotive advancements of modern motoring, was first offered as optional equipment on the Oldsmobile Eight of last year.

Among other features of particular interest is the new Oldsmobile safety instrument unit and safety dash, a departure in the modern manner from the conventional type of instrument panel. The safety panel, free of projecting knobs, is but one of many detnils which contribute toward passenger security in the redesigned safety interiors of the new Oldsmobiles. Safety glass, of course, is standard throughout. A choice of new upholstery fabrics is available, tailored to the deep cushions in an effective pleated treatment.

ANTRIM IRON COMPANY BUYS ISLAND TIMBER

Will Soon Start Lumbering Operations on Beaver Island

The Antrim Iron Company has purchased about 3,000 acres of hardwood timberland on Beaver Island from the McCrea Estate, and have men there.

The timber is mostly suited for the company's chemical plant, and it is figured the present purchase will give from 30,000 to 40,000 cords and fill out the present supply for another three or four years.

The company will he ready for wood choppers in ahout 30 days, and is now getting the names of workmen who are interested in moving their families there for u four years job. The island is as flat as a pancuke, there are good stores there, and it is a good place to live.

There are about 60,000 cords of additional hardwood on the island that probably can be obtained later, if wanted, if it turns out that it pays to ship the wood here.

The company is getting only about a third of its chemical plant cordwood from its timber operations. Another third is now coming in from its camp 12 miles east of Johannesburg, where four trucks are running. The Beaver Island acreage will keep the chemicnl plant supplied without getting ahead of timher operations to supply wood for charcoal.—Central Lake Torch.

DOUBLE GAME WARDENS DURING HUNT SEASONS

Conservetion Dept. Mekes Plens for Enforcement of Lows

In an effort to cope more effectively with whnt is expected to he a record-breaking army of hunters, the Department of Conservation is making plans to double its force of conservution officers on law enforcement work during the open deer-hunting season in Michigan next month.

In addition to the 150 full-time conservation officers now on duty in the state, approximately 120 state fire wardens will be kept on the payroll and ussigned to assist in pntrolling the woods and checking hunters.

All free-lance conservation officers and many county conservation officers in the southern part of the state will be transferred north during the 15 days of the deer season, November 15 to November 30, inclusive.

Conservation authorities expect that the effectiveness of enforcement work will he increased by other services this fall. Mobile, field radio sets, which have been used expecimentally during the past two years, are now considered as a standard field aid during the deer season. In addition, authorities say, state police will cooperute with conservation officers in field work and in radio communication during the deer-hunting season.

TB WORK IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY TOLD

OVER 900 EXAMINATIONS GIVEN IN PAST YEAR

Michigan TB Association Most Active In Eradication in County, States Dr. Carlaton Deao

"The Michigan Tuberculosis Association has been one of the most active organizations in the diminishing of tuberculosis throughout our entire state," Dr. Carleton Dean, director of District Health Unit No. 3, wrote this week to the association at its Lansing office. "The citizens of our counties should appreciate the work they have dane in order to make this a safer and healthier community in which to lvie."

Stressing the necessity for continuing a vigorous program throughout Michigan, the association this week called early attention to the 31st annual Christmas seal sale. Every seal sold in Charlevoix county, it was pointed out, means additional funds to carry on the anti-tuberculosis work so highly acclaimed by Dr. Dean. Tuberculosis clinics, the association reminded, make possible early discovery, so vitally essential to the control of the disease.

Recent compilations of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association revesl that 930 Charlevoix county residents have received Christmas seal financed chest X-ruys over a perlod of six years. Of 138 cases of tuberculosis found, 27 were the serious adult type. Had funds been sufficient, earlier examination with consequent esrly detection could have been provided. Each of the 27 tuberculosis persons could then have had the chance to halt the onset of the White Plague, the association remainded.

The tuberculin test, a simple injection of harmless fluid, shows whether or not the tubercle bacillus has entered the body. If it has there will be a slight skin reaction. Then the magic eye of the X-ray determines whether the lung tissue has been dsmaged. With the aid of these modern case-finding facilities and the enthusiastic cooperation of the public, anti-tuberculasis oorganizations hope to carry on an even more aggressive battle in 1938 against the disease which is still a serious menace, particularly to young people in the 15 to 45 age group, where it takes its greatest toll.

"Although much has been accomplished in tuberculosis work in Michigan, comparative studies reveal that much remains to be done," Theodore J. Werle, executive secretary of the association, declared. "The need for active support of Christmas seal financed unti-tuberculosis programs cannot bc over-emphasized. Modern medical weapons—the tuberculin test snd the X-ray—are essential to the prevention of tuberculosis," he stated. "Local support of the Christmas seal sale makes it possihle to transform into action the slogan, 'Uncover Tuberculosis with Modern Wespons'."

MICHIGAN IS POPULAR AS A FISHING CENTER

Leads Uoited States in Number of Fishing Licenses Issued in 1936

That Michlgan has a greater attraction to out-of-state fishermen than any other state of the Union, is indicated in the United States Bureau of Fisheries report of license sales for 1936 throughout the country.

Michigan sold far more fishing licenses to non-residents than any other state. Wisconsin is second, and Minnesota third.

The federal tabulation lists Michlgan non-resident fishing license sales as follows: Annusl or "regular" non-resident fishing licenses, 35,522; 10-day special or tourist fishing licenses, 76,004. The report, however, does not mention the non-resident "wife" licenses which Michigan sold last year, as ln thg past several seasons. Sales of non-resident "wife" licenses ln 1936 totalled 36,779. The total sales of Michlgan non-resident fishing licenses last year, therefore, was 148,305.

Wisconsin's sale of non-resident fishing licenses in 1936 is given as 89,068 and Minnesota's as 73,681. Nelther Wisconsin nor Mlnnesota reported sale of special or "tourist" licenses for non-resident fishermen.

CONSERVATION PLAN FOR POTATOES SURE

Government Will Try to Hold Crop Down to 3,300,000 Acres

A 1938 soil conservation program for potato growers has been announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Potato growers approved acreage stabilization provisions of the program in a nation wide referendum, the AAA announced. The vote was 25,193 votes for the program and 5,425 against.

AAA officials said the program will be designed to hold potato acreage at a constant level. The national goal for 1938 is between 3,100,000 and 3,300,000 acres.

Payments will be based on acreage planted up to the limit of u farm's goal since the program aims at stabilization of acreage at about the present level.

Acreage payments will be based on the annual normul yield of potatoes for the farm. The rate for early potatoes will be six cents a bushel, and for late potatoes four cents u bushel.

Play by play, someone will probably explain just what the Giants did or didn't do — and why. Be prepared! Get a case or so of good Goebel beer on ice right away. Then when your guest winds up for the first fireside pitch, pour out a couple of rich, creamy Goebels — mellowed in the Cypress Casks — and play the happy host while he plays the game! Remember, too, that Goebel is soothing, relaxing. It's always fully aged — absolutely uniform. Serve more Goebel and you get less gabble.

CHARLEVOIX WON AT ROGERS CITY

SCORED 12 TO 9 VICTORY SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Play at Home This Week, Meeting East Jordan at South Side Athletic Field Saturday

Charlevoix's Red Rayders marked up their second conference football victory Saturday, winning 12 to 9 at Rogers City.

Charlevoix opened the scoring, converting a "break" early in the first period for a touchdown. Backed to their 20-yard strip following a Charlevoix punt, Rogers City's center made a bad pase, the ball rolling ovar their own goal where Olach fell upon it. The try for extra point failed and Charlevoix had a 6 to 0 lead.

Rogers, dominating play during the first half, was deep in Charlevoix territory consistently and near the close of the half scored after a long advance on line bucks and end runs. They failed to convert the extra point and the score stood 6-all at the intermission.

Rogers took the lead in the third period. Intercepting a Charlevoix pass on the local 15-yard strip, the losers advanced to Charlevoix's t0. Three plays failed to produce ground. On the fourth down a perfectly executed place-kick netted three points and n 9 to 6 advantage.

Charlevoix scored the winning touchdown in the final period. A long advance on hucks and passes ended with a forward, Bert Pearl to Carey, over the Rogers City goai.

While Charlevoix was oat-played during the first half, they carried the battle into Rogers City territory in the second. Fumbles and two particular penalties spoiled scoring chances for the Rayders, as had similar had "breaks" wrecked the losers' opportunity in the first two periods.

Charlevoix's line-up Saturday placed Goss and Richardson at left end; E. Nowland, lt; Bob Pearl, lg; A. Bergmann, center; Olack and Driggett, rt; House, rg; Bert Pearl, re; Gallagher, qb; Gengle and Nowland, hb; Carey, fallback.

Charlevoix plays at home this week, meeting East Jordan at south side athletic field Saturday afternoon. Jordan has won from Mancelona and played a tie with Harbor Springs. They defeated Frankfort in a non-conference contest.

At a special meeting of the city council Tuesday evening, request of the Standard Oil Company for permit to construct n service station on the east side of Bridge street, between Mason and Clinton, was denied.

The Standard Oil Company request was merely a formality, it is understood, to release them from options held on the Goldstick, Wilkins, Meyer and Merriam properties, which the city council recently voted to acquire for the purpose of extension of East Park.

SUPERVISORS CONCLUDED ACTIVITIES

EIGHT-DAY SESSION ADJOURNED FOLLOWING COMPLETION OF BUSINESS LATE TUESDAY AFTERNOON

County-Wide Efforts to Attract Additional Tourist Business Given Recognition by Increased Appropriations for Advertising and Fish Propagation

Completing the work of their annaal October session late Tuesday afternoon, Charlevoix county supervisors adjourned an eight-day session which had its occasions removed from complete harmony.

One of the chief causes of discord was the matter of expenses for County Agent B. C. Mellencamp, who was ander fire during the final days of the session. A committee recommendation of $1,500 for expenses carried by a small margin and resulted in a minority motion asking Mellencamp's resignation. The motion lost 13 to 10 with two supervisors not voting. Before adjournment, however, the board passed a resolution requiring Mellencamp to furnish his own automobile and providing a flat $300 for expenses. The county had previously furnished a car.

Budget Slightly Higher

The budget for 1937-38, aggregating $78,392.38 and requiring 8.9 millis, compares with $75,127.42 and 8.5 mills last year. Comparative valuation figures are $8,808,133 for the current year and $8,838,520 last year.

The list of appropriations is aimilar, but contains several items not incladed a year ago. Appropriations included $740 for Charlevoix Hospital; $36 for National Reemployment office at Petoskey; $75 for the Salvation Army; $100 for the Michigan Children's Aid Society; $150 for the Starr Commonwealth; $50 for the Michigan Beekeepers' Association to combat foul brood; $250 for Whiting county park, a drop of $450 for last year; $500 for permanent improvements at the fair grounds, an increase of $100; $75 for county picnic; $425 for office expenses of District Health Unit; $50 for grasshopper poison.

Behrens Permanent Deputy

Edgar Behrens, for several years part-time motorcycle patrolman, was made a permanent deputy sheriff and placed on u yearly salary. Recognizing Behrens' valuable services, the board gave him permanent employment.

While officers' salaries remain at the figures set last year, deputies were given the following raises: Deputy clerk $10 per month, deputy treusurer $15, deputy register of deeds $16.66.

The board appropriated $16,000 for poor relief and infirmary expense, also $6,000 for mothers' pensions. Last year's allotment was $24,000 and no allowance was made for dependent children, or mothers' pensions.

Aid Road Maintenance

The road commission's report showed expenditures of $24,492.53 for trunk line maintenance, $41,977.44 for maintenance of 122.1 miles of county roads, $25,280.44 for township road maintenance, and $36,257.84 for equipment and repairs. The board appropriated $2,000 to the road commission for expenditure on township road work on a basis of population. The appropriation was a compromise gesture, ao to speak, aimed to increase the commission's maintenance funds to an extent permitting sponsorship of Boyne Falls and Richardson Hill WPA road projects which would provide state participation to the extent of approximately $30,000, largely labor. The commission's contribution, however, woald have depleted maintenance fands to an extent where the appropriation was needed to provide for township highway work.

Increase Advertising Fund

Recognition of efforts to increase tourist business in Charlevoix county was acknowledged and aided through an appropriation of $1,500 to the advertising committee, an increase of $700 over last year. Using an appropriation of $800 made a year ago, a county-wide resort advertising program was launched last spring. The program included erection of sign boards, printing and distribution of 30,000 resort folders extolling the tourist attractions of the county and other features. Clarence B. Meggison, chairman of the advertisIng committee, will again seek the cooperation of various county civic groups in a more extensive program for 1938.

Fish and Game Fuod Increased

The board showed its recognition of good fishing as a tourist attraction by increasing the appropriation to the fish and game committee from $600 to $800 for the 1937-38 year. This fund is to be divided $300 each for the Charlevoix and East Jordan sportsmen's organizations, and $100 each for Boyne City and Beaver Island providing the latter establish organizations for the propagation of fish and game.

Airport Funds Appropriated

An appropriation of $200 was granted for airports, $150 for Charlevoix and $50 for Beaver Island. The board reiterated a previous offer to grant $500 for purchase of an airport on Beaver Island, providing, however, that the islanders raise a similar amount. This project at one time had WPA approval and has been held ap due to failare to procure the needed property.

The directors have already started plans for 1938 and through the suggestions written will be able to ascertain what the citizens desire.

Everyone is requested to reserve the evening of November 4 for this annual event.

LOCAL MEN DIRECTORS TOURIST ASSOCIATION

F. J. Fessenden, F. E. Cartier Elected; Dr. Dean Convention Speaker

Floyd J. Fessenden and Fred E. Cartier were elected directors of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association at the annaal meeting held last Wednesday in Grand Rapids.

Dr. Carleton Dean, director of District Health Unit No. 3, was one of the principal speakers on an extensive program.

Governor Frank Murphy and the state administrative board were targets of resolations passed by the association as the outgrowth of the manner in which the state's $50,000 advertising fund is being spent.

The direct charge against Murphy is that the secretaries of the four tourist and resort associations in the state, representing a $300,000,000 indastry, second largest in Michigan, have been unable to secure even a five minute audience with the governor to discass the manner in which the state advertising fund shoald be ased.

MOVE STARTED FOR NEW COURT HOUSE

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS TAKES DEFINITE ACTION

Appropriate Nucleus of Building Fund and Appoint Committee to Study and Recommend Need

As the resalt of action taken at the October session of the board of supervisors, definite steps are under way to provide a much needed new Charlevoix county court house.

Acting upon their own knowledge that the present building is not only inadequate hut ansafe, as well as the arge embodied in a petition presented hy taxpayers requesting such an improvement, the solons launched the preliminary steps in a movement which is destined to bring resalts.

An appropriation of $1,000 as a nacleas for a court house fund, contained in the ways and means committee report, was approved. The board further voted to turn over to the fund all sinking fund money impounded in banks when released. These fands are understood to aggregate aroand $15,000.

The present coart hoase and grоand committee, composed of Supervisors R. C. Korth, John Parker, and A. J. Bolhuis, was augmented by the appointment of Supervisors Howard Stephens and William M. Sanderson, County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow and Robert F. Sloan, to form a committee instructed by the board to gather plans, estimates and other information for report at the January session of the board. This committee has already inspected the new court house at Alpena and have their work in progress.

It is of no little gratificatlon that the board of supervisors has started a definite movement to obtain a new court house. It is a matter of record through a report of the state fire marshal's department that the present building is a fire-trap. Offices are not only crowded and inadequate, but have insufficient and unsafe vaults for storage of records which, if destroyed, could not be replaced and would be a terrific loss to the county.

For this reason alone, if not others, a new court house should be provided. Concerted public support behind the present movement is advisable and sought.

TB CLINIC HERE ON WEDNESDAY, OCT. 27

SECOND COUNTY EVENT TO BE HELD IN CHARLEVOIX

District Health Unit No. 3, Uoder the Directioo of Dr. Carleton Deao, Spoosoring Examination

Charlevoix county's second tuberculosis Christmas seal clinic of the current year will be held in Charlevoix, Wednesday, October 27, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association annoanced this week. As was the earlier clinic—held in May—it will be sponsored locally by the District Health Unit No. 3, under the direction of Dr. Carleton Dean.

Efforts will be concentrated again apon the examination of contacts—those who have been exposed to a case of active tuberculosis. Nearly the entire cost of the clinic will ba financed with funds raised in Charlevoix county through the sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals, the association explained.

The clinic will be part of a statewide project being carried on during 1937 by the Michigan Tubercalosis Association and cooperating local health departments. The objective of the extensive case-finding program is to bring to as many as possihle who have been exposed to tuberculosis, the modern weapons that control the spread of the disease. The first group of contacts was X-rayed in tha county following a four month study by the association which revealed the need for a thorough check-up in the state of those who had heen exposed to the dangerous germs. The survey showed that the contacts—some 1,700 of them—of more than half the patients in hat three of Michigan's sanatoriums had never been tuberculin tested or X-rayed following their exposure. The decision to carry on a series of X-ray clinics in counties all over the state followed this discovery. The association plans to visit each county two or three times daring 1937.

A list of those who are to be examined on this visit to Charlevoix county has been compiled under the direction of Dr. Dean. The number is necessarily limited each time because of limited funds. Admission cards have been distributed to those who are to be examined.

X-rays will be made with the Michigan Tuberculosis Association's portable unit, in charge of Arnold J. Linden, technician.

All contacts who have not been reached by the nssociation or the cooperating District Health Unit, were urged to communicate by mail at once with the Health Department ut Charlevoix, or report for an interview when the clinic is held in Charlevoix, Wednesday, October 27.

Series of 3 Dairy Feeding Schools Announced

This is the time of year when all dairymen should be considering the quantity of feed necessary, the quality of feed and the type of feed most profitable to be used this coming winter. Each year presents its unusual problems. It is felt that dairy men will deeply appreciate having the opportunity to meet and talk over their feeding problems, and what better time than now to reserve for this purpose.

These meetings will consist of three and all be completed before the first of the year. The first meeting will be held in the I. O. O. F. hall, East Jordan, beginning promptly at 11 o'clock on Thursday, October 28. Use the side entrance which is located just east of the bank building.

Here is some good news. The Jordan Valley Creamery is cooperating by furnishing coffee and doughnuts to supplement the lunch that you will bring for the noon hour. Also we are very fortunate in having J. G. Hayes, specialist in the dairy department, to present the material. Hayes is noted for not only his knowledge of subject matter, but for his wit and comedy. Believe me, it will be a most interesting and instructive session.

The first meeting will be on the general requirements for a feed program reviewing the special feeding conditions which exist during the fall and winter, and explaining prices of pound of nutrients, adjustable protein, balanced rations, etc.

I am sure you will want to attend this dairy meeting to be held on Thursday, October 28, beginning promptly at 11 o'clock, and extending until possibly 3 or 3:30 in the afternoon. Bring your own lunch with you and we will supplement that with coffee and doughnuts.

State Ram Truck in County Wednesday Afternoon, October 27

The state ram truck has been definitely scheduled to meke its annual appearance in this county on Wednesday afternoon, October 27, at the farm of Fred Willis, commonly known as the Orchard Bay Farm. You will have the opportunity of seeing some very high quality rams of all leading breeds and with different price tags attached to them.

Delmer H. LaVoi, specialist from the Michigan State College, will he present and will discuss how to select the proper ram. He will also show the various points in judging rams and in the development of better fleeces. The load will be unloaded so that everyone can make a more thorough study of each individual.

The public is invited to bring in a purebred ram for exchange if they desire. Every ram on the truck is purebred and will be transferred to the new owner immediately. It is hoped that all farmers interested in sheep will plan on seeing this truck load of high quality rams. The prices will probably vary from maybe $25 up to $60.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

New Form Now Used for Gas Tax Refund

To facilitate the mailing out by the state of checks to cover gasoline tax refunds to those entitled to tham, Leon D. Case, secretary of state, has authorized a new refund claim form rsquiring more detailed information than has heretofore beon sought on such reports.

The state's gasoline tax law provides that any such tax paid on such fuel used for purposes other than to propel a motor vehicle on a public highway, must be refunded to the person paying it, on proper application. The average year's gas tax refund volume ranges over $1,000,000 a year; the checks going largely to those using the fuel for agricultural purposes.

The new claim form requires that the monthly consumption of fuel by each motorized unit be listed hy an individual orperating more than one, seeking a refund. The more detailed information permits the department to pass on the merit of all claims within a more reasonable time, whereas with the form previously used, investigators were frequently required to check applications on which additional information was sought. This procedure necessarily slowed down the refunding process.

CORRESPONDENCE

CENTRAL LAKE

Edd Klooster is having a sale and quitting farming.

Charles Bennett has heen threshing beans and radishes in the vicinity the past few weeks.

Forrest Dewey, the barber at Ellsworth, with his family, visited at the John Dawson home at Central Lake, Sunday, also with his father, William Dewey, and family, east of Bellaire.

The local canning factory has been canning beets for quite awhile and is preparing for a large run on squash and pumpkins, and have big piles of them stacked up both inside and outside of the factory.

There was a large attendance at the funeral of Mrs. Barnum, who passed away at Central Lake last week, sho having been a long respected resident there. She had been stopping lately nt the home of Mrs. Hodges.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Andersan, of Creswell, were visitors over the week-end at the John Dawson home at Central Lake. Mrs. Lester Dawson is much improved since her operation for appendicitis. Miss Tinney Dawson is back home from Ellsworth and is getting along nicely since her recent illness.

Lester Dawson and Harold have returned from Detroit, and find there is not much sale for apples, although a lot of inferior apples and potatoes are being sold there. Ivan Morse has returned from Detroit, after taking Miss Virginia Arnold back there, after he attendance at the funeral.

Mrs. John Smith, 73 years of age, passed away at Central Lake last week Wednesday morning after several weeks' illness. Mrs. Smith had been a resident at Atwood and Central Lake for several years, and was a sister of John Smallegan, former business man of Central Lake, but now of California.

The death of Albert Barnes occurred last week at Creswell. He was an old and respected rosident of that vicinity, and was a former school director when the writer taught school there for five years. He had held many district and township offices. He had been a sufferer with the palsy for many years. All the children were able to be present at the funeral except Robert, of Washington state.

Attendances at Sunday school last Sunday were: Creswell, 18; Turner, 19; Bay View, 27; Grand View, 23; Pentecostal, 42. Rev. G. A. Weaver, missionary, of Petoskey, was present at Bay View and Grand View. He is now in his 46th year of work, and apparently about as healthy as ever, although he was retired four years ago at the age of 70. A recent pamphlet sent out hy the American Sunday School Union relates that he has had 1056 conversions, 1400 members, 270 schools, and made 12,000 pastoral visits in his time as Sunday school worker. He has had several pupils become ministers, missionaries, and Sunday school workers. He and Mrs. Weaver have recently returned from a three weeks' visit to Ohio, where he attended an 11-day session of the National Sunday School Conference of American Sunday School Delegates from five states, held at Columbus. He is recovering from being bitten at Petoskey, and knocked down by a large dog. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver both had the misfortune to fall down stairs at their summer camp on Crystal Lake, northeast of Petoskey.

Jay Yongedike, formerly a Central Lake resident, but now living on the Thomas farm at Snowflake, proved himself a real hero there last Saturday. He was just walking across the road at Thomas' Corners at 5:15 p. m., as Ralph Flickinger, driving a '34 Buick car, came by, at about 35 miles an hour. In the seat besido him was A. J. Dole, of Bellaire, and in the rear seat, Mrs. A. J. Dole and Mrs. Ralph Flickinger. They waved at him as they passed. In a moment, as they reached the swamp, a fow rods east of the corner, he saw the car turn a somersault, throwing Mrs. Flickinger through the rear right window, and the others through tho top of the car. He jumped into his own car and immediately rushed to the scene. Mrs. Flickinger was crawling on hands and knees at first, and then got up and walked to the side of the road, apparently dazed. He picked Mr. Dole up out of tho water in the ditch and put him in his car with the help of his father, who had now arrived. Mrs. Dole was placed in the car, and they then turned their attention to Mr. Flickinger, who had been scalped with the top of his head hanging over the right ear. After being cleaned with a cloth, the scalp was placed back. Mr. Flickinger recognized Jay Yongedike, and talked rational. Mr. Dole had sufferod a fracture of the shoulder. Mrs. Dole had ribs broken. The sheriff arriving, the injured were taken to Bellaire, where Mr. Dole expired about 7 p. m., that evening. Mrs. Dole, Sunday, was in a very serious condition, and Ralph had signs of recovery. Jay Yongedike certainly was very cool and collected to go through such an ordeal, and when he related the incident to us Sunday evening, said that he hadn't dreamed about it the night before, and still seemed to be very calm. He surely needs the commendation of everybody for such brave work, as well as his father, Jake Yongedike.

LAKE LOUISE PERCH DIE OF MYSTERIOUS PLAGUE

Thousands Washed Up On Shore of Lake In East End of County

During the past few weeks perch have been dying by the thousands in Lake Louise (Thumb Lake) according to reports of fishermen and conservation officers.

No cause for the wholesale death of the perch has been advanced as yet but several local fishermen have stated that this situation has occurred at regular intervals for several years. The death cycle being about every eight or ten years.

The shores of Lake Louise at the present time are littered with thousands of dead fish. Local conservation officers have made a report of the situation to the state division of fisheries, but as yet no word has been received from them to definitely determine the cause of the epidemic.—Boyne Citizen.

PUBLIC HEALTH INSTITUTE SATURDAY, OCT. 30

Meeting, Embracing District Health Unit No. 3, at Boyne City

This year the public health institute, which has been formerly a Charlevoix county affair, has now been enlarged so as to include the four counties of District No. 3, namely, Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

Those in charge are very fortunate this year in obtaining a group of interesting speakers for this institute, which will be held at the school house in Boyne City, Saturday, October 30, commencing at 10 o'clock and lasting until 3 p. m.

Included in this list of speakers are Dr. Joseph Egle, superintendent of the Northern Michigan Tuberculosis Sanatorium; Dr. William R. Davis, director of the bureau of dental hygiene of the Michigan Department of Health, and Professor J. Muyskens, of the University of Michigan.

At the present time Professor Muyskens holds the position of associate professor of phonetics in the department of general linguistics and speech. Professor Muyskens possesses the faculty of making his lectures highly interesting and understandable to his audience. He possesses a charming and magnetic personality in addition to a pleasing voice and impressive delivery.

This institute is free to the public and they are cordially invited to attend. Be sure not to miss this excellent opportunity of hearing this fine group of speakers.

SOCIAL SECURITY CARD ASSET IN JOB HUNTING

Re-Employment Director Urges Unemployed to Apply for Cards

Unemployed residents of Michigan who have not yet applied for Social Security cards were urged to do so today by Major Howard Starret, state director of the National Reemployment Service.

"From time to time we still find many men and women who have not yet applied for these identifying cards," Starret said. "Failure to produce this card can result in delay or failure of qualified applicants to receive jobs in private industry."

Many agencies, like the CCC camps, are making sure that discharged enrollees and employes are provided with Social Security cards before registering wit hthe NRS.

"However, there are still many people such as former federal employes, youths just entering the minimum age group, and persons who have been ill, who do not have these cards," Starret pointed out. "Employers usually insist that job applicants have their Social Security numbers before going on the job."

Social Security form SS-5 can be obtained through local post offices or by writing direct to Social Security offices in Michigan.

A while back automobiles approached grade crossings, paused a second, and then drove square into the mouth of a locomotive. But the driver of today has had it pounded into his head that there is only one way to avoid crossing fatalities; and that is to come to a complete stop at every crossing.

DUTCH BULBS GIVE COLORS IN WINTER

M. S. C. Specialist Tells Householders Best Methods to Follow

Tulips and daffodils from February to May are possible for any house holder willing to spend a few minutes this fall and during the winter. How to do the job is described by C. E. Wildon, specialist in floriculture at Michigan State College.

"All hardy Dutch hulbs are easily forced," says Professor Wildon. "Florists and nurserymen now have supplies which should be planted this fall in six or seven inch 'three quarter' standurd pots or azalea pots.

"A fibrous well drained garden loam can be enriched with not more than one fifth well rotted cow manure. A few stones for drainage in the bottom of the pot should be covered with soil filling half the pot. Then place the bulbs on this soil so that they stand about a half inch apart, using six to ten bulbs in each pot."

These pots then are filled with soil and firmed by pressing down between the bulbs with the tips of the fingers. A small label in each pot will denote variety.

Thorough watering should be the next step. After draining, the pots should be placed in a sheltered position out-of-doors and watered as often as necessary. After freezing weather the pots should be covered with two to three feet of leaves or straw.

In early February the pots can be brought in a few at a time for a succession of bloom. They should be placed in a window in the coolest part of the house. Tulips, hardy narcissi, crocus, lily of the valley and hyacinths may be treated by the same process.

MANY TOOK PART IN INITIAL COLOR TOUR

Motor Caravan Covered Route in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties

A caravan of 50 motor cars helped the Charlevoix County Merchants' Fall Beauty Tour off to n good start last Sunday afternoon, when nature lovers of this region started on their first annual beauty tour in an organized manner.

The tour was staged jointly by the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce and the Boyne City Progressive Club for the purpose of arousing interest in the scenic possibilities of Charlevoix county.

Starting at Enst Jordan at 2 p. m. the tour party was joined at Boyne City by that city's delegation. From this point the tour proceeded to the intersection of the county road and US-131 beyong Horton's Bay, where they were joined by the harlevoix contingent.

The party then traveled to Petoskey and from there headed toward Mancelona. The entourage stopped on the Walloon Lake scenic lookout and on Niles Hill at the entrance to the Jordan.

In view of the fact that it was the first effort to popularize the beauty of Northern Michigan in its autumn beauty, results were more than gratifying at the hearty response.

POTATO INSPECTORS NAMED FOR DISTRICT

Lawrence Stover, East Jordan, Will Serve Charlevoix Region

Two important changes affecting handling of the 1937 potato crop were called to attention of potato handlers today by John B. Strange, commissioner of Department of Agriculture. Under order by United States Department of Agriculture, all interstate shipments of potatoes must bear federal grading certificate while under state law all graders of this product must pass examination conducted by federal inspectors, according to Commissioner Strange.

Official stations to serve various potato growing sections have been established by the department. Lawrence Stover has been assigned by the department to East Jordan, this station to serve the Charlevoix, Boyne City, Ellsworth, Central Lake, Boyne Falls and East Jordan districts.

Inspector Stover will be available not only for the grading of the tuber crop but will conduct examination for graders in this district. Commissioner Strange pointed out that the grader's application must bear inspector's approval when received in the Lansing office as well as the endorsement of two references. Upon receipt of properly approved application, the department will issue to the grader a license, bearing his number.

All closed containers of potatoes must carry the grader's number, the card or tag or brunding reading, "The contents of this package have been graded by Michigan licensed grader No. ....." Improperly graded potatoes may result in revocation of the grader's license, according to Commissioner Strange, which may be readily traced by the license number.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Typhoid Fever Control

There is perhaps no other disease in which the effectiveness of public health and sanitation measures has been so strikingly demonstrated as in the case of typhoid fever control during the past generation. Thirty years ago, in 1907, Michigan recorded 594 deaths and a death rate of 22.05 persons per 100,000 population from this preventable disease. As a result of public health measures the state last year recorded but 37 typhoid fever desths with a death rate of .73 per 100,000 population.

One of the greatest remaining menacea in typhoid fever control is the typhoid carrier, a person, apparently healthy, who carries typhoid fever germs in his intestines or urinatic tract. Such a person is especially dangerous if he is a food handler, for he may cause many cases of typhoid fever each year through handling food with unwashed hands or through personal contact with others. Such carriers must be prevented from endangering the lives of those about them. The enormity of this problem is apparent when it is known that of the approximately 1200 carriers in Michigan, only 200 of these have been discovered.

Records show that there has been no reduction in the typhoid fever rate throughout our district as far back as 1920. Antrim county continues to show approximately the same number of typhoid fever cases; Charlevoiy county is about the same, not having had any cases in 1935 or 1936, although there has been one case in 1937; Emmet county has had four continuous years without a case of typhoid; while Otsego county has gone six years without any typhoid fever.

Typhoid fever has been found to be most prevalent among persons who use privies or outdoor toilets and drink water from wells and springs.

Among the preventive measures which havo come into great prominence are procedures for the discovery and supervision of typhoid fever carriers. There is great need for more intensive case investigation and for the supervision of carriers. Typhoid fever now helongs to a group of communicable diseases in which the diagnosis must be confirmed and the health officer must participate in the management of individual cases.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p.m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Probation after Death" will he the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 24.

The Golden Text, from Matthew 24:13, is "He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Galatians 6:9): "And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 262): "Consecration to good does not lessen man's dependence on God, but heightens it. Neither does consecration diminish man's obligations to God, hut shows the paramount neceasity of meeting them."

OUR PLACE IN THE SUN

Do you enjoy the freedom that is yours? Do you enjoy tbe riches that are yours, whether great or small? How far will you go in keeping this place for yourself secure?

Most towns and communities are beginning their annual welfare drives. You have probably budgeted what you feel to be a fair contribution on your part. But—you can probably double the amount with no severe hardship to yourself.

America is a country where titles are forbidden, or not encouraged. There is, however, a titled class of people in the country, the titled rich. In this class are persons like Irene Castle, who recently announced she could not possibly live on an income of $750 per week.

Fortunately, or unfortunately, as you will, the laboring class in the country has learned to read. And when a man who has to live on $25 per month reads that another cannot live on $750 per week there is bound to be a surging up in his breast of the injustice of such things.

Perhaps these persons who enjoy their place in the sun might do more to keep it.

"Let them eat cake," said a certain French queen, when the peasants begged they had no bread. Her fate was the guillotine.

At this season when we are asked to share with others less fortunate we might well ask ourselves if we cannot do still a little more than at first we thought possible.

A FAIR RETURN?

The Northwestern Life Insurance Company reports in a survey that everyone of us now works from one to three months for the government. That does not mean only those who pay income taxes. It means all of us—because we all pay invisible taxes. We pay them on every piece of bread, everything we eat, every cigarette we smoke, every ride we take, every movie we see, etc., etc. If we stay right at home we pay because one-fourth of our rent goes for taxes. Do you think you are getting a fair return for the large part of your income given to the government? Are you resentful and indignant with the continued foolish spending, questioning the motive behind the false reasoning which is given?

If so, you belong to the league of the hard-hearted too. But we are grateful for hard hearts if they save us from our accusers' softening of the brain.

CHICKENS

The American people are the greatest chicken-eaters in the world. In spite of the fact that the bill of fare in the United States is more varied than elsewhere, a guess that any special dinner in this country will feature chicken takes little risk of going wrong.

In view of these facts, the recent announcement that the seventh World's Poultry Congress is to be held in Cleveland in 1939 has news value. The sixth meeting of the organization was in Leipzig, Germany, in 1936. Congress has appropriated $100,000 to help with expenses of the Cleveland meeting.

The importance of the poultry industry in this country is shown by official reports that income from it exceeds that of all grains produced. Last year the total value of poultry and poultry products approached a billion dollars. Supplying chicken dinners and breakfast eggs takes rank as a big business.—The Detroit News.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Aon Page

Eggs are an outstanding value considering the season and, unlike most foods, they are cheaper this year than last. Meats are again higher. Egg dishes alone or combined with cheese make appetizing and inexpensive dinner or supper dishes.

A bumper crop of apples makes this fruit an excellent one to use freely, especially as oranges are high. For variety bananas and grapefruit may be chosen.

As frosts strike many sections of the country the supply of home grown vegetables must be supplemented with those from the south and west.

Seasonable foods make up the following menus.

Low Cost Dinoer

Meat Loaf Scalloped Potatoes
Cabbage and Carrot Slaw
Bread and Butter
Dutch Apple Cake
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner

Fricassee of Chicken with Dumplings
Mashed Sweet Potatoes and Turnips
Green Beans
Bread and Butter
Snow Pudding Custard Sauce
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinoer

Grape, Banana and Grapefruit Cup
Baked Ham Mashed Potatoes
Cauliflower in Cream
Salad of Mixed Greens
Rolls and Butter
Apple Pie Cheese
Tea or Coffee Milk

A theater to cure marriage trouble? An eminent psychiatrist encourages husbands and wives to fight their battles over again on the stage. Read this article in the American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald and Examiner.

NOTHING TO LOSE

A test made over a period of three years hy a research group showed that a six-hour day raised the efficiency of workers 15 to 30 per cent above an eight-hour day. The workers made more money and the company more dividends.

For many months we have stressed the importance of creating extra jobs. If this were consistently done over the length and breadth of the nation the creator of the job would soon he doubly paid.

To quote Mr. Roosevelt: "American industry has searched the outside world to find new markets, but it can crente on its very doorstep the biggest and most permanent market it has ever had. A few more dollars a week in wages, a better distribution of jobs, with a shorter working day, will overnight make millions of our lowest paid workers nctual buyers of billions of dollars of industrial and farm products."

This applies to every business man, every manufacturer and even to housewives. If you have a job which needs doing, if you have too much work for too few men, if you do your own washing when you can afford the laundry or outside help, then you are the one to whom this applies. Stretch your ranks and let in one of the jobless.

EXTRAVAGANCE

Can you imagine a stack of silver dollars as tall as the Washington Monument? That is 555 feet high, and such a stack would contain approximately $66,000.

It represents the number of dollars the federal government spends every four minutes and 19 seconds.

Now if you will try to visualize 333 stacks of silver dollars, each as high as the Wnshington Monument, you will hegin to have some idea of the colossal amount of money your government spends every 24 hours.

The rate of spending exceeds $22,200,000 a day, which would make 333 stacks of silver dollars 555 feet high. For the last three years the expenditures of the government have averaged more than eight billion dollars a year.

The government spends $257 every second in the year—even whlle you sleep. That is enough to disturb the slumber of sny citizen, who may well contemplate with alarm the consequences to himself and his family of several years of government spending at the rate of almost two dollars for every one received. We are in the eighth year of federal deficits. The da yof reckoning cannot longer he delayed. New taxes on top of those that are already burdensome are coming next year, and the year after that, and for many years to come.

Isn't it about time for the American people to call a halt on government waste and extravagance?

Let's cut down the number of silver dollar stacks about the Washington Monument.—Ex.

CCC BUILDING AVAILABLE FOR PUBLIC USE

Cong. Luecke Outlines Procedure Necessery to Procure Property

Rep. John Luecke, of Escanaba, has been advised by Robert Fechner, director, CCC, Washington, D. C., that, under certain conditions, abandoned CCC camps are avalluble to various organizations.

In his letter to Luecke, Fechner said: "Under the law, the property must first be declared surplus to the further use of the CCC. The director of procurement then circularizes all government agencies to determine if constructive use can be made of the camp buildings, after which, requests from the state, county and community authorities are considered, where the property will be used for recreational, forestry or park departments of the state, community centers, etc. Finally, consideration is given to the requests of Boy Scout troops, American Legion posts, 4-H clubs, camps for underprivileged children, and any others falling within the category of education, recreation and health. All of this is contained in the Act of May 29, 1935, Public No. 82, 74th Congess.

"The usual pocedure is for the applicants to make formal request through the regional officers of the service which occupied the camp when it was closed, as the recommendation is forwarded to the headquartera of the service in Washington from the field."

Rep. Luecke will be glad to receive applications from any of the organizations listed above and asks that intereated parties communicate with his office at once.

AND IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE, TOO,

that folks from rural districts still visit in the city with sizeable aums of CASH on their persons—yet it's true. Metropolitan newspapers frequently report large sums of cash lost by visitors, or stolen or swindled from them. MANY NEW LAWS GO INTO EFFECT OCT. 29

MARRIAGE PHYSICAL EXAM IS AMONG IMPORTANT

Occupational Disease Act Protects Workers; "Use Tax" Equalizes Out-of-State Compatition

Far-reaching social legislation is included among 126 new laws which go into effect October 29 in Michigan.

Passed by the 1937 regular session of the Legislature, the acts, signed along with 349 others by Gov. Frank Murphy, were delayed for 90 days following adjournment because they were not given immediate effect. The 349 others have been operative since their enactment.

Most publicized of the new laws is that requiring physical examinations for prospective brides and grooms. The pre-nuptial physical examination act, designed to prevent marriage of persons with venereal diseases, actually became effective last Saturday due to Michigan's five-day notice marriage license law.

County clerks throughout the state reported record-breaking sales of marriage licenses to couples seeking to obtain their licenses before the medical examinations were required.

Other laws to protect public health which become effective at 12:01 a. m. Friday are:

1. The famed occupational disease act setting up a schedule of 31 diseases compensable under similar conditions to the industrial accident law for workers contracting them during employment.

2. The basic science law which will require persons seeking to practice any of the healing arts to pass examinations in basic sciences.

A new "use tax" imposing a three per cent levy on goods purchased outside Michigan for use in this state will go into effect Friday as the state seeks to equalize competition of out-of-state merchants and Michigan businesses which must pay a three per cent retail sales tax. The state also expects to collect $1,500,000 yearly under this tax hich provides penalties for both seller and buyer of merchandise from outside the state if they fail to report it.

Automobile owners will see little change in the new automobile license act setting March 1 as the deadline for securing new licenses instead of January 1. The 10 months postponement of the deadline which in past years has made March 1 the effective deadline will be banned in the future, making that date absolute. Automobile dealers, however, already have been protesting to Secretary of State Leon D. Case about the ne act. He declared he would not set a date for placing licenses on sale. They declared his action was delaying sales of new automobiles.

Another act aiding taxpayers reduces from 50 to 10 per cent the profit to tax title buyers in reducing penalties on redemption of property for non-payment of taxes.

Other new laws will affect persons in nearly all walks of life. For the hunter they will set up revised game laws and raise fees for non-resident hunters.

Truck drivers ill be prohibited from working more than 12 consecutive hours. Firemen can remain on duty only 24 hours out of 48 except in emergencies.

Life-Long Baroard Resident Diad at Farm Home Last Saturday

TRAPPING SEASON OPENS NOVEMBER 1

EXPECT 12,500 LICENSES WILL BE ISSUED IN STATE

Seasons In Michigan Outlined Aloog With Naw Ragulations Passad by Last Legislatura

An estimated 12,500 residents will hegin setting traps November 1 to engage in an industry which annually ylelds approximately nne million dollars.

On that date, the first group of fur-bearing animals for which the State Conservation Department designates seasons may be legally taken.

Game division officials predicted a better than average season for Michigan trappers. To offset a decrease in opossum were reports that the number of muskrat had been measurably boosted because of wet weather last summer and that supplies of raccoon and mink were substantially the same as last year. Skunks, which on October 29 will be removed from the state's list of protected game, were reported numerous.

Under terms of a new game law effective October 29, non-residents may not trap in Michigan and residents must buy trapping licenses. The Conservation Department also warned of regulations which prohibit setting unidentified traps in areas frequented by wild animals or using portions of protected animals or birds for bait.

Last year, trappers reported taking 17,500 raccoon; 4,130 beaver; 1,742 badger; 1,287 red fox; 14,233 nposum; 613,844 muskrat; 15,891 mink; 105,304 skunks, and 40,159 weasels.

Trapping seasons are listed below:

Mink, Muskrat—November 1-30 in Upper Peninsula; November 15 in zone two, a Lower Peninsula area north of the north line of townline 16 and west of Saginaw Bay; December 1-31 in zone three, in the Lower Peninsula south of the same line.

Opossum, Badger—November 1-January 31.

Racconn—Novemher 15-Decemher 15 in znne two; December 1-15 in zone three; no open season in the Upper Peninsula.

Coyote, wolf, lynx, bobcat, fox, skunk, porcupine, woodchuck, weasel and red squirrel may be taken at any time. The conservation commission will designate open seasons for beaver and otter, probably in the spring.

FISH HATCHERY IS OFFERED TO CITY

WILL TAKE STEPS TO ACQUIRE ABANDONED BUILDING

Couocil Discussed Proposal to Add Elactric Plant Unit — May Seak Aid Civic Organizations

Acquisition of the federal fish hatchery building was taken under consideration Monday night by the city council as the result of official notice of abandonment hy the Federal Bureau of Fisheries.

The notification contained what might he construed as an invitation to the city to take over the property and the council directed that action ba taken to ascertain the proper steps and necessary procedure. The hatchery has been dismantled gradually over a period of several years since the policy of taking lake trout and whitefish spawn which were hatched in the hatchery was changed to a closed fishing season. To what use the building would be put in event it is taken over by the city was not determined.

A petition of F. J. Gallagher and other residents on East Lincoln avenue for street lights was referred to the utilities committee with power to act.

The matter of an extension to the present electric light system, demands upon which have reached to a point crowding production capacity, was the subject of considerable discussion. It was brought out that, while the 1937 summer seasnn was successfully passed despite the fact current consumption taxed the capacity of the system on several occasions during August, a break-down of any unit during the peak period would have placed the city in a serious predicament.

That steps will be taken in the near future to bring the proposal for an additional unit before the taxpayers is a certainty in view of the present lack of production capacity. Due to the fact that such a propnsal lost at a special election last spring, it is quite probahle that various civic organizations will be invited to name one of their members on a committee to work in conjunctinn with the city council in hringing a solution to the prohlem.

DATE OF NEW PLATE SALES UNANNOUNCED

Hold Up Revealing Time to Prevent Wait in New Car Purchases

Leon D. Case, secretary of state, issued a statement Tuesday that the date of sale of 1038 license plates would not be announced until within a few hours of the time they would he able to be purchased.

"If I announced it several weeks ahead of time, most everyone thinking of buying a car would wait until after the new plates were on sale, so they wouldn't have to buy both 1937 and 1938 plates," Case explained.

When the sale does begin Case, as has been the custom of the secretary nf state, will issue "special" licenses. For instance, Case's Democrat friends can have plates with LC on them. Or Republicans will he uhle to buy FF (Frank Fitzgerald) plates.

CHARLEVOIX WINS EAST JORDAN TILT

SCORED 26 TO 0 VICTORY IN SATURDAY SNOW STORM

Pearl's Passing Big Factor in Charlevoix's Third Conference Victory—Meet Harbor Saturday

Charlevoix's Red Rayders sloshed through mud and snow to score a decisive 26 to 0 victory over East Jordan here Saturday afternoon. Tha win maintained Charlevnix's second position in the Tip of Michigan Class C conference standing.

The Rayders crossed East Jordan's goal three times in an eventful second period and added the fourth in the final quarter. Pearl's accurate passing was a hig factor in the victory, as was also his punting, which kept the Jordanites mired in their own territory most of the game.

Gallagher made Charlevoix's first two tnuchdowns. After what appeared a sure Charlevoix score fell short, Jordan punted out of hounds on their 25-yard strip. Three plays netted Charlevoix two yards and on the next Pearl tossed a pass to the right nf the field to Gallagher, who made the catch running and crossed the goal.

The game was only a few minutes older when the second touchdown came. Charlevoix kicked off and downed Jordan on their 25-yard line. The visitors tried two successive passes. Gallagher intercepted the second and romped untouched over the goal. Pearl kicked the extra point for a 13 to 0 lead.

Carey scored again before the half ended. Failing to gain after tha kick-off, East Jordan punted to Withers, who returned tn the 35-yard line. Three plays netted little gain. A lateral pass, Pearl to Carey to Gallagher, put the ball nn the visitors' five-yard strip and Carey skirted left end to score on the next play.

Neither team scored during the third quarter nor until mid-way in the fourth until a bad pass from center on fourth down gave Charlevoix the ball on East Jordan's five-yard line. Carey was stopped on a line plunge. Pearl passed to Gallagher, who was downed on the one-yard line. Gengle sneaked through center to scoro.

East Jordan completed three successive passes in a final effort to score and appeared touchdown-bound against a substitute Charlevoix team until the whistle ended the contest.

The line-ups:

CHARLEVOIX		EAST JORDAN
McCafferty	LE	Malpass
E. Nowland	LG	Porter
Bob Pearl	LG	Archer
Bergmann	C	Cihhard
Houso	RG	Hite
Driggett	RT	Hitchcock
Bert Pearl	RE	Antoine
Gallagher	QB	Bennett
Withers	LH	Gee
R. Nowland	RH	Cihak
Carey	FB	Gregory

Tho Rayders take to the road again this week, meeting the down-trodden Harbor Springs team at Harbor. Harbor holds the cellar position in the conference and, in view of comparative recnrds of the two teams, should still be there after Saturday's contest.

KIWANIS OFFERS ENTERTAINMENT IN LIEU HALLOWEEN PRANKS

A soapless, damageless Halloween—not devoid of good, clean fun, however—is the aim of the local Kiwanis Club in sponsoring an entertainment and movie for the boys and girls of this city on Saturday evening, October 30.

While the idea of providing entertainment in lieu of unrestrained Halloween pranks is a new one in Charlevoix, it is being successfully sponsored in other communities. The boys and girls are required, in order to obtain admittance to the entertainment, to sign a pledge to refrain from spreading soap or tallow and otherwise causing property damage during the Halloween season. The pledges will he distributed through the schools.

The entertainment program at the school gymnasium will occupy two hours of feature films and comedies. While the program is primarily for boys and girls, parents may also attend. This year will provide a start for the Kiwanis plan and next year will be made bigger.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

Auto Tag Sales Use Blanks by Million

Although the total number of passenger, commercial and trailer vehicles in Michigan for 1938 will be somewhere in the neighborhood of 1,500,000, Leon D. Case, secretary of state, has ordered 3,300,000 application forms for license plates for these vehicles. Experience of the department has shown that about twice as many forms as there are vehicles are needed to meet the demand of the public.

The human inclination to err accounts for the excess number of blanks—all of which cost taxpayers money. It is not particularly uncommon for applicants to use three, four and even more such blanks, before completing one correctly. The more than 3,000,000 forms are for full year plate applications only. When forms for half year plate and plate transfer applications are added in, the total comes to 5,350,000, which have been ordered for this same 1,500,000 odd motor vehicles.

Total registration of passenger and commercial vehicles, and trailers for 1937, is now in excess of 1,600,000, exceeding last year's total of approximately 1,500,000, records show. On October 19, registrations of these three divisions of motor vehicles were as follows: Passenger, 1,351,338; commercial, 114,358; trailers, 122,258; house trailers, 9,679, for a total of 1,633,645 vehicles.

The statement was based on the fact that the new models embody many vital advances in safety, performance, economy, comfort and style.

Tho age limit, previously set at 70 years, has been lowered to 65, and cltizenship is no longer made a coodition of eligibility. The state will no longer require applicants to assign property and insurance to the state as a condition to receiving assistance, and property so assigned under the 1935 law is to be returned by the state to the owner or to his estate.

The clause in the previous proviaions, denying assistance to persons having legally respnosible relatives capable of glving support, is onitted from the present plan, as well as that giving the state a preferred claim against the estates of deceased recipients.

INCREASE PENALTY FOR KILLING MOOSE OR ELK

Maximum Fine of $500, Jail Sentence of One Year Set by Law

Much stiffer penalties for shooting moose and elk will be applicable during the approaching deer season than could be imposed previously, as a result of action taken by the last Legislature.

The maximum fine for shooting either moose or elk was increased to $500 and the maximum jail sentence was extende dto one year. Previously, the maximum fine was $100 and the maximum jail sentence was 90 days, each of which is now fixed as the minimum. Furthermore, both a fine and jail sentence may be imposed, at the discretion of the court.

Although the violation is still classified as a misdemeanor, the legislative action made it a circuit court instead of justice court offense.

It appears that the war to save democracy is preparing for a return engagement. The line-up this time is to read: England, France, the United States and Russia vs. Japan, Italy and Germany. Of course, the principal outcomo will be the end of democracy, not so much because of the collapse of social institutions as because of the disappearance of the race. William McGuire and family were up from Flint Saturday, and report about five inches of snow over at Grayling, but none after they got to Mancelona and Bellaire.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Liskum and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gaubatz, all of Detroit, also Maud Glasburn, of Linden, called at the Guy Liskum homo at Bay View last Sunday.

Burton Russell and wife were up from Detroit Saturday and Sunday to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Henry Syers. They have been residing in Detroit since their marriage last fall.

Farmers will have to hustle for the next few weeks to get their potatoes and corn harvested. Many acres of potatoes are still in the ground on account of the past three weeks of inclement weather.

Homer Arnold, who accompanied the body of his grandmother, Mrs. Addington, to Lodi, Calif., arrived safely and the funeral was held there. He will return soon to Central Lake. He had beeo employed at Detroit.

Doyle Morse and the twins were business visitors at Kaufman's, Bellaire, last Saturday. It was remarkable to find no snow there after leaving a three inch fall of snow at Central Lake, which came Friday night.

Freakish weather has obtained in the north for some time, but Saturday probably was the greatest. Three inches of snow fell in Central Lake and vicinity Friday night. At Bellaire and Mancelona there was none, nor at Alden. Dust was flying southeast of Bellaire. At Grayling, Mr. McGuire reported five to six inches.

Three accidents occurred recently on swings at school. Fern McGuire was quite badly injured when she fell from a swing one Sunday at Grand View. Marvel Knowles was unconscious for some time Friday, and had to be taken home, when she fell from a swing at Bay View school. A child of Duane Johnsun's had a collar bone broken in a fall from a swing at Maple Hill school, north of Eastport.

Miss June Dunson, of Ball's, will assign the parts in the program to the Ball children for the Thanksgiving exercises of Turner Sunday school, which will be held at Ball school house, and Frances Patton at Turner school. Gloria Barnes will look after the work at Creswell, and Florence and Sylvia DeForest at Grand View. Parents are especially invited to be present at the Thanksgiving exercises to be held on Sunday, November 21.

Friends and ralatives of Mrs. Hanry Syers were deeply grieved to hear of the sudden passing last week. Tha end came suddenly, and many did not know of her death until after the funeral. Mr. and Mrs. Syers have been residents of Central Lake for soveral years, coming here from near the Soo where Mr. Syers worked for a long time in the lumher woods. Deceased was a faithful Christian lady, and a memher of the Free Methodist church at Central Lake for many years. Funeral services were held from the F. M. church at Central Lake at 1 o'elock Sunday, by Rev. Glen Cornett. Remains were interred at Southern cemetery.

MORE SPACE IN REFRIGERATOR, LESS WASTE

"Refrigerator Must Fit the Family Needs," Says Local Dealer

There should be two cubic feet of space in the electric refrigerator for each person in the family, according to Ivan J. Falconer, of Radio-Electric Appliance Co., local Kelvinator electric refrigerator dealer. If there are more than six people in the family, this proportion may be slightly decreased. To secure the maximum efficiency in operation, there must be planned and scientific storage, allowing for plenty of ventilation around the foods.

"When the electric refrigerator is overcrowded, it consumes disproportionate amounts of electric current," asserts Mr. Falconer. "In such cases, lacking the proper ventilation within the cabinet, the food supply is not preserved to the best of the refrigerator's capacity. The refrigerator, which is big enough to hold the entire family stock of food easily, will give greater service in economy and efficiency than that with cramped quarters."

The higher, wider, and bigger cabincts of the latest Kelvinator models is an achievement in scientific design, Mr. Falconer declares, providing more roomy shelf area and greater storage space. These features alone assure the housewife of better refrigeration and less waste.

NO GUN PERMIT NEEDED BY BOUNTY TRAPPERS

New Law Removed Requirement to Obtain Predatory Animal Contract

A permit to carry hunting arms during closed seasons is no longer one of the requirements for the licensing of state bounty trappers, as a result of action taken by the State Conservation Commission.

Previously, trappers, in order to be eligible for a predatory animal contract with the state, were required to have the arms permit whether or not they carried hunting arms during a closed season. The commission ordered the wording of the act under which the bounty contracts are granted to be changed, deleting the clause setting forth the gun permit stipulation.

The trappers must have such a permit, of course, if they do carry arms.

FIRST SNOW STORM OF SEASON HERE FRIDAY

Two-Inch Snow Blanket Sunday — Weather Hindering Harvest

Two inches of snow blanketed the ground in this region following flurries of Friday and Saturday. At no time, however, during the unseasonable storm was the mercury far below the freezing point, the lowest recorded reading being 30 degrees.

Rain, snow and continued damp weather has hindered greatly the potato and apple harvesting in this district.

FOURTH HEALTH CLASS SCHEDULED THIS WEEK

Dr. Bereeta Block to Continue Lectures at Places Announced

Dr. Block's women's health classes will meet next week at the following places for the fourth lecture in the series on maternal and child health programs sponsored by the Michigan Department of Health. The topic this week is "The Care and Training of Babies and Young Children." The locations in this district will be:

Tuesday, November 2—1:30 p. m., Norwood town hall; 7:30 p. m., Charlevoix school.

Wednesday, November 3—1:30 p. m., Hayes town hall; 3:30 p. m., Ironton, Mrs. Ross Alexander's home.

Dr. Block is an exceptionally able and interesting speaker. Her health lectures provide an intelligent educational adventure in the field of public health.

The first year of a baby's life is the most important as far as his future health and development are concerned, declare public health authorities. That is one reason why the next meeting of the women's health class is significant, for Dr. Block of the Michigan Department of Health will discuss the most recent methods recommended for the "Care and Training of Babies and Young Children."

The average baby at birth weighs about seven pounds and measures 20 or 21 inches in length. By the end of the first year the healthy baby should have tripled this weight. This development of the baby, his early habits, and his feeding will be discussed by Dr. Block at the next meeting of the free health class.

AMERICAN LEGION ACTIVITIES

Leslie T. Shapton Post has been working for some time on a registration of veterans' graves in the Charlevoix cemetery. This survey, which is well along toward completion, will list every veteran buried in the local cemetery regardless of what war he participated in and the location of his grave. Copies of the record will be given to the Relief Corps, the cemetery authorities, and to any other civic organizations interested. The post feels a service can be rendered the community by bringing this record up to date, as in later years it will be invaluable.

The annual turkey shoot was postponed to November 7 and the commander appointed a committee composed of Comrades Hamlin, Meggison, Bert Taylor and Lamb, to take care of arrangements. It is planned to have a shelter at the shooting range where persons can get warm between shots.

Plans are being made to augment the German band and make it into a nine or ten piece organization, capable of playing all music arranged for band.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Two and One-Quarter Acres Cleared In Three Hours by Big Caterpillar

The lund clearing demonstration held last week Thursday proved beyond a doubt that the latest methods are far ahead of the old systems. A person can hardly believe that big stumps could be removed as easily as this 13-ton caterpillar did the job.

Even in the case of green elm stumps, this machine did the job. Of course it touk a few minutes to remove the stump and in many cases the side roots had to be sheared off, but apparently ne joh was impossible for this latest equipment.

Another important consideration is the fact that an acre of stumps can be cleared very inexpensively. In the Upper Peninsula severul counties have parchased this machinery to rent out to the furmers at five dollars an hour. This means that, under ordinary conditions, an acre of land csn be cleared for from $5 to $10 sn acre.

Over 50 per cent of those in attendance commented very favorably on the desirability of having one of these machines. While there is no noed for any big land clearing program, many farmers have two or three acres that they want to clear up to straighten out fields, or for various reasons. If there are enough people interested, something may be dune to havo one of these big caterpillars available to rent out at five dollars an hour. Talk with someone who saw this demonstration so that you will know first hand just what can be dane.

Quest for Romaoce Theme of Dietrich Film

When a husband is too occupied with outside interests to give any time to his home, has his wife the right to look elsewhere for romance?

That is the problem treated by the new Marlene Dietrich picture, "Angel," which opens Saturday, October 30, at the Palace Theatre. "Angel" was directed by Ernst Lubitsch and features Herbert Marshall and Melvyn Douglas in top male roles.

Marlene Dietrich plays the wife of Herbert Marshall, who is a diplomat too busy with state affairs to have time for romance. She goes off on a secret trip to Paris, where she meets Melvyn Douglas, who is returning to England after a long sojourn in India. Immediately they fall in love, and spend the one evening she has free together. She refuses to tell her name, saying that although she regrets it, the evening must be looked upon as an incident which cannot be repeated. Douglas names her "Angel." In spite of the appeal of Douglas, she goes back home and takes up her life with Marshall, who does not realize how unhappy she is, and who knows nothing about the Paris trip. She cannot forget the Paris incident, and has difficulty in adjusting herself once more to the ennui of her home life.

NEW TRUNK LINE DESIGNATIONS ANNOUNCED

US-23 Betwaan Cheboygan, Mackinaw to Be Koown Also as US-27

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissloner, announced this week two new federal trunkline designations on the Michigan highway system, effective January 1.

Beginning on that date, US-31 between St. Joseph and the state line via Niles will be known also as US-33 which will continue on to South Bend and as far south as Richmond, Va.

The trunkline between Cheboygan and Mackinaw City will likewise be given a double designation. Now known as US-23, the route will also carry the designation, US-27.

The changes were authorized by the executive committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials which has charge of designating US routes.

THIS COUNTY SHOWN TO HAVE TB DEATH INCREASE

Two More Deaths in 1936 Over 1935 Reported by Michigan Association

Charlevoix county is one of several in Michigan whose 1936 death rate from tuberculosis shows an increase over that of 1935, statistics compiled by the State Department of Health reveal. Discussing this week the need for a continued vigorous anti-tuberculosis campaign, Theodore J. Werle, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, deplored the fact that in a state where there exist such splendid outdoor facilities, as well as fully-equipped sanatoriums, the tuberculosis mortality rate increased rather than decreased sharply as one would expect.

"In Charlevoix county the increase of two tuberculosis deaths as reported by the statistics needs no particular emphasis," Mr. Werle said. "We should not treat lightly, however, the fact that a few deaths in a number of counties has raised the mortality rate for the entire state," he pointed out. "A diference of even two deaths should stimulate local interest in Christmas seal financed anti-tuberculosis projects because the number of tuberculosis deaths should have been less."

"County-wide tuberculosis clinics are a particularly important unit of anti-tuberculosis campaigns," he emphasized. "They bring two modern weapons of early discovery — the tuberculin test and the X-ray—within the reach of everyone."

TABLE STOCK POTATOES ARE TO BE FEATURED

Exhibits in This Class Property of Show for Later Sale in Detroit

The production of quality tablestock potatoes will be stressed in a division open to tablestock growers only, at the Northern Michigan Potato and Apple Show, to be held in the new county road garage in Petoskey on November 3, 4, 5.

Exhibitors in this division will show a 100-pound sample graded U. S. No. 1 of U. S. Fancy and truly represented of stock available for the tablestock market in lots of 200 bushels or more. Each grower will, at the time of entry, file with the secretary of the show a signed statement giving the number of bushels of like quality that he has available for sale.

This information as well as the grower's name and address will be placed on a placard and displayed with his exhibit. This gives the grower an excellent opportunity to advertise his product.

H. C. Moore, potato specialist at the Michigan State College, will judge the exhibits. One hundred fifty cash awards, totaling $362.50, are being offered in this one class.

All exhibits in this class will become the property of the show and will be taken to Detroit to be used in the Consumers' Show in advertising Michigan potatoes.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Medical Supervision to Mother and Infant Important

One of the major objectives of the District Health Department has been adequate and scientific care of the infant. In approaching this objective it has been felt that adequate and scientific care of the mother would have a beneficial effect upon the offspring. In other words, we assume that the health of the mother presupposes the health of her unborn child. This undoubtedly is partly correct but not definitely proved or always so.

A look at our statistics shows that a great many of our infant deaths occur as a result of prematurity. For instance, out of 53 infant deaths in 1936 within this district, 17 or nearly one-third were due to premature birth, and 10 or approximately one-fifth were due to pneumonia. From this we can see that a part of our efforts must be toward a reduction of premature births. The next thing we must be assured of is that every mother has adequate obstetrical care. In other words, injuries about the face, paralysis of the arms from injured nerves and broken bones must be avoided. Many of these cases are transient in character but not infrequently permanent scars and paralysis of muscles are carried through life. In order that these do not occur, we must be sure that the mother receives the best care that science can offer.

It is also interesting to note that of the 53 infant deaths we had in our district last year, 15 or 30 per cent occurred on the first day of life. Furthermore, this shows that first day of life is the most dangerous for the infant and careful obstetrical care will cut down the death rate on this first day. From then on the baby must receive very careful attention, especially during the first week and on through the first month. Over 50 per cent of our infant deaths occurred during the first month of life and over 40 per cent during the first week of life. Thus we see that the first week demands special care he given the infant.

As a part of the program of the District Health Department we urge mothers to take their infants to a physician regularly. For those who are unable to consult their private physician, clinics are held throughout the rural areas at which time mothers are invited to hring their infants for medical examination. If any serious conditions are found, the child is placed under the care of the family physician. Excellent books on Infant Care can be obtained from your county nurse either by dropping her a card or calling at her office.

CHEVROLET PRESENTS ITS NEW 1938 MODELS

First Showing in Charlevoix Saturday at Charlevoix Oil Co.

Noteworthy advances in performance, economy, safety, durability and style, gained through systematic refinement of features already thoroughly proved in the hands of the public, mark the two new passenger car series which Chevrolet introduced last Saturday through the Charlevoix Oil Co. for 1938. Both lines embody an improvement destined to rank as outstanding in the industry this year —the revolutionary new "Tiptoe-matic" clotch combining more positive action with greater operating ease, und adding importantly to the safety, comfort, and durability of the car.

The 1938 line, Chevrolet engineers assert, represents important advances over even the highly successful 1937 models. Refinements extend to bodies, both interiors and exteriors, and to numerous units of the chassis, whose design, however, remains fundamentally unchanged. The power plant in both series is the 85-horsepower high-compression valve-in-head six-cylinder engine whose power, swoothness, economy, and freedom from service interruptions are already familiar to millions of owners throughout the world.

All models have Chevrolet's perfected hydraulic brakes, all-silent, all-steel turret top bodies by Fisher, and the trouble-free hypoid rear axle. On the Master DeLuxe series, Chevrolet fully-enclosed knee action is starting its fifth year.

Both lines include coach, sedan, sport sedan, town sedan, and business coupe. The Master DeLuxe line has in addition a sport coupe with rumble seat, and the Master line has cabriolet, sedan delivery and coupe pickup.

DENTAL CORRECTION FOR PUPILS OF THIRD GRADE

Local Branch County Child Health League Is Sponsoring Work

The Charlevoix branch of the Charlevoix County Child Health League is promoting 100 per cent dental correction for the children of the third grade in the local schools.

The project is being done through the cooperation of the local dentists and it is hoped that parents having children in this grade will assist by taking care of the dental work of their children wherever it is possible.

The third grade was particularly selected because the children have received some of their first permanent teeth, and in order to stop any decay in these teeth, it was thought desirable to work on this age group.

The teachers and Charlevoix County Child Health League committees in the townships throughout Charlevoix county are also sponsoring 100 per cent dental correction in the rural schools where again the local dentists are also cooperating. Boyne City and East Jordan are putting on similar programs.

KIWANIS HALLOWEEN PARTY CONSIDERED A SUCCESSFUL EVENT

Charlevoix experienced a quiet Halloween Saturday evening, with officers reporting only a small percentage of pranks in comparison with previous years.

In all probability the lull in Halloween activities can be traced to the most commendable action of the Kiwanis in providing entertainment for the boys and girls of the city.

One hundred fifty of the younger children were guests of the Kiwanis at an afternoon movie at the school gymnasium and a capacity crowd of over 400 attended the evening entertainment. Paddle-pops and candy were given the children following the show, and a dance was given after the evening entertainment.

Kiwanis members are highly elated over the success of their first Halloween entertainment, and are already planning a more comprehensive event for next year.

NEARLY FIVE HUNDRED FORBIDDEN DEER HUNT

Not Eligible This Fall Because of Previous Law Violations

Thousands will get their bucks during the Michigan deer season this year, but nearly 500 others who have hunted in the past will have to leave their guns in the racks.

These are the 495 who are not eligible for deer licenses this season because they were found guilty at some time within the last three years of a major deer law violation, or were involved in the death or injury of another hunter. Any hunter who manages to obtain a license though on the prohibited list, is subject to a stiff penalty for making false statements.

The records show that several nonresidents as well as resident hunters are banned and that 10 of the 495 are on the list because of implication in hunting accidents.

WESTERN UNION PATRONS CAN STOP SAYING "STOP"

The word "stop" which has become as familiar in tolegrams as the word "love," is no longer necessary. Punctuation marks and paragraphs will be sent free in all future telegrams, it was announced last night by Olive Allen, local representative of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

BOW, ARROW SEASON ON DEER OPEN

MONDAY WAS FIRST DAY FOR MICHIGAN ARCHERS

Special Season in Newaygo and Iosco Counties Provided—Regular Season Opens November 15

For the first time, archery enthusiasts have inaugurated Michigan's legal deer hunting season.

Newaygo and Iosco counties were opened Monday to archers for a period of 14 days under the same regulation governing the killing of deer by rifle.

Archers, whose two-weeks' season will precede the regular deer season, believed they would kill few deer because of the difficulty of getting within range. Seventy-three who anticipated the season chiefly for the sport had bought licenses at Lansing, however, and an undetermined number had purchased permits from district and regional conservation department offices.

On November 15, the day after the bow and arrow season closes, an estimated 130,000 sportsmen will go to Northern Michigan for the general 16-day deer season.

To accommodate these hunters, the State Highway Department on November 10 will inaugurate its hunting season schedule for ferries across the Straits of Mackinac, placing three instead of two boats in service and ordering random crossing.

Conservation department officer staffs will be increased for both the special and general seasons to guard against violations of regulations which prohibit hagging any except male deer with three-inch antlers, hunting with dogs, or taking more than one deer with each permit, including a camp license, under which a party of four may kill one additional male for camp use. Persons found shooting mooso or elk will be subject to a maximum $500 fine or a year's jail sentence, or both.

The conservation department had received no reports indicating whether the 1937 deer hunter total would exceed last year's, when 136,081 resident, 845 non-resident, and 794 camp permits were issued. Earlier, the game division announced a census conducted by CCC workers showed the supply of all deer probably had increased slightly over the 1936 estimated total of 877,000.

"TURKEY SHOOT" IS SCHEDULED SUNDAY

American Legion to Conduct Annual Event at Mt. McSauby Range

Many local sportsmen are planning to get their "shooting eye" in trim for the deer season at the annual American Legion turkey shoot scheduled for Sunday, November 7.

The Legion members are setting up two ranges at Mt. McSauby, one for high-powered rifles and one for .22-caliber rifles. Sportsmen using high-powered rifles are requested to bring their own guns.

The event proved a very popular one last year, and even a larger attendance of both men and women is expected next Sunday.

ELECTRIFICATION PROJECT STARTED

LEON MILLER, OF PETOSKEY, IS NAMED ATTORNEY

Officers of Four-County Federal Project Announced As Preliminary Steps Are Begun

A million dollar project to bring electric power to farm areas in Northern Michigan is under way through the Rural Electrification Administration.

While the project was started some time ago, there has been no official announcement of its organization and aims until the present, the board of directors just having authorized Leon Miller, of Petoskey, their attorney, to act as their spokesman for the purpose of giving out information for publication.

To begin with, some rumors as to where the lines are to run should be set at rest. While a two year tentative program has been outlined, no particular line has been finally approved for construction as yet. Plans are still in a formative stage, awaiting perfection of the organization and approval from Washington.

The Rural Electrification Administration is a federal agency set up to provide financing for construction of electric power lines in areas not now served. The agency is designed to supplement, not to compete with, existing lines.

To take advantage of the assistance offered by the REA, a farmers' cooperative organization has been set up, known as the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company. The REA has provided a partial allotment of $250,000 to start the work, with a top limit of $1,000,000 as the final investment.

Prior to the actual incorporation, much preliminary work was done by the present directors and other interested persons. B. C. Mellencamp, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, while he holds no official position in the company, has rendered services of great value in bringing the project up to its present stage.

Dr. Christian G. Jensen, of Resort township, Emmet county, is president of the company, and with Frank Sluyter, also of Resort, represents Emmet county on the board of directors. Charlevoix county is represented by Calvin J. Bennett, secretary, and LeRoy Hardy. Antrim county has Peter Wieland, of Ellsworth, vice-president, and Thomas A. Colter, of Elmira, as directors. From Otsego county are Martin E. Schaff, treasurer, and Herman Flott, both of Elmira.

Robert F. Sloan was chosen to succeed M. A. Lovinson as president. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Harold Hallett; treasurer, William F. Meyer. Directors chosen were Rollie L. Lewis, C. F. Wood, Floyd A. Supp, Robert Bridge, Robert Bonthron, Martin Block, and Harry E. Bingham.

The newly-elected officers take over their duties beginning the new year.

RECORD POTATO SHOW FORECAST

NORTHERN MICHIGAN EVENT OPENS AT PETOSKEY

Many Exhibits from 32 Counties to Be Entered—Jean Zeitler County Entry in Queen Contest

Visitors and exhibitors at the annual Northern Michigan Potato and Apple show, which opened Wednesday at Petoskey, are witnessing the largest exposition of its kind ever held in this part of the state.

Thirty-two counties of the northern part of the Lower Peninsula are represented in the numerous exhibits offered for public inspection at the show.

This event has drawn the prize winners from local preliminary exhibits held in Traverse City, Barryton, Reed City, Midland, Gaylord, Alpena, and other towns in the area.

Hold Poster Contest

A poster contest for high school pupils has been added to the show this year. Posters are being made which bear directly upon the theme of "Michigan potatoes for Michigan consumers."

The annual growers' banquet which will be held Thursday will be the outstanding event of the show. Prof. H. C. Rather, head of the farm crops department of Michigan State College, will give the address.

The selection of the Northern Michigan potato queen also will be a part of the banquet program. Miss Jean Zeitler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Zeitler, this city, is the Charlevoix county candidate in the contest. She was selected at the county elimination at East Jordan from a field of seven contestants which also included Anne Reinhart, this city, Ruth Adams, Velda Adelbu, Arlene Brooks and Evelyn Hardy, of Boyne City, and Jean Blair, of East Jordan.

A complete educational program has been arranged for each day of the show. Wednesday has been designated as apple growers' day. Thursday is potato growers' day. Because of the wide interest in soil conservation, Friday's program for the adults will be entirely devoted to this subject and will include speakers who are in close contact with the program.

Friday also will be junior day with 4-H club members and Smith-Hughes pupils competing in judging and grading contests.

Charlevoix county is well represented by exhibits of growers as well as 4-H club members.

Hunting in the woods near here Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Garret DeBoer, of Rockford, and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Warner, of Grand Rapids, took home with them a bouquet of white and yellow violets. Charlevoix and vicinity have had at least three inches of snow this fall, but it is believed the last few sunny days caused the plants to bloom.

We Hope His Aim Is Bad

STATE TO AID ADVERTISING WINTER SPORTS

Part of $200,000 Appropriation Will Be Spent for This Purpose

Immediate formation of plans to advertise Michigan's winter aport attractions as a part of a general state publicity program has been promised by Normal H. Hill, newly appointed director of the state's advertising fund.

"Certain areas in the state, particularly adapted to winter sports, have wisely started in to make the tourist business an all-year program by the promotion of events to fill in between the close of the hunting season and the opening of the trout season and we intend to help them out," Hill said.

"We do not intend to use any major portion of the state account in this manner, but certainly some part should go for the purpose. No attempt will be made to promote any special section, but the attractions of all Michigan will be publicized."

POMONA GRANGE MEETING NOV. 10TH AT BARNARD

The session, which will open at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, will be held at the clubhouse of the Shiawassee County Conservation Club. The afternoon will be given over to discussion and appointment of committees followed by a dinner at 6. In the evening, a proposed constitution and other matters pertaining to organization work will be considered. The secretary of state has certified that 93,773 signatures on petitions had forced postponement of Michigan's welfare consolidation program until after it is submitted to a referendum in the November 8, 1938, election.

The certification was signed by Secretary of State Leon D. Case at the deadline for filing of petitions at 5 p. m. yesterday after his department had checked more than 107,000 names.

A total of 87,500 names were needed to postpone the program and send it to a vote of the people.

CHARLEVOIX WINS FROM HARBOR "11"

SCORED 27 TO 0 VICTORY THERE LAST SATURDAY

Close Six-Game Conference Schedule at Home Next Saturday With Mancelona As Opponent

Charlevoix's Red Rayders hung up their fourth conference football victory Saturday at Harbor Springs. The score was 27 to 0.

The Pearl-Gallagher passing combination, an effective scoring weapon throughout the season, paved the way for most of Charlevoix's touchdowns —two in the second period and one in each of the third and fourth quarters. A safety accounted for two extra points.

The Rayders scored their first touchdown in the early moments of the second quarter on a pass, Pearl to Gallagher. A line buck for extra point failed. Goss made the second touchdown possible in the same period. He intercepted a Harbor pass and romped 40 yards to the three-yard line. Smith went over on the next play. An attempted pass for extra point was incomplete. The half ended with Charlevoix leading 12-0.

Charlevoix gained two points on a safety early in the third period. E. Nowland blocked a punt on Harbor's 10-yard strip. The ball rolled over the goal and was downed by a Harbor player to give Charlevoix two points. Bert Pearl scored the third touchdown and kicked the extra point from placement. Charlevoix went into the final period with a 20 to 0 margin.

Gallagher closed the scoring for his team in the fourth period with a 40-yard run after intercepting a Harbor pass. Pearl place-kicked the extra point. A heavily substituted team finished the contest.

Charlevoix missed two other scoring opportunities. In the first period Gallagher ran 60 yards to score after taking a pass from Pearl. Bergmann was caught clipping, however, and Charlevoix lost the touchdown and took a 15-yard penalty. Again late in the second quarter Gallagher was in the clear following a pass from Pearl, only to be downed on Harbor's three-yard strip. The Rayders gained a yard on a line buck and appeared certain to score had not the half ended.

RECORD LOW FOREST FIRE LOSS IS CERTAIN FOR 1937

Three fires occurring during the week of October 11 did not seriously threaten the state's chance of recording its safest forest fire season in history.

The fires, all in the Upper Peninsula, were held to two acres, leaving the season's total at 14,195 or approximately 4,000 acres under the state's previous lowest fire mark.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Hopes of Michigan CIO leaders for a political alliance with the farmers —an objective hinted openly by John Lewis in a recent address — have gone glimmering as the result of an open revolt among members of the Michigan State Grange and the Michigan Farm Bureau federation.

In fact, with results of the Detroit election this week confronting them, labor chieftains of the CIO realize that their first task is to repair their own fences before they begin angling for additional conquest.

Illustration of the temper which exists in farmer circles was revealed by C. H. Bramble, of Lansing, master of the Michigan State Grange, who declared that the United States should adopt the English labor policy of requiring labor unions to incorporate and assume financial liability. Thus can irresponsible and reckless radical leadership be eliminated from labor ranks, he said.

Furthermore, the Grange leader deplored the lack of a labor relations

These diseases are recognized as preventable today if measures are taken before one comes into contact with disease carriers. Cousins of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Carpenter are up from Detroit visiting and hunting. They run a large 700 acre farm at Rochester where 300 horses and 4,000 guinea pigs ore raised for obtaining serum for use in medical service. Seventy men are employed.

Harry Mason received a letter on the 25th from Rev. Horace Snider, who has arrived in China as a missionary, with his family, that says it is scarcely possible for one to move around out of doors for fear of highwaymen. He said he passed the war zone and heard the firing of guns as he came to China. He is in Yunon Fu, Yunan Province, southwest China. Missionaries are being told to vacate China, and he wishes to return. A few people at prayer meeting last week took up an offering and sent a letter to him by air mail, costing 75 cents, asking him to return as pastor again at the Pentecostal church at Central Lake.

SPUDS

Indications are that 1937 Michigan grown potatoes will meet with far greater approval by the residents of this state than in previous years. The reason underlying this change is because the potatoes they will buy this coming year will be graded by federal standards for interstate shipments. In other words the Michigan producers will not sell in Michigan any potatoes under the federal grade No. 2. This will eliminate all culls from the local markets.

Heretofore, Michigan growers have not had very strict regulation over what they have been selling at home, but have had to conform to federal regulation on all they shipped to other states. They confidently believe that now they will, in this manner, create a much larger home market for their product. We agree with them. The other day we bought a bag of Michigan potatoes and (much to our surprise) found them to be far superior to those grown in Idaho or Maine. Previously we could never have been convinced of this fact because, apparently, we had never actually had a chance to try a good Michigan home grown spud, but you can bet your last farthing we will not be fooled again. And we believe the same experience by other Michiganders can only result in a tremendous increase in the consumption of Michigan potatoes right here at home.

To the list of children's heroes will be added that doctor who has just declared himself in favor of lollipops for cold cures.

High Voltage Sets Berred to Visitors

The picture, "Bad Guy," affords the public its first view of the electrical "circus" developed by Dr. Maxstadt. Tesla Coils, Rotary Sparks, transformers and condensers were set up on the sound stage and an "infallibly insulated" platform was built to safeguard handlers of the crackling current.

The new film features Bruce Cabot, Virginia Grey, Edward Norris, Jean Chatburn and Cliff Edwards, and others at the Palace Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday, November 9-10.

Based on the original story, "High Voltage," by J. Herbert Bren, Kathleen Shepard and Hal Long, it was directed by Edward Kahn.

After solving crimes in many corners of the earth, Warner Oland, as the super-sleuth of the screen, comes to the most famous of all Main Streets to unravel the mystery of a double murder in "Charlie Chan on Broadway," opening Thursday, November 11, at the Palace Theatre. J. Edward Bromberg, Joan Marsh, Louise Henry, Joan Woodbury, Donald Woods, Douglas Fowley, Harold Huber and Keye Luke are featured.

For fascinating, story-telling photographs, see the new, 32-page Pictorial Rotogravure Section of the Sunday Detroit News. It's the big picture hit of the year.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morniag service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Mects first Wednesday evening each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p.m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Adam and Fallen Man" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, November 7.

The Golden Text, from John 6:63, is: "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profieth nothing."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (John 3:21): "But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science texthook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 218): "When we wake to the truth of being, all disease, pain, weakness, weariness, sorrow, sin, death, will be unknown, and the mortal dream will forever cease."

TRAVELING AT HIGH SPEED

These few words explain many a tragedy on the highway. And how often do we read them. There is a story of a crash, another life ends. We begin reading and soon the words "traveling at a high rate of speed" meets our eyes.

Over and over it happens. So frequently that we are convinced it is the greatest factor in causing accidents.

And yet, to our amazement, we never travel the highway without seeing some speed-crazed driver traveling on the brink of a 70-mile-per-hour disaster.

No car is safe, no highway free of danger zones, when the safety point in speed is passed.

POTATO TRICKS AVOID DISCOLOR

Potatoes often blacken and discolor when cooked. Yet cooks and homemakers can be let in on a few secrets and tricks recommended by the home economics division at Michigan State College.

Freshly dug potatoes least likely to blacken often are not available in Michigan homes either because of season or price. Because Michigan this year has jumped into second place in the production of the principal or fall harvested crop of this important food, the tricks of cookery will improve table appearances as well as help dispose of the crop in the state.

Research workers in Wisconsin have discovered that for plain boiled potatoes the blackening can be avoided by soaking the peeled potatoes in cold water for two and a half hours before cooking. The potatoes are drained and cooked in fresh water.

Cooking without previous soaking also can be done. A mixture of half milk and half water is found to do the trick. This milk mixture, holding considerable food value, should be used later in bread or soup.

Even if previous soaking or precautions during the boiling are neglected, the blackening can still be avoided after cooking. Milk again is the magic. Boiled or baked, the potatoes will remain natural in color if they are mashed with milk immediately after cooking. Baked potato shells may be refilled with the mashed, seasoned potatoes and put back in the oven to brown.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS
By Ann Page

This week we can enjoy a beef roast or steak dinner, for beef prices are lower than they have been for some time. Pork and veal prices are a little lower too. In poultry, ducklings are low, roasting and frying chickens are moderate. Due to heavy storms this past week, the supply of fresh fish may be limited.

There are many inexpensive fruits and vegetables, notably grapefruit, oranges and grapes, carrots, spinach, parsnips, beets and pumpkins. Lettuce and other salad greens are plentiful and cheap.

Fresh eggs are scarce and high. Storage eggs, however, are plentiful, of excellent quality and are moderately priced.

The following menus are planned to use foods in season.

Low Cost Dinner

Braised Spare Ribs with Sauerkraut
Mashed Potatoes Buttered Carrots
Bread and Butter
Apples Baked with Brown Sugar
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner

Roast Chuck of Beef with Gravy
Browned Potatoes Creamed Onions
Orange and Grapefruit Salad
Bread and Butter
Pumpkin Pie
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner

Broiled Grapefruit Halves
Sirloin Steak with Mushrooms
Baked Potatoes Broccoli
Lettuce with Cheese Dressing
Rolls and Butter
Caramel Custard with Date Cookies
Tea or Coffee Milk

The employers' annual contribution to the Michigan Unemployment Compensation fund will be determined after 1942 on the past record of the employer's efforts to maintain stable employment. The contribution rate after that date, when the merit system becomes effective, may be as low as one per cent or as high as four per cent.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS
By B. C. Mellencamp

Charlevoix Kiwenis Club Entertained 4-H Club Members

A most pleasing and enjoyable event took place last Tuesday night, October 26, at the Charlevoix Hotel when the Kiwanis Club had as their guests 4-H club members and Smith-Hughes project members. Approximately 25 crops exhibits were displayed by these young farm lads, representing the Smith-Hughes activities under the head nf Russell Eggert, Smith-Hughes teacher at East Jordan, and the Peninsula Club of the Advance community.

A wonderful banquet was contributed by the Kiwanis Club in recognition of the fine work being accomplished hy these young folks. It was planned to have moving pictures as the main feature of the entertainment, but the films did not arrive on time, so the program was largely made up of short remarks hy various Kiwanis Club members. Approximately 41 guests were present and their displays brought forth many favorable comments. The Kiwanis Club deserves a lot of credit for interesting themselves in this 4-H Club program. During the past year they have appointed a committee from their group who have actually contacted the various groups and sponsored this fine program.

The judging of the various exhibits resulted in the following membera having the best exhibits: In potatoes, Wilbur McDonald, Einer Olstrom, LeRoy Nicloy, and Raynor Olstrom. Corn, Ronald Lyon, Delmer Lyon, and Jim Hamlin. Beans, Albert Routley.

The best potato exhibits will next be shown at Petoskey this week, where it is hoped they will give a splendid account of themselves.

County Wide Rat Campeign Organized for Tuesdey, November 9

Warfare will be waged against the common enemy, the rat, on next Tuesday, November 9, when the red squill prepared bait will he distributed and used by hundreds who are ordering the bait. Already a circular letter has been received by the farmers in the county who have ordered bait, which will be only available Tuesday, November 9, from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

All who have ordered bait may call at their nearest location for this material, which costs 35 cents per package, cash. If the time limit expires and bait is left on hand, it can then be sold to folks who have not ordered it.

The following distributors will have this bait available at your call: East Jordan Cooperative Company, Charlevoix Cooperative Company, Boyne City County Agent's Office, Bay Shore Bathke's Store, and Boyne Falls DeNise Garage.

Each package contains three kinds of bait, namely, meat, fish and cereal mixed with red squill. The baits are completely prepared and ready to put out. Full directiona on each package. It should be emphasized that all bait should be used at once, the evening of November 9. Red squill bait is relatively harmless to human beings, domestic animals and poultry. A high percentage of mice eating this bait will be killed, but essentially this is a rat poison. It takes from four hours to four days for the rat to die, but usually less than one day.

Obnoxious odors do not follow the use of red squill baits, because the rats usually have time to reach their underground burrows before dying and cause no odors around buildings. However, once in a while one dies in inaccessible places. For killing rats in poultry houses the baits may be placed behind boxes and boards, or after the hens have gone to roost the baits may be placed in the feeding troughs. If this system is followed, remove the uneaten baits before the poultry start feeding the next morning. If one person desires to purchase the bait for other folks in the same community who have ordered the material, it will save each person making a trip. Kindly be reminded again that this bait will only be available on Tuesday, November 9, from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., and it may be secured from your nearest distributor.

TELEPHONE SERVICE HAS INCREASED IN VALUE; RATES HAVE DECREASED

• • •

Michigan today is enjoying really remarkable values in telephone service.

The Company's material and labor costs have increased substantially since reductions in rates were made in 1934, 1935 and 1936. In 1934 rates for service to farmers and for long distance service were reduced; in 1935 the long distance night rate was made effective at 7 o'clock every night and was extended to all day every Sunday; in 1936 further reductions were made in the rates for long distance and for various other services and items of equipment, and the charges for installing and moving telephones were drastically cut.

At the same time the average individual's income has improved, and prices asked for many other items and services have gone up.

Yet telephone service is still available at the reduced rates; the quality of the service never was higher; and its value to the community is increasing daily, as indicated by the increasing number of calls made per telephone.

The District Health Department has received from the Michigan Department of Health the following suggestions that prospective brides and grooms should bear in mind regarding the new antenuptial physical examination law which is now effective.

1. Both the bride and the groom must go to a licensed physician within 15 days previous to applying for a marriage license to have the required physical examination.

2. It is not necessary to go to the county clerk first, for the required medical certificates may be obtained only from a physician.

3. Applicants should ordinarily consult the physician early in the 15 day period to save themselves possible embarrassment in keeping a definite wedding date.

4. The applicant should allow time for two visits to his physician, one for the clinical examination and the blood specimen to be taken, and one to obtain the medical certificate after the physician has received the laboratory report.

5. Reports on laboratory examinations may take from one to three days and in exceptional instances may be delayed.

6. The applicant must sign the certificate in the presence of the examining physician. It is then ready to be presented to the county clerk.

7. The medical certificates of both the bride and the groom must be presented to the clerk of the county wherein one of the parties to the proposed marriage resides before a marriage license application may be made.

8. The usual five-day period must elapse after application for the license has been made. Once the license has been issued, it may be used at any time.

9. The law does not specify the fee which the physician shall charge for his services. Private registered laboratories will also charge a fee for their services. Laboratory tests performed by the Michigan Department of Health are free of charge.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE STATE SPORTSMEN

For the present the company's activities are limited to Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim and Otsego counties, but the long range plans for the project call for extension of the lines of the company into a number of other Northern Michigan counties.

Mr. Miller is attorney for the corporation and Roy White, of Grand Rapids, is project engineer. At present none of the officers and directors receive any salary.

The initial allotment of $250,000 is to cover the cost of construction of 225 miles of line. An additional 200 miles of construction is in next year's program. Just where the construction will go has not yet been determined.

The company will purchase energy from existing utilities providing satisfactory arrangements can be made. If such arrangements cannot be made it may ultimately become necessary for the company to erect power units of its own. At present 450 miles of line have been sketched out as being suitable. That is as far as present progress has definitely gone.

The only other REA company in Northern Michigan is now building lines in Presque Isle county. The work of setting poles there started five weeks ago.

EXTENSION WORK PROTECTS PUBLIC HEALTH

Better Methods of Feeding Families Taught Through Women's Courses

Better methods of feeding families and better usage of Michigan grown foods are results counted in thousands of farm homes in the state as a result of home economics extension work in the past year.

As a new year starts with additional rural women enrolled in extension projects for communities, a summary of last year's results in food facts alone indicates the scope of the work.

More than 3,500 women report that they now know better vegetable cookery methods. Men often frown upon salads. Yet Michigan vegetables and fruits can supply many combinations for salads that help protect health. In this part of the campaign the summary shows 1,616 families have learned to like raw foods. Carrot sticks, cabbage, apples and tomatoes are the favorites.

Even that scoffed at vegetable, spinach, was included in one lesson. An uncovered kettleful was cooked for a short time without water other than the drops that cling after washing. The proof of this lesson was in the attractive green color and in the tenderness.

Undernourished children or grown-ups without good health often can blame improper food selection rather than lack of sufficient quantity of food. Better use of Michigan grown foods including fruits, vegetables, milk and meat, can add to better health.

Roberta Hershey, nutritionist at Michigan State College, which is the center of the state-federal extension work in the state, advocates the use of Michigan grown foods. Variety leads to good appetites, she says. Another reason is that most farm families in this state can grow nearly all foods necessary for a well balanced diet.

Silence wins the battle.

JOBS COMMISSION ANSWERS QUESTIONS

GIVE INFORMATION TO AID MICHIGAN EMPLOYERS

Complete Details of Purposes, Employer Responsibility and Other Important Questions Answered

Questions most frequently asked by employers now filling out report forms required by the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission were answered today by Frank A. Picard, commission chairman.

Employers are now preparing two report forms, an "Employer's Liability Report" and a "Contribution Report Covering the First Nine Months of 1937." The Liability report, (UC-9), was due October 15. The Contribution Report (UC-10) is due October 31 and must be accompanied by a two per cent contribution on all wages paid during the first nine months of 1937.

"These questions and answers," Picard said, "are issued in the hope they will assist employers in filling out these forms and in determining their rights and responsibilities under the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Act."

The Questions

1. What is the aim of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Act?

To build up a fund of contributions from employers to be used for the payment of weekly cash benefits to eligible unemployed workers; to stabilize employment, and to stabilize business by maintaining workers' purchasing power.

2. Who is subject to the act?

Generally speaking, all employers of eight or more persons during each of 20 different weeks either in 1937 or in 1936. However, all employers who are subject to Title IX of the Social Security Act, are also subject to the Michigan act.

3. What types of employment are not covered by the state act?

Agricultural labor, domestic help, services for federal or state government, family service, certain non-profit organizations, including religious, educational and charitable institutions, service of insurance salesmen paid by commission, minors who attend school and professional workers.

4. What does the subject employer contribute to the fund?

In 1937 the contribution rate is two per cent. In 1938 and thereafter, it will be three per cent of all wages paid during the calendar year.

5. When must the employer pay his contributions?

A two per cent contribution on wages earned during the first nine months of this year, must be paid by October 31. Thereafter contributions must be paid monthly.

6. What is the interest penalty on delinquent contributions?

Three-fourths of one per cent per month or fraction of a month that the contributions remain unpaid.

7. Does the worker pay any part of the contribution?

No, and it is illegal for the employer to ask the worker to share the contributions.

8. Is any part of the workers' wages exempt from contributions?

Yes. The employer need pay contributions only on the first $3,000 paid to each of his workers. The term wages must include salary, commission, bonuses and the reasonable cash value of payments in services such as board and room.

9. How may contributions be computed?

They may be computed on the basis of the employers' regular payroll period if the employer desires, rather than upon arbitrary monthly or calendar quarter periods.

10. What is the relation between Title IX of the Social Security Act and the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Act?

Title IX imposes a payroll tax on employers or eight or more persons, certain types of employment being exempted. Because Michigan has an unemployment compensation law approved by the Social Security Board, Michigan employers may claim a credit for his state contribution against the federal tax, up to 90 per cent of the federal tax.

11. Are contributions for unemployment compensation collected in addition to taxes under Title VIII (Old Age Benefits) of the Social Security Act?

Yes. Title VIII imposes a tax for old age benefits. That tax, paid in equal amounts by the worker and the employer, is collected and administered by the Social Security Board. The contribution for Unemployment Compensation is paid by the employer alone and is collected and administered by the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission.

12. What reports must the employer return to the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission?

Michigan employers must file with the commission a "Report to Determine Liability," which was due October 15, and a "Contribution Report Covering the First Nine Months of 1937," due October 31 with contributions of two per cent.

13. How may employers receive assistance in filling out these forms?

Commission representatives are stationed in 37 Michigan cities to assist employers at no cost whatsoever to the employer. Employers may either seek help from a commission representative nearest to them, or from the Commission's offices in the Fox building, Detroit.

14. Where are these offices located?

In the following cities: Flint, Port Huron, Bad Axe, Grand Rapids, Holland, Muskegon, Petoskey, Traverse City, Cadillac, Alpena, Marquette, Houghton, Escanaba, Iron Mountain, Ironwood, St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Marie, Saginaw, Bay City, Mt. Pleasant, Lansing, Jackson, Adrian, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Benton Harbor, Niles, Detroit, Monroe, Ann Arbor, Pontiac, Mt. Clemens, Highland Park, Hamtramck and Dearborn.

15. When do unemployment benefits begin?

Benefits may be paid on and after July 1, 1938, for unemployment after that date if the Commission decides payment at that time will not impair the right of Michigan employers to claim their credit allowed under Title Nine of the Social Security Act.

16. Are the costs of administering the state law paid out of contributions?

No. Special grants of money from the Social Security Board are made for this purpose. All contributions are deposited in a special Michigan trust fund in the United States Treasury. They may be withdrawn only to pay benefits.

17. May employers not subject to the act come under its provisions?

Yes, employers may voluntarily elect to come under the act for a two year period by obtaining permission to do so from the Commission.

18. What power does the commission possess to collect contributions?

Contributions constitute a first lien against the property of the employer. The commission may levy assessments against employers who fail to pay contributions on time, or may bring an action at law to force payment of delinquent contributions.

Public Acts of '37 to Be Huge Books

Laws cost money; the more a Legislature passes, the greater the cost to print the volumes af Public Acts at the end of each session.

There are indications that copies of the 1937 Public Acts may break several records. Each of the 13,500 volumes will contain approximately 1,000 pages, almost twice the size of the Public Acts of 1935. The 1937 book will include the four statutes passed at the special session of the Legislature which followed the regular session immediately.

Paper far the 1935 volumes cost the state $2,439; printing and binding came to $9,995. The books for years have sold within Michigan for $1.50, postage paid. According to Leon D. Case, secretary of state, the size of the 1937 volume may involve an increase in the customary price because of the greater costs of paper, binding and postage.

The books will be available about December 1.

Democracy will be preserved insofar as the percentage of cultured persons in a community are increased.

LANSING LETTER

act in Michigan due ta Governor Murphy's veto of his own endorsed bill.

Again hitting hard, Bramble deplared spending of millions of dollars in Michigan by the Rural Electrification Administration, pointing out that figures of the Edisan Electric Institute as of July showed that 74,232 out of 191,125 farms in Michigan now have electricity and that Michigan has led the nation in rural extensions for six years, affering farm rates lower than the rates in any other state.

As for the federal administration's proposal to regulate hours and wages for all industry, the Grange leader warned that this regulation would inevitably lead to higher prices, increased imports of cheaply-made foreign products, and finally increased unemployment of American labor.

All in all, the farm nrganization reaffirmed a belief held by politicians of both parties for a long time — mainly, that Michigan farmers are a hard-headed thrifty lot, traditionally conservative when it comes to governmental experiments. The Farm Bureau federation, which meets November 11 and 12, at East Lansing, is expected to take a similar stand.

Farm Costs Advance

The opposition of the farm group to higher commodity prices, as indicated by the Grange stand, has good backing of facts given in a statement by John B. Strange, state agricultural commissioner.

State-owned farms returned a profit of $75,445.90 for the past fiscal year, as compared with $108,708.68 for the year previous.

Here is Strange's conclusion: "Failure of dairy products and livestock prices to advance along with production costs were important factors."

The higher profit for 1936 is of particular interest in view of the statement by the agriculture department's chief apiarist, Vesper E. Mock, that bees have not produced enough honey to meet their own winter needs, all because of the 1930 drouth which destroyed many stands of clover.

Special Session

Governor Frank Murphy, back home again after taking treatments at White Sulphur Springs in Virginia, is expected to announce within the next 30 to 60 days the date for the forthcaming special session at Lansing.

The governor has indicated that he wants a labor relations act for Michigan — one that would not restrict picketing of a plant to plant employes.

A firm opponent to this principle in industrial relations is William Palmer, of Flint, who has just resigned as state senator in order to become a legislative lobbyist for the Michigan Oil Prnducers Association, of Mt. Pleasant, with offices in Lansing. Palmer favored outlawing of coercive picketing and sitdown strikes.

Thus, success of Murphy'a plan for a labor relations act depends in no uncertain degree upon the person who is to succeed Palmer. Political observers point out that a 26,000 Democratic majority in Flint last November became a 5,000 Republicsn majority last spring, following the sitdown strikes.

Like the Detroit municipal electinn this week, a special election in Genesee county for selection of Palmer's successor could easily become a test of public opinion on the rights and responsibilities of organized labor.

Furniture Prospects

If it is true that recovery in this country, stimulated by prospect of inflatian and assurances of continued government pump-priming, reached a temporary peak last winter, then warnings of two Grand Rapids furniture accountants can he viewed with significance.

Accountants Seidman and Seidman declared that the furniture industry has been slipping in 1937. In fact, the last three months show decreases in comparison with corresponding months of 1936.

But it isn't quite so bad as it sounds.

While new orders have declined from a 50 per cent higher margin for the first quarter, to 18 per cent for the second quarter, and 10 per cent for the third quarter, the furniture industry is still 21 per cent ahead in new orders as compared with the first nine months of 1936. Payrolls are 35 per cent higher.

The decline in furniture orders is blamed by the financial experts on curtailment of residential construction, labor unrest, and general business uncertainty — all negative influences.

Auto Makers Confident

Michigan automobile manufacturers—at least, Henry Ford and Alfred Sloan—are confident that 1938 sales will equal, if not exceed, those in 1937.

And as every school boy and girl well knows, Michigan's economic life is geared up to the pace of its leading industry, the automabile industry.

It was the automobile industry that led the recovery parade out of the depression.

Today, its economic value represents 14½ per cent of the national income. Payrolls total $6,300,000,000 —a staggering sum. Dividends are one-tenth of that amount — $705,000,000 with interest payments at $642,000,000.

One out of every four jobless has found wark directly because of the recavery of the motor industry.

Today, it is the largest purchaser of gasoline, rubber, steel, malleable iron, mohair, lubricating oil, plate glass and nickel and lead.

In taxes alone, the automobile and motor truck make possible an income of one and a half billion dollars each year.

Installment Buying

That the time has come when easy credit in installment buying must be limited is the solemn conclusion reached by financial experts.

Acenrding to automobile dealers, financing companies will soon clamp down on long-time contracts. Down payments must be substantial. Eighteen-month time will be encouraged.

Early buyers of automobiles may get "under the wire," so to speak.

Finance companies, now watching the current adjustment of the stock market, are apparently mindful of their troubles during long depression years.

Drinking and Accidents

Michigan's mounting automobile death toll—already a matter of concern to state officials—was given a surprise interpretation in Detroit by Lieut. Franklin M. Kreml, director of the Detroit accident prevention bureau.

Kreml declared at a safety council meeting: "The majority of persons killed in accidents in Detroit within the last year were drunk or had been drinking."

The temperance testimonial was not an advertisement for Michigan's automobile industry or for the Legislature's recent liberalizing of liquor rules. It was an unexpected boost for Detroit's municipally operated buses whose drivers, according to an interstate commerce commission official, "are the most careful in the world."

CONTINUING WOMEN'S LECTURES NEXT WEEK

Dr. Block's Subject: "Preventing Acute Communicable Diseases"

The old-fashioned belief that every child must run the whole gamut of "childhood diseases" should be discarded, declares Dr. Block, of the Michigan Department of Health, who will lecture before the women's classes at the following places next week on the topic, "Proventing Acute Communicable Diseases." Tha locations in this district will be:

Tuesday, November 9—1:30 p. m., Norwood town hall; 7:30 p. m., Charlavoix school.

Wednesday, November 10 — 1:30 p. m., Hayes town hall; 3:30 p. m., Ironton, Mrs. Ross Alexander's home.

These diseases are recognized as proventable today if measures are taken before one comes into contact with disease carriers. Those measures will be discussed by Dr. Block, who will also describe how disease is spread, the necessity for quarantine and isolation, how immunity may be obtained, and the importance of prevention of disease in the crucial early years of childhood. Illustrating this talk will be a film on tuberculosis, loaned by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

COMMUNICATION

The following most interesting letter was received by Mrs. Clara Watson from Mrs. Cassie Hart, who is now vacationing in the west, and, by Mrs. Watson's consent, is published, in part:

1268 16th St.
San Diego, Calif.,
October 25, 1937

My dear Mrs. Watson:

Well, after a week of constant sight-seeing and getting acquainted with my numerous family of grandchildren and great-grandchildren, I have a few minutes to myself in which to collect my senses.

I had a delightful trip out here. Loren met me at Omaha, Neb., Friday morning, and we got here Sunday at noon. The weather was fine all the way, and the mountains were visible most of the time; and when they were not, we could see the clouds below the peaks, just hanging along the sides — sometimes with rainbow hues. Very pretty.

The fall colorings of gold and red mingled with all the varied shades of green, were much like a kaleidoscope, they changed so rapidly as the train sped around the curves. The railroad is laid out so it follows around the base of the mountains; so it seems to be on a curve most of the time. We saw the great Salt Lake at Salt Lake City. Stopped for a few minutes at Ogden. Our train was behind time most of the way until we got over onto this side of the Rockies. The oranga groves are in their dormant staga just now, but their pretty waxy leaves are quite beautiful. Flowers are everywhere in abundance. Mabel (my daughter), Loren and I went to Ocean Beach Saturday; saw the huge breakers come in from the ocean and, as it was low tide, we could go out a long ways, snd we picked up a few shells. The water looks gray, like tho water that ice cream salt leaves, but out farther it looks more green.

One day Loren and I went to see Balboa Park, where the exposition was held. The large buildings are still there, and will remain as a part of the park. We went through the Natural History Museum — saw the skeletons of whales and other sea animals down to a small crab. Also every kind of bird that is found in San Diego county, mounted and identified. I would like to go there again and stay all day. I did not see one-tenth of the interesting things that are there.

I am so grateful for the privilege of seeing the wonders that this city affords. Yesterday, after Loren had gone, we drove to the ferry and crossed the bay to beautiful Coronada which looks like an island, but is only a narrow strip of land which extends out in the ocean, and is about 15 miles long. In this bay stands the Pacific United States fleet, which guards our western shores.

Points of a skeleton constitution discussed at a meeting held in Grand Rapids, September 28, and attended by representatives of 25 clubs, include the suggestions that the new organization be known as the Michigan United Conservation Clubs; that there be eight officers who will serve also as the board of directors and who will consist of a president, five vice-presidents chosen geographically, a secretary and a treasurer; that the object of the new organization be "to further and advance conservation in all of its phases"; that amendments to the constitution require a two-thirds vote. A membership open at first to all "conservation minded clubs" has been proposed with broader eligibility rules to be decided by the board of directors later. Other matters discussed at the Grand Rapids meeting, all of which were intended as only tentative starter points for the Owosso gathering, included the question of granting each member club one vote; issuing a monthly bulletin to all members and dividing the state into districts to simplify local work.

Forty-eight conservation clubs have already pledged their support to the proposed state organization as a medium for giving sportsmen and conservationists a united front.

Why Keep ADVERTISING?

WHEN BUSINESS IS SLACK WHY ADVERTISE?

Did you ever notice that it takes time and experience to accomplish anything worth while? You can't advertise today and expect to find your store crowded tomorrow unless you have, through constant advertising, educated the public to read your ads.

The majority of people are slow to act. You have to tell them the same thing over and over again before they will heed your message.

Advertise now for the business you hope to do next month. It is the cumulative effect that brings results.

SUMMER PROGRAM REVIEW PROVIDED

REPORTS GIVEN AT ANNUAL BANQUET THURSDAY

Nearly Hundred Attendance Shown Board of Commerce Activities—Fine Entertainment Features

A resume of 1937 activities and an outline of the program of resort promotional work intended for next summer was given before nearly one hundred persons at the third annual banquet of the Charlevoix Board of Commerce, Thursday evening.

The event, held at St. Mary's school hall, opened with an excellent banquet dinner at 6:30 o'clock, followed by reports and entertainment program.

City Attorney Rollie L. Lewis presided as toastmaster. Gordon B. Todd, secretary, gave a detailed report on advertising, cruises and sports events sponsored during the 1937 summer season, showing surprisingly wide range of work undertaken and carried out by the various committees. Leo Carey, recently elected president, gave a brief outline of promotional activities contemplated for next summer. Members of the board of directors were introduced by Mr. Lewis.

Several fine entertainment features followed. Marjorie Edwards and Bobby Wexstaff favored with tap dance numbers. Martha and Robert Craig plensed the assemblage with an instrumental duet, clarinet and saxophone, while Betty McFarland gave a tap dance number, with Marjorie Jean Carey accompaning at the piano.

One of the most interesting features of the program was provided by the showing of colored movies of summer activities and scenes of Charlevoix, presenting in picture the various events contained in Mr. Todd's report. The movies, taken by Bob Miles, showed the Strs. North and South America entering the harbor with cruises, events in connection with the cruises, various sports events such as tennis, golf, sailing and bonting, the various hotels, a beautiful airplane view, the Venetian boat parade and winter scenes. The movies gave those present ir vivid picture of their own city with angles perhaps never depicted defore. The movies will be used to advertise Charlevoix through resort promotional bureaus in the south during the coming winter.

At the close of the meeting, Harold Hallett, retiring president, was presented a gift by the board of directors in appreciation of his excellent leadership, cooperation and friendship during the two years he was president of the Board.

Thursday, November 11, Armistice Day, marks the opening of the annual Red Cross roll call drive in Charlevoix county.

From that date until Thursday, November 25, Red Cross volunteers will give their time soliciting funds for this great organization which meets disasters in their many forms throughout the world.

The Charlevoix drive is being organized again this year by Clarence B. Meggison, county chairman ,and Charles Hamlin, roll call chairman. Cooperating with them will be chairmen of the cities and townships of the county, together with school groups and others who will join in putting this county "over the top."

Mr. Meggison stated that floods last spring erased a large extend balance carried by local and national organizations, adding extra incentive for extra effort and need of cooperation in the present campaign. The membership fee is $1, of which fifty cents is retained by the county chapter.

AUTOMOTIVE CONVENTION SOUGHT

BOARD OF COMMERCE AFTER BIG 1938 MEETING

Harold Hallett and Gordon Todd Go to New York to Attend Meeting Society Automotive Engineers

The Charlevoix Board of Commerce has gone angling for the 1938 national convention of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Harold Hallett and Gordon Todd left Tuesday night for Detroit to join officials of the Chicago, Duluth & Georgian Bay Transit Company, whom they will accompany to New York City to attend a committee meeting of the Society called for Thursday, at which time the convention plans will be made.

Movies, booklets and literature depicting Charlevoix's resort attractions are being taken to aid the personal efforts of the local representtives. Officials of the steamship line, offering their ships for the convention cruise, are lending this city their support.

Many members of the Society, particularly those from the Detroit and Cleveland areas, are familiar with Charlevoix through a visit here last summer. This city was at that time given a tentative promise of the national convention providing entertainment facilities were found to be satisfactory. If expressions of appreciation of the fine entertainment received here last summer may be taken as an indication, Charlevoix should have the inside track.

If Charlevoix is chosen as the convention site, the Chicago, Duluth & Georgian Bay Transit Company steamers North and South American will bring between 900 and 1000 delegates for a four-day stay early next summer.

GILBERT DECLARES ORDINANCE INVALID

TRAVERSE CITY LOSES CIRCUIT COURT TEST CASE

Charlevoix, With Similar Anti-Peddler Ordinance, Awaits Final Traverse City Action

Charlevoix city officials, like those of Traverse City, have a problem on their hands.

In a circuit court decision handed down last Wednesday, Judge Parm C. Gilbert ruled Traverse City's anti-peddler ordinance invalid in a test case brought by the Fuller Brush Company to determine the legality of the ordinance following the arrest of M. Myers, a company representative, last June.

The interest of Charlevoix officials lies in the fact that this city has an anti-peddler ordinance drawn on similar lines as that of Traverse City's which was held invalid. For the past year or two the ordinance has been rigidly enforced. A Fuller Brush Company representative was fined last summer for violation of the ordinance and peddlers generally have been required to meet its requirements or otherwise vacate the city. The result has been that Charlevoix has been comparatively free of peddlers.

Judge Gilbert in his decision held the entire ordinance valid and constitutional with exception of a section which provides that farmers may be permitted to peddle from house to house to sell produce grown on their own farms or to sell articles manufactured by the person selling them. By allowing persons falling in this division of the ordinance to canvas homes of the city and restraining others from engaging in the same practice, the ordinance permits discrimination, Judge Gilbert found.

Another important point given by the judge in his decision on the case was that house to house canvassing does not constitute a nuisance, the nucleous around which Traverse City and Charlevoix's ordinances are drawn.

Charlevoix officials will await further action by Traverse City's city commission on a dicision to carry the case to the Supreme Court, for on the final outcome will rest the status of this city's ordinance also.

WATER MAIN REPAIR JOB CITY COUNCIL 'HEADACHE'

Traverse City Diver Leaves Job Awarded on Contract Unfinished

The city council at Monday night's meeting apparently came to the conclusion they are "hooked" on a contract let to repair the upper water main beneath the channel connecting Round lake and Lake Charlevoix.

Following damage in August by the government dredge U. S. S. Meade, the council let a contract to George Drew, Traverse City, to repair the main at a contract price of $325, plus materials. Drew worked a week, employed a substitute for a much longer period and then apparently abandoned the job with at least seven remaining leaks.

The city council decided to get tools left on the channel bottom for a start and later decide regarding future action. In the meantime the water main is not repaired and Drew will be unpaid until the job is completed.

SPORTSMAN'S CLUB PLANTS GAME FISH

100,000 RELEASED FROM STOVER CREEK PONDS

Two Ponds, Numerous Streams and Lake Charlevoix Stocked by Local Sportsman's Organization

Activities of the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club insofar as fish propagation is concerned, has been brought to close for 1937.

Concluding one of the most ambitious programs since the club was organized, members assisted by State Conservation officials from Oden, have planted approximately 100,000 trout reared at Stover Creek ponds.

According to C. S. Webster, president of the Club, this year's hatch was the finest ever released. The plant included 25,000 advanced brook trout in Horton, Monroe, Miller and Bull creeks; 20,000 German brown trout relensed in the Boyne City and Boyne Falls ponds, Monroe creek and the south lake at the head of Monroe creek; 25,000 rainbow trout distributed in Horton and Monroe creeks and the south arm of Lake Charlevoix.

The German brown trout were excellent specimens, ranging in size up eight inches. The rainbow were of a comparative size with the browns and the brook trout ranged up to six inches.

Earlier in the fall the Club relensed 5,000 two-year-old rainbows in Oyster Bay and the south arm as well as making several plantings of small mouth bass during the early summer.

In addition to the fish planted, the Club has 21,000 Washington mountain steelhead fingerlings which will be fed through the winter. These fish, said to be the scrappiest of the steelhead species ,are being cared for in a pond at W. H. Wallace's Birch Hills cottage until spring, when they will be transferred to Stover Creek ponds.

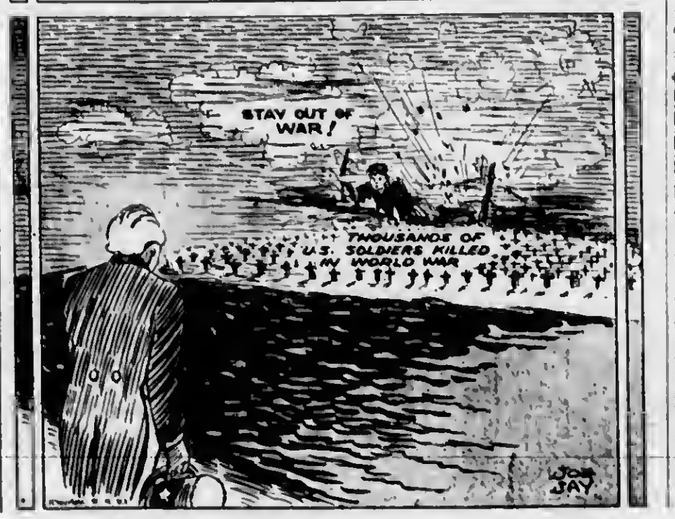
The Voice of Experience



BIG GAME HUNTERS AWAIT NOVEMBER 15

Heavy License Sale Indicates Record Number Huoters This Season

Thousands of hunters are moving into the upper peninsula and northern Michigan counties this week to be on hand for the 1937 big game season opening Monday, November 15.

Deer and bear, both legal game for the 16-day season, are claimed to be more abundant than last year, due largely to mild weather and absence of heavy snow last winter.

The influx of hunters is expected to reach 150,000, greater than the record army of 1936. Additional wardens have been placed in deer territory and transportation at the straits will be facilitated by the addition of all boats and institution of unbroken service.

Charlevoix will be represented by the usual delegation, some of whom have already departed. The greater number of local parties will leave for their camps the latter part of this week.

DONKEY BASKETBALL GAME HERE

UNIQUE CONTEST AT GYM SATURDAY NIGHT

Board of Commerce Meet K. of P. In Entertainment for Benefit of School Feeding Project

Something new in the line of entertainment — a Donkey Basketball game—is scheduled at the school gymnasium at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, November 13.

The contest, pitting a team representing the Board of Commerce against the Knights of Pythias, is being staged for the benefit of the school feeding project by the High School Athletic Association.

Such stars as Davenport, Junior and Bill Supernaw, Joe Troyer, George Bergmann, Grover and Dan Gerneit, Ralph Cunningham, Harry Ladd, Hugh Mayne, Pete Hallett, Doc Todd and the famous midget, Stub Kipke will carry the Board of Commerce colors. The Knights from the K. of P.'s who will ride the noble chargers may include Clarence Meggison, Pete Bulow, Ed. Edwards, Ivan Falconer, Harold Dutcher, Fay Bradley, Franklin Heft, Charles Heise, Ken Usher and Goliath Harold Miller.

This game is quite unlike the donkey baseball game, as the rules differ and the animals are trained differently. The donkeys wear rubber horse shoes.

A heap of fun is in store for those attending, more particularly the spectators. Much hilarity was evident at Petoskey last week when this attraction was staged twice.

COMMERCIAL FISHING BAN LIFTS THURSDAY

Re-Open Season on Mackinaw Trout; Chub, Whitefish Seasons Closed

Local commercial fishermen, inactive since the closed season on lake trout went into effect October 10th, resumed operation Thursday morning.

With the season closed not only on trout, but also on whitefish and chubs, most operators have utilized the enforced vacation to get their gear ready for the re-opening of fishing. The favorite spawning grounds will carry the brunt of netting Thursday.

The season on chubs reopens November 20 and the closed season on whitefish, effective since November 5, continues until December 10.

CHARLEVOIX WINS IN FINAL CONTEST

DEFEATED MANCELONA BY 13 TO 0 SCORE SATURDAY

Victory Clinched Second Position In Tip of Michigan Class C Football Conference

Charlevoix's Red Rayders completed a six-game football schedule with a 13 to 0 victory over Mancelona at south side athletic field Saturday afternoon. The win cinched second place in the Tip of Michigan class C football conference.

The Rayders were far more superior over the visiting team than the two-touchdown margin of victory indicated. They played Mancelona off their feet throughout the contest, but injuries, penalties and shifts in the line-up by which Coach Kipke allowed every substitute to play at least a part of the game, lessened the team's offensive power. The loss of Bert Pearl, who went out in the second quarter with a broken collar bone, weakened the offense greatly.

After a scoreless first period, Charlevoix tallied early in the second. In possession of the ball on Mancelona's 35-yard line to begin the quarter, a lateral, Carey to Gallagher, was good for 25 yards. Nowland cracked the line for five yards in two plays and Carey tossed a pass to Gallagher for the touchdown. Carey place-kicked the extra point for a 7 to 0 margin.

The balance of the half was scoreless and it was not until the third period was well under way that Charlevoix counted again. Carey had punted over the Mancelona goal, putting the ball in play on their twenty. Failing to gain, the visitors punted to Carey, who returned to their 30-yard line. Nowland made 17 yards on two plays, Carey advanced eight yards and Nowland went over for the tally. The touchdown ended the scoring, although Charlevoix was in Mancelona territory most of the time.

Saturday's victory gave the Rayders a record of five wins and one defeat. Boyne City's powerful aggregation, headed for a second consecutive conference championship, was the only team to win over the Rayders. Starting with a group of five veterans, Coach Kipke built up a team which was one of the strongest in recent years. A good portion of the team will be available for next year, promising a strong team for 1938.

THUNDER STORM, WARM DAYS, FOLLOW ROUGH MONTH OF OCTOBER

A November thunder storm, something quite out of the ordinary for this region and lateness of season, was experienced Monday morning along with heavy rainfall.

The occurence, following recent snowfall, came along with a bit of belated Indian Summer which northern Michigan residents for the most part were of the opinion had passed us up.

With exception of a heavy blow Monday, clear, moderately warm days have been the weather menu the past week, following one of the roughest Octobers in recent years.

LANSING LETTER

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Lansing—Petticoat politics helped to defeat the C. I. O. in Detroit.

That is one of the interesting conclusions advanced in the wake of America's most important municipal election—the hold attempt by the Committee of Industrial Organization to seize control of Detroit non-partisan government.

Women flocked to the polls in large numbers, bearing out the statement made by Miss Catherine Curtis, national director of the Women Investors in America, Inc., of New York, that the fair sex is vitally concerned by labor strikes and mounting prices and taxes.

Surveys by the Women Investors in America show that 65 per cent of wives of men employed in industrial plants report that strikes increased drunkeness, while 80 pereent said the strikes endangered the family life and health. With such a big stake in their husband's jobs, women marched to the Detroit ballot boxes and exercised their privilege.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Hygienic Care of the Infant Has Reduced Mortality

In the community program for the improvement of the health of the baby, diarrhea and enteritis has been one of the causes of infant deaths which we have tried to eliminate. During the last thirty years the battle to prevent this menace to the life of the small child has been almost won through adequate public health measures. In 1907 it was the largest single factor as the cause of infant deaths, but in the state of Michigan there has been approximately a 95 per cent decrease in deaths from this condition.

The three underlying causes of diarrhea of diseases in childhood include atmospheric heat, methods of feeding and infection—all of these factors being favored more particularly by crowded environment of the city. As a rule this condition appears more frequently during the hot summer months, but recently the seasonal nature has diminished somewhat. Breast feeding should be emphasized in diarrheal diseases. A breast-fed infant has a far better chance in avoiding intestinal upsets than the bottle fed baby. Ninety per cent of the deaths of infants under three months of age were shown by Newsholme to have occurred in bottle fed infants, while only ten per cent were reported among those who had been breast fed. Other factors which have paved the way for intestinal infections are bad milk, improper methods of feeding, bad environment, including heat and humidity, lack of cleanliness and good maternal care.

In order to assist you in seeing that your baby has proper care, we strongly advise you to keep your infant under proper medical supervision during the summer months. We also advise every mother to obtain literature from her county nurse, which will give her reliable information as to proper care of infants.

Sportsmanlike Driving—Keep to the Right

There is nothing new in the basic rule of the road--keep to the right. It is an ancient rule observed in the horse-and-buggy days and before. Without this basic rule, traffic conditions would be chaotic. Sportsmanlike Drivers always keep to the right.

CHAIN STORES CO-OPERATE TO KEEP APPLES IN THE PUBLIC'S EYE

Advent of National Apple Week, October 31 to November 6, emphasizes the sudden prominence of the apple through a grower-consumer benefit campaign carried on by organized chain stores of the nation.

This is pronounced the most ambitious campaign of the many the chains have undertaken in the last two years on behalf of producers and consumers. Vivid and spectacular displays greet the housewife in her local grocery store. Thousands of dollars of local newspaper advertising adds its very helpful influence in moving the exceptionally heavy apple crop with speed and economy.

The chain stores have declared it their object to sell more apples than were ever sold before, at prices aimed to return the producer a reasonable profit, and at the same time give the consumer big value for his money. How can this be done? The answer lies in mass distribution. The chains are buying by the carload, selling fast, eliminating every possible distribution and overhead cost, and passing the savings on to the buyer.

County Wide Bang's Disease Program Already Under Way

After over two years of Bang's disease work in this county, we are now glad to announce that a complete county wide test is now under headway. Dr. B. J. Killhan spent three days last week accompanied by your county agent in visiting supervisors for the purpose of organizing the work in their respective townships. We want to make this 100% perfect, so if by mistake any herd is missed, let us know right away.

Already the program is being carried on in Hudson, Boyne Valley, Chandler and Melrose townships. When this work is completed Charlevoix county with Antrim county will be the first two counties in the State to have had a complete county test, which means that all surplus stock stock can be sold at a premium. This will mean many thousands of dollars to the farmers of these two counties in higher prices.

Also remember that we want to include family cows in all of the towns and cities in the county. In the case of Boyne City, kindly phone your extension office. In the case of Boyne Falls, Clarion and Walloon Lake, and inform your supervisor so that all animals may be tested on the East end of the county right away. The program will be continued, moving westward so that by the middle of December the county will be completed.

Land Clearing Meeting to be Held on November 11

It is to be recalled that a short time ago a land clearing demonstration was conducted at the farm of Leon Massey, Boyne Falls, using the 13 ton caterpillar tractor. At that demonstration many farmers indicated a desire to rent this type of equipment in their land clearing operations.

This land clearing meeting which is to be held in the Boyne City Federal Building on Thursday, November 11 at 1:30 will be for the purpose of obtaining interest in this program. George Ammulsen, extension specialist in agricultural engineering will be present. It is felt that if there is sufficient interest on the part of farmers that some organization might be prefected to purchase this type of equipment and then rent it out to farmers at around $5 per hour. It is possible that two or three counties could cooperate.

In any case, if you have land clearing to do on your farm, it will be to your distinct advantage to attend this meeting and express your opinion. Remember Thursday, November 11.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

Case Asks Drivers Destroy '37 Tags

Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, has asked all persons to destroy their 1937 motor vehicle license plates when purchasing new ones for 1938. Motorists, it is pointed out, sometimes unwittingly lend aid to criminals who could equip cars with discarded but undefaced 1937 plates, to avoid indentification of their cars.

Case has instructed managers of branch offices of the Department of State to accept 1937 plates turned in when 1938 licenses are purchased. Such plates will be destroyed, as a measure of cooperation with police officials throughout Michigan.

Fry For Motorists

If an act of the 1934 Legislature lowering the price of auto license plates is held invalid in the state supreme court, Treasurer T. I. Fry will ask Governor Murphy to permit the Legislature in special session to make it constitutional. "Motorists are paying enough," he said.

Now, however, Jack wants to wake up and love, which he does with gusto and Rochelle Hudson in the Twentieth Century-Fox comedy, "She Had to Eat," coming Nov. 16-17, to the Palace Theatre.

Zane Grey Book Makes Fine Film

THE WORLD ON WHEELS

Again Michigan triumphs. New York City has just witnessed the 1938 national automobile show and, as usual, it was dominated by those makes of cars manufactured right here in our own state. Such great companies as General Motors, Chrysler, Ford, Packard, and Hudson all proudly displayed their many models for the edification of thousands of buyers and sightseers from all over the world. And rightly, this year, the manufacturers' slogan is "Putting the world on wheels." Michigan can be justly proud in being the home state of this great industry. It can boast of its iron ore, coal, limestone and timber as the natural resources which make possible their manufacture. And the industry itself can boast of its farsightedness during the dark days of the depression because it was the first major industry to turn its face toward the east to lead the country out of the throes of the depression.

Today there are six million people being employed directly and indirectly by the automobile manufacturers. There are countless thousands of allied industries which profit from this great venture which has made America into a nation of neighbors. Millions of miles of improved highways link city to city and state to state from Maine to Florida and from New York to California, and each succeeding year sees new improvements in design, new safety devices, and new comfort and beauty features which speak for the business acumen of the men who guide their destinies. May this great industry continue to thrive and prosper, for it represents the America we boast before the world.

Geese are'nt stopping in Michigan this year.

H. D. Ruhl of the state conservation department's game division reports that hunters had bagged few geese during the open season, which closed Sunday.

Snow and blue geese, which visited Michigan in 1936 for the first time in 15 years, have failed to halt their southward flights this fall as they did last year, Ruhl said. Hunters have bagged only a few Canadans this season.

HATCHERIES PREPARING FOR LAKE TROUT SPAWN

Hatcheries in Northern Michigan are "all set" for the annual production of lake trout spawn soon to be collected by commercial fishermen from trout taken in their nets, after the closed season.

State fisheries men expect that several million lake trout eggs will be obtained again this fall and turned over to the hatcheries for incubation. State law provides that commercial fishermen must save the spawn from all ripe spawning lake trout found in their nets.

THIS WEEK'S RECIPES

Apple Dumplings (4 to 6 Servings)

Slightly sweet biscuit dough, 6 apples, pared, cored and cut in half, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon grated maple sugar. Roll biscuit dough about 1-2 inch thick and cut in 4-inch squares. In center of each biscuit square place half a pared and cored apple. Sprinkle with some of the sugar, cinnamon and maple sugar mixture, keeping out 2 tablespoons of the mixture for later use. Wrap biscuit dough around apple halves to cover completely. Place all covered apples in baking dish and sprinkle with remaining sugar mixture. Place 1-2 cup boiling water in dish. Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees F.) for about 1-2 hour. Serve with the following unbelieveably good cause.

Frozen Cream Cheese Sauce

One egg white, 1 egg yolk, 1-2 cup cream, 1-2 cup cream cheese, 1-4 cup fresh American cheese forced through sieve, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon sherry.

Beat together the cream, cream cheese, grated cheese and sugar. Beat egg white until stiff and dry, then add egg yolk and beat again. Add sherry to cheese mixture, then fold in beaten egg mixture. Combine gently, then freeze. Yes, it really does taste as it reads.

The Literary and Sewing club of the Methodist Episcopal church enjoyed a program at the home of Mrs. Floyd Supp, Thursday, with about 50 members and friends present.

A delightful surprise of the afternoon was the beautiful display of the work of Mrs. Nettleton, Charlevoix artist, who has spent a lifetime in the study and reproduction of the styles and dress of all erns. DEER INCREASE TRACED FAVORABLE WEATHER

Mild Winter and Light Snow Helped State Herds Past Year

Michigan's deer hunters owe the weather man a venison steak.

Due largely to the comparutive mildness of last winter, the outlook for the coming deer hunting season, which opens November 15, is the most promising of the last several years.

I. H. Bartlett, state conservation department deer specialist, believes that more yuung deer came through last winter than have in three or four years, which should mean n greater number of legul bucks in the woods for the hunting season. Acutely unfavoruble weuther conditions are believed to have occurred in only one sizeuble section of the state's deer territory, Mr. Bartlett says, and that was in the west end of the upper peninsula where u heuvy snow fell lust February 23 and stayed through the lute winter. More instances of deer starvation were reported in this area than elsewhere in the state. Counts taken by the civilian conservation corps during the summer indicated thut although the deer decreased in some sections, increases were reported in u larger number of sections.

Based on last year's sale of deer licenses which totalled in the neighborhood of 137,000, combined with an indicated increase in the number of bird and small game hunters who took to the woods und fields during October, the prediction is made that Michigan's 1937 deer hunters may number close to 150,000. Last year's daer license sale figured an average of four hunters to the square mile in the state's deer area which totals about 34,500 square miles.

Acoording to department of conservation estimates, approximately 45,000 deer were killed legally last season.

HUNTERS' MESSENGER SERVICE PLAN AGAIN

Conservation Dept. Offers Aid During Deer Season

A special messenger service for use in cases of death, serious accident or illness will again be available to hunters this deer season through the state department of conservution.

The service was used several times last fall in relaying urgent messages to and from relatives and friends of hunters in the deer areas.

The procedure is to report the message to the neurest conservation department district headquurters from where an effort will be mude to relay it to its proper destination. The department's radio system fitting all of its headquarters is available for speeding the messages und the state police also cooperate with the conservation department when needed.

Since the service takes considerable time and detail at a season when conservation officers are busiest, on deer patral, the service is intended for use only in extreme cases. And, hunters who want to make use of the service must register at the nearest district headquarters before going to camp, leaving description of their location.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening each month at 7:45 p. m.

"Mortals and Immortals" will be the subject of the Lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throut the world on Sunday, Nov. 14.

The Golden Text, from Galatians, 4:6, 7, is: "Because ye ure sons, Gnd hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father. Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalm 91:1): "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 243): "The measurement of life by olar y ars robs ynuth and gives ugliness to age. The radiant sun of virtue und truth co-exists with being. Manhood is its eternal noon, undimmed by a declining sun."

MICHIGAN SEED IS DECLARED BEST FOR USE

Farmers Warned Against Alfalfa or Clover of Other States

Trials in this state demonstrate that Michigan grown red clover and Michigan grown alfalfu seeds prove best for use on Michigan farms.

In tests supervised by members of the farm crops department at Michigan State College, proof of the superiority was found. Satisfactory growths also were obtained from other northern grown seeds except those from Oregon, according to H. C. Ruther, head of the farm crops department.

Michigan now knows how to protect its alfalfa crown, first in the nation with more than a million and a quarter acres. In Cheboygan county the information also is usefull in permitting farmers to participate in the federal soil conservation program which benefit payments are provided. Provisions for planting the same types of adapted seeds used in 1937 are contained in the 1938 soil program recently announced at Washington.

"Alfalfa and red clover seed imported from Canada is hardy and suitable for sowing in Michigan," Ruther reports. "In general, other imported red clover and alfalfa is much less satisfactory."

"Least satisfactory of the imported seeds are the Italian red clover and the alfalfa seed from Argentina, South Africa or Russian Turkestan. Growers in those countries try to compete on price by shipping into the United States. These imported seeds are identified by being stained at port of entry with a shade of red, so that at least 10 per cent of the seed in each lot is stained."

Your Nervous Child May Be a Crushed Genius

An article in The American Weekly, the great weekly magazine with the November 14 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, discloses facts explained by Professor Joseph A. Cortes, noted educator, who tells how many brilliant minds could be saved if schools paid as much attention to high-strung, unruly pupils as they do to backward and stupid ones.

The Three R's AND TELEPHONE TAXES

Approximately $29,000,000 of the money which the people of Michigan have paid for telephone service over the past ten years has come back to them in the form of primary school education for the boys and girls of the state.

That is because taxes assessed by the state against certain utilities, including the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, are paid into the primary school fund. From there the money is distributed among the 83 counties of the state, and helps support the elementary, grammar and high schools.

Money alone could not account for Michigan's high standards of public education. Our state has been fortunate in the men and women entrusted with this work—the superintendents of public instruction, state, county, city; the local school boards, Parent-Teacher associations, and the individual teachers.

This Company makes the largest individual payment into the primary school fund. During the past ten years the Company has paid into the fund $28,978,000, this year's payment alone amounting to $2,624,092.47. This is an important contribution to a school system to which is entrusted the education and character-molding of 960,000 boys and girls—Michigan's school children today, her citizens of tomorrow. These taxes are in addition to the Company's Federal and miscellaneous taxes.

And after all, who has a better right? Women are beneficiaries of 80 per cent of the 65,000,000 insurance policies held in the United States. More than 50 per cent of the bank savings accounts are held by women. Eighty-five per cent of all consumer money are spent by the ladies.

Even in crime, police have a phrase for it: "Sherchez la femme."

C. I. O. Eyes Farmer

One reason for sympathetic interest by the C. I. O. in Michigan agriculture came to light the other day in Sandusky where Sanley Worcheck, Detroit organizer, disclosed that the C. I. O. planned to organize the sugar beet industry and later the milk haulers and dairy cattle breeders.

"Detroit workmen soon will buy union milk only," he declared, warning that farmers soon would be unable to sell milk in Detroit unless they were dues-paying members of a union.

The Michigan Farm Bureau federation, which convenes this week in East Lansing, may have something to say about this proposed farm-labor affiliation.

Spuds That Satisfy

When you buy Michigan potatoes at the corner grocery store, they will be retailed to you in branded or steeiled sacks, showing the grade and the name of the grower or packer.

Growers may sell direct to consumers without all this fuss.

Michigan's "new deal" for potato growers and consumers is the result of a federal marketing agreement which the growers adopted in September. A large staff of federal-state inspectors, stationed throughout the potato belt, are checking to make sure that only graded potatoes are shipped to market. The inspection fee is 1 cent a bag.

Thus the Michigan supd, now glorified by Washington and Lansing, takes its place along side Maine and Idaho potatoes of advertised fame.

Michigan's potato crop this fall is 33 per cent above the five-year production average, as compared with the national increase of 7 per cent. The state ranks second in production only to Maine this year.

The plentiful yield, however, has depressed prices. The spuds are down 44 cents a bushel—a break for the consumer, but not so good for the grower.

Watch Out for Deer

One of the unexpected benefits derived from instnllation or deer warning signs at certain points along state highways in northern Michigan has been profuse wild game advertising by tourists.

Four persons were killed in the state last year as automobiles struck deer on state roads.

The warning signs were suggested by the conservation department as merited precaution against serious accidents. The state highway department made and installed them.

Tourists, however, took notice. Here is the general conclusion; "Deer is so plentiful in Michigan's northwood country that signs have been installed, warning motorists of highway hazard."

Much in the same category is the naw bow and arrow law by which rachers can stalk deer in Newaygo and Iosco counties for a two-week open season, Nov. 1 to 15. Palefaces who have tried the Indian hunting method find that they must come within 30 yards of a deer to get within range. Strong winds, too, add to the hazards.

Result: Much sport, few deer.

It has been suspected that the author of the law, State Senator Don Vander Werp relaized the publicity value of the bow-and-arrow idea. He ought to be as he publishes an excellent newspaper at Fremont.

Percival Christopher Wren, author of "Beau Geste" and other best sellers, has a real thriller in store for you in "Brave Coward" a story of conflicts in the field and in the soul. Watch for it in this Week, the magazine with next Sunday's Detroit News

COUNTY EXHIBIT WIN HIGH AWARDS

EINER OLSTRUM WINNER OF POTATO SWEEPSTAKES

Douglas D. Tibbits, Boyne City, Takes Highest Apple Awards—$150 in Prizes Come to County

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

Exhibitors from Charlevoix county more than held their own at the recent Northern Michigan Potato and Apple Show, in competition with exhibitors from 31 counties.

Highlights of the entire show were the splendid exhibits from the East Jordan area. Outstanding in the exhibits were the Smith Hughes collection of four exhibits under the direction of Russell Eggert, Smith-Hughes instructor, and the Advance community 4-H club under the leadership of Einer Olstrum. In fact Olstrum's peck sample of Russet Rurals won the sweepstakes award as being the best peck in the Junior department.

The Advance Potato club as a group had the best club exhibit in the show. Following Olstrum's sample, which won first, were Wilbur McDonald, Raynor Olstrum, Howard McDonald and Robert Houtman winning 2, 3, 4 and 7 positions in the individual exhibit.

In the Smith-Hughes competition the group exhibit likewise won first in very stiff competition. In addition the first three places in the individual phices were won by John TerAvest, Don Shepard and Rolland Holland. The fourth sample making up the exhibit by Curtis Nicloy won first in the "other varieties" class. This was a peck of Russet Burbanks. Thus it would seem that the top positions went to Charlevoix young folks. All the more credit can be given these future farmers in that they selected their own potntoes from the field, selected the best 32 potatoes for the exhibit and actually put them up at the show without any outside help. Mr. Eggert likewise makes the statement that the same holds true with the Smith-Hughes boys. Apparently the old adage of "learn by doing", certainly has worked out as these boys certainly know their potatoes.

Elmer Hott, East Jordan, won high recognition when his peck of Kntahdins placed first in this class. It was a beautiful peck and attracted a great deal of attention. Mrs. Edward Kowalski again maintained her reputation by having a peck of Russet Burbank's placing 5th.

In the hundred pound samples 9 samples were shown with M. E. Bricker, Boyne City; Hester Dyer, Boyne City; Lewis McDonald, East Jordan, and Elmer Hott, East Jordan, receiving blue ribbons for a premium of $5 each. Second places were won by Mrs. Ora Allen, Boyne City; Atlee Todd, Boyne City and Sam Houtman, East Jordan for premiums of $2.50 each. Claude Shepard, East Jordan, won third on his hundred pound sample for $1.50.

In the apple division this county was represented by three exhibitors, Eveline Orchards, D. D. Tibbits and Floyd Griffin. In the bushels of McIntosh, Eveline Orchards won second; in Northern Spy, Tibbits won first; in Snows, Tibbits received first; in Wagners, Eveline Orchards won first and Floyd Griffin second, in Wealthys Tibbits was first with Griffin second, and in "any other variety" Eveline Orchard won first, second and fifth, Floyd Griffin, fourth and Tibbits 7th.

At the annual banquet held on Thursday night, the big feature was the selection of Northern Michigan Potato Queen. Miss Jean Zietler, Charlevoix was handed a beautiful bouquet of flowers by Mr. Wilson McDonald of Petoskey, the emblem of victory. Miss Zietler will now represent this section at Detroit in January when the State Consumers Show will be held. Competing with her will he three other district queens so here's luck to you, Miss Zietler.

Next year"s show will be held in Cadillac where prospects point to another highly successful event.

AMERICAN LEGION ACTIVITIES

Final figures on the turkey shoot show a net profit of about $30.00. It is planned to mnke next year's shoot larger and with improved targets.

The annual feather party will be held November 23 at 8:00 p. m. The committee is working on arrangements and is looking for a large crowd. Some innovations are planned to make the event more interesting.

To fill vacancies on the county council, Comrades Kullander and Lamb were appointed to represent the Leslie T. Shapton post.

STR. JAMES E. SANFORD TOWED TO CHEBOYGAN

Former Beaver Island Mail Boat Taken from Round Lake Harbor

The Str. James E. Sanford, formerly operated on the Charlevoix-Beaver Island mail route by Capt. John Chambers, will no longer be a Round lake landmark.

Removed from its resting place of several years, the Sanford was pumped out and towed Sunday to Cheboygan by the Str. M. H. Stuart, a barge which last week brought back memories of the days when lumber was king and the products of saw mills of this city and those of Boyne City and East Jordan provided a constant parade of vessels through this port. The Stuart carried a cargo of around 80,000 feet of hardwood lumber from Beaver Island to East Jordan, passing through this port last Wednesday.

Machinery of the Str. Sanford, for many years operated out of this port, will be removed.

SAD, SAD NEWS

Thanksgiving turkeys will cost at least five cents more a pound than last year, Grand River Valley turkey growers predicted at their annual four-county meeting. Many growers have contracted to sell their crop at 25 cents a pound, live weight. Last year the same grade sold at 20 cents.

The poultry fanciers were advised by Otis E. Shear, Michigan State College extension poultryman, that only 18,000,000 turkeys are available this year in the nation to feed 20,000,000 families who usually serve the birds at Thanksgiving dinner.

SUMMER RESIDENT IS AUTHOR OF FINE NOVEL

F. C. Pillsbury Writes "The Girl from Hampton Beach"

It is with a great deal of pride that we herald a successful novel by Frederick C. Pillsbury, Ironton summer resident and well know locally through participation in work of the local and Ironton Congregational churches.

The book, entitled "The Girl from Hampton Beach," is an unusual story that is full of interest. The leading characters are from the opposite extremes of society, yet they are developed in a manner so unusual, at times so dramatis, so full of spirit of adventure, and withal so natural, that it is not only interesting, but immensely suggestive of present-day possibilities.

Other authors and critics generally hail the novel with high praise. The early scenes are laid on Lake Superior and at Hampton Beach, New Hampshire; the later ones in the middle west. There is no attempt at disguisement of the locale, which adds to the interest.

Copies of the novel may be obtained locally from Mrs. Ross Alexander at Ironton.

VETERANS AWARD HUNTING LODGES

DRAWING IS SCEDULED FOR THANKSGIVING NIGHT

Dancing Party at Gymnasium Brings to Conclusion Campaign Started Early Last Summer

Bringing to a close a campaign started early last summer, the local post of Veterans of Foriegn Wars, will award two hunting lodges located in the famous Pigeon River district to holders of lucky tickets on Thanksgiving night.

The drawing will be held during a dancing party to be held at the school gymnasium, plans for which are now nearing the stage of completion.

The prizes are two hunting lodges located on Pigeon river, eight miles east of Vanderbilt. One is a 4-room cottage equipped with electric lights, water pressure, telephone, fireplace and other modern conveniences. The other is a 2-room cabin with fireplace pump, screened porch, garage, etc. The cabins are central in the Pigeon River State Forest area, famous for its hunting and fishing.

The campaign has been state-wide in its scope, with Legion and Veterans of Foriegn Wars posts throughout the state cooperating with the local organization. The drawing Thanksgiving night will determine the winners.

The dancing party at the gymnasium will be a public affair, providing a holiday entertainment feature as well as the drawing. Sam King and Lee C. Allard of the local post have been active in promoting the venture, which, according to reports of sales from throughout the state, will be a very successful one.

COMMERCIAL FISHING UP TO THE AVERAGE

Light Spawn Take Indication Season Was Opened Too Late

Near average catches but a light spawn take have been made by local commercial fishermen since the opening of the season lake trout last Thursday.

Hauls running from 1,000 pounds up to two tons and over have been generally reported. Fishermen, however, seem quite unanimously agreed that spawning was well advanced before the season opened, basing their opinions on the large number of male fish taken and the fact that a good many of the female were spawned out.

Fishermen are required to save the spawn which is transferred to state and federal hatcheries in Michigan.

ELECTRIC EXTENSION PLAN BEGUN

CIVIC GROUPS COOPERATING WITH CITY COUNCIL

Kiwanis, Board of Commerce, Legion Name Committees to Recommend Electric System Needs

Efforts to enlist public cooperation through civic organizations in a plan to enlarge the municipal electric light system to meet consumption requirements has been successfully instituted.

At the invitation of Mayor Arthur Bergeon and members of the city council, three civic groups have appointed members to a committee to work with the council. Kiwanis representatives named were Clarence Wood and Martin Block. The Board of Commerce will be represented by Robert Bridge and Allen Campbell, and William E. Goss has been named by the American Legion.

At the initial meeting of the committee and council, it was unanimously agreed, in view of last summer's consumption of electric current reaching dangerously near the peak production capacity of all units, that an addition to the present system was essential.

Following a general discussion of all phases of the problem, a committee of two, composed of E. J. Kibbe, council member, and Robert Bridge of the cooperating committee, was appointed to obtain the services of a competent engineer to study the city's electric system and recommend the capacity of additional production equipment needed.

In all probability no further action will be taken until the committee obtains engineering service. Future meetings will then be held, agreements reached upon the recommendations, and the proposal fully outlined in every detail for ultimate presentation to the voters of the city.

It would appear that city officials have hit the right solution of the matter through consolidation of public opinion by various groups, and that the need of sufficient electric producing facilities to meet the city's requirements will ultimately be provided.

FIVE BOATS PROVIDING SERVICE AT STRAITS

Additional Boats Put on to Speed Up Crossings for Deer Hunters

Five boats are now in operation at the Straits of Mackinac to handle the annual deer-hunting season traffic rush.

The hunting schedule went into effect November 10 and will continue through Nov. 30. During this period the four state-owned and one leased boat will run at random schedule night and day.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner predicted a 30 per cent increase in hunting season traffic at the Straits over that of a year ago. On this basis, the boats will carry 17,600 hunters this year using nearly 6,000 cars.

More than 200 miles of new hard-surfaced highways have been built in the northern deer country since the 1936 season, the commissioner said. The greatest improvement has been the opning of US-23 from Oscoda to Harrisville providing an all-paved highway from Detroit to Alpena for the first time.

INFORMATION BUREAU VERY USEFUL

PROVIDES WIDE AND VARIED SERVICES FOR CITY

Annual Report Revealed That 84,570 Pieces Literature Distrubuted; 1,584 Rentals During Summer

Proof that services rendered by the Board of Commerce infurmation bureau are wide and varied in nature was revealed in a report given by Gordon B. Todd, secretary, at the recent annual banquet.

In addition to the distribution of resort literature of every description, the office serves as an employment bureau for hundreds seeking summer positions; provides information on cottage, hotel, room and cabin accommodations, railroad, boat and ferry schedules; gives out information on movies for the northern Michigan region; directs the tourist to where he can find most anything from milk for the baby to a boarding place for his dog. These services, if itemized, would run into the thousands.

An actual insight into the amount of literature handled during a season is provided by the report, showing that 84,570 pieces were distributed last summer. This distribution was classified at follows: 24,000 city folders, 12,400 county folders, 8,141 copies of a resort edition of the Charlevoix Courier, 4,173 hotel folders, 7,181 fishing folders, 6,483 letters, 17,483 maps, 3,125 Beaver Island folders.

From the standpoint of service on rentals, the report revealed that 1,584 rooms, cottages and cabins were rented.

RECREATION AREAS GREATLY INCREASED

HALF MILLION ACRES ADDED BY CONSERVATION DEPT.

Addition of 15,373 to Jordan River State Forest in Charlevoix and Antrim Counties

Michigan's forest, game and public recreational areas were increased more than one-half million acres by the state conservation commission at its October session, effecting the largest expansion made at any one time in recent years.

The gross area included in the boundary extension totals 502,721 acres of which 302,834, or 60 per cent, are either state owned or state tax land.

Dedication of the areas to conservation purposes was approved by the commision only after months of soil survey work which showed the land to be of non-agricultural value. At the same time, the commision approved the with-drawal of a compartively small area from conservation jurisdiction after similar surveys indicated that the land possessed potential agricultural value.

The newly dedicated tracts include 13 conservation units, nine in the northern part of the lower peninsula and four in the upper peninsula, and are comprised of additions to existing forests, game refuges and public hunting grounds as well as new conservation projects.

The boundary expansions include 43,979 acres for the Ogemaw state forest; 22,263 acres in the Arenac public hunting grounds; 5,523 acres in the Gladwin game refuge and public hunting grounds; 15,898 acres

BASKETBALL PRACTICE IS STARTED

FOURTEEN GAMES SCHEDULED FOR 1937-38 SEASON

Four Veterans Included In Large Group of Candidates—Prospects of Strong Team Excellent

Basketball practice got under way this week at Charlevoix high school in preparation for a 14-game schedule signed for the 1937-38 season.

Prospects for a strong team this season are exceptionally good. While graduation last spring took Ed. Radke and Leslie Shapton, veterans of several years, reserve material was never more promising.

As a nucleous around which to build his team, Coach Kipke has "Chick" Gallagher, center, Keith Carey and Richardson, forwards, as well as Bert Pearl, another forward, who alternated during the 1936-37 season with Richardson. This quartette of seasoned players will make a strong combination to start from.

Among an exceptional strong field of reserve material are Brown, whose height should make him a good prospect for center, Driggett, Goss, Ray Nowland, Hiller, Smith, Olach and numerous others, some of whom will press last year's regulars to hold their positions.

While Charlevoix lost in the district tournament last year, they were undefeated in thirteen scheduled games. The reserves had a similar record. The strong combination was broken up in the final game of the regular schedule when Carey broke his ankle. In view of the prospects for the present season, the Red Rayders combination should be on a par if not even better than last year.

The 1937-38 schedule is for the most part with Tip of Michigan class C conference schools. Traverse City is dropped for the first time in many years due to their insistence of a date too early. Alpena is not included, but Petoskey is scheduled for two games and is the only class B school on the list.

The schedule, containing seven home games, follows:

Dec. 10—Petoskey here.
Dec. 17—Kalkaska there.
Dec. 22—Gaylord here.
Dec. 28—Alumni here.
Jan. 1—Petoskey there.
Jan. 7—Harbor Springs there.
Jan. 14—Mancelona here.
Jan. 21—East Jordan here.
Jan. 28—Boyne City there.
Feb. 1—Gaylord there.
Feb. 4—East Jordan there.
Feb. 11—Grayling there.
Feb. 18—Harbor Springs here.
Feb. 25—Boyne City here.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN
Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Lansing—The trend towards increased centralization of responsibility at Lansing is blamed by three state officials for today's payroll—$2,000,000 higher for nine months of 1937 than for a corresponding period last year.

Back in September State Treasurer Theodore I. Fry addressed a democratic rally at Houghton Lake. He analyzed state finances and warned there would have to be a reduction of local demands upon state government or more state tax revenue would have to be raised.

At the October democratic rally held in Crystal Falls another administration leader, Auditor General George Gundry, pleaded for consolidation of local governments. Instead of going to the state treasury for financial help, local governments should effect savings by consolidations, he said.

The November rally, held in Grand Rapids, brought a third defense of the state fiscal policies. Secretary of State Leon D. Case declared that "added services" were responsible Judging by the attndance, interest and enthusiasm manifested ut the 4-H club leaders training meeting held in the East Jordan High School last Tuesday night, the 1938 program will be highly successful. Shortly after 6:00 the gursts sat down to a pot luck supper which certainly was the best ever. Our sincere thanks are extended to Mrs. Leatha Larson and Mrs. Strehl, 4-H club leaders and the wonderful group of club members for their assistance in taking charge of the banquet arrangements. Without being asked, the club members decided to contribute scalloped potatoes and meat loaf, and waited table in the most approved manner.

Over 100 leaders and club members enjoyed the evening. Immediately after the banquet Miss Bird gave a splendid outline of the hot luoch activity and general club programs. Then the group was divided, with the respective sections being handled by Mr. Wulker and Miss Bird.

Last week all of the schools in the county were visited that had indicated a desire to participate in this wonderful program. Within the next week or so it is expected that nearly all of the clubs will be officially organized and busily engaged in carrying out the requirements of the various projects. Last year 398 project members started club activity, of which 371 actually finished. This year indications point to fully as large a membership as last year. Any group not having been visited, will be visited if you call, or drop a card to the office. Let's have a most successful year in 1938.

Home Economics Extension Leaders Given Second Lesson

On Tuesday and Wednesday, November 9 and 10 the local leaders in the county nutrition project receive their second lesson from Miss Roberta Hershey, nutrition specialist of the Michigan State College. It was gratifying to note that every group was represented at either the Boyne City or Charlevoix training centers.

While the correct number of group members has not been accurately summarized, close to 225 ladies are discussing nutrition. The following communities and leaders are keenly interested in this extension program:

Barnard — Mrs. Earl Waffle and Mrs. Edd Gregory; Burgess—Mrs. Ida Burns and Mrs. Alice Willis; Charlevoix—Mrs. Wm. Higman and Mrs. Edith Novotny; Horton Bay—Mrs. Howard Stephens and Mrs. J. A. Koteskey; Marion Center—Mrs. Mamie Straw and Mrs. Florence McGhan; South Arm—Mrs. Archie Murphy and Mrs. Carl Ellsworth; South Boyne—Mrs. Edith Bowers and Mrs. Florence Watson; Advance—Mrs. Hattie Franke and Mrs. Maude Noble; Boyne River—Mrs. Emaline Hnward and Mrs. Martha Kobylczak; Deer Lake—Mrs. Rena Newkirk and Mrs. Edna Petts; East Jordan—Anita Ruhling and Reta Bader; Evangeline—Mrs. Lavina Lockman and Mrs. Lillie Gardner; North Boyne—Mrs. Ethel A. Sayles and Mrs. Clara Tompkins; Peninsula—Mrs. Harriet Russell and Mrs. Mary Reich; Clarion—Mrs. H. Hinkley and Mrs. George Malloy; German Settlement—Mrs. Effie Weldy and Mrs. Emma Behling.

Great credit is due these community leaders for their time and energy devoted to receiving the lessons and then extending this information to the women in their community. In the winter months it is sometimes quite an effort to make the trip to town, but nevertheless the work goes on, due to their splendid cooperation.

Charlevoix County Soil Conservation Committee Plans Election

The farmers of Charlevoix county will select the committeemen for the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program during the two weeks between November 29 and December 11. At this annual voting the farmers elected will have the opportunity of administering the 1938 Agricultural Conservation program.

This national program is for the purpose of promoting better management of soil by encouragiag farmers to raise a larger acreage of conserving crops and to carry out good management practices. Among these practices are the use of lime, the seeding and fertilizing of legumes and grasses, the use of green manure crops and the planting of forest trees and other practices which tend to maintain soil resources.

Notice and dates of the election meetings will be mailed to all farmers in the near future. Anyone who is a farmer will be entitled to vote for the 3-man community committee, the chairman of which will be a member of the county Board of Directors. The success of the Program in the community and county depends to a large extent on the election by the farmers, of capable committeemen, who are themselves good representative farmers.

1936 Payments Announced

The present Charlevoix County committee is composed of George A. Nelson, chairman, Charles D. Shepard, vice-chairman, Edward A. Topolinski third member and B. C. Today's Freight Trains

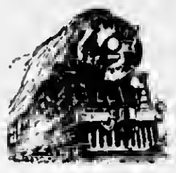
AMERICA has always been a great user of railroad freight service. Ours has been a major dependence on that service.



Have America's railroads speeded up their freight service to keep abreast of this faster era?

America has the fastest freight trains in the world.

Many of them travel on schedules as rigid as passenger schedules. Many of them are speedier than passenger trains were 15 years ago. Many of them have cut from 5 to 20 to 30 hours off of their 1930 schedules.

Basically, America's freight trains have been speeded up 55% in the past six years. Freight trains with average speeds above 45 miles per hour are becoming the rule.

In 1922 the average freight train carried 676 tons of freight; consisted of 38 cars; maintained an average speed (including all stops) of 11.1 miles per hour, performed in the average hour a service equivalent to carrying 7,479 tons of freight a mile, with payments for loss and damage to freight amounting to $1.11 per car loaded with revenue freight.

Today the average freight train carries 731 tons; averages 46 cars per train; has an average speed of 16.0 miles per hour; had an hour-performance equivalent of 11,718 ton-miles; and claims for loss and damage have dropped to 50 cents per loaded car.

A fast-moving world requires fast and efficient freight service. America's railroads are providing it.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Alcohol Education is the big job of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the present time and the Educational program inaugurated three years ago is already bearing fruit. Parent Teachers Associations and other organizations are joining in the effort to have this subject taught in the schools of the nation just as thoroughly as in former years, using up to date material and methods.

The preceding paragraph is quoted from the report of the recent W. C. T. U. State Convention which was given by Mrs .Saltonstall at the annual Roll Call luncheon of the local union held last Fridsy in the Congregational Church dining room.

There was an unusually large attendance at the meeting. Mrs. Nettie Brown led the devotions. Mrs. Ida Burns, Vice-president, presided. They also voiced the Union's greetings to Mrs. Lois Campbell, whose birthday it happened to be. Mrs. Sylvia Miles sang a plessing solo with Mrs. Alexander as accompanist. The roll call feature resulted in the pnyment of annusl dues by many of the members. The 1938 membership campaign plans were presented and adopted.

Wm. C. Palmer, County School Commissioner, brought into the meeting the wall chart and other equipment which he is using in the rural schools to demonstrate the effects of alcohol. This same paraphernalin is being used in many schools throughout the state where there is a local demand.

Group 2, winners in the 1937 Membership Contest, nnd the eight new members secured were guests of the three other groups at the luncheon. Mesdames Hiller, Bartholomew and Hamilton were the committee in charge.

Registrations at the information bureau numbered into the thousands. Information on weather, as well as garbage disposal and numeroua other services were provided for visiting yachtsmen. The office handled the licensing of peddlers and short-time summer business places. Correspondence of the various Board of Commerce committees is handled through the office.

In addition to office routine, recreational, entertainment and sports activities were under the personal direction of Mr. Todd, who had the assistance of Miss Monica McHugh as secretary.

It is very evident that the office provided two persons about all they could do and, considering the value of services performed to the city generally, bas more tban fulfilled its purpose.

THIRTEEN KINDS AUTO LICENSES PREDICTED

Gov. Frank Murphy's Suggestion Would Eliminate Stickers

If Governor Frank Murphy's suggestion that state-owned cars bear distinctive license plates, is found practical, Michigan, in 1938, will have 13 kinds of motor vehicle plates. This will come as something of a shock to most people who off-hand could recall seeing only three or four different kinds of plates, not counting special numbers, serial letters or other trick identification schemes.

Most used, of course, is the regular passenger car plate. Equally familiar, however, is the commercial plate. Motor vehicle trailers have plates of their own which are readily identified. Fewer people, however, notice what are termed "municipal" plates, issued at 50c a pair, for motor vehicles owned by any subdivision of government, including the state, counties, cities, and branches of these governments.

No More Stickers

But with the enactment into law of the half-year permit plan, to allow installment buying of full year plates, trailers were equipped with half-year plates, it being impossible to equip them with "stickers" used for several years by owners of passenger cars and commercial vehicles using the installment plan. In 1938, however the "sticker" will be eliminated. In its place will be two new plates: half-year plates for passengers and commercials.

Other plates already in use include those for motorcycles, scooters and the like; special ones for automobile dealers, manufacturers and drive-away use. Lastly is the socalled "dolly" plate, used chiefly in Wayne county, for heavy two-wheeled special trailers used for special purposes, as the hauling of heavy machinery and other such equipment.

Of passing interest is the fact that one kind of motor vehicle can legally be used anywhere, in any state, without any license plates at all. These are vehicles owned by the United States government, for carrying mail. No state can tax the federal government. Much mail, however, is carried in privately-owned cars for the use of which proper arrangement is made by the government. These cars carry plates.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

'Trick' Auto Plates Grow Greatly In 1938

Along with other records for business volume being currently established in the Department of State, Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, has found that the fad for special numbers for automobiles has reached an alltime high.

To meet the 1938 demand for low or special numbers, nearly 30,000 sets of plates numbered below 1,000 in various combinations of letters, have been set aside throughout the state, but the supply will not be adequate.

The great stream of requests for special numebrs means, among other things, that the distinction of special plates will shortly have all but disappeared, Case believes.

Considerable attention has been attracted to the diversity of reasons offered by those who seek special plates, or special combinations of letters and numerals. By all odds, the hardest request to fill recently, came from a numerologist, who eyed the entire range of available plates seeking one which would inmistakeably convey some cryptic message to others of his turn of mind.

For years, when only numerals were used, low numbers were of considerable attraction. A few years ago, the introduction of letters greatly increased the number of special plates possible, but the public's appetite for them was not appeased. In 1938, the series of AA plates, along with FF, EE, VV and other more familiar letter combinations, will be virtually snowed under by new ones devised to meet the demand. It is believed the urge for special numbers will be reduced as more and more plates of this kind are made available.

It has been the idea of the present secretary of state, as it apparently was of his immediate predecessors in that office, that if you can make people happy by giving them the license plate numbers they want, why not? However, if it gets to be to much of a burden on the staff, sooner or later some secretary will devise a system that will do away with the whole matter of choice of plate numbers.

AT THE MOVIES

Joan Crawford's latest starring vehicle, "The Bride Wore Red," comes to the Palace Theatre for a three day engagement opening Sat., Nov. 20. Franchot Tone and Robert Young are her leading men in the new picture. The story of a woman's struggle to find happiness in the lowly surroundings of her birth, it offers Joan her finest dramatic role. Deeply human in theme, "The Bride Wore Red" has the recklessness and color of the waterfront as a background. Miss Crawford portrays the part of a poor girl who, for a few weeks, on the whim of an old man, is given the means to travel in high society. She lays the foundation for her future on a house of happiness built on lies during her month of make believe. Considered Ferenc Molnar's greatest drama since "Liliom," "The Bride Wore Red" was adapted to the screen from the playwright's stage success, "The Girl from Trieste."

Harold Bell Wright Story Colorful Film of Old California

Thilling action against the colorful background of Old California highlights Harold Bell Wright's fast-moving screenplay, "The Californian," which comes to the Palace Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 23 and 24, with Ricardo Cortez in the starring role.

They Had To Be Good To Be Bad

One of the most unusual lighting problems in screen history occurred on the set of "Live, Love and Learn," the new Robert Montgomery - Rosalind Russell co-starring picture which comes to the Palace Theatre Thursday and Friday, Nov. 25 and 26.

INTEREST SHOWN IN CREDIT ASSOCIATION

Annual Stockholders' Meeting Held November 9th at Gaylord

Nine months' service (Jan. 1 to Sept. 30) in extending short term credit to farmers of this county by the Gaylord Production Credit Association was summed up at an open stockholders' meeting at Gaylord, on November 9.

Besides the fifty members registered, there were twenty-one wives of members present and 51 visiting farmers who had not yet joined, but who were interested to learn about the association's aims and the way it carries on its business, making a total of 122 in attendance.

Directors, who are elected by the members, discussed the business and explained charts setting forth operations for this year in comparison with last year.

It was reported that an increasing number of borrowers who pay up their loans in full do not turn in their stock, but keep it as the basis for future loans. The association has extended credit in the amount of $673,000 in the past four years with a fine record of repayments and no losses.

Reforestation Project Conducted by CCC Camp Enrollees.

More than nine thousand acres of land have been planted this fall by CCC workers with seedlings obtained from the Higgins lake state nursery and the newly established hardwood nursery near Wolverine.

The majority of species used in the plantings were white, Norway and jack pine. In addition species obtained from the hardwood nursery were planted as game cover and game food.

A total of 9,438½ acres were planted, up to the last week in October, in the following state forests: Lake Superior, Mackinac, Black Lake, Pigeon river, Hardwood, Ogemaw, Fife lake, Au Sable, Presque Isle and Houghton.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p.m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Soul and Body" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, November 21.

The Golden Text, from Psalm 62, is: "My soul, wait thou only upon God; for my expectation is from him."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Luke 12:22,23): "And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what shall put on. The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment."

LAUDS STANDBYS FOR THANKSGIVING

If the family likes Mother's cooking then the old standbys are the best for that Thanksgiving meal.

That's the advise of Miss Marian Dixon, instructor in foods at Michigan State College. "The very word Thanksgiving," Miss Dixon observes, "conjures up visions of Mother's kitchen and we can practically see ourselves settled comfortably around the family dining table.

"Women who have cooked Thanksgiving dinners for years may have a menu which they always have used and which spells success as far as members of their families are concerned. Their families might consider it mutiny if the menu were to be changed."

For those whose families are used to variety and surprises, however, Miss Dixon has prepared suggested menus.

One would start with grapefruit juice. The main course would see roast capon for the centerpiece, mashed potatoes, green beans and broiled parsnips. Cinnamon apple salad, melba toast and cranberry ice and brownies and beverage would complete this meal.

Another menu using the familiar turkey would start off with tomato juice. Other items would be the dressing, baked onions and squash souffle, apple pickles and celery, cranberry and orange salad, a thin piece of pumpkin pie and beverage.

Third of the suggested menus would center around roast beef. The start of the meal would be cranberry juice or home canned fruit juice. Baked squash, baked potato, broccoli, stuffed olives and watermelon pickles would be followed by hearts of lettuce with French dressing, pecan pie and beverage. A fourth menu would feature baked ham. Icy cold fruit cup would start the meal. Candied sweet potatoes, green peas and broiled fresh tomatoes would be the vegetable portions. Rose radishes, carrot shreds and ripe olives are suggested, followed by chocolate ice cream and angelfood cake and beverage.

mainly for the $2,800,000 higher payroll of state employees, pointing ing out that 3,000 employees are working in state departments that did not exist five years ago.

"Spoils System"

Part of the payroll increase was due to the "spoils system", the secretary of state admitted.

A remedy for this governmental inefficiency has been provided by the legislature, he continued, through a civil service for state employees.

In a recent address at Ann Arbor before newspaper editors Governor Frank Murphy said that a study had disclosed 19 department of the state government "with a few lonely exceptions" were "shot through with both privilege and favoritism to an extent that was appalling to contemplate."

Furthermore, he said payroll procedure has been "so inefficient it is possible for a discharged employee to stay on the pay roll and for non-existent persons to draw pay."

State Indebtedness

In 1932 the constitution of Michigan was changed to require that proposed new commitments of spending must obtain the approval of the taxpaying voters.

This referendum restriction prevented the addition of $34,000,000 to the state debt during the Comstock administration when a proposed bond issue for building purposes was voted down decisively.

The state debt today totals $72,000,000 in outstanding bonds. But against this amount is a sinking fund of nearly $50,000,000 in cash and securities on hand with which to pay the bond obligations as they come due. If it would be possible to call bonds before they are due, the state could reduce the debt at once to some $22,000,000. In fact, the state sinking fund is earning about 4 per cent annually, or $2,000,000. This cuts the interest cost of bonds to about $1,000,000 a year. In fact, the state holds approximately 10 per cent of all outstanding state bond issues—thus pays itself interest on its own bonds!

The above facts were contained in a recent summary of state finances by State Treasurer Fry. It is complimentary to Michigan that the fiscal policies of recent administrations have resulted in one of the smallest debts of any commonwealth in the United States.

Free Drugs

Michigan's new marriage law requires that applicants for a marriage license first must obtain a physician's certificate that they do not have a venereal disease.

On December 1 the state will start the distribution of free drugs for use in combatting syphilis which is regarded by Dr. C. C. Slemons, state health commissioner, as the state's most dangerous communicable disease.

The state is going to spend $60,000 for distribution of arsenicals and bismuth and for expansion of health laboratory facilities so that blood tests may be handled more expeditely.

The drugs will be distributed through the health departments at Detroit, Grand Rapids, Flint, Saginaw, Pontiac, Lansing, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek and Marquette.

Turkeys "Bullish"

Consumers will pay at least five cents a pound more for the Thanksgiving turkey than they did last year.

For our national crop is 10 per cent smaller.

There are only 18,000,000 turkeys to supply the demand of 20,000,000 families, according to Prof. O. E. Shear, Michigan State College poultry expert.

However, other foodstuffs for the holiday dinner will cost less as most product prices have fallen several notches. Michigan's large potato yield this year will bring less money to growers.

Michigan Payrolls

At the same time that Dun and Bradstreet were reporting that retail sales were 5 to 18 per cent higher in October as compared with the same month one year ago, the state board of tax administration announced that the percentage gain in Michigan retail sales was 19.4 per cent.

Further proof is not needed that Michigan business still is above the national average.

Michigan industrial payrolls jumped 30 per cent for the first nine months of 1937.

In dollars, this has meant the addition of $150,000,000 to the nine-month income of industrial workers alone.

Retail sales throughout the state—and these also include a good chunk of money left here by outstate tourists—are up one billion dollars.

Of the 5,000,000 residents in the state, approximately 2,000,000 are listed by the state unemployment compensation commission as gainfully employed.

Auto Leaders Optimistic

Michigan automobile leaders are optimistic over prospects for 1938, despite the present temporary lull in business.

In fact, the federal government itself has recognized the existing recession as inevitable along with a general upswing of a business cycle. The United States bureau of agricultural economics, in its report on the outlook for 1937-38, views the existing recession as "relatively short," adding that "the appraisal of general conditions gives some support to the impression based upon the situation for individual industries that it (the business recession) will run well in 1938."

Dr. Raymond E. Moley, former advisor of President Roosevelt, said in Detroit last week that the downward trend was a "minor depression" and that things will boom again after next spring.

CONVENTION PROSPECTS LOOK GOOD

HALLETT AND TODD REPORT ON NEW YORK TRIP

Bid on Three Convention Cruises Instead of One Originally Intended—Decision in January

Prospects of landing two and perhaps three large conventions for the 1938 summer season instead of the one originally aimed at, was reported Monday by Harold Hallett and Gordon Todd upon their return from New York City.

These representatives of the Board of Commerce extended Charlevoix's bid for the 1938 national convention of the Society of Automotive Engineers at a committee meeting last Friday in New York. Movies of this city's attractions were shown and, while no definite promise was given, it was felt Charlevoix's bid was favorably received. Final decision on the convention site will be made at a meeting in Detroit in January. In the meantime the Board of Commerce will comply with a requirement that figures on hotel, restaurant and other accommodations available here be provided.

Two other opportunities to spread Charlevoix's fame as a resort center were provided by the New York trip. Movies were shown before executives of the Fox Films Studio of New York, also before Elmo Ecker, a member of the advertising firm of Campbell-Ewald Co., Inc., both of whom are planning summer conventions in 1938. These groups also asked for details on accommodations within the next two weeks. In view of the favorable comments following the showing of Charlevoix movies before these groups, it is felt possibilities are good for obtaining both cruises.

Mr. Hallett and Mr. Todd worked in conjunction with officials of the Chicago, Duluth & Georgian Bay Transit Co., who are angling for the convention groups previously named for their line in 1938.

Another interesting disclosure is the fact that this boat line is contemplating making Charlevoix a regular port of call next summer.

STATE POLICE RULE DRIVERS PASS EXAM

High Death Toll Reason for Instituting Rigid Requirements

State law enforcement officers, seeking to bar careless and incompetent motorists from the highways, ruled Thursday that drivers seeking license renewals should be required to submit written tests in the future.

Capt. Caesar J. Scavarda, in charge of safety and traffic for the state police, said the new examination system would be in effect not later than next February 1.

Under it applicants for new drivers' permits or renewals of old licenses will be required to submit to a written examination on rules of the road; an oral test concerning highway signs and be tested as to vision. Those with less than 50 per cent normal vision, or failing to satisfy the examiners that they are qualified, will be refused licenses, Scavarda said.

Drivers also will be tested as to color blindness and hearing. Failure in these two respects would not constitute grounds for refusal of license, Scavarda said, but would be considered contributory causes for denials.

The test has the approval of state associations of police chiefs, sheriffs, prosecutors, judges, the state police and the department of state, Scavarda said.

The test was announced following announcement that the number of traffic accidents in Michigan had assumed record proportions. The state health department said 1,564 persons were killed in automobile accidents in the first nine months of 1937, compared with the full year total of 1,913 killed in 1936, which also was a record number.

Scavarda said schools of instructions for police examiners would be conducted soon in each of the eight state police districts of the state. Instruction booklets are being prepared along with necessary blanks and forms.

One representative of each police department in the state will attend the strategic school of instruction, for training in the method of examining applicants for licenses. The officer so instructed will be designated as the examiner in his community.

for the Midland game refuge and public hunting grounds in north central Midland county; 14,067 for the Iosco public hunting grounds; 53,076 acres in the Dead stream swamp area in Missaukee and Roscommon counties; 7,056 for the Hardwood state forest in Cheboygan and Emmet counties; 6,173 acres for the Pigeon River state forest in Cheboygan county; 223,700 acres in the Cusino game refuge and public hunting grounds area; 19,664 acres in Mackinac county which will be a part of the Mackinac state forest though separated from it now; 51,335 acres in Chippewa county for the Munuscong public hunting grounds; 39,983 in Marquette county for the Escanaba river tract; 15,373 acres in Antrim and Charlevoix counties for the Jordan river state forest.

Of the new dedications, the following number of acres are now state-owned: Ogemaw, 12,660 acres; Arenac, 7,080 acres; Gladwin, 1,960 acres; Midland, 8,220; Iosco, 5,600; Dead Stream swamp, 21,440; Hardwood forest, 3,334; Pigeon river forest, 4,160; Cusino, 72,700; Mackinac, 12,960; Munuscong, 19,400; Escanaba river tract, 30,319; Jordan river forest, 2,140.

The area withdrawn from conservation use was made up of 3,942 acres of the Ogemaw state forest region, the boundary being adjusted to exclude this part and include the new dedication.

HENS NEED MORE SUN OR ITS SUBSTITUTES

Laying flocks need all the Michigan sunshine they can get plus vitamin supplies from feeds, now that winter conditions prevail. Suggestions on winter flock care are offered by C. G. Card, head of the poultry department at Michigan State College.

First recommendation offered by Professor Card for improvement of hatchability in Michigan is the greater use of free sunshine and green feeds or other vitamin D sources. In the United States poultrymen and hatcherymen annually take losses of many millions from eggs that fail to hatch.

Poultrymen who cannot secure succulent green feed in the winter may use good grade alfalfa hay and milk products. No winter ration for confined breeding flocks should contain less than 5 per cent dried milk products or its equivalent in semi-solid or liquid form, unless a meat meal is used and is known to contain enough of dried whole liver to make up at least 2 per cent of the total ration.

PUBLIC ACTS THIS YEAR WILL BE IN HUGE BOOKS

Will Require 13,500 Volumes of Thousand Pages Each

Law cost money; the more a legislature passes, the greater the cost to print the volumes of Public Acts at the end of each session.

There are indications that copies of the 1937 Public Acts may break several records. Each of the 13,500 volumes will contain approximately 1,000 pages, almost twice the size of the Public Acts of 1936. The 1937 book will include the four statutes passed at the special session of the legislature which followed the regular session immediately.

Paper for the 1935 volumes cost the state $2,439; printing and binding came to $9,995. The books for years have sold within Michigan for $1.50, postage paid. According to the Secretary of State, the size of the 1937 volume may involve an increase in the customary price because of the greater costs of paper, binding and postage.

The books will be available about December 1.

DECLINING FARM PRICES WILL AFFECT MICHIGAN LITTLE, EXPERT ASSERTS

Declining farm prices will affect Michigan less than many other states, V. H. Church, senior statistician of the U. S. Crop Reporting Service, has predicted.

In a monthly report, Church said Michigan farmers would be "better able to profit from high yields than are farmers in many other sections of the United States because Michigan grains and forages are mostly marketed through livestock and poultry.

"Prices for dairy products and meat animals continue at a high level," Church emphasized, "and recently the market has strengthened for poultry and eggs. Those feeders who must buy additional feed to supplement that produced on their farms will be able to purchase advantageously due to lower feed grain prices.

"Unfortunately, prevailing prices for apples, potatoes and beans are low, and these low prices are offset only partially by the higher production per farm."

Reporting several crop yields estimates lower than a month earlier, Church said oats, buckwheat, sugar beets, alfalfa hay and potatoes "yielded less (per acre) in Michigan than for the rest of the United States."

Most noticeable change in crop estimates released was a 1,415,000-bushel decline in potato production from the October estimate of 31,130,000 bushels.

Church reported "a considerable percentage" of No. 2 and cull grades in nearly all commercial potato states from Wisconsin eastward. Michigan, even with an indicated 1937 yield of 29,715,000 bushels November 1, retains its rank of second in production in the nation.

The October corn estimate of 58,320,000 bushels and apple yield of 14,432,000 bushels remains unchanged, Church said. Average field bean production of 16 bushels an acre, Church reported, was the highest for any year since records were first kept in 1914.

PYTHIANS WINNER OF DONKEY BASKETBALL

Downed Board of Commerce by 16 to 14 Score Saturday Night

The school feeding project particularly, and drug stores generally, profited by the donkey basketball game at the school gymnasium Saturday night.

Proceeds from a large attendance went to the feeding project and drug stores were swamped Sunday with sales of liniment, arnica and salve to heal the bumps and bruises of the participants.

The Knights of Pythias won the contest 16 to 14 after two overtime periods. Knight Franklin Left scored the winning goal in the second extra period. The contest was close throughout with a 12-12 tie score at the half.

From a standpoint of amusement, nothing staged here in a long time could equal the antics of the players and their trained mounts.

It's a great world, yes! But let's do our part to keep it so.

RED CROSS FORMS CITY COMMITTEES

President Roosevelt comments on the Red Cross campaign as follows:

"Each year, during the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, the American Red Cross appeals to our people for the membership support which makes possible the continuance of its work through the coming year. It is the aim of this great organization of mercy to enroll as many Americans as possible so that they will have a conscious share in its service to humanity,—local, national, and international,—through individual membership.

"It is with a feeling of deep pride and gratitude that we look back upon the accomplishments of the Red Cross during the year, when the country was faced with the gravest disaster in its peace-time history. Acting as our national relief agency, the Red Cross gave practical assistance to more than a million people driven from their homes by the floods which swept through the Ohio and Mississippi river valleys. During the same twelve months, the organization brought speedy and efficient relief to the victims of more than one hundred other disasters which visited our people.

"In order that the ever increasing calls for Red Cross service may be met promptly wherever and whenever they are sounded, it is of the utmost importance that we further increase the popular support always given to this great organization. I therefore urge our people everywhere to respond generously and promptly to the Red Cross membership roll call."

Individual membership is one dollar, half of which remains for the local chapter relief work at home. Cooperation with the committees will be highly appreciated by county officials.

Chosen from the Red Rayder squad were Bert Pearl, "Chick" Gallagher and Bill House. Pearl was probably the most accurate passer and punter in the conference. Gallagher, on the receiving end of many of Pearl's passes, was Charlevoix's most consistent ground-gainer, while House was an outstanding linesman. PROCLAMATION

Christmas Seals

Gov. Frank Murphy last week issued a proclamation "unreservedly" urging everyone capable of buying Christmas seals of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association "to do so to the limit of his ability."

The proclamation pointed out that tuberculosis deaths have been cut 50 per cent in Michigan in the past 25 years.

"To the Michigan Tuberculosis Association must go the major share of the credit for this incalculably valuable accomplishment," the proclamation stated. "The Association, in turn, owes its success in large degree to the financial support derived from yearly sale of Christmas seals. That its winning fight may continue to be waged with unyielding determination and strength, is, I am confident, the heartfelt desire of all."

RETAIL BUSINESS IS INCREASING STEADILY

October Sales Tax Receipts $750,000 Greater Than Last Year

Retail business in Michigan is continuing a steady climb, according to sales tax collections for October announced by Draper Allen, managing director of the State Board of Tax Administration.

October collections were $4,951,365.11 as compared with $4,730,768 for September. The October receipts this year were more than $750,000 higher than the same month a year ago when collections amounted to $4,191,920.42.

During the first ten months of 1937 the state derived $48,328,341.60 from the sales tax, a gain of more than seven million dollars over the same period in 1936. Last year's collections from January to October inclusive were $41,275,600.88.

The Detroit office collected $2,254,447.08 of the October total and produced $21,013,261.32 since the first of the year as compared with a total of $17,980,431.61 for the first ten months of 1936.

CHRISTMAS SEAL DRIVE THURSDAY

1937 CAMPAIGN WILL OPEN THANKSGIVING DAY

Over Sixty Million Tuberculosis Seals Mailed for the Fight Against White Plague

To homes all over Michigan sixty million tuberculosis Christmas seals were mailed this week by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, to provide funds for the war against tuberculosis in the state in 1938. Opening officially on Thanksgiving day, the 31st annual sale of the Christmas seals will be continued until Christmas day.

Striving this year to return the sale to pre-depression levels everywhere in Michigan, officials of the association pointed to the urgent need for continuing the present vigorous campaign against tuberculosis. Deaths from tuberculosis occurring in the state last year serve only to emphasize, they declared, the importance of the work that is made possible through tuberculosis Christmas seal funds.

Through funds raised by the sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association has been able to bring two of the modern weapons of medical science —the tuberculin test and the X-ray —to more than 100,000 Michigan people. It is also true, that other thousands are still without the benefits of these modern safeguards. And so, to hold the gains that have been made the past 31 years, Michigan must carry on its present anti-tuberculosis campaign with vigor undiminished. The purchase of tuberculosis Christmas seals will help assure an aggressive program in 1938.

SUCCESSFULLY PASSES STATE BAR EXAMS.

Norman Ance, Graduate Marquette University, Eligible to Practice

Norman Ance, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Ance of this city, has been qualified to practice law in Michigan, having successfully passed the State Bar Association examinations on September 20 and was admitted as qualified to practice law in Michigan on November 12.

Norman attended Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, during the required term of years and received his degree on June 15th from this university, June 17th, 1937, at Madison, Wisconsin, by the order of Supreme Court, he received his certificate of admission to the Bar of the State of Wisconsin, duly admitted to practice as an attorney at Law in all courts of the State of Wisconsin. To follow the law profession in Michigan, he was required to pass State Bar association examinations, which he took September 20th of this year, and on November 12 was admitted as eligible to practice law in Michigan.

The Courier congratulates Mr. Ance on his successful university career, he having been one of the few candidates to successfully pass the recent state examinations.

NORTHERN MICHIGAN TUBERCULOSIS SANITORIUM NOW OPEN FOR PATIENTS

The Northern Michigan Tuberculosis Sanitorium, located at Gaylord, will officially open for patients Friday of this week, according to Superintendent J. L. Egle, who has delayed the opening until every piece of needed equipment was on hand.

Patients eligible for admission to this modern tuberculosis sanitorium are admitted through the local district health officer, his application for the patient being received from the family physician.

Fourteen years ago a few tuberculosis-conscious people gathered at the AuSable Club at Gaylord, among them being Sen. P. M. Brown of St. Ignace, to take cognizance of the vital need of proper hospitalization for the many lives being snuffed out in the 32 counties of Northern Michigan, including five counties in the upper peninsula in which there was not a bed for the care or treatment of victims of the White Plague.

An organization was perfected, working with the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, to try and remedy this condition in some manner, though little headway was made.

Nine years ago Fred R. Ming, state representative of this district, who had been vitally interested in doing something, began work in Lansing to create a demand for hospitalization. Seven years ago, with the passage of the Malt Tax, he was able to get through an appropriation bill taking a certain per cent of the malt tax to build a sanitorium in the north. This was vetoed by Gov. Brucker on the grounds that it was illegal, but Fred Ming was not defeated, and carried it back to the House, where he was able, with the assistance of others who saw the need, to pass the appropriation measure over the governor's veto.

Two years later the funds were loaned to the general funds of the state, during the depression, to be repaid on April 1, 1935.

In the meantime the towns of the north were clamoring for recognition as the proper place in which to build when building was to be done, Gaylord being fortunate in having what seemed to be the most ideal spot, and the building committee, composed of S. L. Marshall of St. Johns, Paul Martin of Lansing and Dr. Deane Burns of Petoskey, reported back to the Commission and to Gov. Comstock of its decision, and the Commission promptly made a motion that the site chosen by thte committee be accepted. This was approved at that time by Gov. Comstock.

With only $250,000 on hand, it was a problem as to how an institution able to take care of the demand for Tuberculor beds could be built with only half what was needed, but with a federal government willing and eager to work on such projects, under certain stipulations, Cong. now Sen. P. M. Brown, began work in Washington, and was able to have this project pushed forward above others less pressing.

Eighteen months ago work started on this beautiful building. Today in it stands complete, a monument to Fred R. Ming and other interested and self-sacrificing people.

Facing the west, it is 179x44 with a wing 90x44 running east from the center of the building.

The total cost of this building, including the power house, garage and laundry combined, and the sewage disposal plant approximated $460,000. When operating at full capacity it will house 150 patients, but for a time it will be necessary to house part of the staff in the building, until such time as work is started on the nurses' home, superintendent's residence and a three family resident physician apartment.

At the present time there are 45 employes, but when operating at full capacity there will be about 65 employed, including nurses, doctors, etc.

The hospital is equipped with the finest and most modern equipment in every department, with Kelley-Koet X-Ray equipment completely shock-proof for fluoroscopy and radiography.

A treatment room is on the second and third floors, each equipped with fluoroscope, making it unnecessary to transport ill patients from one floor to another for treatment. Completely equipped for all types of chest surgery, both major and minor.

Sterilizers of the latest design furnished by the American Sterilizer Company.

A completely equipped laboratory to serve all of the needs of the Sanatorium.

EXPECT RECORD TOTAL HUNTERS AT STRAITS

Five Ferries Insufficient to Halt Delays at Opening of Season

The deer hunting season was in its closing days this week with indications of another record turn-out of hunters above the Straits of Mackinac.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner reported traffic on the state-operated ferries was moving along at an increase of 23.2 per cent above the same period a year ago. During the first five days of the deer season schedule of the ferries 7,412 cars were transported compared with 6,013 for the same period in 1936. The record high was recorded November 13 when 2,708 cars crossed the Straits.

Despite the availability of five boats on random schedule and the emergency use of the Chief Wawatam, railroad carferry, deer hunters experienced delays at Mackinaw City the first three days before the opening of the season.

STATE PROHIBITS CUTTING XMAS TREES

Unlawful to Obtain Trees Without Permission of Land Owner

It's still many days to Christmas but not that long before the cutting of "Christmas trees" will start.

And from the conservation department comes a reminder about the law which prohibits cutting, removing or transporting within the state, for the purpose of sale, trees, evergreen boughs, shrubs or vines without the written consent of the owner of the land on which they were grown.

All of which means that it is unlawful to go into any likely looking woods and chop down a Yuletide decoration without first getting permission from the owner of tthe property. Anyone carrying a tree in his car must have a bill of sale or other documentary evidence showing ownership.

Violation of the statute pertaining may bring a fine of $25 to $500 and a jail sentence not exceeding 90 days. A few arrests were made last year on the charge.

SEEK FIFTH BOAT AS STRAITS FERRY

EXPECT ADDITIONAL SHIP BY NEXT SPRING

Traffic Tie-Up During Deer Hunting Season Stresses Need for Added Ferry Service

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner said Tuesday he was proceeding with plans to add another ferry to the fleet of state-operated boats at the Straits of Mackinac.

"I cannot say, however, whether the boat will be purchased or built," Van Wagoner said.

The latest addition to the ferry fleet was the "City of Cheboygan," a former car-ferry which the state purchased and rebuilt this year. It increased the Straits fleet to four state-owned vessels. The state leased another.

It was reported by reliable sources that representatives of the highway department had inspected vessels at Ludington and Cleveland in search of a boat that the state might purchase.

Van Wagoner, however, refused to discuss purchase plans or inspection trips by members of his department to look over vessels.

There were indications that the highway commissioner had given up plans to build a super-streamlined ferry. Bids a year ago on such a vessel were rejected as too high. This fall the lowest bid submitted for a stream-liner was $1,625,000 and Van Wagoner rejected that. It was known that he wants to pay no more than $800,000.

"Our objective is to place another boat in operation at the Straits next summer," Van Wagoner admitted, "I am uncertain now whether the boat will be built by the state or purchased and refitted.

"We are continuing our program to improve the docks at Mackinaw City. This will give faster service and pave the way for handling heavier traffic in an increased ferry fleet."

PAY $12,865 IN BOUNTY ON WOLVES AND COYOTES

Destruction of coyotes and wolves last month cost the state $12,865, the conservation department reports.

Bounty payments were made for hides of 720 coyotes and of seven wolves. The state pays $20 for each female wolf or coyote killed and $15 for every male.

WINTER TAX RATE HIGHER THIS YEAR

SLIGHT INCREASE IN TAX FOR COUNTY PURPOSES

School Debt Service Decreased; Tax for School Purposes Remains Same as Last Year

Winter taxes which become payable on Wednesday, December 1, at the office of City Treasurer F. V. Tyler, will be slightly higher than last year, according to figures just released.

The rate spread will be $19.35 per thousand dollars valuation, compared with $19.20 last year. The 1935 tax was $22.18 and that of 1934 was $23.70.

Spread against the city valuation, the winter tax charged to Charlevoix property owners will appear, per thousand dollars valuation, as follows:

County	$10.85
Schools	4.00
School Debt	4.50
	$19.35

The 1936 tax roll figures were:

County	$10.40
Schools	4.00
School Debt	4.80
	$19.20

Contributing to this year's slight increase is the raise in county allotment from $10.40 to $10.85. A drop in the amount assessed for school debt service from $4.80 to $4.50 per thousand held the total tax within 15c per thousand valuation of the 1936 figure. The amount assessed for school operation remains the same as last year.

Winter taxes go for county and school purposes entirely. The county realizes funds for general operating expenses, activities of the county poor and relief commissions, etc. The schools receive a portion for general operating expenses and a debt service, which, in Charlevoix's case, goes for retirement of bonded indebtedness.

Taxes are payable without four per cent penalty for collection until January 8, unless the penalty limit is not later extended by the city council.

DEPENDS ON WHO KILLS THE DOG

Conservation Officers Only Have the Right to Kill Roving Canines

One of the important changes in game laws resulting from the enactment of act No. 102 which became effective Oct. 29 is that pertaining to dogs discovered running deer or bear.

Previously "the presence of a dog in the woods, hunting camp or clubhouse during the deer hunting season" was held prima facie evidence of its unlawful use, entitling "any person" to shoot it without criminal or civil liability.

The new act strikes out the prima facie evidence phrase and also "any person" and substitutes "any officer" as being authorized to kill "any dog pursuing, killing or following the track of a deer or bear—without criminal or civil liability".

SCHOOLS CLOSE WEDNESDAY FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Providing members of the school faculty an opportunity to reach their homes for Thanksgiving, Charlevoix public schools close Wednesday, November 24. Classes will not be resumed until Monday, November 29.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

In a mood of Thanksgiving this week, the average citizen in Michigan has many reasons to be grateful.

Counting his "blessings one by one", he finds:

That November business in Michigan remains above the national average, according to federal reserve figures.

That retail sales are one billion dollars ahead of last year's, making a 19.4 per cent gain for Michigan as compared with Dun and Bradstreet's 5 to 18 per cent retail gain in October.

That Michigan agriculture, because of its diversity of crops, "faces winter with a relatively better outlook than does the average farmer in the United States," according to a federal report this month.

That the increase of dollars earned by workers during August showed a 36 per cent jump over August, 1936. Figures of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation commission for October 1 showed that Michigan workers had received $150,000,000 more wages than during a like period in 1936, a gain of 80 per cent.

CENTRAL LAKE

Now for a spell of nice weather.

Andy Warner is getting better from his extended illness.

The canning factory has finished its season's run and is disposing of its silage.

Mr. Harry Mathews of Bellaire gave a good talk on Sunday school work at Bay View last Sunday.

Christmas exercises will be held at the same place at 2:00 o'clock, p. m., on Sunday, December 19, 1937. Everybody is invited to these services. We also are very grateful to the editors of the Mancelona Herald, Central Lake Torch, and Elk Rapids Progress for announcements and printing of our program.

A crowd of fifty people assembled at Ball school house Sunday for Thanksgiving services. A good program was given, and good addresses given by Rev. Grover Jackson of Central Lake, and Rev. D. P. Garret of Alden. Mrs. Ermine Williams of Balls, as organist and trainer of the children, Miss Lillian Williams who had charge of the program, Alfred Christensen of South Milton, Mrs. Grace Hooper of Eastport, who sang, Mrs. May Loper and children who assisted with singing, and children of Ball's, and all others helping are extended our hearty thanks.

A bad accident occurred just south of Torch Lake last week, when a man's car turned over, and burned up. Lester Brooks, the mailman between Eastport and Elk Rapids, came along just in time to extracate him from the wrecked car, or he would have been burnd to death. A strange coincidence was, that it was almost directly across the road from where John DeForest'a car, a few years ago, overturned, and he was burned to death. Mr. Drenth of Ellsworth, employed at Kingsley, had his car in "tail-spin" upsetting the car and injuring him slightly, the forepart of last week, at Eastport, near the "Y".

Many of thte tax sales advertised in this neighborhood have been found to be land that the taxes have been paid on. This will give a new job to someone, to go around and see how many have paid their taxes; also it made more work for the printer.

County Wide Tuberculosis Test of Cattle Now Complete

We are extremely pleased to announce that Charlevoix county has been re-accredited for being free of tuberculosis. The miracle however lies in the fact that in 1208 herds containing 11,636 cattie, that only one animal reacted to the test, which is the next thing to being absolutely free. This work was carried out under the supervision of thte State Department of Animal Husbandry and was recently completed. This gives the county a distinct advantage in that out of state buyers are more and more coming to this section for their purchases.

Following this tuberculosis campaign a Bangs disease program is now in full operation throughout the county. Practically 4000 animals have already been tested for Bangs disease and we believe that by around the first of December the campaign will be finished. Judging from the first weeks activity the percentage of reactors in the county will be very low. When we can announce to the world that Charlevoix county is free from Bangs disease and tuberculosis then we have successfully finished a job that will mean thousands of dollars of additional revenue to the county.

If present prices continue the sale of surplus dairy stock will be one of the very best cash crops. Think it over farmers, and see if it isn't good sound reasoning to develop young dairy stock as a cash crop.

SEVEN MILLION FOR MICHIGAN FARMERS

Estimate Given on Benefit in Soils Conservation Program

The federal government will distribute an estimated $7,000,000 among Michigan farmers next winter and spring for their participatiun in its soil conservation program, it has been predicted.

Although Maurice Doan, chairman of the state agricultural conservation committee, said a near-estimate of total 1937 benefits would be impossible to determine until after receipt of county committee reports, he indicated the total probably would approximate the $7,300,000 paid last spring for participation in 1936 programs.

One hundred and ten thousand farmers, about the same as last year, are cooperating in the 1937 program, Doan said. He emphasized, however, that the amount individual persons would "earn" under the program could vary greatly from last year if they materially altered former acreages of soil conserving and depleting crops.

County committeemen, with field examination work virtually completed, are now compiling reports to be sent to the state agricultural conservation office. Checks for farmers will be distributed between the latter part of December and next April at a rate of abuut 20,000 to 25,000 a month.

New Powell-Loy Laugh Hit Comes to Palace Screen

A side-splitting laugh treat is in store for moviegoers who attend the opening at the Palace Theatre November 27 of "Double Wedding", co-starring those perennial favorites, William Powell and Myrna Loy, in what is described as a picture even funnier than their famous "Thin Man" series.

Based on the continental stage success, "Great Love", by Ferenc Molnar, the new romantic comedy tells the story of four people—Charlie, a penniless but happy-go-lucky artist who makes his home in a trailer; Margit, owner of a fashionable New York gown shop; Irene, her sister with yearnings to be a movie star; and Waldo, Irene's half-hearted suitor.

Charlevoix Terminal Co. Opens Gasoline Station

The Charlevoix Terminal Co. has announced the official opening of its super service station at the corner of State and Antrim streets for Friday and Saturday, November 26 and 27.

The station building of cement blocks is surmounted by a large round tower which is of frame with steel sheet covering and has opaque windows through which colored lights will glow in a manner that has prompted the name "Tower of Diamonds" for the station.

Besides modern computing pumps for the dispensing of gasoline, the station is equipped with all other facilities of an up-to-date service station, including hydraulic hoist for greasing and washing and ample space for other necessary operations and storage. Men's and women's rest rooms are built into the station.

The Charlevoix Terminal Co. takes its name from the principal operation of the concern—the ownership and management in this city of a lakeside terminal for the reception and storage of gasoline. One storage tank holds 1,600,000 gallons. J. D. Leddy, president of the company, who has been supervising construction of the new station here, states that this station is one unit of a chain that is eventually designed to cover most of the northern half of the lower peninsula.

Besides Mr. Leddy the company is composed of Ray Cornell of Grand Rapids and Richard Hill of St. Joseph. All are experienced oil dealers. The Charlevoix Terminal Co. was organized last winter and has one of the finest stations in Cadillac in addition to the local unit and other distribution points.

Managing the Charlevoix station with the title of local distributor, will be A. C. Hansen, who will have as associate his son, Edward Hansen. Mr. Hansen has been identified with service station operation in Charlevoix for many years. He operates a station on the old Norwood road at the southwest city limits and established the Sunoco Service Station on south Bridge street which was later taken over by Ray Shearer.

LUECKE SEEKS UNIFORM FISHING LAWS

Introduces Bill in Congress to Protect Great Lakes Industry

Congressman John Luecke, Escanaba, introduced a Bill which gives authority to the States of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota to enter into compacts or agreements for the uniform regulation of fishing in the waters of the Great Lakes and connecting waters thereof on which such States border and to which their jurisdiction otherwise extends. Under the Bill any two or more States may enter into a compact, and establish such agencies, joint or otherwise, as may be deemed desirable for enforcement.

During the last session of Congress Mr. Luecke introduced a resolution asking for an investigation of the fishing industry in the Great Lakes. A hearing was held and it developed that such an investigation would cost about $15,000. Since there is a possibility that the money for such an investigation would not be forthcoming at this time because of the need for economy, the above Bill was introduced to replace the original Bill asking for an investigation.

It also was shown at the hearing that 12 species of fish have become extinct or no longer of any value for commercial purposes and that the present supply of fish in the lakes is greatly reduced. As an example: In Michigan waters alone since 1932 the production of whitefish has dropped from approximately 8,000,000 pounds to 2,500,000 pounds. In Lake Erie in 1924 21,000,000 pounds of eisco were produced against 100,000 pounds in 1934.

From that it will be seen that uniform regulation is necessary if the fish supply is not to be wiped out.

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p.m.

We cordially invite the public to our service and reading room.

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism Denounced" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, November 28.

The Golden Text, from Proverbs 14:22, is: "Do they not err that devise evil, but mercy and truth shall he to them that devise good."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Isaiah 55:7): "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thought: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 249): "Let us feel the divine energy of Spirit, bringing us into newness of life and recognizing no mortal nor material power as able to destroy. Let us rejoice that we are subject to the divine powers that be.' Such is the true Science of being."

CAUTION IS GROWING

Although accidents still headline the news, there is plenty of evidence that the campaign for caution is taking root.

A few years ago it was common to see cars winding in and out around each other trying to beat the man behind by a few seconds. Today the man who "takes a chance" is rare. When he does, it is his name which appears in the next day's news.

There is more courtesy on the part of truck drivers, also. In fact, these individuals frequently become the victims of their courtesy because they find themselves crowded off the road that other cars may pass in safety.

All of which is encouraging because it teaches that by hammering and drumming at safety measures it will be possible to train the thoughtless to exercise caution.

NINE CENTS A DAY

That amount—nine cents—is the average amount which the families of America pay per day for electric power. In 25 years time, the power industry reduced their rates 46 per cent while the cost of living has gone up about the same amount. Today, the government is stepping belligerently into the role of the protector of the people against the power companies. The question for us to decide today is, as Wendell L. Willkie, power authority, puts it: "What is the best way to generate and distribute electric power efficiently and economically?"

"It is important to us now because we are now determining the policy that shall govern this power in the future. There are 130,000,000 taxpayers—direct and indirect—who are called upon to pay half a billion dollars for the program of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and it is now proposed that they should pay an 'ultimate' total of 32 billion dollars for seven regional authorities of similar type."

"Through the two weapons of stringent regulation and subsidized competition, the government is apparently launched on a large scale public ownership program."

The operating cost of government in the past 25 years has increased 830 per cent. Compare that with the 46 per cent decrease over the same period in the cost of power. How can the government, with such a record, present a picture of economical and efficient operation to us in their control of electric power? Look at the post office record. The 1936 report of the Post Office Department states that their operating deficit for the past 100 years is $1,601,569,000. This operating deficit does not include the enormous appropriations for land and post office construction, which is not charged against the postal department, but was, nevertheless, paid for by the taxpayers for postal operation; is that efficient operation when the taxpayer pays the losses year after year?

Thomas Edison said of government ownership: "When the government goes into business, it can always shift its losses to the taxpayers. If it goes into the power business, it can pretend to sell cheap power and then cover up its losses." Under government ownership you will pay for your electric power in indirect taxes as well as paying again when you pay your monthly bill for the power you used. Do you think the government can beat the nine-cent-a-day average?

The high school debating classes are testing their forum skill on the advantages and disadvantages of the unicameral system (one-house legislature) this season.

Again this year, the material in favor of this debate subject is largely theoretical. The only state using the unicameral system at present is Nebraska, and the social and economic conditions there are so different from many other states, such as Michigan, that there are no grounds for comparing or contrasting the two systems. Nebraska is an agricultural state, and there are no widely divergent interests represented in the legislative body, as there would be in Michigan. The population of Nebraska is not centered in numerous large towns and large cities as is Michigan, New York, Ohio, etc., and one legislative body should be able to accomplish excellent results for people of like interests.

Many of the men in the Constitutional Convention which formed the United States Constitution were from states which then had only one legislative house. It is significant, therefore, that they founded a Congress with two houses, and reorganized state governments on a similar plan.

New Grading System Producing Better Stock in State

TRAVERSE CITY FIRM HAS PERFECTED A PURE APPLE BEVERAGE

Pure apple juice is the latest contribution to the markets of the nation by this area of Michigan's fruit belt. The beverage was originated and perfected by the John C. Morgan Company for the sole purpose of placing a year around breakfast table juice on the nation's markets to compete with grapefruit, orange, grape, tomato and other similar juices now used for that meal.

The major difference between the new apple juice and cider is that cider may contain a preservative, may be sterilized or may be fermented. By a special process of filtration developed at its local plant, the Morgan Company has succeeded in removing most of the yeast germs, thus making it unnecessary to pasteurize the product or heat treat it.

This apple juice, containing all the natural vitamins and fruit sugars, may be shipped to any climate and used as a year around beverage rather than only in the fall, as is the case with cider. Proof that the pure apple juice has appeal to the buying public and will offe rcompetition to other juices produced in the nation is shown by the fact that 14,000 cases have been shipped to all parts of the country during the first two weeks of the company's production.

LANSING LETTER

Labor Trouble Less

Last winter's business hoom, the result of vast federal "pump priming", was followed by a wave of labor trouble. Michigan experienced the sit-down strike epidemic which rapidly spreud from automobile plants to other industries. Labor demunded higher wuges as commodity costs spiraled upward. A shortage of skilled workers was reported by employment offices. The lubor situation bcame acute.

In the last 90 days, however, the pendalum has started to swing back. Realization that a business recession was growing and that jobs might be again at a premium have combined to make labor apprehensive. Conservative tendencies are now in evidence.

At the Pontiac automobile factory where C.I.O. workmen welded a gate and went on a sit-down strike last week, the employees were ordered by union executives to evacuate the plant because uction was "unauthorized".

The leader of the Lansing C.I.O. labor "holiday" was denied a new trial on a charge of illegal picketing, and the case is keing appealed to the state supreme court. The Ingham circui tcourt judge upheld the constitutionality of a Michigan statute making it a misdemeanor to interfore unlawfully with a laborer in the poaceful pursuit of his avocation.

Industrial relations are slowly improving. Both employer and employee can be thankful for that.

Autos and Accidents

As Michigan automobile plants, for the most part, adopt short week schedules aguin due to slackening of now orders, automohile dealers are wondering how the following changes will affect 1938 sales:

1. Announced policy of finunce companies that contracts be limited to 18 months, starting Jan. 1. This will require highor monthly paymants, a new sales resistance.

2. More stringent operators' licensing requirements will take effact January 1 in a legislative effort to raduce traffic fatalities which totaled 1,913 for the first nine months of 1937, as compared to 1,564 in the same period in 1936. According to Oscar G. Olander, state police commissioner, and his chief of safoty and traffic work, Capt. Caesar J. Scavarda, the tightening of licensing rules may remove 300,000 unfit drivers from the highways.

Farm Bureeu Acts

Bearing out predictions made in this dapartment, the Michigan State Farm bareau voted at its annaal meeting in East Lansing to oppose a 40-hour working week for indastry, as proposed in the wages and hours bill already passed by the senate and now before the house of representatives at Washington.

Farmers fenr that revival of the NRA idea will raise the cost of merchandise the farmer buys, but would not raise the price of produce which he has to sell.

They read with interest an Armistice week statement by Roger Babson that in England where one-half of all industrial workers are members of a trade union, as compared with one fourth in the United States, "intelligent and skilled women workers are satisfied with $10 per week."

How wages can ke lifted to a national minimum without also lifting prices is somothing Michigan Farm bureau delegates cannot discern; hence their opposition.

Housing Problem

Better housing facilities for industrial workers is tho goal of the Wagner-Steugall act, passed by Congress.

Michigan's present housing uct, however, limits applicntion of the federal act to Detroit, Flint, Jackson, Saginaw, and Pontiac—all automobile centers—cannot qualify for federal housing loans.

Housing experts want Gavernor Frank Murphy to include revision of the housing law in his call for the 1938 special session. At Flint, for example, community leaders ure ready to creata a housing authority along non-partisan lines to buy land and construct modern small homes which will rent at about $5 per room monthly.

Robert Gerholz, home huilder, is proceeding with n privately-financed bousing plan as u test of consumer acceptanee in that Buick-Chevrolet stronghold.

It all fits nicely into Uncle Sam's policy of giving an economic lift to the hoavy capital goods industries as a means of checking declining trade.

$100,000 Rentals

The state administration at Lansing knows something about the housing problem—it has one on its hands, in fact.

Expansion of state departments, plus ereation of new agencies due to legislative generosity, has added aome 3,000 persons to payrolls in the last few years. The state capitol and the nearby offica building have failed long ago to meet incrensed demands for office space.

Tha atate is puying nearly $100,000 a year in office rentals.

Governor Murphy is determined to better the facilities of state hospitals and other institutions; as a hike in liquor prices is to raise $3,000,000 for this purpose. But there appears to be little likelihood that the state will do anything about its own housing problem nt Lansing.

Drys Encouraged

At the same time that Governor Murphy demanded that tthe state liquor commission eliminate "factionalism and schisms" and improve its accounting system, the Michigan Anti-Saloon leugue, convening in Lansing, mapped plans to seek local option in nearly 15 counties.

Drys are encouraged hy voters' rejection of liquor-by-the-glass in Lansing, Kalamazoo and Royal Oak.

The drys are also making good use of u statement made by a traffic expert in Detroit that a large number of automobile fatalities there was due to mixing alcohol and gasoline.

APPLE WEEK RECIPE

Canned Apples For Pies

Apples—1 gallon sliced. Sugar—2 cups.

Peel and core sound apples. Slice one-eighth inch thick. Pack apples in a gallon jar, placing a layer of apples and then a layer of sugar. Repeat until all apples are used. Cover with a plate and press down. Allow to stand over night in a cool place.

Pack the apples into sterilized jars, using a wood spoon to obtain a solid pack. Add enough juice to fill the jar. Process 20 minutes in a boiling water bath (212° F.), counting time when water is actually boiling.

These apples make excellent pies. The juice may be cooked 5 or 10 minutes to concentrate before being canned. The canned juice may be used for drinking.

ORGANIZED CHARITY

A 66-year old man, ragged, begged for food. It was given him by a sympathetic citizen.

Later the same man approached the police for a place to sleep. Making the usual search, police found $100 in his tobacco case, and a bank book with a balance of over twenty-five thousand dollars.

Of course this case is unusual, but not too uncommon to emphasize the danger of giving freely to charity chiselers.

It is this very thing which Community Chests and organized charities endeavor to prevent and cure. When we give indiscriminately, we contribute to the moral and economic delinquency of beggers.

Money for charity should be put where it will do the most good—even if it may not be as satisfying as to see the immediate results of our good deeds.

Office supplies of any description may be obtained quickly through this office. Charlevoix Courier.—Adv3tf

REDUCED TELEPHONE RATES ANNOUNCED THANKSGIVING DAY

Reduced rates for long distance telephone calls will be made effective for Thanksgiving day this year, according to an announcement by C. L. Johnson, manager in this area, for the Michigan Bell Telephone company.

The reduction will be made effective by the application throughout the day, as well as Thanksgiving eve and night, of the long distance rates regularly in effect after seven o'clock every night and all day every Sunday. This will be the first time especially reduced rates have been offered for Thanksgiving day, the telephone company official states. They will apply between points within the United States, and in general, will reduced the cost of calls where the regular day station-to-station rate is 40 cents or more.

The announcement was made following the filing of the reduced rates by the Michigan Bell Company and their approval by the Michigan Public Utilities Commission at Lansing.

A schedule of similar reduced long distance rates also was filed and approved for the coming Christmas and New Years days.

SCIENCE EXPLAINS WHAT MAKES "FOOD DRUNKARDS"

Professor Donald A. Laird, Colgate University Psychologist, in an article in The American Weekly, the great weekly magazine with the November 28 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, will tell how many people just can't help overeating, and points out it may be due to an overactive stomach, careless parents, weather—and even unrequited love.

"Wipe Out the Extortioner", says J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-Men. Read what he says about kidnaping, blackmail and how they can be curbed in This Week, the colorgravure magazine with next Sunday's Detroit News.

CASE CHECKS DELAY IN LICENSE ISSUING

Two changes in procedure of issuing operators' and chauffeurs' licenses have been ordered by Leon D. Case, Secretary of State.

In cases where applications for operators' licenses are received in Lansing from local examining officers too late to permit return of the license within the 20 day temporary permit period provided by law, postcards advising applicants of this fact, will be sent to them. The date any such application was received at the Department of State will be noted on the card. This move is one to forestall queries from applicants as to their applications after the 20 day period has expired. Case expects to demonstrate that the delay in issuing occurs before the application reaches his department.

Chauffeurs' licenses and badges for 1938 will be placed on sale December 1, saving applicants applying that month, the $1 fee for a 1937 license and badge for the remainder of the year. The full year fee is $2. There are in excess of 4,000 more chauffeurs registered at present than at the corresponding time last year, it was explained. The December 1 deadline will eliminate delays; badges must be secured by January 1, each year. Previously, badges and licenses were placed on sale December 15, or later.

Science explains what makes "Food Drunkards". It may be due to overactive atomach, careless parents, weather—and even unrequited love. An informative article in the magazine distributed with Next Sunday's CHICAGO HERALD AND EXAMINER.

GAME VIOLATORS REACH HIGH FIGURE

Many Duck Hunters Fall in Meshes of Law—Fines Run in Dollars

One hundred and one hunters were arrested during the duck and small game season last month in the 17th conservation district which includes such heavily populated counties as Wayne, Oakland, Genesee and Monroe in addition to the Thumb counties.

Possession of hen pheasants was charged in 23 cases constituting the largest number of the game law violations. Seventeen were charged with transporting dressed game and 16 with violating the duck laws. Six persons, all non-residents, were taken into custody for obtaining licenses fraudulently.

Seizures by conservation officers included 69 ducks, 50 squirrels and 24 hen pheasants.

The number of arrests and seizures exceeded last year's total but were under 1935 figures. The increase over last year is believed due to the large number of blockades set up by the department this year, more strict application of the federal duck laws and an increase in the number of hunters.

Fines assessed totalled $1,820 plus $637 in costs. Jail sentences aggregated only 10 days. Fines in 1935 amounted to $1,910 and in 1936 to $1,190.

BONE IN THROAT CLUE DEER LAW VIOLATION

Rudyard Resident Ate Venison Too Hospital Examination Showed

When Wesley Thompson of Rudyard came to the hospital here his intention was to have a bone removed from his throat.

Doctors attended to the matter of the bone being out of place.

Conservation officers attended to the matter of the bone being out of season, it being a deer bone.

Conservation officer L. E. Jankowski happened to hear about Thompson's entry in the hospital and the nature of it. The date being October 22, or almost a month before the deer season which did not open until November 15, Officer Jankowski speculated upon the fact that the bone in the patient's throat was from a deer. The officer decided to diagnose the case with the aid of Justice G. W. Moore who, on being informed of the symptoms, issued a search warrant. With this and accompanied by Conservation Officer Frank W. Nelson, Officer Jankowski inspected Thompson's home and reported finding ten pounds of venison.

Appearing later before Justice Moore at Trout Lake Thompson pleaded guilty to the charge of possessing deer and was fined $50 with costs of $9.10.

A fitting moral might be: Don't eat deer meat too fast out of season.

WELFARE APPLICANTS GIVEN WARNING BY STATE RELIEF OFFICE

The following statement from George F. Granger, state relief administrator, which appeared in the daily papers November 13th, describes the relief situation in Michigan, and will be interesting to residents of Charlevoix County.

"The State Relief Commission has adopted a ruling that we will live within the budget set up by the Legislature and will not spend beyond this sum. Reports from the southern industrial counties indicate that the automobile plants have already started to lay off men. It appears now that the relief need will be greater this winter than anticipated. This means very scanty relief for those on welfare rolls and relief budgets are lower now than at any previous time."

As applied to Charlevoix county the above simply restates the policy of the county commission to help only persons unable to work. At a time when there are several wood cutting jobs in operation nearby, the commission does not feel justified in accepting applications for relief from able bodied workers.

Seals of Charitable Organizations May Be Put on Letters

Under postal regulations, Christmas stamps, seals and labels to aid charitable objects may not be attached to the address side of mail. All mail bearing such stamps must be sent to the dead letter office or returned to senders under the rule.

Harlee Branch, second assistant postmaster general, has just informed postmasters, however, that as an exceptional measure these rules are suspended from November 15 to January 15 this season if, through inadvertance, senders have affixed such stamps to the address side. In previous years much Christmas mail bearing the stamps on the address side has been held up.

OFFICIALS EXPECT RECORD DEER KILL

LARGEST NUMBER LICENSES IN HISTORY SOLD

Deer Ferried Across Straits Already Approached 1932's Heavy Total —Hunters' Reports Required

The bombardment of a deer hunting season described by State Conservation Department officials as the most successful in recent years, reached its finale Tuesday.

Steadily mounting reports of kills continues to give indication that the number of buck deer slain will establish a new record and, while the exact number of hunters will not be definitely known until complete reports are received from license sales agencies, it is freely predicted the army will greatly exceed that of 1936 when 130,000 hunters established a record.

Enumerators at the Straits of Mackinac had counted 5,112 bucks ferried across the straits up to Monday, believed to represent the heaviest upper peninsula kill in five years. Conservation officers estimated at least 1,000 more bucks would cross the straits before all hunters return, which would bring the total close to 1932's kill of 6,264. It was also reported Monday that besides the deer kill, hunters had bagged 99 bear, two wolves, four bobcats, three fox and six coyottes. The 1936 kill in the upper peninsula was 3,296 deer.

The conservation department will be able this year to positively verify its estimates of the deer kill. A new law now in effect requires all hunters to fill ont and return before February 15 a report attached to the regular hunting license. Failure to do so constitutes a misdemeanor.

While fatalities will be many, it is believed the total will fall below that of 1936 when seventeen lost their lives through accidents directly or indirectly connected with deer hunting, despite the record number of hunters.

Varying reports are received from northern Michigan deer hunting areas. Gaylord county reported a record kill in that district, while Cheboygan, Wexford and Grand Traverse counties claimed the kill was lighter. The west portion of Charlevoix county, opened last year along with a number of lower Michigan areas, produced deer in appreciable numbers for the first time.

In view of the predicted record license sale and number of deer killed, hunters will await with interest complete reports to be made by the State Conservation Department.

COLDEST WEATHER OF WINTER HERE MONDAY

Drop of 15 Degrees Brought Low of 20 Sunday Night

Old Man Winter reached out and laid his icy grasp on the northern Michigan region with a vengeance Sunday night, sending the thermometers sinking down to their lowest level thus far this winter.

Unofficial temperature readings here Monday revealed that the mercury reached a low of 20 degrees Sunday night following a high point of 35 degrees earlier in the day. The temperature registered a rise of two degrees Monday morning.

High wind, shifting from southwest to northwest, made the cold more noticeable.

ALBA 4-H BOY WINS AWARD FOR ELECTRICAL SURVEY

Lawrence Phillips, 17, of Alba, is acclaimed state winner in the second National 4-H Rural Electrification Program conducted through the State Extension Office.

The boy conducted his survey on his father's 160-acre farm which does not now have electricity.

COMMUNITY INTEREST BECOMES CENTERED ON CHRISTMAS

With Thanksgiving Day of 1937 marked off the calendar, the community has turned its attention toward Christmas and the holiday season.

Window displays of Christmas toys and holiday merchandise, which are now being put in place, have all helped focus attention on the coming event. Festive appearance of the business district will be enhanced by Yuletide decorations.

The fact that only 20 more shopping days remain before gifts go on the Christmas trees on Christmas Eve is also helping to stimulate holiday interest and impress upon shoppers that their time is limited.

DRAWING ON HUNTING LODGES IS POSTPONED

Returns from Down-State Incomplete, Requiring Change in Plans

Winners of Pigeon river hunting lodges to be given away by local Veterans of Foreign Wars still remains to be determined despite previous plans to make the drawing at a Thanksgiving night dancing party at the school gymnasium.

Due to the failure of various Veterans posts throughout lower Michigan to make returns from sales of tickets, the drawing was necessarily postponed. Returns have not been made from Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Flint, Bay City and Detroit, it is reported. These cities had the largest distribution of tickets and the failure to make returns made it impossible to hold the drawing.

Officers of the local post have announced that the drawing will be made as soon as possible and that the public will be informed of the date when set.

HEALTH CHIEF SEES MEASLES EPIDEMIC

BAD YEAR OF DISEASE CYCLE IS DUE IN 1938

Directs District Health Officers to Instruct Parents Regarding Precautionary Measures

The State Health department warned Tuesday against an expected outbreak of measles similar to that of 1935, in which 184 persons lost their lives.

Dr. C. C. Slemons, health commissioner, said 79,061 persons were known to have been infected by measles in that year, a record in this state.

He sent statements to local health officers, warning that 1938 would be the third year in the "measles cycle". He said the ailment is most widespread every third year.

Supporting the cycle theory, he pointed to statistics that showed 42,929 persons infected in 1932, with the loss of 183 lives; 21,654 infected in 1933, and a loss of 111 lives; 6,528 infected in 1934, with 36 deaths; 79,061 cases in 1935 and 184 deaths; 2,453 cases in 1936 and 12 deaths; and 4,503 cases in the first 11 months of 1937. Eight persons have died in the first nine months of this year, the most recent tabulation.

Dr. Slemons called upon health officers to educate parents in their areas that they should notify their health officer at the first intimation their children have been in contact with a possible measles carrier, to permit early serum treatment. The serum modifies the effects of measles in the patient.

"In 1932, we had 42,929 cases of measles and 183 deaths from it," Dr. Slemons said. "In 1935 there were 79,061 cases and 184 deaths. The fact there was not a much greater mortality unquestionably is due in great part to a similar educational campaign conducted through our department."

MICHIGAN HAS BEST FEDERAL ROAD RECORD

Report Shows 97 Percent of Projects Completed During 1937

Michigan was advised this week that it has made the greatest progress of any state in the Union on its Federal Aid road construction program for the current fiscal year.

Michigan has 97 per cent of its $3,893,528 Federal Aid fund obligated to actual projects. New York is second with 95 per cent. Only 5 states have obligated more than 90 per cent and only 15 are above the 50 per cent mark.

The Washington headquarters of American Association of State Highway Officials, which advised Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner of the compilation, is urging all states to obligate at least 75 per cent of their funds by January 10 in preparation for road legislation at the regular session of congress.

BASKETBALL TEAM APPEARS STRONG

PREPARE FOR OPENING GAME DECEMBER 10th

Carey, Gallagher and Richardson Veterans in First-String Line-Up—Rangy, Fast Combination

With the opening of the 1937-38 basketball season slightly more than a week away, practice sessions at the high school gym are being intensified in preparation for the initial contest December 10th.

Starting with a group of thirty candidates, Coach Ray Kipke has worked out first and second teams which provide fans with the probable starting line-ups. The first squad is composed of Keith Carey, Dan Callagher and Charles Richardson, last year's veterans, Louis Brown and Harry Withers. Brown holds the pivot position, Carey and Richardson are at forward positions; Gallagher and Withers at guards. The combination appears to be one of the strongest to represent the school in recent years.

Bert Pearl, who saw action in many games last season, is still out due to injuries received in the final football game. He is expected to start practice next week and will be a strong addition.

The second five is composed of Bob Goss, Ed. Gengles, Ira Smith, Harrison Bedford and Richard Bergmann, another strong combination.

If their performance in practice is any indication, the Red Rayders will cause plenty of trouble for competing teams this season. The team is exceptionally rangy and fast. In class C conference competition, Boyne City, 1936-37 district and regional champions, will have a strong team. Last year's squad is intact with the exception of Kujawski.

Charlevoix will open the season against Petoskey in the local gymnasium.

MAY START GAME FARM IN UPPER PENINSULA

Conservation Commission to Decide Issue at December Session

Whether an experimental game farm is needed in the upper peninsula is a question which is now under investigation by the game division of the department of conservation.

The state conservation commission at its November meeting adopted a motion instructing the game division to inquire into the need for such a project and to report back at the commission session this month.

The state's existing game farm is located at Mason. This unit has been in operation there since 1916 and during its more than two decades of work thousands of ringneck pheasants have been propagated and distributed throughout the state for release.

The commission is scheduled to meet December 10th.

POTATO DIVERSION DEADLINE DEC. 4TH

FARMERS MUST APPLY BY NEXT SATURDAY

Authorization for Diversion Is Necessary, Otherwise Payment Will Not Be Made

(By B. C. Mellercamp)

The final date for making application for diversion of potatoes for feeding purposes will be Saturday, December 4, 1937, according to notice received by Mr. Nelson of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Conservation Committee.

Farmers can make application at the office of the Agricultural Conservation Committee or the County Agricultural Agent, for diversion of potatoes grading U. S. No. 2 or better. Upon the receipt of authorization for diverting, the farmers will be eligible to receive payment for these potatoes at the rate of fifteen cents per bushel or twenty-five cents per hundredweight upon proof of having actually disposed of the potatoes.

Any farmer interested should first apply at the office of the Agricultural Conservation Committee stating the estimated amount of potatoes he wishes to divert. He should not feed or dispose of potatoes until he receives the authorization. It is possible, according to the notification, that when the authorization is given and inspection of the potatoes made, molasses or dye can be applied to the potatoes rendering them unfit for human consumption. This would then constitute proof of disposal and payment would be recommended. The potatoes can then be fed to livestock by the farmer or sold to others for feeding purposes.

In no case should potatoes, on which application for payment is to be made, be fed or disposed of until authorization has been received. Further information is available at the county office, but application must be made on or before Saturday, December 4, 1937.

NORTHERN HOSPITALS GET NEW EQUIPMENT

Three Installations of Therapy Machines Made In This Region

The General Radio Therapy Laboratories of Boyne City, has made installations recently in the Charlevoix Hospital, Petoskey Hospital, and the office of Dr. Harrington at East Jordan, according to an announcement made by S. D. Eilenberger, general manager.

Since the appearance of the model B-67 short wave therapy machine, being manufactured at the Boyne City laboratories, inquiries have been received for distributing franchises from various sections of the United States as far west as Denver, Colorado and from several South American countries.

According to an announcement made by officials of the company, plans are now under way to start an extensive sales campaign in this state, after which, it is planned to send several representatives to various sections of the midwest.

The direct sales program will not be handled in the foreign market by representatives as is the case in local markets, but will be handled directly through dealer franchises.

The South Side Circle of the Congregational church will hold a bazaar, baked goods sale and supper at the church, December 2nd. — Adv.

URGE EARLY RETURN TB XMAS SEAL FUNDS

Continued Need of Money to Battle Disease Is Pointed Out

Faced with Michigan's continued need for tuberculosis Christmas seal funds, residents of the state were urged this week to make early returns for seals mailed to them Thanksgiving Day, by Dr. Bruce H. Douglas, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. Dr. Douglas urged all to buy seals according to their means.

Tuberculosis, an utterly needless disease, last year took a toll of 2,100 Michigan lives, statistics of the Association reveal. Many of these deaths, said Association officials, might have been prevented had the Christmas seal funds been adequate enough to supply modern weapons of discovery while the disease was still in its early stages. The tuberculin test and diagnostic chest X-ray—Christmas seal financed methods of early detection—could have discovered the White Plague when only a minimum of treatment would have been required for recovery, it was pointed out.

RED CROSS DRIVE REPORT IS GIVEN

GENEROUS RESPONSE INDICATED BY RETURNS

County Red Cross Officers Expect Usual Quota When Other Communities Report Results

While incomplete returns from the city of Charlevoix are the only available basis at present for calculating results of the annual Red Cross roll call campaign, officers of the county Red Cross Chapter have expressed confidence that the usual generous support has been given.

Mrs. Robert F. Sloan, treasurer of the county chapter, reports receipts of $113.75 from solicitors in Charlevoix up to Wednesday of this week. These returns, which do not include the public schools, represent a total of 96 memberships, with the balance made up of gifts and individual contributions.

Mrs. Sloan stated that the 1936 campaign resulted in 259 memberships which represented individual contributions of one dollar or more. Although no reports have yet been received from other solicitors throughout the county it is anticipated last year's record will be duplicated when returns come in from organizations working in Boyne City, East Jordan, Boyne Falls and Walloon Lake, together with the many townships.

While the 1937 campaign officially closed on Thanksgiving Day, memberships will be taken at any time by Mrs. Sloan at the Charlevoix Insurance Agency Office, headquarters for the local group.

HUNTERS REQUIRED TO REPORT ON GAME KILL

Report Cards Attached to Licenses Must Be Sent in by Feb. 15

Deer hunters who have not yet reported on their luck—good or bad—during the season just closed are reminded that they are required to do so under an act of the last state legislature.

Those who killed bucks may not need much urging to put the fact on record, but the reports of those who came back from the northern deer areas empty-handed are equally important. Every hunter is required to fill out the report card which was attached to his license and mail it to the department of conservation before February 15. Hunters who fail to do so are committing a misdemeanor.

The act applies not alone to deer hunters, but to all hunters of big and small game, birds and fur-bearing animals, and also to trappers. The report cards attached to small game licenses inquire into the number and kind of animals and birds taken. Those on the deer and bear licenses provided for a report on both the 1936 and 1937 seasons.

Data accumulated in the reports will assist state game specialists in research work and will contribute importantly to the gaining of a more complete picture of hunting and trapping conditions throughout the state.

The M. E. Literary and Sewing Club will hold their annual Cafeteria Supper and Bazaar in the church basement, Thursday, December 9th. Adv. 46t4.

POSTOFFICE GETS READY FOR XMAS

PREPARING FOR BIG RUSH OF YULETIDE MAIL

All City and Rural Deliveries Will Be Suspended Xmas Day—Only Special Mail Handled

Organization for the Christmas mailing season is under way at the local post office following the receipt here of definite instructions from Postmaster General James A. Farley as to Christmas Day service and special preparations for handling the heavy volume of holiday mail.

It is the desire of the post office department, the message from Farley stated, that all postal employes have an opportunity to spend Christmas Day with their families and therefore has specified that arrangements be made to complete the delivery of all mail by midnight Friday.

Exceptions to this ruling, however, will be made in the case of packages bearing the inscription "gift package", and also on special delivery mail, perishables and daily newspapers. The postal force to handle this service, however, will be selected from those who voluntarily offer to work on Christmas Day, both among the regular employes and eligible substitutes.

On Christmas Day all city and rural mail delivery as well as post office window and general delivery service will be suspended. Star routes will operate as scheduled and the usual collection and dispatch of mail will be handled on the holiday basis.

Regular employes who volunteer for work on Christmas Day will be given the privilege of receiving either overtime pay or compensatory time for the service rendered.

The instructions urge postal officials to continue their campaign for early Christmas mailing to avoid the necessity of maintaining a large force on Christmas Day to deliver gift parcels and thereby preventing them from being at home with their families on the holiday. Large business concerns and organizations will be requested not to use the mails for sending catalogues, calendars and similar matter from the period between December 10 and January 1, thereby relieving some of the holiday congestion.

HUSTLE WHILE YOU WAIT

Many of you have heard the popular song, "I Want What I Want When I Want it". But few have stopped to think what a wonderful description of the most of us those words convey.

We want what we want when we want it and we expect some one else to get it for us. Apparently we think we have done our part in wanting it.

All things come only to him who hustles while he waits. Who does not hustle still waits.

In this world we have to work out our own salvation.—By Frank B. Craig.

STILL TIMES LEFT FOR MAKING JELLY

Any Good Fall Apple Provides Most Important Ingredient

Most Michigan homes accustomed to homemade jelly are well stocked up for winter months, yet there still remains time and supplies for restocking pantry shelves.

At least some of the suggestions of Miss Frances A. Starin, assistant professor of foods at Michigan State College, indicate that bright looking preserves are still a possibility. Those who were away during summer months or households which have made unusual raids on the annual supply can find solace in the possibility.

Simplicity is evident. According to Miss Starin, equal portions of quince juice, apple juice and cranberry juice are enough to do the trick.

Any good fall apple can be used such as MacIntosh, Wealthy or Jonathan. Wash and cut in thin crosswise slices without removing skins or cores. Add two cups of water to each pound of fruit and cook slowly until soft in 25 to 30 minutes. Strain through double cheesecloth.

Twice as much mater is added to the quinces as they must cook twice as long. After about 45 minutes of cooking these are to be strained. Two cups of water to a pound of cranberries is usual. They should cook thoroughly in 15 to 20 minutes and then are to be strained. Equal amounts of the three juices then should be heated to thte boiling point and two cups of sugar added slowly for each three cups of juice. The usual jelly test of heavy drops or sheeting off a spoo nean be used. The color should be about that of red currant jell, pleasantly tart.

TWO distinct lines of Ford V-8 cars are now being displayed in dealer showrooms. One is a newly-styled standard Ford line in three body types, the other a de luxe Ford line in eight body types. The de luxe Tudor sedan is pictured above. The de luxe sedans are larger in appearance, with longer hood and sweeping lines. The de luxe cars are powered with the 85 horsepower V-8 engine, the standard cars with either the 85 or the 60 horsepower engines. Newly-styled interiors are pictured at right. New instrument panel has instrument group in front of driver, grille for radio speaker installation in center, flanked by engine controls and cigar lighter, and glove compartment at right. In the de luxe cars, the compartment locks, and a clock is recessed in the compartment door.

A headlight beam control is fitted on the toe-board, a tell-tale light on instrument panel indicates whether the headlight beams are raised or depressed.

NEW FORD MODELS ON DISPLAY HERE TODAY

DeLuxe and Standard Types Have Many Distinct Improvements

Ford V-type 8-cylinder cars for 1938 went on display Tuesday in the Northern Auto Company showroom. They are offered this year as two distinct lines, differing in appearance and price. Both are in the lowest price field.

One is a newly-styled standard Ford line, in coupe, Tudor and Fordor body types, powered either with the 85 or the 60 horsepower V-8 engine. The standard cars are designed to meet requirements of the many motor car owners, whose means dictate maximum economy in first cost, as well as in maintenance and operating costs.

The other is a newly-designed de luxe line for owners who desire additional style and appointments. Powered only with the 85 horsepower V-8 engine, the line includes eight body types, the coupe, Tudor and Fordor sedans, as well as the club coupe, convertible cabriolet, club convertible cabriolet, convertible sedan and the phaeton.

The two lines of cars have the same improved V-8 chassis, but their styling is distinctly different.

The de luxe cars are larger in appearance. The hood has been lengthened. Its nearly vertical front is carried in a "V" well down into the radiator grille, with the familiar V-8 emblem at the tip of the "V". Horizontal lines of the grille bars and the louvres are echoed in a bright rustless steel band which is carried along the belt to the rear.

The new standard line cars also present a larger appearance, with a newly-designed front end, grille, hood and fenders. The front end is formed in a "V", with the horizontal grille bars extending unbroken along the hoodside to form the louvres.

A new instrument panel adds measurably to the beauty of the front compartment. The panel of the de luxe line cars is in walnut grain finish, that of the standard line cars in mahogany finish. Instruments are arranged in two groups directly in front of the driver.

Steering wheels of the de luxe cars are of flexible multiple steel spoke type. Standard car steering wheels are of three-spoke type.

Night driving safety is also increased by addition of a headlamp beam control on the toe-board of both lines. The control is operated by the foot. A tell-tale light on the instrument panel indicates the position of the beams, whether high or depressed.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Most housewives plan to serve inexpensive and easy-to-prepare meals after the Thanksgiving feast. Eggs make a welcome main dish after too much holiday fare. They may be used freely for cooking and baking, because storage eggs are plentiful and very reasonable for this time of the year. The supply of fresh eggs is gradually increasing, and prices, naturally, are decreasing.

Forequarter cuts of veal, legs and chucks of lamb, smoked pork are good choices in the line of meats. Some families who spent Thanksgiving Day away from home, may want a turkey of their own for the week-end. Turkeys are still available at reasonable prices.

There is a wide choice of cheap fruits and vegetables. Grapefruit, small oranges for juice, apples, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, carrots, rutabagas are all cheap.

The following menus are easy to prepare and are foods which are reasonably priced.

Low Cost Dinner
Ham Loaf with Egg Sauce
Glazed Carrots Baked Potatoes
Bread and Butter
Half Grapefruit
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Roast Shoulder of Veal
Sweet Potatoes Cauliflower
Bread and Butter
Heart of Lettuce Salad
Baked Apples Stuffed with Pecans
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
Oysters
Roast Leg of Lamb
Brussels Sprouts with Chestnuts
Pan Browned Potatoes
Stuffed Celery Salad
Rolls and Butter
Sponge Cake with Orange Custard
Tea or Coffee Milk

APPLE WEEK RECIPE

There are different standards for apple pie, but the one adopted by the Home Extension Division of the University of Minnesota is similar to that usually accepted by the commercial maker, who has found that it is the kind of pie which sells most readily over the counter.

Standard Apple Pie
(Deep 9-inch plate)

Upper crust — Uniform golden brown, flaky and not soggy. Lower crust—Flaky, well done, browned on bottom, affected only slightly by apple juice.

Apples: Color: Clear, translucent yellow (any brown present should be due only to spice). Shape: Pieces distinct but soft, so that they lie together without spaces between slices. Juiceness: Juice well retained in the apple pulp. Texture: Pieces tender and easily cut with a fork. Flavor: Characteristic apple flavor prominent and distinct, pleasingly acid. Varieties suggested: Greening, Wagener, Spy, Baldwin, Hubbardston.

Crust—1½ cups all-purpose flour or 2 cups pastry flour, 6 tablespoons shortening, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 to 6 tablespoons cold water.

Filling—5 to 8 tart apples (6 cups apple slices), ½ to ¾ cup sugar, spice to suit taste, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Cut shortening into flour until the pieces are about the size of rice kernels. Sprinkle cold water over the surface of the flour mixture while tossing lightly with a knife or pastry fork. Add only sufficient water to hold the mixture together, and avoid overmixing. Divide dough into two parts. Roll dough on a lightly floured board or pastry canvas until it is slightly larger than the pie plate. Fold lightly in middle and lift carefully into the pie plate, easing it down into the pan by lifting the edges. Be careful not to stretch the crust, but take care that no air bubbles remain under it.

After crust is ready, peel and slice apples. Mix apples thoroughly with the sugar and spices and place in the lined pie plate.

Roll upper crust a little larger than the lower crust and prick or slit in several places to allow for the escape of steam. Fold and place over the apples. Moisten upper surface of lower crust along edge of tin with milk or water and press upper and lower crusts firmly together with fingers so that there is a thick ridge around the rim of the plate. Brush upper crust with milk, using either the finger tips or a pastry brush. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) 40 minutes.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

License Test Funds Being Accumulated

An indication of the sums various cities and counties of Michigan will eventually have for the purchase of equipment for the examination of applicants for operators' and chauffeurs' licenses, is given from collection records of the Department of State.

The 1937 legislature, in amending the motor vehicle licensing act, stipulated that those portions of license fees refunded to local governments by the state, must be used for the enforcement of the provisions of the new licensing law. State Police and Department of State officials, in cooperation with other agencies, are framing examination procedure in accordance with authority of the new law which went into effect July 20.

Local governments receive 15 cents from each operator's and chauffeur's license issued by the state. These returns must be earmarked by local governments, for use as directed in the law's enforcement, the accumulation for this purpose beginning with the effective date of the licensing law amendments.

For the first ten months of this year, the state has returned a total of $87,770 to local governments. Sums to some of the larger counties follow: Wayne, $34,327; Kent, $2,983; Oakland, $5,365; and Ingham $2,815.

Gas Dealer's Blanks To Be Distributed

Registration blanks for wholesale gasoline dealers will be distributed by the Department of State shortly, so as to avoid any possibility of delay in registration before the January 1, 1938 deadline. Blanks for retail dealers are available at the Department at the present.

The strikes, we learn, have brought capital and labor much closer together. Yes, indeed, they now live within a stone's throw of each other.

FORD offers two new cars for 1938—the Standard Ford V-8 and the De Luxe Ford V-8. They are different in appearance — but built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence — on the same chassis.

Because people liked our 1937 car so well, they bought more than of any other make. They liked its looks, its smooth performance, and the way it handled. We have improved on that car in the newly styled Standard Ford V-8.

But some folks wanted still more size and style, with the same Ford advantages. For them, we designed a new De Luxe line.

The De Luxe Ford V-8 Sedans are longer with more room, larger luggage space, and finer appointments all around. De Luxe cars are equipped with the 85-horsepower engine only.

The Standard is even lower priced than the De Luxe. It has graceful new lines and well-tailored interiors—with a choice of engine sizes—85 or 60 horsepower.

Before Ford made V-type 8-cylinder engines available to every one, they were used only in expensive cars. Since then, four million Ford owners have learned the genuine enjoyment of driving an eight-cylinder car with all-around economy. The thrifty "60" engine, especially, makes possible in Standard models a very low first cost and equally low operating cost. With two distinct designs, two engine sizes and two price ranges, you'll find a 1938 Ford car to fit your needs exactly.

PRICES FOR CARS DELIVERED IN DETROIT—TAXES EXTRA

Standard Ford V-8 (60 hp.)—Coupe, $599; Tudor, $644; Fordor, $689. Standard Ford V-8 (85 hp.)—Coupe, $629; Tudor, $669; Fordor, $714. Standard and De Luxe cars equipped with bumpers, bumper guards, spare wheel, tire, tube, tire lock and band, cigar lighter, twin horns, and headlight beam indicator on instrument panel, at no extra charge.

In addition, De Luxe cars are equipped with extra tail light, windshield wiper, sun visor; also de luxe steering wheel, glove compartment lock, clock, and chrome wheel bands, at no extra charge.

GIVE

Many years ago a very wise man said: "If you want to be rich, give; if you want to be poor, grasp; if you want abundance, scatter; if you want to be needy, hoard." In this world it is not what we take up but what we give up that makes us rich. —Ex.

GOING, GOING, GONE

Although good-bye or bye-bye is one of the first words in the infant vocabulary, it seems to be difficult for many of us as guests to take our leave, to say good-bye and really go. Some recent guests who said they must be in another place in one hour from their arrival, had completely forgotten about the "other place" four hours after arrival and were still taking their leave.

We thought you might be interested in "The Seven Points of Departure" which William F. Godson gives in "The Reader's Digest".

One—stand up. Two—hold out your hand. Three—say good-bye. Four—go to the door. Five—open the door. Six—walk out. Seven—walk away. That's all there is to it, provided you follow through.

YOUR JOB

On all sides these days we are apt to hear a lot of grumbling about what the other fellow has got, and forget our own possessions and possibilities for joy and happiness. Our truly great trouble is in comparison with the Jones next door instead of the Jones in Italy, Germany, or Spain. To add to the trouble we have available such mediums as the movie, and the radio to see and hear about luxuries not available within a majority of our incomes, and are not blessed with balance of mind enough to realize they are not meant for us anyway. They are material comforts available to those deserving them. But no place on earth can one buy the comfort of mind we have right here in these good old United States.

If you are dissatisfied with your lot, then this is our advice: Produce as much as a Kettering, a Chrysler, an Edison, or a Lincoln and the world will not be slow in honoring you with her gifts both materially and otherwise. Or else do our own little job well and leave the plaudits of the crowd for those who seek them. Father Damien became one of the most famous men on earth and truly a Saint in Heaven by unlimited fidelity to his own simple job in a small leper parish for out on Molokai island in the Pacific ocean, and he did not ask for material comforts, or riches or pay. His reward come in giving, not receiving.

FOREST FIRE LOSS LOWEST RECORDED

Late Snow, Rain Helped Establish Record During 1937 Season

Snow and rain during the first week of the deer hunting season helped clinch a new record for Michigan—the smallest forest fire loss in the state's history.

The slightly more than 14,000 acres which were burned over this year approximated 3,000 acres less than the previous lowest loss of some 18,000 acres recorded in 1935.

CANNOT COLLECT ON SCALED-DOWN DEBTS

Farmers Report Creditors Seek to Recover on Paid Mortgages

Complaints of several farmers in this part of the state that they have been persuaded by former creditors to give notes and mortgages to cover debts that had been scaled down so the farmer could get a land bank loan or a commissioner loan, have brought to light the fact that such supplementary notes and mortgages are invalid.

In numerous instances farmers seeking loans in 1933 and 1934 were found to be so heavily in debt that they could not be refinanced by the land bank or land bank commissioner. The only way in which such farmers' financial condition could be brought within range of the loan was for the creditor or creditors to agree to a specified scale-down of the debts owing to them. Such scale-downs were agreed to in many cases, the creditors accepting the proceeds from the farmers' loans in full payment of their debts, and signing agreements to that effect.

Since that time creditors, so farmers are reporting, have sought to regain the scaled down portion of the debts by persuasion in some cases, by intimidation in other cases, and have succeeded in getting some of them to make out new mortgages and sign new notes.

Now, some of these victimized farmers are wondering how they will be able to pay these new—re-newed—obligations and take care of their debt obligations to the land bank and land bank commissioner.

Farm Credit Administration authorities in St. Paul say they do not have to pay the new notes and that the new mortgages have been ruled invalid in so many cases that the principle is now well established that creditors who seek to recover by this means are violating a contract and can be held to account in court by the lending unit.

One of the most outstanding cases occurred in the territory served by the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, the now famous case of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul vs. Rudolph Kosiofsky et al., which was decided by the supreme court of North Dakota in favor of the land bank.

Similar suits were brought in other farm credit districts in the United States with the result that such supplementary notes and mortgages have been ruled void and illegal, and would have to be cancelled.

The courts hold that the scale-down agreements are contracts between the creditor and the lending institution as well as between the creditor and the borrower, and that the terms of the contract can be enforced like any other contract—in other words that the former creditor can not legally obtain payment by the new note and mortgage method. The reason for this is that the lending institution—land bank or land bank commissioner—would not have made the loan if the creditor had not agreed to accept a reduced amount in full settlement of the debt.

It is believed this information will be welcomed by many borrowers who have been imposed upon by former creditors in this way.

FRESHENING BREEZES

Hitler doesn't drink, and the Japs do not use profanity. But that doesn't make them angels by a long shot.

I want to help Mr. Roosevelt do the same things for the nation that Huey Long did for Louisiana—Senator Ellender.

Doctors say it is injurious to breathe through the mouth. It isn't exactly healthy to talk too much through it, either.

One paper records the fact that a man swapped his wife for a mule. His only reason was that the mule is balky only 12 hours a day.

To love for truth's sake is the principal part of human perfection in this world, and the seed-plot of all other virtues.—John Locke.

A New York judge says that men shouldn't be allowed to pin diapers on babies. We have a notion that babies hold the same opinion.

A California educator declares that good manners on the highways would reduce our traffic accidents by 50 per cent. And good manners in the home would probably reduce divorces in an equal ratio.

And Now In Closing—
If it's really true that the present economic struggle is between the "haves" and the "have nots" it can't last much longer.

Life is a task to be done.

Some folks make the mistake of looking in the clouds for what lies at their feet.

MARGARINE IS VITAMINIZED

Ohio Manufacturer Adds 10,000 Units of A and D Per Pound

Supplying the normal deficiency of margarine and butter in vitamins A and D, the Churngold laboratories in Cincinnati have developed a method of including these highly important health factors in their margarine. Each pound now carries 8,000 units of Vitamin A, and 2,000 units of Vitamin D, the Sunshine Vitamin.

Diet experts agree that of all the vitamins, A and D are the two most important to health. Vitamin A supports the growth of the growing child from the standpoint of body tissue, and Vitamin D serves the same function with regard to building strong bones and teeth. An adequate supply of both is necessary to sound growth.

Diseases of the eye and, in general, a high susceptibility to bacterial infections of various sorts are often traced to a deficiency of Vitamin A. Vitamin D is sometimes described as the anti-rachitic vitamin. It is the main health factor in cod liver oil, viosterol and similar preparations that are an almost standard part of the diet of infants in the prevention and cure of rickets.

These important vitamins are present in many foods, but seldom in any one in sufficient quantity to promote proper health. By churning margarine with 10,000 units of these vitamins, a constant standard is maintained.

WAGE, HOUR BILL IS HARMFUL TO FARMERS

Would Increase Cost of All Farm Necessities, It Is Claimed

Fate of the Wages and Hours bill in Congress depends largely on farmers, declares Charles W. Holman, Secretary of the National Cooperative Producers' Federation, in a critical analysis of the measure for the 2,000,000 Mid-West farm families who read Rural Progress Magazine, edited by Dr. Glenn Frank.

Mr. Holman writes from a long experience in Washington watching the Congressional mill and appraising the effect of its output upon agriculture. In the December issue of the magazine, out today, he says the effect on farmers of the wages and hours legislation as it was passed by the Senate, but held up in the House last summer, would be:

1. To increase the cost of most things farmers have to buy, including implements, clothing, furniture, radios, fertilizers and feeds.

2. To draw labor away from rural communities and increase farmers' wage costs, when there is already a labor shortage on farms.

3. To increase costs of processers and distributers, who take the increase more often out of the farmer rather than pass it on to the city consumer.

4. To compel plants owned and operated by nearly 10,000 farmer-owned cooperatives, which market the products of 1,500,000 farmers, to meet higher costs of production and to reduce correspondingly the return to their members.

The original purpose of the New Dealers, says Mr. Holman, was to eliminate sweat-shop conditions in some industries. "But, to 'Get at' the sweat-shop operator, this bill has been written in such a fashion as to place a yoke on all American industry."

Wage and hour control presupposes complete economic nationalism, but Mr. Holman holds this to be inconsistent with the aims of Secretary Hull's commercial treaties. "One or the other of these policies," he declares, "must be abandoned, for we cannot lift to artificial levels our domestic costs when we are lowering our import duties on the competitive goods and not requiring the producers of these imported articles to conform to the same standards which are prescribed for American producers in the Wages and Hours bill."

From his observation of other Federal boards, Mr. Holman suspects the Wages and Hours Board of Standards, once created, would soon be asking for more and more grants of power, until "we will have an agency more powerful than it was ever intended the NRA should be."

Disagreement within the ranks of labor over the advisability of such legislation, the attitudes toward it of John L. Lewis and William Green, and their lieutenants' fears of the effects upon union dues collection are described from a farm viewpoint. Industry's fears that the Federal government "might find ways to punish them for their opposition" account, in Mr. Holman's opinion, for some employers at first electing "to hide behind fences and shoot over logs" at the Wages and Hours bill. —Released by Rural Progress Magazine.

AT THE MOVIES

Tyrone Power, Loretta Young Romance in Their Perfect Picture Together, "Second Honeymoon"

Acclaimed by increasing numbers of fans with each new picture as the most exciting sweethearts of the screen, Tyrone Power and Loretta Young are co-starred again in Twentieth Century-Fox's "Second Honeymoon," coming December 4 and 5 to the Palace Theatre. Already hailed as the merriest, "marry-est" romance of the year, the film is said to be their perfect picture together. Their love is news again, but this time they mean it with all their hearts.

Love at first sight is romantic enough, Tyrone and Loretta agree, but love at second sight . . . MMM! They fall for each other twice in this gay hit. After parting in Reno, they meet accidentally under a thrilling Miami moon and kiss impulsively, to find they have fallen in love all over again.

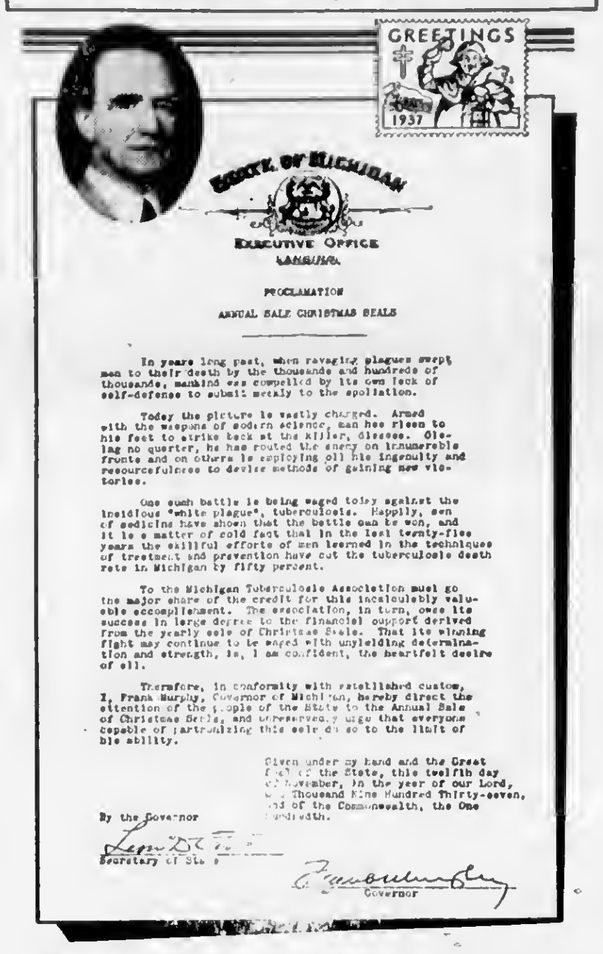
Christmas Seal Sale Endorsed by Governor



GREETINGS
1937
STATE OF MICHIGAN
EXECUTIVE OFFICE
LANSING
PROCLAMATION
ANNUAL SALE CHRISTMAS SEALS
In years long past, when ravaging plagues swept men to their death by the thousands and hundreds of thousands, mankind was compelled by its own lack of self-defense to submit meekly to the spoliation.
Today the picture is vastly changed. Armed with the weapons of modern science, man has risen to his feet to strike back at the Killer, disease. Giving no quarter, he has routed the enemy on innumerable fronts and on others is employing all his ingenuity and resourcefulness to devise methods of gaining new victories.
One such battle is being waged today against the insidious "white plague", tuberculosis. Happily, men of medicine have shown that the battle can be won, and it is a matter of solid fact that in the last twenty-five years the skillful efforts of men learned in the techniques of treatment and prevention have cut the tuberculosis death rate in Michigan by fifty percent.
To the Michigan Tuberculosis Association must go the major share of the credit for this incalculably valuable accomplishment. The association, in turn, owes its success in large degree to the financial support derived from the yearly sale of Christmas Seals. That its winning fight may continue to be waged with unyielding determination and strength, is, I am confident, the heartfelt desire of all.
Therefore, in conformity with established custom, I, Frank Murphy, Governor of Michigan, hereby direct the attention of the people of the State to the Annual Sale of Christmas Seals, and urge that everyone capable of participating this sale do so to the limit of his ability.
Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, this twelfth day of November, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred Thirty-seven, and of the Commonwealth, the One Hundredth.
By the Governor
Secretary of State
Governor

ABOVE IS a facsimile of a proclamation issued this week by Governor Frank Murphy, urging that Michigan people make a generous purchase of tuberculosis Christmas seals. More than 65,000,000 of the tiny messengers of health are being distributed in the state this year by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and affiliated agencies. Funds raised will be used to carry the fight against the White Plague in 1938. The sale opens on Thanksgiving Day and will continue to Christmas.

Agriculture

Facing widespread opposition, the Administrntion's farm bill entered an uncertain course when called up in the Senate Monday.

The bill has for its purpose "to assist farmers in securing so far as is practicable parity income and prices and to assist in the marketing of agricultural commodities through storage, warehousing or providing for reserve supplies, and to assist in the marketing of such commodities for domestic consumption and for export".

A large bi-partisan bloc has developed in the Senate which would deal with the problems of agriculture through distribution rather than production control. Chairman Smith of the Agricultural Committee in the Senate advocated the distribution of surpluses to the needy rather than storage against adverse crop conditions.

"We should have some plan", he said, "whereby the surplus could be distributed to the poor under Government supervision." He won support from Senator Borah who favored such a scheme.

The bill comes up this week in the House. Three days of debate have been set aside. It is said that the debate will provide plenty of fireworks.

Tax Revision

In its most important action to date, the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday tentatively agreed to substitute an entirely new corporate tax structure for the present normal corporate and undistributed profits tax. The new tax program will be particularly helpful to hardship corporations where money is needed for debt payment, plant expansion and repair or capital structure.

The proposal is as follows:

For corporations having net income of less than $25,000 annually the rates would be 12½% up to the first $5,000; 14% on the next $20,000 with all corporations with net incomes of less than $25,000 exempted from the undistributed profits tax. This embraces about 88 percent of all corporations having a net income.

For corporations having net income of more than $25,000 annually there would be imposed a top corporate rate of 20%, with a uniformly graduated reduction of 4-10 of 1 percent for each 10% of income distributed, until a minimum rate of 16 percent has been reached.

Rayburn Signs

House Majority Leader Rayhurn, Congressman from Texas, Tuesday pleased with the House for consideration of the wages and hours proposal, and broke all precedent for a majority leader by signing a petition to discharge one of his Committees from further consideration of an Administration bill. Republicans ridiculed his action.

State Department

The State Department Tuesday issued a flat denial of a news report that America's Ambassador to France, William C. Bullitt, had gone to Wursaw to attempt to persuade Poland from joining the Italo-Germano-Japunese anti-Communist pact.

The Golden Text, from Psalm 19:1,3, is: "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork. There is no speech nor language, where their voice is not heard."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalm 146:5,6): "Happy is he that hath the God of Jacob for his help, whose hope is in the Lord his God: Which made heaven, and earth, the sea, and all that therein is: which keepeth truth for ever."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 264): "When we realize that Life is Spirit, never in nor of matter, this understanding will expand into self-completeness, finding all in God good, and needing no other consciousness."

"It is easy to get misconceived ideas into the public mind. It is difficult to get them out."—Kiphart.

WARNS AGAINST DESTROYING OF CROPS

BORAH URGES DISTRIBUTION OF FARM SURPLUS

Points to Millions Undernourished While Government Would Curtail Nation's Food Supply

Congress is not dealing with farm legislation to meet an emergency, but is seeking to establish a permanent policy for agriculture. Things which may be justified to meet an emergency may be extremely unwise as a permanent policy. It does not seem to me that compulsory reduction of crops, in other words compulsory destruction of foodstuffs, has any place in a sound permanent agricultural policy. In this country we have millions, literally millions, in great need of those things which it is proposed by some that we destroy. We ought to thank our farmers every day of our lives for the energy and industry and intelligence which gives this country a surplus and devote ourselves to finding a wise method of distributing that surplus rather than destroying it.

This surplus of foodstuffs belongs in the stomachs of American Children, millions of whom are undernourished and poorly clad, and in the homes and cupboards of millions of families. It is wicked to penalize the farmer, to put him in a strait-jacket, for producing that which the American people sorely need but which we have not yet found a way to distribute. If the American people as a whole could have the necessities of life, there would not be any overprodnction upon the farm. Our task of legislation is not destruction but distribution.

If it is found necessary to draw upon the public treasury in order to deal with the farm problem, I would rather support a measure to buy up and store the surplus and see that it gets to those in need of it, rather than to buy destruction. It has been demonstrated that if the American people as a whole could enjoy a decent standard of living, they would need at least ten million more food producing acres to meet the demand.

We are told that we are now following the plan, in a measure, of that inspired Hebrew leader who, thousands of years ago in Egypt, undertook to deal with surpluses. But there was no curtailment of production, no reduction of production in Joseph's scheme. Joseph had many strange dreams but he never dreamed of destroying foodstuffs. The central idea of Joseph's plan was production and distribution at the right time and under the proper circumstances.

We have a surplus in this country not because of producing more than we need but because a vast proportion of our people have not the means to buy what they ought to have. You can go into millions of American homes, not relief homes, either, and you will find the housewife cutting out the meat supply more and more days in the week, skimping here and there on food, keeping more children out of school because they are undernourished. While that condition prevails in this country, I feel we ought to find some way to deal with the matter rather than by compulsory reduction of foodstuffs.

Let us consider this question from another viewpoint. The able Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Wallace, spoke a while ago at Memphis on the Cotton control question. Mr. Wallace is too candid to discuss effectively a reduction scheme. It appears that since we began cotton reduction and control, foreign nations have increased their cotton supply by more than ten million bales. When we advertise to the world that we are going to reduce our acreage in any world commodity it excites other nations to increase their acreage, which other nations are now doing. The cotton producer is in almost as serious a condition now as he ever experienced. What has happened to the cotton grower will inevitably happen to those who produce wheat or corn under the same policy. Our good neighbor, Canada, will put in two additional acres of wheat for every acre we reduce. Our good neighbor on the south, Agrentina, will do likewise with reference to corn; and with our trade agreements opening our markets to this increased production abroad, where will the American farmer finally land?

Another thing which our candid Secretary of Agriculture states, in effect, is that as America's share of the world's cotton crop continues to decrease, we must make from time to time, reduction of acreage in order to maintain prices. In other words, the philosophy of reduction necessitates continued reduction. Between the upper and the nether millstones of increased production abroad und decreased production at home, the American farmer will not only lose the foreign market but will have to fight for his life in the home market.—Released by Rural Progress Magazine.

BAR XMAS TREES ON HIGHWAYS THIS YEAR

Highway Department Ruling Made Largely as Safety Measure

Christmas trees won't sprout in the middle of trunkline streets and highways this year.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, this week directed assistant maintenance engineers to bar such decorations together with special lighting effects over the trunklines.

The order does not apply to decorations on light poles, trees at the side of the road or street, and similar Christmas effects. This is the first year that overhead lights will be barred although their use has been subject to previous restrictions.

Several communities have already asked the commissioner for permission to use overhead lighting and trees in the middle of trunkline streets. These requests have been denied.

This regulation is not a safety regulation primarily," the commissioner said. "The main reason for it is to keep traffic moving in an orderly manner on trunkline streets during this rush season. Two years ago Christmas trees that were permitted in the middle of the trunklines resulted in a great deal of traffic confusion. The same thing happened last year with overhead lights. It is not in the best inteests of motorists or businessmen in the affected communities to permit such practices."

PETOSKEY STEAMER WILL NOT DOCK HERE

Insufficient Water Depth Given As Reason for Change of Plan

Contrary to earlier expectatinns, the Petoskey Transportation Company steamer J. B. Johns will not make winter quarters here.

According to reports, the vessel made this port Friday night and departed Saturday for Harbor Springs after finding water of insufficient depth for docking at the municipal dock. The boat grounded and had considerable difficulty freeing itself, it is anderstood.

Nations which talk about "fighting for their honor" might find it far more honorable to pay their debts — and far less expensive, also.

Sapsucker Woodpecker Stores Supplies in Tree

There are certain woodpeckers who keep whole pantries full of sap supplies on hand, says the Washington Star. The sapsuckers are the thrifty creatures who put up stores of delicacies, only to be obliged to defend them from the raids of less industrious but hungrier birds.

In any juicy maple or sweet birch, the sapsucker arranges his larder. Very carefully and very efficiently he bores through the tough bark of the tree to the living streams of sap inside. Then in neat rows arranged for convenience, encircling the tree, he scoops out his cups—dozens of them. A single sapsucker is not content until he has a whole cluster of trees tunneled and scooped and sticky as soda fountains.

But it is not only the initial work of building and arranging his pantry that bothers the sapsucker. It must be kept in order. The cups must be cleaned and made bigger. The tunnels must be kept clear for the sap.

And even that is not all. For the birdfellows of the sapsucker have no scruples about raiding these well-stocked fountains, and the sapsucker must be vigilant not to be wholly robbed by warblers and kinglets and woodpeckers and orioles—and worst of all—by the humming-birds who can dart at the cupboard and rob it before the sapsucker has spread his wings in pursuit.

For variety in his menu, the sapsucker eats the insects which come by the hundreds, attracted by the sweet odors of his kitchen.

Sage Was Regarded by Romans as a Life-Saver

"We think of sage as a condiment for our Thanksgiving turkey," says Dr. Hans Platenius of the New York state college of agriculture, "but the Romans held the herb in even higher esteem for its medicinal values." One famous Roman physician asked the question, "Why should a man die while he has sage in the garden?"

Long ago the Dutch began the custom of drying sage leaves to be used as tea. The Chinese are said to have expressed their astonishment that the Dutch traders should come to them for tea when they had sage which was so superior. Consequently, the clever Dutchmen were able to obtain four pounds of tea for each pound of sage. An old saying has it that sage leaves, dried and smoked in a pipe, will lighten the brains.

Sage was one of the earliest herbs to be brought to America. It is one of the few commonly grown in this country at the present time.

Tennis Racket Trees

A good tennis racket is tested for balance to the merest fraction of an ounce, and any discrepancy must be made good by planing or by plugging the handle with lead. An expert workman's job is the punching of 70 odd holes for the strings. He never measures, but he has a keen eye for correct spacing. English sheep provide the best catgut strings, and each racket requires 30 feet. Three trees go to the making of a racket. Beech is used for the "pattern" round which the actual frame of steam-softened ashwood is clamped, until, well shrunken, it slips off like a loose glove. Sycamore or walnut are used for the broadening wedges which are driven into handle and shoulder to give the racket shape and stability. Before a racket is put away to season, it undergoes "beauty treatment," which consists of rubbing in plaster of paris to close the wood's pores, and then three successive coats of polish.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

The City of Suffuriyeh

The city of Suffuriyeh first appears in history as a Jewish center and already so strongly defended that Alexander Janneus (105-79 B. C.) was able to hold out there against the enemy Ptolemy of Egypt. As early as 56 B. C. one of the five Sanhedrin was located there. However, an uprising by the inhabitants against Rome in 4 A. D. resulted in its capture and destruction. The city was burned to the ground and the inhabitants made slaves. This occurred during the childhood of Jesus of Nazareth. The city was restored within the following decade by Herod Antipas and on such a splendid scale that it was called the "ornament of all Galilee." It was the most important seat of Jewish learning in the Second century.

"Method of Procedure"

"Method of procedure" is an expression that is in common use. It is tautological, however, because the most common definition of method is: "A general or established way or order of doing or proceeding in anything, or the means or manner by which such a way is presented or inculcated"; and the most common definition of procedure is: "A manner or method of proceeding or acting." It is quite sufficient to say "the method" or "the procedure," but "method of procedure" should not be employed.—Literary Digest.

Sardine Fishing

Sardine fishing is done at night when the signals can be "seen" at great distances. Their locations are indicated by the bright light emitted by the microscopic, phosphorescent dinoflagellates upon which the sardines feed. On moonless nights, the glow of these large floating masses of "sardine food"—sometimes 50 acres in area—can be seen for more than five miles.—Collier's Weekly.

CHARLEVOIX READY FOR XMAS SEASON

LOCAL MERCHANTS SHOWING COMPLETE GIFT ITEMS

Holiday Shoppers May Find Items Ranging from Handkerchiefs To Autos for Holiday Trade

It's time to think of Christmas now! The next big event comes in 16 days—such a short time to do all the things that must be done before the higgest holiday of the year arrives.

How you wish that you had given thought to the Christmas season previous to this time, or at least had part of your list filled. But now it's too late to bemoan neglect in the past. Better to make the best use of what time is left.

So, may we suggest that you get your pencil and paper out this evening. Write down the names of all those you wish to remember in a manner that requires some gift—not merely a card of remembrance. Now, that you have the list made out, just what does Jessie, Mary, Jim, Fred and Amos want?

Here's the hard part, so, unless you have something already in mind think back to former conversations, and try to remember if any of them uttered a wish. Was that too long ago or was the cost of suggestions entirely too great to stay within your budget?

Well, the next best thing to do then, is to begin systematically reading the advertisements to be found in the Charlevoix Courier during the next three weeks, and as you read them, think of those whom you want to remember.

Perhaps a shirt, a tie, hosiery, a scarf, a pair of gloves, yes or a pair of rubbers or golashes, will be just the thing for the father, brother, or relative.

To choose for the feminine members of the family is always hard for there are so many things they always want. There is hosiery, always a safe gift; lingerie, pocket book, gloves, costume jewelry, a house coat, pajamas, etc—thousands of things, but choose them with care. Here is where good salespeople come in. If you will ask them to assist you, they will do it gladly. More than likely they know the person their likes and dislikes, and colors that are complimentary.

Of course you cannot expect clerks, as Christmas draws closer, to give you all the time in the world. Remember there are other people waiting an opportunity to get the same service you are asking, so here is the time to display your Christmas spirit and not ask everything.

The important gifts for Dad and Mother, are gifts for the home—and my, what a lot of things there are to bring happiness: furniture, radios, rugs, curtains, washing machines, etc., etc., in an endless list. Perhaps these things cost too much, so here's the time to call all the kids together, and together purchase that thing that will bring pleasure and thankfulness to mother's heart. Dad doesn't care whether he gets anything or not, just so long as mother is happy, and he will understand, and perhaps join in with you in paying for that gift.

Now remember, you have only a little more than three weeks to do your shopping and the early shopper gets the nicest pickings, so begin now—don't put it off.

Visit the local stores and see the countless things that will make the members of your family, and loved ones, happy. Most merchants will be glad to have you make your selections now, and they will lay them aside, even up till Christmas Eve. In this way your troubles will be over.

No better time to buy shoes than now at Campbell's sale.—Adv. 49t1.

TOY REPAIR PROJECT IS BEING SPONSORED BY LOCAL KIWANIANS

Following up the success of a similar project carried on prior to the Christmas season a year ago, the Kiwanis Club is again sponsoring the repair and distribution of toys to needy children of this city.

The Kiwanis has the cooperation of the WPA recreational leaders in the city, who will supervise the actual repairs,

Any persons having unused or broken toys they desire to give away are asked to call the Board of Commerce Office, telephone 105. They may give the address where the toys may be picked up or, if they desire, leave them at the Board of Commerce office.

NEW RULING REQUIRES CADDIES BE FOURTEEN

Age Limit Raised By State Labor and Industry Commission

Caddies on Michigan golf courses must be at least 14 years old, the State Labor and Industry commission has ruled. The minimum age limit formerly was eight.

Chairman George A. Krogstad said the ruling, adopted after conferences with Kenneth Moore, Detroit, president of the Michigan Golf Association, was in accord with the state's policy against child labor.

At the same time Krogstad announced the minimum age limit for pinsetters in bowling alleys had been reduced to 17 from 18 at the request of the Michigan Bowling Association.

FIVE PER CENT FROZEN FUNDS AVAILABLE DECEMBER 15

Third Dividend Made by Institution Will Release Over $10,000 to Its Depositors

Providing the third release of impounded funds since its reorganization, the Charlevoix County Savings Bank will distribute a five per cent dividend commencing Wednesday, December 15th.

According to Robert Bridge, president, the dividend will release over $10,000 into the regular business channels in Charlevoix. It is the third release in as many years, as ten per cent was distributed originally, followed by a five per cent a year ago.

Officials of the institution have announced that, in order to procure payment, depositors are required to present their certificates of indebtedness for proper endorsement. Voucher checks are now being prepared for delivery.

Coming as it does just prior to the Christmas season, the announcement will be received with enthusiasm by depositors and business interests alike, for the release is expected to provide funds for Christmas shopping and subsequently increase holiday trade.

LOUIS ORLOWSKI, PIONEER MERCHANT, DEAD

Funeral for Prominent Local Citizen to Be Held Friday

Charlevoix today mourns the passing of a prominent citizen and merchant, Louis S. Orlowski, who died Tuesday afternoon at his home on Bridge street following an illness of three months duration.

Funeral services will be conducted at 9 o'clock Friday morning from St. Mary's church. Requiem high mass will be observed with Fr. Neuhecker, Fr. Wegemer of Harbor Springs and Fr. Norlach of Boyne City, officiating.

Mr. Orlowski was born October 22, 1876, at Berea, Ohio. He came to Charlevoix with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Severn Orlowski, when a small boy. After residing on a farm in Hayes township, the family moved to Charlevoix, the father establishing a grocery business, which, following his death, has been conducted by the son. Mr. Orlowski was one of the oldest pioneer grocers in Northern Michigan. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and Holy Name Society.

Mr. Orlowski was married July 26, 1911, at Victor, Ia., to Margaret McGuire, who survives him besides a daughter, Mary Margaret, son, Louis Jr., two sisters, Mayme Orlowski and Mrs. Josephine Madill, this city; and a sister, Mrs. Herman Tellman of Chicago.

BASKETBALL SEASON OPENS FRIDAY

PETOSKEY NORTHMEN HERE FOR INITIAL CONTEST

Reserves Teams Will Open Double Bill—Fans Looking for First Appearance of Rayder Combination

Friday evening will bring the opening of the 1937-38 basketball season for Charlevoix high school's Red Rayders and until early spring this sport will provide the major interest for followers of high school athletics.

The initial contest on a 14-game schedule is with Petoskey's class B Northmen and the evening's program provides a double bill with games between varsity and reserve teams of the two schools. It is the second year Charlevoix has opened its season against a class B school, deviating from a custom which previously billed class D opponents for the initial game.

Charlevoix basketball fans, as well as coaches and players of northern Michigan class C schools in particular, are looking forward with anticipation to this opening contest, for it will provide the first test for a near-veteran combination which appears to be the strongest to represent the school in recent years. Appearing in the varsity line-up will be Keith Carey, Dan Gallagher and Charles Richardson, last year's veterans, and Louis Brown and Harry Withers, a pair of promising new-comers. The combination is exceptionally fast and rangy beyond the average.

Petoskey's Northmen will provide a good test for the Rayders. They will have the advantage of having played one game resulting in a double victory over Gaylord last Friday night.

Following the Petoskey tilt, the Ruyders play at Kalkaska on December 17th and return to their home court for a game with Gaylord December 22, and a varsity vs. alumni game the following week.

S. 31 just north of the corner of Petoskey avenue and Meech street. Fortunately their injuries were confined to cuts and bruises about the face. The car was badly damaged.

SEEKS WAYS HIKE SUMMER REVENUES

CAMPAIGN TO OBTAIN CONVENTIONS IS PLANNED

Convention Business Seen As Stop-Gap in Lagging Hotel Patronage of 1937 Season

Methods of injecting stimulus into a lagging summer resort business, dwelling particularly upon a spotted hotel patronage during the 1937 summer season, was the principal topic of discussion at a joint meeting of the city council, Board of Commerce members and other individuals Monday evening.

Occasion for the booster meeting was the presence here of Benjamin Alpert, member of the Detroit law firm of Alpert & Halpert, owners of The Inn, Charlevoix's largest summer hotel, which was also represented by William E. Flynn, managing director.

Mr. Alpert forwarded the belief that conventions would serve as a wonderful stop-gap for the low spots in resort hotel patronage and urged a concerted drive to bring this type of summer business to Charlevoix. That his contention was well brought out was reflected in the support given the suggestion by Mayor Arthur Bergeon, members of the council and various individuals present. It was the general contention that hotels must receive the same balance of support as other institutions depending upon summer income if they are to be maintained up to the standard required in a city catering to all phases of resort business.

After promising its moral and financial support in a campaign to obtain desirable conventions, the council reverted to a policy of the past two years in turning the matter over to the Board of Commerce for whatever action this organization deemed advisable. The most popular plan discussed, that of authorizing Gordon Todd, activities director, to make personal contact with organizations planning conventions for the coming summer season, will in all likelihood be adopted by the Board of Commerce directors. Such a procedure would place Charlevoix on a favorable competitive basis with other resort communities who have representatives constantly in the field lining up convention business.

Preceding the discussion, Mr. Todd showed a colored movie of Charlevoix scenes and activities which brought high praise from the assemblage.

CHARLEVOIX BEREFT OF PIONEER WOMAN

Mrs. Jennette Kirkpatrick Died Sunday—Funeral Held Tuesday

Charlevoix lost a beloved pioneer woman Sunday in the death of Mrs. John Kirkpatrick, who succumbed at Charlevoix Hospital. Her death resulted from complications caused from injuries received in a fall last Thursday.

Jennette Alexander was born July 1, 1851, at St. Catherine, Ontario. She was married to John Taylor Kirkpatrick on July 1, 1871. The couple moved to this vicinity in 1877, residing at Atwood a short period before moving to this city. Mr. Kirkpatrick, who preceded his wife in death, was a general contractor and later manager of the Nichols Lumber Co.

Surviving her are two daughters, Edna Powers of this city, and Kate Luke of Detroit; also four grandchildren and six great grandchildren, a niece and three nephews.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the See Funeral Home, Rev. John Alexander, officiating. Burial at Brookside cemetery.

WPA RECREATIONAL PROGRAM PLANNED

SCHOOLS AND KIWANIS COOPERATING IN EFFORT

Berry Swart, Recreational Director Outlines Activities Designed for Winter Months Here

Through the cooperation of O. P. North, superintendent of schools, the Board of Education, the Kiwanis Club and Rev. G. R. Parker, the local WPA recreational staff is planning an extensive wioter program.

In addition to regular winter sports activities consisting of skating rink and slides, Franklin Left and Robert Pearl, leaders, will conduct a varied program of indoor activities. In cooperation with Rev. Parker, Mr. Left will handle recreation in the upper floor of the Courier building, made available through the Kiwanis Club. Mr. Left's activities will include arts and crafts, games, etc., as well as chess, checkers and other associate games.

Mr. Pearl will have charge of the gymnasium and will supervise basketball, volley ball, indoor baseball, boxing and other like details.

As outlined, the set-up is temporary and will be changed with conditions and requests as they appear. Anyone having suggestions to make is asked to communicate with the above mentioned persons or Berry Swart, who is succeeding Dean Davenport in this locality.

Charlevoix is fortunate in having the services of Mr. Davenport, who has been assigned to the district office at Cheboygan, but who will be on hand to handle matters. "It is the aim of the WPA recreational program to build activities around the needs and wishes of a community," explained Mr. Swart, "and although my acquaintance is very limited about Charlevoix as yet, I hope the citizens will feel they are free to suggest any change that might aid the success of the program."

ELECTRIC EXTENSION IS AGREED

COUNCIL AND CITIZENS' COMMITTEE CONVENE

Unanimous Upon Necessity of Additional Deisel Equipment at Earliest Possible Date

Preliminary details of a plan to place before Charlevoix taxpayers for the second time a proposal to bond for an additional unit and necessary extension at the municipal light plant were completed at a special council meeting Tuesday evening.

Convening jointly for the first time, council members and a citizens' committee composed of Robert Bridge, Clarence Wood, Martin Block, Allen Campbell and W. E. Goss, agreed unanimously on two major points—that an addition to the present equipment was necessary to meet increasing consumption of electric current; that a deisel unit of approximately the production capacity of the present deisel would prove adequate for a period of four or five years at least.

These decisions were reached following a lengthy discussion with Mr. Hamilton and E. R. Weeber, members of the Grand Rapids engineering firm of Hamilton & Weeber, who have been retained by the council and citizens' committee as consulting engineers. Statistics and figures presented by the engineers showing the high cost of producing electric current by steam as compared to deisel was an important factor in the decision to make the additional unit a deisel engine.

It was revealed that the present production capacity of combined units is as follows: steam unit 400 k.w., deisel unit 450 k.w., hydro plant 120 k.w., or a total of 970 k.w. Last summer's peak capacity was shown as 840 k.w. or within 130 kw's of the total capacity of all units. These figures revealed that a break-down of any single unit would bring possible production below the peak consumption. Installation of an additional unit of 450 or 500 k.w. capacity would provide current necessary for peak consumption with any one of the units out of operation, which, the engineers pointed out, was the policy of all public utility concerns.

CITY COMPLETES DETAILS FOR PURCHASE EAST PARK PROPERTY

Completion of legal details at a special council meeting Tuesday evening consummated the East Park addition on Round lake through acquisition of the Goldstick, Wilkins, Meyers and Merrinn properties.

The city council entered a lease and contract purchase agreement with Howard L. McGregor of Detroit, well known local summer resident, who purchased the property. Robert Bridge, who represented Mr. McGregor, as well as summer and local residents whose outright gifts toward the purchase aggregated $3,000, was prominently identified with efforts bringing the project to successful conclusion.

It is understood the Boyne Falls Bank retains what is known as the Ayres building with stipulations it is to be removed within ninety days. The city will make disposition of the other buildings and no doubt will outline plans for improvement in time to start work in the spring.

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Price-fixing trends of state legislation, glorified by sponsors by the banner of "fair trade", are now due for a showdown.

For the protection of independent merchants against price-cutting competition, the legislature enacted a bill this year that permits the fixing of a minimum price for trademarked commodities. The Michigan law is similar to those in a score or more other states. The United States Supreme court has upheld the power of a state to establish minimum price of trademarked products.

In Detroit a thriving cut-rate store has been selling a trademarked toothbrush for 33 cents and toothpaste for 9 cents. Manufacturers have filed suit in the Wayne county circuit court for an injunction against sale of the toothbrush below 47 cents and the toothpaste below 19 cents, the minimum price set by the manufacturer for the consumer to pay.

Chain stores, however, can offer their own brands at any price. Trademarked commodities must still compete in price with chain commodities

LICE ON LIVESTOCK PUSH UP FEED COSTS

Livestock which needs back scratchers in winter may be friendly to owners hut are strangers to the profit side of farm ledgers. Lice can cut into any possible profit by making animals consume more feed.

Proof of increased costs or lowered production is found with all classes of livestock. Horses, milk cows, swine, sheep and feeder steers all show less production of work, of milk, or of saleable meat if lice are prevalent.

Who Did Write "The Face on The Barroom Floor"?

THE FIRST STEP

There is too little realization on the part of the public that government ownership of the railroads means not only that the government would take over the joh of rail transport hnt that it would also take over competing forms of transport and also, logically and promptly, business that contributes to or is affiliated with transportation. If the government owns and operates the railroads, why should it, for instance, not own its own coal mines and its own steel mills? And if it goes that far, as it would and should, once engaged in the business of transportation, why should it not eventually take over all business.—The Traffic World.

DRIVERS RECOGNIZE NEW PLATE DEADLINE

Motorists of the state are preparing to take advantage of the March 1 deadline for the purchase of new motor vehicle plates each year, figures in the office of Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, indicate.

With total registrations showing an increase of approximately 100,000 over those of December, 1936, the sale of 1938 plates for November showed an appreciable drop over those of a corresponding time a year ago, when the deadline for purchase of new plates was January 1, with an extension permitted on option of the Secretory of State. "Rush" sales are expected just before the final deadline, no matter when it is set for.

Last year, 1937 plates went on sale October 26, and by December 1, a total of 50,064 plates had been sold. This year, 1938 plates went on sale October 29; on December 1, sale of 1938 plates totalled but 39,141.

The 1937 legisloture moved the deadline for new plate or half-year permits purchases from January 1 to March 1, each year; no state official has the authority to postpone the final date. Those who purchase half-year permits will by law be required to pay an extra 25 cents to cover extra costs of the system. The permits will be metal plates, the same size as full year plates.

CONGRATULATIONS

On the desk before me is the annual report of Commissioner Olander of the State Police to the Governor of Michigan covering the past year's activity of his force. It is a complete and comprehensive picture of this organization's splendid work throughout the year 1936.

When the State Police were first organized, they met with opposition in all parts of the state. It was claimed they were merely a political clique, that they would become an enormous expense, that our county police forces were enough for us to support and that they were unnecessary. But today, through sheer merit of performance, they have become an integral part of our police protection in Michigan. There is not one county sheriff who does not call on them at some time during the year for help, and it is given gladly. From every part of the state we hear of this and that performance by these well trained men which brings credit ta themselves as well us to Mr. Olander.

In our estimation, their greatest work lies in the vigilant patrol they make daily on our state highways. No matter where one travels he is bound sooner or later to see the familiur car with the broad yellow band that signifies he can call on them for aid if he wishes. It also instills the feeling that the highways are far safer today with these men on the job than they were some years ago. We wish to take this opportunity to congratulate Mr. Olander and to assaure him the people of Michigan appreciate the fine job his force is doing under his leadership.—C. B. Kelster.

AN EXCELLENT RULE

It is conceivable that some motorists will form an immediate deep-seated dislike for the ruling in Lansing that persons asking for drivers lleenses or renewals of licenses must submit to searching oral and written tests nf knowledge and fitness conceerned with becoming a good driver instead nf a menace on the road. But the new strict ruling is highly necessary and the death and accident statistics in the state clearly show why.

Most of the objections to the new order of things probably will come from persons who must get license renewals. Many of these consider themselves expert drivers, and some unquestionably are.

But the examinatiuns are necessary because in the past tests given applicants have varied greatly in different parts of Michigan, and some have been so perfunctory, that they have amounted to nothing at all.

People who are competent will not need to fear the examinations, and they will find the roads safer for them through the elimination of those who are unfit.—The Greenville Daily News.

SALES TAX STAMPS

"Seeing is believing" and we believe that sales tax stamps would prove how much more than three cents we pay on each dollar spent. Now we state, without genuine proof, that when we pay one cent on each fifteen cent purchase that we average four tn six-cents on every dollar. The state law requires the merchant to pay three cents on each dollar of his gross income. This three per cent which the state receives is providing many millions in revenue.

However, in addition to this contribution for state spending, why should the tax payer provide funds unaccounted for, and unwarranted, by paying more than the threo-cent average on each dollar?

Since the collection schedule is unfair, the law should provide for sales tax stamps which will require a definite accounting of the amount actually received by the merchants, and paid by the consumer. As the present system works, part of the sales tax receipts are unaccounted for.

BUYING LOCALLY

We read with interest an article stating that students of merchandising believe the small community store will again assume its earlier importance and will carry a varied line of specialties as well as the more staple goods. The public in recent years has had a tendency to shop in nearby cities for specialties and higher-prieed goods which they formerly bought in the home-town. This forced the home town merchant to carry only the fast moving staples.

The reason the "student's" prophesy the return to the home town store is the inconvenience of city parking, the annoyance and the expense.

We hope the prophets are right and that a rise in business is in sight for our local merchants. We also hope that the Saturday parking problem, which is so acute in our own and most every town of its size, has been considered by the prophets in foretelling this happy news.

on Virginia Caverns

Thousands of both Federal and Confederate troops entered the underground labyrinths, better known as the Virginia Caverns, near Lacey Spring, during the Civil war, and hundreds of them carved their names in stone deep beneath the Shenandoah valley, says a writer in the New York World-Telegram. Quite a few visitors, with the aid of recently compiled lists of these soldiers' names, are finding the names of their fathers, grandfathers or other relatives who fought for the Union or for the Confederacy.

For three-quarters of a mile underground the names are found, some no larger than a man's normal signature, others cut in letters several feet tall. In some places the signatures are so numerous that Federal and Confederate names are interwingled. The dates show the Confederates (mostly Stonewall Jackson's men) entered Virginia Caverns after the Federals—and some of the Federal names have been scratched across by Confederate bayonets.

Although these names were cut in the underground stone, many years ago, yet, forever protected as they are from sun and wind and rain, nearly all of them are apparently as distinct as when they were carved.

Virginia Caverns are the oldest known caves in the Shenandoah valley, having been used by pioneer settlers as a hiding place from Indians during the French and Indian wars in 1754. The soldiers explored the caverns and carved their names by the light of pine torches, candles and lanterns, and native Virginians who explored the caves after the Civil war had the same crude sources of light.

Yorok Indians Will Not Live Near Their In-Laws

In the opinion of the Yurok Indians of the lower Klamath river in northern California, a man who lives with his mother-in-law or father-in-law, or even near them, is only half married. This primitive version of the "mother-in-law jokes" was collected by University of California men. It forms part of the study of marriage customs and kinship terminology among the Yurok Indians published by the University Press.

The anthropologists reveal that the young Yurok avoids whenever possible proximity to his wife's parents. He submits to it only when he cannot afford to pay the full bride-price.

Anthropologists are interested in the social and material cultures of primitive peoples because they are foundations on which civilization is built, and without knowledge of them it would be difficult to understand modern institutions.

The information gathered by the California university men also offers a curious commentary on the popular belief that love is a predestined emotion which overcomes all obstacles. Yurok men tend to marry among the most conveniently located women, it is shown. Also, it has been found, they tend to fall in love with women who live downstream from their own village, rather than upstream.

Early English Furniture

During the reign of Queen Elizabeth (1558-1603) the furniture of England not only showed strong influence of the Gothic period, but took on a distinct individuality that makes it outstanding and one of the easiest types to identify, writes Edith B. Crumb in the Detroit News. During this period the furniture was of oak and showed architectural characteristics. The best example of this is the bed, the largest piece. Sometimes built to hold six or more persons, it appeared to be a permanent part of the room, for it had a high headboard, paneled and carved like the walls and supported by a cornice, and even had a coffered roof, this extending beyond the foot of the bed and supported by detached pillars, which rested on the floor. These usually showed the melon-bulb or exaggerated form of the urn. The general effect was one of massiveness; which, of course, was in keeping with the general scheme of the room.

Chinese Charms

Making charms of coin-like form to avoid evil or encourage good luck dates back to ancient times. Although magic spells and incantations were used by the Babylonians and Assyrians, no record of charms in coin can be found in China before the time of the Hadynasty, 206 B. C. to 221 A. D. Sometimes these charms are called amulets but not rightly so, as the amulet may be a precious stone or in written form on parchment and carried about the person. The charm is also carried about the person, but has many other uses. Some are found nailed on the beams of a house and others are used as drawer handles or fixed on box lids. Chinese charms should be divided into two classes, those with inscriptions on the obverse of the then current money and which are official, and those made for sale and to be presented as gifts.

"Make Money"

Among the many definitions of make is "to attain as the result of effort; procure; gain; earn." In this sense, the expression "to make money" carries no suggestion of any nefarious method. In fact, the expression, in the sense of "to earn or procure money" is very old. It was common long before the time of Shakespeare, who used it repeatedly. In Othello (written in 1604) Iago, in the first act, says: "Make all the money thou canst . . . Thou art sure of me. Go make money."—Literary Digest.

GLEN S. SEE BUYER FIRST TB XMAS SEALS

Michigan Association Reports Initial Charlevoix Buyer

First in Charlevoix to buy 1937 tuberculosis Christmas seals is Glen S. See, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association announces. The thirty-first annual appeal for the purchase of the tiny health seals began on Thanksgiving Day, and will continue through to Christmas. More than 65,000,000 of the Christmas seals were distributed this year by the association and its affiliated agencies, to provide funds for the 1938 campaign against tuberculosis.

"The Michigan Tuberculosis Association is sincerely appreciative of Mr. See's early purchase," Dr. Bruce H. Douglas, president of the association, declared this week. "Christmas seals used on local letters and packages help to fight tuberculosis in Charlevoix county," he said.

"Urgent, indeed, is the need in Michigan for continued intensive anti-tuberculosis work," Dr. Douglas emphasized. "With a slight increase last year in the state death rate from tuberculosis, we are made aware of the importance of Christmas seal-financed activities. Although it is an absolutely needless disease, the White Plague claimed 2,100 Michigan lives last year," he pointed out. "We are challenged by these unnecessary deaths to redouble our efforts," he declared.

Proceeds from the Christmas seal sale are the sole support of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association's organized campaign against tuberculosis. Funds realized in the 1937 sale will help to carry on this work.

USE TAX PAYMENTS DUE ON DECEMBER 15

Law Makes Buyer Equally Responsible With Seller for Payment

With deadline for first payments of the Michigan use tax less than 15 days away, Draper Allen, Managing Director of the State Board of Tax Administration, today called attention to the fact that the new law makes buyers equally as responsible as sellers.

"Persons who make purchases outside Michigan must either pay a three per cent tax to the party from whom they purchased the goods or make the payment directly to the state," Allen declared. "It is possible that many persons do not understand their obligation and it is important that this point should be clarified."

"While the consumer has no liability in connection with the sales tax," Allen said, "his responsibility to the state under the use tax is not discharged until the tax has been paid. If the merchant who makes the sale fails to pay the use tax, the state has authority to collect from the buyer."

FARMERS PLAN FOR POTATO CONTROL

NINETY APPLICATIONS IN CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

Entire State Will Divert Half Million Bushels in Effort to Boost Price of Commodity

Michigan farmers intend to divert from market nearly 500,000 bushels of potatoes in an effort to raise depressed prices, the Michigan Agricultural Conservation Committee has announced.

Grant G. Thompson, MACC office manager, reported 3,162 farmers had signed applications indicating they intended to divert 490,366 bushels of potatoes either for livestock feed or destruction. Simultaneously, he revealed the deadline for applying for aid under the program had been extended from last Saturday to December 11th.

With potato market prices reported at 45 cents a bushel compared with 85 a year ago, farmers hoped by reducing the state's 11,000,000 bushel surplus to relieve the current market glut. Diversion, on the basis of applications, would net Michigan farmers $74,550.

Montcalm, with 472 applications for 79,000 bushels, led Michigan counties in participation. Mecosta reported 187 applications and 36,000 bushels; Osceola, 262 and 34,500; Tuscola, 186 and 34,500; Kent 158 and 29,500; Menominee, 206 and 28,000; Lapeer, 132 and 25,000; Grand Traverse, 135 and 23,000; and Oceana, 158 and 21,000.

Total applications and bushels for other major potato counties included:

Isabella, 73 and 16,000; Ionia, 63 and 14,000; Wexford 126 and 13,000; Crawford-Otsego, 87 and 12,000; Charlevoix 90 and 10,000.

Cheboygan reported 42 and 5,700; Alpena, 26 and 4,650; Manistee, 23 and 3,165; Emmet, 25 and 2,600; and Midland, 3 and 500.

Under the program, the Federal government will pay growers 15 cents a bushel for U. S. grade No. 2 or higher potatoes diverted from consumer markets. Although the government's $10,000,000 diversion grant for an area comprising Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and parts of North Dakota will be prorated if participation exceeds expectations, it was believed all Michigan farmers cooperating would receive maximum grants allowable.

HARRY PISCHNER IS SAVED FROM DROWNING

Fell Off Municipal Dock While Boarding Boat Wednesday Night

Harry Pischner, employed on the Charlevoix-Beaver Island boat Mary Margaret, had a narrow escape from drowning last Wednesday evening.

Pischner fell into the water when he slipped off a pile while boarding the upper deck of the boat. A companion, Roy Plum, tossed him the gangplank rope, to which Pischner clung until help came from Fred Bergmann and the stewart off the lighthouse tender Sumac, who were attracted by shouts for help.

STRAITS LIGHTHOUSES CLOSED UP FOR WINTER

Four lighthouses on the Straits of Mackinac were closed Monday and the keepers taken ashore at Cheboygan.

The four lights will be kept burning, however, for a period of four to six weeks through the use of acetyline lights. These are known as winter lights. They are provided to aid any belated ships using the Straits after the regular navigation season closes.

ELECTRIC EXTENSION IS AGREED UPON

Another important decision arrived at during the meeting and one forwarded by the citizens' committee, authorized the consulting engineers to make a thorough inspection of present equipment and make recommendation for repairs to place the units in first class condition, aiming particularly at the Bellaire hydro plant. It was pointed out that this unit with a possible production capacity of over 300 k.w. is now rated at 120 k.w., indicating inefficiency in operation. The value of this unit was indicated in a report which showed that in a single year the hydro plant produced 1,055,000 k.w. as compared to 500,000 for the diesel unit and 54,000 for the steam unit, and that the hydro plant produces current at the lowest cost of any unit.

A matter upon which no final agreement was reached was the recommendation of a majority of the citizens' committee that the city employ a qualified electrical and civil engineer to act as superintendent of utilities, thus insuring efficient operation of utility units. Those making the recommendation pointed to what they considered a run-down condition of some of the equipment as an indication of need for more efficient superintendency. Mayor Bergeon countered with the statement that the use of electric revenues for other purposes had precluded a reserve and necessary funds for needed repairs, implying that no superintendent, regardless of qualifications, could carry on without funds.

In order to get the proposal before the voters at the earliest date and thus insure installation of the new unit in time for the 1938 summer season, the engineers were instructed to prepare estimates of cost and plans at once. All details of the proposal will be publicly outlined as soon as necessary data is available.

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

Wages and Hours

Much bitterness has crept into the House because of the so-called Wages and Hours Bill, and when it comes to the floor of the House for consideration it is safe to say that the scene will resemble those of war days. In spite of that feeling 218 signatures were secured on the petition which automatically discharges the committee from further consideration and according to House rules the bill can be called up on December 13. Charges against the administration flew thick and fast by the opposition and it was said that huge favors were offered in return for a signature on the petition. Such tactics, however, are commonplace when controversial matters are before Congress and are not to be taken seriously. But one thing did happen. Majority Leader Rayburn signed the petition, thereby setting a precedent.

Farm Bill

The past week and most of the next will be consumed in debate on the Farm Bill. From what has happened up to this time it is not going to be the same bill that was offered on the first day. Amendments are many and are being adopted. Benefit payments to large producers it is estimated were reduced $25,000,000 when a limit was put on payments at $7,500. Another amendment originally provided for a 25 per cent reduction in payments in excess of $2,000. That figure was reduced to $1,000. Other amendments pending would guarantee the farmer parity prices. But that for the time being has been stymied. No one it seems knows what "parity prices" means. Some say it means cost of production and some say it means the average price over period of years. But again no agreement can be reached on what period of years. Boileau of Wisconsin wants to make it impossible for lands which have been planted in grasses and legumes in the soil conservation program to be used for dairy purposes. His amendment carried. But how is such an amendment to be enforced? And so it goes. Day after day. But that is democracy and all this discussion isn't doing the country any harm.

Agriculture

Nearly 10,000 requests have been received by the Federal land banks in the last ten months for loans to be applied in the purchase of farms. The amount applied for totaled $38,000,000 and the requests came from every state in the Union, but most numerous from the West. Borrowing to assist in farm purchasing has been on the increase since 1933, while refinancing of farm indebtedness has been on the decline for three years.

Commissioner Goss explained that the large number of requests for loans to purchase farms reflects not only the greatly improved condition of agriculture in most parts of the United States and the increased purchasing power on the part of farmers, but also a revival of the general belief in the desirability of a farm as an investment and a rising farm real estate market.

The temporary emergency rate of these loans, is 4 per cent until July 22, 1939; the contract rate thereafter is 5 per cent.

Compare dwith a year ago, federal land bank foreclosures declined 34 per cent, while the total of private lenders declined 26 per cent and was 47 per cent below the corresponding period of 1934.

Roads

President Roosevelt faces tremendous odds in his first big economy move in Congress through reduction of Federal aid highway appropriations. The special message of the President, urging economy was accepted as paving the way for a test between those in Congress demanding resumption of the spending program and those urging savings to balance the budget.

Special meetings of highway committees of the Senate and House were slated to be called to discuss the message, but intense opposition developed with amazing swiftness.

Mr. Roosevelt's proposed plan called for cancellation of $214,000,000 authorizations before January 1 and would require special session action.

POST-SCRIPT TO SANTA

We have asked you to remember the poor, to remember all children, to inspire those who could to give to community funds, to dress doll, to repair toys and to donate clothing. We have even asked for snowy Christmas weather in preference to last year's greenness. Most of all we have asked for great charity, for giving until it hurts.

But, dear Santa, while in our most charitable mood, please help us to save ourselves from those who would make fools of our good-will, from foreign governments which would ask us to accept token payments (ten cents on a dollar) on their former war debts to us, in order that they may take further advantage of our charity by letting us finance a new war for them.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

A good breakfast is important at this season for almost everyone but particularly for children and active workers. Eggs, both fresh and storage, are cheap and plentiful for the season, bacon and other smoked meats are lower, making the famous breakfast combination a possibility on limited budgets.

Other meat prices are little changed from last week, though turkeys are lower and ducks reasonable. Fresh pork is probably the best available meat value.

Fruits and vegetables in variety are plentiful and reasonable in price. Oranges, grapefruit and apples, the cabbage family, green beans and spinach, are outstanding values.

Seasonable foods make up the following menus.

Low Cost Dinner

Creamed Spinach
Bread and Butter

Medium Cost Dinner

"God the Preserver of Man" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, December 12.

The Golden Text, from II Timothy 4:18, is: "The Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom: to whom be glory for ever and ever."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Deuteronomy 4:7): "For what nation is there so great, who hath God so nigh unto them, as the Lord our God is in all things that we call upon him for?"

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p.13): "Love is impartial and universal in its adaptation and bestowals. 1938 Ford V-8 Standard Tudor Sedan

MOST popular of all the Ford V-8 body types is the standard Tudor sedan, shown above. A longer hood, more sweeping lines and newly-designed front end, grille, louvres, fenders and hubcaps are featured. The car is available either with 85 horsepower or 60 horsepower V-8 engine. Interiors are attractively appointed. The front seat is full width. The seat back is divided. The sections are hinged diagonally and swing inward as they are tipped forward so as to leave a wide passageway on either side for entrance to the rear seat. Like all Ford body types the Tudor sedan has a large built-in luggage compartment. The standard cars are engineered for owners who demand the maximum of economy in first cost and operating cost.

LANSING LETTER

which are not affected by the new state law.

Barbers Try It, Too

Barber unions in Michigan prevailed upon the legislature to establish a state board of barber examiners and to pass new rules in the interest of "fair trade". In Lansing the state board fixed a minimum pay for journeymen barbers of 42½ cents per haircut and 22½ cents per shave.

The Master Barbers of Michigan, an AFL union, promptly boosted the consumer haircut price to 65 cents and shaves to 35 cents. Frank X. Martel, president of the Detroit and Wayne County Federation of Labor, defended the price hike, declaring that some barbers received only $16 to $20 a week.

When windows of several barber shops were smashed after proprietors had declined to raise prices, the attorney general's office in Lansing applied a legal cold-towel with an announcement that the state law prohibited price-fixing and that the wage to be paid is up to each individual employer.

It was a rather close shave for the public.

Sales Tax Trouble

As the business recession threatens to cut $1,750,000 from anticipated state revenue, throwing the budget more out of balance, Governor Murphy let it be known that the state board of tax administration is lax in enforcing sales tax collections from retailers.

The governor implied he is convinced many merchants are withholding payment of part of the sales tax collected from consumers. In fact, the coming special session of the state legislature will be asked by the executive office to evolve a new system to plug all tax leaks.

The tax airing came as a result of a disclosure that a motor car sales company had effected a settlement to pay a $16,000 sales tax debt for $4,000 under the plea that payment of the total amount would mean bankruptcy.

In its ecorts to balance the budget while trade is declining, the state administration will continue to be tax conscious for many months to come. You are going to hear more about taxes when the legislature meets in January or February.

Strikes are Costly

When Governor Murphy issued his Thanksgiving Week statement, cautioning labor not to strike at a time when "business and employment are not in good condition", he also had in mind the fact that last spring's sit-down warfare was costly to the state treasury in payment of more welfare funds while sales tax revenue sagged.

Another epidemic of labor strikes in Michigan this winter would ruin any hopes to balance the state budget.

"Each side must make its contribution", Murphy said in an appeal for orderly settlement of disputes. The alternative, he warned, is Fascism which would outlaw unions by substituting state regimentation of both labor and capital.

The administration, it appears, has made a "turn to the right", following the trend of public opinion which emerges once again as the ultimate supreme authority.

No Mansion For Murphy

The bachelor governor has put an end to the controversy, freshly renewed by a republican legislator, about whether he is to have a mansion provided by state funds.

Last spring the state legislature considered authorizing an appropriation to purchase or construct a mansion for the governor. The idea was sponsored by certain leaders in the House, but when the governor failed to consult with them in handing out choice plums, the sponsors' ardor cooled considerably. Instead, the House passed a resolution that the board of auditors might "negotiate for and rent" a home for the governor.

A few weeks ago the board of auditors considered the purchase of a large residence in Lansing for $85,000.

From the Detroit suburb, Plymouth, came a sizzling publicity blast from the peppery Elton Eaton, state representative who is prominent in republican circles.

The final result was the disowning by Murphy of the entire notion. "The state should—when the time is proper—build a modest home for its governors," said the Governor whose Lansing residence is a hotel room.

Liquor Confusion

Governor Murphy not only appoints state commissions but he injects his personal leadership into their decisions.

When he selected a New York physician as director of state hospitals, a Lansing member of the state hospital commission resigned in public protest against a rubber stamp.

The state liquor commission experienced the same fate.

Early in 1937 the commission passed a rule that would have eliminated three-fifths of all the private vendors of package liquor in the state. Governor Murphy reversed the ruling.

Changes of liquor control commission policies have caused confusion and uncertainty, so declared Lieut.-Gov. Leo J. Nowicki recently in Lansing.

"One of the troubles may be that we have two commissions," Nawicki was quoted as saying. "We have the duly appointed legal one, and we have the governor's office. Several times the commission wanted to do one thing but Gov. Murphy asked that it do another. The commission's whole history since its creation early in the year has been one of reversals."

It is generally known that Nowicki has a mind of his own on state matters. He was unsympathetic with handling of sit-down strikes last spring. He opposed the governor's veto of the governor's own labor relations board bill.

Now, apparently, Nowicki does not look with favor upon the governor's inclination to do the thinking of state commissions on matters of major public policy.

AT THE MOVIES

Wanger's "52nd Street" Sets New Style Musical

New York's famous night club sector that has became known as the Montmarte of America, provides the musical "52nd Street" which opens at the Palace Theatre on December 11th.

The interesting angle to this new Walter Wanger production is that it reproduces the Manhattan night club strip between Fifth and Sixth Avenues on 52nd Street with the top personalities from the niteries themselves to inject the gay spirit and mad atmosphere of this night life belt into the picture.

The night club entertainers who appear for the first time on the screen in "52nd Street" are Jack White, Rocco & Saulter, Georgie Tapps, Cook and Brown, Jerry Colonna, Al Norman and the 52nd Street Girls.

This galaxy of talent is augmented by an array of picture stars which includes Kenny Baker, Ian Hunter, Leo Carrillo, Pat Paterson, Sid Silvers, Ella Logan, Zasu Pitts, Dorothy Peterson and others.

Funniest Film Finds Joneses in "Hot Water"

Dad is boiling, the kids are in a ste wand the whole Jones Family's all steamed up over the election in their most uproarious, human hit, "Hot Water", latest in the famous Twentieth Century-Fox series, which opens December 15, at the Palace Theatre.

Jed Prouty, Shirley Deane, Spring Byington, Russell Gleason, Kenneth Howell, George Ernest, June Carlson, Florence Roberts and Billy Mahan are featured in their familiar Jones Family roles, and John Marsh and Marjorie Weaver are included in the supporting cast.

PLAN WINTER RELIEF FOR MICHIGAN NEEDY

Expansion of Work Relief Program Will Furnish Employment

Benefits from the Michigan unemployment compensation fund will not be available in the state until during July, 1938, the state unemployment compensation commission announced today.

A spokesman for the commission, commenting on the possibility of wide unemployment in Michigan this winter, said the probable method of meeting the emergency would be through an expansion of the works relief program, federal grants for direct relief as in 1932 and 1933, or direct grants to states of funds to be disposed of as the state sees fit.

TWO FERRY BOATS IN OPERATION AT STRAITS

Schedule Cut Down After Record Deer Hunting Season Traffic

Two boats are now in operation at the Straits of Mackinac following a record-breaking deer season when ferry traffic increased 59 per cent over last year.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, reported that 19,828 vehicles were transported during the deer-season period from November 10 through November 30. This compared with 12,436 last year. Hunters ferried 5,417 deer across the Straits this year and 108 bear.

The two boats now in service are the largest in the fleet—the City of Cheboygan and the Straits of Mackinac. They will operate until the close of navigation when the ice crusher Sainte Marie will make the run.

PARADISE IS FOUND FOR RICH HUNTERS

South Manitou Island Opened at $100 Per Buck Deer, Plus

Two Muskegon men went home Thursday, each with two legal bucks apiece, shot on North Manitou Island. The animals were the first to be shot on the island since it was stocked with deer 10 years ago.

Conservation officials reported the island so well stocked with deer that a food shortage for the animals was imminent. A state survey disclosed 700 deer on the island and restrictions enforced in other parts of the state were lifted on the island.

Under the Manitou regulations each hunter must pay $100 for each buck killed, $50 for each wounded buck, $6 a day for a guide, $10 a day for an automobile and $5 for board.

DEER TAG IDENTIFIED HIT-RUN AUTO DRIVER

Victim of Auto Accident Reported Number on Hunter's Back

A deer hunting license tag proved a means of identification in an automobile accident near Marquette during the deer season.

A woman, unable to get the license number of a car which she said struck her and then drove on, managed to catch the number of the deer tag on the back of the driver and reported it to the conservation headquarters there.

District Supervisor E. W. Libby referred the number to the bookkeeping division of the department at Lansing to learn the identity of the driver.

CHRISTMAS IN AMERICA

The Christmas tree has become such an emblem of that day that one cannot imagine Christmas decorations without it. The custom originated in Germany and many trees still have the traditional decorations of strings of popcorn, cranberries, etc.

The South still burns the Yule log, following English custom, and often a fragment is saved to light the log the next year—to symbolize that the fire did not die from year to year.

We, too, sing Christmas carols as they do in many lands. In Czechoslovakia, the carolers mark the houses they have visited with three crosses.

NEVER DENIED

Noise is one of the savageries that civilized man slowly works away from.

Important people generally look it; but chiefly to those who know how to judge.

A dog understands your moods if he does not understand the words you speak to him.

THE WOMAN'S WORLD

The upper-class women of Lima are as faultlessly gowned as the women of any city in South America.

Several women are among the advance party of gold seekers who are trekking to the mineral fields of Hoid's, Lake area, in the North country.

The name of Astrid is considered a fitting name for so lovely a person as the queen of the Belgians. "As" means venerable and "trid" is translated "beautiful."

The legislature of Quebec recently voted down by 52 to 25 a proposal that women be given the provincial franchise. Every year such a bill is proposed and defeated.

War widows in Great Britain have an option of choosing between a pension of $5 a week or a would-be husband. One thousand have shown their preference towards husbands.

Poland is believed to have the highest percentage of working women in the world, recent statistics showing 15 per cent employed. The major part of the employment is in the farming districts.

THIS QUEER WORLD

Worshippers at the sacred Crocodile pool in Karachi dye their foreheads red, and "salaam" the oldest reptile whenever he appears on the surface.

A murderers' club has been formed in Sing Sing prison, membership being confined to those who have occupied the death cell and had their sentences commuted to penal servitude for life.

"The Laughing Sect," Austrian members of which accompany their prayers by laughter, is likely to be prohibited, as the laughter frequently degenerates into fits of hysteria which endanger the health.

The Thirty-seventh Infantry regiment of Osaka (Japan) has become teetotal. In honor of the birth of a son to the empress, officers and men have signed a pledge of abstention from all intoxicating drinks.

A collapsible house with a wooden floor, fabric roof, and four unbreakable glass windows has been designed by a Liverpool inventor. Complete with furniture, it weighs only 12 stone, and may be packed into a good-sized trunk.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

THE LOW DOWN

It is rather entertaining when among hypocrites to be one for the time.

A husband's pay envelope given his wife is his after-marriage love letter.

The waves of eternity wash out most of the footprints on the sands of time.

Trying to be original is responsible for a good many freaks in art—and in architecture!

It is a fact that an irrigated country too seldom gets a good, sweet smelling washing down.

Statesmen may promise that they will reduce the taxes; but citizens must have the votes to make them do it.

Some social reformers work on the platform: "How nice it would be if men did not care for money"; but, then, they do.

Tie a string around the finger to remember to be good to all men; and a rope around the neck may not be needed later.

CHARACTER

The weak man is the one who refuses to do any real thinking or make any sacrifices, and he will not take on responsibility for himself or others.

He is usually a pessimist, for it takes thought and imagination to be an optimist. A pessimist does not know what it the matter with him, for he is too busy figuring out what would be an "ideal" position for him to be in, and is all the time complaining about what other people are doing that prevents him from having that "ideal" position.

The optimist knows that he cannot have an "ideal" position and he is not too busy thinking and working for the position he knows he can get if he will stick to it and make enough sacrifices.—Harvey S. Firestone.

DEER KILLED SO RUFORD PARK IS CLOSED FOR GOOD

It was with a great deal of disappointment that it became known this week that Ruford Park, located at the headwaters of the Sturgeon River, was being closed up.

For about fifteen years this park has been kept up, first by Dr. Ford, deceased, then by his son-in-law, Charles Huntley, where a number of deer were kept.

Last week dogs broke into the park and killed the three does, one fawn and one buck, which was quite discouraging to the owners, who have held open house there to everyone interested in hills, valleys, and wild life.—Otsego Herald-Times.

CHECKS WORTHLESS AFTER DECEMBER 20

Winners of Fair Premiums Must Cash Premiums by That Date

The state agricultural department warned that about 11,000 of the 25,000 checks ranging from 50 cents to $500 for 1937 state and community fair premiums were not cashed and would be worthless after December 20.

Commissioner John B. Strange wrote to 130 secretaries and managers of fairs that the only exception to the deadline would apply to those premium winners who had not received checks by December 20.

"It is necessary that we compile our fair report as soon as possible so we can present it to the Association of Secretaries and Managers of Fairs which will convene in Detroit January 12," Strange wrote.

Strange said the association at that time probably would consider asking the state for an emergency appropriation to provide for 1938 state and community fair premiums. The regular allotment is $50,000.

Evolution of the Fourth Letter of the Alphabet

The letter D has accepted fourth position in the alphabet from earliest times, and in the modern English alphabet it retains the same place it had in the Phenician, Greek, and Latin, which represent the early stages of alphabetic history. The Phenician daleth is represented by the Greek delta, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune.

The sound which the letter D commonly represents in English is the voiced dental stop, corresponding to the unvoiced T. It is interesting, however, that in English the letter does not represent a true dental stop, because it is pronounced by placing the tongue against the gums instead of against the front upper teeth. The pronunciation of the letter in English thus differs from the French and German pronunciation. In phonetic terminology the English pronunciation of D is called an alveolar.

In many languages the letter develops an aspirate dh, and this aspirate then represents a voiced spirant, such as the initial sound in the words there and that.

Another interesting fact in connection with the letter D is that in pronouncing it there is little difference between the mouth position for D and for L. The latter is pronounced by placing the tongue against the gums in exactly the position for D but the breath is allowed to escape past one or both sides of the tongue. Because of this phonetic similarity between the two letters, confusion has arisen in many languages between the letters D and L.

Norwegian Elkhound Is Famous for Keen Scent

Self-reliance in abundance bristles from the short erect ears to the tightly curled tail of the Norwegian elkhound. Without this characteristic, observes an authority in the Los Angeles Times, he could never hope to perform the monstrous task of hunting Norwegian elk, the moose of northern Europe.

In this assignment he is not required to chase the game, but rather to stealthily locate and hold the angry animal at bay. Great running speed is not required, and his body must not present the "racy" tucked-up appearance of the greyhound or whippet. But he must be possessed of great endurance and agility; he capable of dodging, with spring trigger precision, the kicks of quick hoofs and jabbing swings of sweeping horns.

For scenting powers he is one of the most remarkable of all hunting dogs, able under favorable conditions to scent an elk or bear at three miles' distance.

His origin is ancient, dating back to the time of the vikings. Many, upon first sight, are impressed with his likeness to a possible cross between the German shepherd and the chow-chow. Like both of these breeds, he is a member of the important, wolfy-looking spitz family of northern dogs. It is not unlikely that the entire family may have evolved from the Norwegian elkhound.

Gong Tolled by Rubbing

In the famous bell collection at the Mission Inn, Riverside, Calif., says Popular Mechanics Magazine, is a gong shaped like a huge bowl which sounds without being struck or tolled. The gong, almost five feet high, including its base, and nearly thirteen hundred years old, is sounded when a leather padded striker is pressed firmly against the rim by the operator and held there as he walks around it many times. The principle involved is similar to that which causes sound to be produced by rubbing a finger around the top of a drinking glass. The vibration produced by the rubbing of the gong increases as the action is continued until it reaches a tremendous volume. This gong, dating from 646 A. D., was presented to a Buddhist temple by the founder of Japanese Buddhism. Curiously, not all who try can make the gong sing, and this has led to the story that it favors some persons. When struck lightly on the rim, a melodious tone is produced which continues for several minutes. Even a light tap with the hand starts sound waves of wonderful tone quality.

Birds That Mimic

Birds from the ostrich down are very imitative. The ostrich where he lives alone, is silent, but in a country where the lions abound he roars. The reason for this is, we are reminded, that admiring the lions roar, he gradually learns to roar himself. As for small birds, buntings imitate pipits, and green finches imitate yellow hammers. They seek their food in winter together and they gradually steal each other's call. The jay is an insatiable imitator. Some jays will include in the repertory not only the cries or songs of other birds, but also the bleat of the lambs and the neigh of a horse. Even the nightingale imitates. In a nightingale's song it is sometimes quite easy to detect phrases he has borrowed from other birds.

Engraving

Engraving or intaglio, or recess printing, as it is variously termed, ranks above all other processes when the difficulty of counterfeiting is considered. This rather than appearance, says the Chicago Tribune, is the prime factor in the eyes of the postage stamp issuing authorities, but when well executed, engraving produces the most beautiful stamps. From a collector's standpoint engraved stamps have the advantage of a permanence of color and a durability of paper which is not usually found in stamps made by cheaper processes. The simplest intaglio process used to stamp manufacture is copper plate printing in which the one or more stamp designs on the plate are wholly engraved by hand.

Man's Second Sight

I have always thought that man has two gifts of sight if he will try to use them. The first and commoner, of course, is the sight for things visible, writes Edgar A. Guest, in the Rotarian Magazine. He sees with his eyes objects and things and acts. The other gift of sight is deeper and more spiritual. It is the sense of vision or perception which permits him to discover in even a trivial thing the glory of its creation. He discovers in the line of weary workmen, homeward bound, the dreams and aims and promptings of each toiler.

"The Little Brown Church"

"The Little Brown Church," poem and music, were both written by an old member of the Congregational church in Bedford, Iowa, a small village about two miles from Nashua, Iowa. Hector Pitts, the author of the song, was inspired to write it when coming down the hill toward the little old Bradford church after an absence. The church, in a practically abandoned village, has dwindled to only a few resident members.

Two Havanas

Havana, Cuba, like Lima, Peru, is sometimes called the Paris of the western world. There are really two Havanas. There is the old city, breathing the spirit of the past in its narrow crooked streets, in its picturesque fortresses and defense works of a former age, in its old cathedral and its grilled and latticed balconies. Then there is the new Havana—a modern city of broad boulevards.

Deep Sea Butter

Golden treasure in the form of some 400,000 pounds of butter was recently raised from the sea between Norway and Denmark. The butter was cargo on the ill-fated vessel Oberon. When liberated, the tubs floated to the surface. Experts tasted the butter and declared that six months in the briny deep had not hurt it.

COMMERCIAL FISH CATCH INCREASES

FIRST SIX MONTHS 1937 BETTER BY 300,000 POUNDS

Herring Taken from Saginaw Bay Lead, Lake Trout Second—Fish Valued at $2,468,000

Catch of fish in Michigan waters —the Great Lakes and Saginaw bay —by 1,084 licensed commercial fishermen during the first six months of 1937 totalled nearly 300,000 pounds more than were taken during the same period last year. Value of all fish taken from the same waters in 1936 was $2,468,000.

Commercial fishermen report the catch of herring, lake trout and perch, among the more important varieties, was heavier during the first six months this year than prior to July, 1936. The 1936 six-month whitefish catch was larger, however. Whitefish, in fifth place in total poundage for the whole of 1936, dropped to sixth place in the first six-month period of this year.

Herring and lake trout have been in first and second places, respectively, in total poundage during both periods. Pike perch, in fourth place last year, is in third place on the basis of the 1937 six-month report.

Saginaw bay, last year, supplied the most herring, with Lake Superior second and Lake Michigan third. Superior was first in trout poundage in 1936 with Lake Michigan second and Lake Huron third. The largest whitefish catch was taken from Lake Huron with Lake Michigan in second and Saginaw Buy in third place.

A total of 12,168,468 pounds of fish was taken during the first six months this year as compared with 11,882,632 pounds for the same period in 1936.

This year's smelt catch was considerably larger than that in 1936, a total of 166,841 pounds having been taken as compared with 112,048 pounds last year. Smelt taken by commercial fishermen from streams and lakes tributary to Lake Michigan last year totalled 1,576,000 pounds, with a value of $78,800.

Department of conservation reports covering activities of commercial fisheries list such lesser-known varieties of fish as lawyers, sheepshead and saugers.

The evening service opened with a song and praise period. Five special numbers were presented by the Barnard young people. The speaker of the evening was Dr. B. J. Beuker of East Jordan, who gave a fine talk on "The Meaning of Happiness".

LESS ILLEGAL DEER ARE REPORTED SHOT

Many Districts Reveal 50 Per Cent Decrease This Season

Preliminary tabulation of reports from district conservation headquarters in the northern regions indicate a drop in the number of does and fawns shot during last month's deer season.

The illegal kill was as much as 50 per cent less in some districts including Boyne City, Traverse City, Baldwin and Gladwin. The illegal kill also was apparently less in the Roscommon district than a year ago.

The heaviest toll of does and fawns was taken in the Mio and Atlanta districts.

HOOVER TO POINT THE WAY

Sometime during the summer of 1938, one hundred hand picked Republican leaders throughout the country will meet to discuss the problems of the day and perhaps to formulate a program for the party for the following two years. This is the result of a suggestion made by Mr. Herbert Hoover, former President of the United States. It is not what he first suggested, which was a regular mid-term full convention, but it will perhaps do just as well.

We have listened to the speeches of Mr. Hoover during the last few years and we honestly believe him to be one of the best-informed men in this country as to what is wrong with our present set-up in Washington. We believe also that he is the one man to make the proper suggestions as to how order can be brought out of the chaos of the New Deal. Unfortunately, due to the machinations of Mr. Roosevelt's press agent, Charley Michelson, Mr. Hoover's name became anathema to many people. But today they are gradually realizing he was once considered among the greatest leaders ever produced in this country, and are once more looking in his direction in the hope he may be the one man with the vision and foresight capable of pointing the way out of our difficulties.

SPEED REGULATIONS

Many towns and cities definitely regulate the flow of traffic through their streets to set speeds, 30 miles in residential districts, 15 miles in school zones, and from 10 to 20 miles in business sections where traffic is heaviest and busiest.

When municipal officials, along with the police, show a determination to enforce the law, and when violators are not let off with an excuse, it is found that traffic moves as expeditiously and far more safely than if traveling at faster speed.

Active fear of arrest and a fine does more to cure a man of speed jitters than stories of what happened to some other guy when he stepped on the gas.

CHARLEVOIX WINS FIRST CAGE GAME

SCORED TWO VICTORIES OVER PETOSKEY FRIDAY

Varsity Team Victor by 47 to 20 Count; Reserves Turn in 39 to 13 Win—Play Kalkaska Next

Scoring a double victory over Petoskey varsity and reserve teams at the local gym Friday night, Charlevoix high school basketball teams opened the 1937-38 season in an impressive manner.

The scores of both games were by wide margins, the varsity chalking up a 47 to 20 victory and the reserve a 39 to 13 win. Coach Kipke used 25 players in the two contests. Twelve saw action in the varsity tilt and thirteen players were used in the reserve contest.

While Petoskey's Northmen were fast and had a good passing attack, they were no match at any time for the speedy, rangy Rayders. That the score was close in the first period was due largely to the Rayders' inability to locate the hoop and not to their lack of offensive ability, for they were down under the basket for every shot which did not go through.

Charlevoix led 12 to 9 at the quarter and 26 to 13 at the half. Although Coach Kipke substituted intermittently and at one time had only one of the original starters in the line-up, the score continued to mount. The count at the close of the third quarter was 33 to 15. The Rayders' fast-breaking offense caught the visitors flat-footed repeatedly and their height was an added advantage beneath the basket.

Richardson led the Rayder scoring attack with seven goals for 14 points. Carey scored 12 and Brown 11. Harbaugh was best for the Northmen with six points. In the reserve tilt Woods and Bissell shared scoring honors with eight points each. Bergmann and Walters had six each.

The line-ups:

Charlevoix (47)	FG	FT	P
Bergmann	0	0	1

SPORTSMEN RETURNING HUNTING CENSUS CARDS

Nearly Ten Thousand Sent In Since Close Hunting Season

That Michigan sportsmen are cooperating with the department of conservation in its check on deer and bear killed this season and last is indicated by the fact that nearly 10,000 of the hunter's report cards attached to licenses were returned during the first week after the close of the season, November 30.

Return of the cards is required under the act passed during the last session of the state legislature. All hunters must report, whether or not they are successful in getting a buck or bear. The cards must be returned before February 15 and failure to do so is a misdemeanor.

Similar regulations apply to holders of all hunting and trapping licenses. By this means the department can secure information concerning the numbers and kinds of smaller animals and birds that are taken each year.

KIDDIES' XMAS PROGRAMS PLANNED

KIWANIS DINNER AND SANTA'S VISIT DEC. 22nd

Annual Free Movie at Palace Theater Is Scheduled for Friday, December 24th

With two Christmas affairs planned for their entertainment, the coming week promises to be a happy one for the kiddies of Charlevoix and vicinity.

On Wednesday, December 22nd, the Kiwanis Club will hold their annual childrens' venison dinner and added features this year will make the event even a more enjoyable one. The dinner will be held at the Methodist church, beginning at 11:30 o'clock. Kiwanis members will do the serving and it is anticipated between 300 and 350 children will be fed. All children 12 years old and under are being provided for.

The Kiwanis dinner will be also the occasion of Santa's annual visit to Charlevoix. He will be present in person to distribute bags of candy, nuts and fruits to the children.

On Friday afternoon, December 24th, at 2:30 o'clock, a free movie for children 12 years old and under will be given at the Palace Theater. The entertainment is being given by Mrs. Elizabeth Moon, owner, following a custom inaugurated several years ago.

These two entertainments, along with the customary church and school programs will provide a couple of busy weeks for the youngsters.

TEMPERATURE NEARED ZERO HERE ON MONDAY

Thermometer 20 Below at East Jordan, 14 Below at Boyne City

Sliding to a new low for the winter, the thermometer registered two degrees above zero in Charlevoix early Monday morning.

According to reports, Charlevoix's low mark was high in comparison to other points in the county. East Jordan registered the coldest—20 below zero, while the reading was 14 below at Boyne City and 12 below at Ironton. The entire surface of Lake Charlevoix was frozen early in the day, but the ice broke up later.

The low temperature was accompanied by a dense fog along Lake Michigan. Frost clung to the foliage a half inch thick, producing the most beautiful scenic effect when the skies cleared and sunlight showed upon the landscape.

UNDERSIZE WHITEFISH ARE SEIZED

TWO FISH COMPANIES FINED FOR ILLEGAL POSSESSION

Representatives Nelson Fish Co. and Wolverine Fish Co. Plead Guilty Before Justice Fowler

Fines of $25 and costs of $6.85 each were assessed Tuesday afternoon by Justice H. R. Fowler against the Nelson Fish Company of St. Ignace, and the Wolverine Fish Company of Garden, for possession of undersized whitefish.

The two firms were represented in justice court respectively by Nels Nelson of St. Ignace, and State Senator J. D. Botsch of Garden, buyers, who entered pleas of guilty to the charge.

The charges were brought by Earl Cornett, assistant district supervisor, and Ed. Deuell of the Boyne City office of the State Conservation Department. These officers seized nine boxes containing 435 pounds from the Nelson Fish Company, and 23 boxes containing 1,103 pounds from the Wolverine Fish Company at the local Booth Fisheries plant, where they were being packed for shipment. Out of a shipment of 96 boxes of fish taken Sunday night by truck to Mackinaw City and shipped via Michigan Central railway to New York, 14 boxes were intercepted at Bay City. In all instances, officers claimed, the boxes contained over the ten per cent legal allowance of undersized fish, some running as high as 32 per cent. Lack of sufficient time for examination precluded seizure of the entire New York consignment.

Nelson and Botsch purchased the fish here Sunday from Frank Gurkie and Thomas Peterson, Fairport commercial fishermen, who brought their catches from the Fox Island grounds to this port. The buyers contended that in their opinion, they had bought legal fish and that the fact the boxes contained undersized whitefish was a mistake.

Whitefish spawn fishing, usually a bonanza for commercial fishermen, has been practically a failure. Catches have been much below the average, as was the case following closed season on lake trout. Early low water temperature, it is claimed, caused the whitefish to spawn and leave the grounds before the closed season ban was lifted December 10th.

FITZGERALD WILL RUN FOR GOVERNOR

FIRST TO ANNOUNCE CANDIDACY FOR OFFICE

Will Enter Republican Primary Pledged Against Sit-Down Strikes; for Government Economy

Former Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald last week announced he would be a republican candidate in 1938 to regain the office he lost to Gov. Frank Murphy.

In his first public pronouncement since leaving office January 1, Fitzgerald offered a three-point program of "fundamentals" which included opposition to sit-down strikes. He advocated:

1. Industrial peace with maintenance of wake standards, working conditions and other defenses "erected to protect the worker against any unreasonable speedup system".

2. Labor relations machinery for settlement of industrial disputes and a practical program to remove "all cause for strikes, lockouts or labor strife in other forms."

3. Governmental economy with less spending, reduced taxes, maintenance of essential services and a balanced budget.

"I am volunteering to do the job during a second term as governor, because I believe it is the kind of a job I have shown I know how to do." Fitzgerald said, emphasizing that he was not being drafted.

The announcement made Fitzgerald the first candidate for governor to formally enter the 1938 race. His opponent in the republican primary was expected to be Harry S. Toy, Detroit, former attorney general and supreme court justice, for whom a Toy-for-governor headquarters was opened in Lansing last week by R. Glenn Dunn, former legal advisor to Fitzgerald.

OFFICERS OF SOIL PROGRAM ELECTED

CHAS. SHEPARD, BOYNE CITY, COUNTY PRESIDENT

Other Officers Selected and Township Groups Named for 1938 Federal Conservation Set-Up

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

The Charlevoix county soil conservation program has been organized for the new year of 1938. Election of officers from the eight communities took place on November 30, December 1, 2 and 3. The newly elected board of directors met on Monday, December 6, and elected officers.

At each one of the township community meetings, County Agent Mellencamp first of all discussed briefly the 6 big objectives in the program. The speaker was unable to give any definite information, relative to the features of the new program as at this time they had not been announced.

At the board of directors meeting held in the Boyne City post office on December 6, there were present the eight newly elected members of the board who are the chairmen of the respective communities. C. W. Wing, district fieldman, was present and discussed the organization of the program. After adopting the articles of association the election of officers resulted in the following being selected to administer the new program:

President, Charles D. Shepard, Boyne City; vice president, Fred W. Willis, Charlevoix; third member, Walter H. Healey, Charlevoix; first alternate, Peter A. Jensen, Walloon Lake; second alternate, Herbert E. Gould, East Jordan.

The county committee consists of the president, vice president and third member, and really have direct supervision of all details pertaining to the program, supported and approved by the entire board of directors. The county committee then selected Norrine L. Porter as the secretary-treasurer of the county association. She has been employed in the office for the past two years and thus has the proper background and experience to handle this important position.

Following are the names of committeemen in townships adjacent to Charlevoix for the new year. The first named of course being chairman and automatically a member of the county Board of Directors.

Bay Township—Harrison L. Smith, chairman, Petoskey; John B. Taylor, 3rd member, Boyne City; Wm. D. Burmeister, alternate, Boyne City.

Eveline Township — Herbert E. Gould, chairman, East Jordan; Albert N. Carlson, vice chairman, East Jordan; William C. Howe, 3rd member, East Jordan; Oakley M. Saunders, 1st alternate, Charlevoix; John H. Noble, 2nd alternate, East Jordan.

Hayes and Charlevoix — Fred W. Willis, chairman, Charlevoix; Elliot L. Lewis, vice chairman, Charlevoix; Lee E. Sneathen, 3rd member, Charlevoix; Theron J. Smith, 1st alternate, Charlevoix; Lee E. Sneathen Jr., 2nd alternate, Charlevoix.

Marion and Norwood—Walter H. Henley, chairman, Charlevoix; Edwin A. Gregory, vice chairman, Charlevoix; Levern E. McGhan, 3rd member, Charlevoix; George S. Parsons, 1st alternate, Charlevoix; Charles H. Mascho, 2nd alternate, Charlevoix.

Next week additional information will be published relative to some of the details of the new 1938 program

LANSING LETTER

By GENE ALLEMAN

Field Manager, Michigan Press Association

Announcement of a proposed legislative investigation of cooperatives in Michigan — consumers' cooperatives as well as producers' cooperatives—was greeted jubilantly by local sponsors of the Scandinavian substitute for private retail business.

The legislative probe started out originally to look into finances of the Wolverine "self-help" cooperative in Lansing which received federal subsidy money as a welfare project. But when Attorney General Starr ruled that legislative investigations by committee had no legal standing after adjournment of the legislature, the legislative council took up the torch. Speaker George Schroeder, council chairman, declared that the investigation would include all cooperatives.

Friends of the Michigan cooperative movement are welcoming the prospect of statewide publicity. It is pointed out that the Klan, nearly deceased, is now thriving again since the press hullabaloo over Justice Black's former membership in the hooded order.

Vendo Faculak has gone to Chicago for the winter, where he hopes to find employment. He left last Wednesday.

Some blow we had last week, but it appears to be all over now. It sure was a beautiful, frosty morning last Monday. The trees were all white.

The game around here is apparently quite safe, as a group of boys went out hunting Sunday and returned later without a single trophy as to their prowess as expert marksmen.

The school is all decorated and we are now on the lookout for a nice looking tree. Peggy wrote a letter to "Old Saint Nick" which she mailed in our furnace. We could hear "Santa" getting the letter.

OUR OWN COME FIRST

Is it selfishness to show reluctance in spending our purse to aid the war stricken in other countries? We think not.

True, wome nand children are suffering in these countries, hut they are suffering in America, too. From the hottom of our hearts we wish that such suffering could be removed from the world. But unless we have such an abundance of wealth to give away that we can alieniate all want, then it is certainly our duty to take care of those in our own towns and cities first.

Why spend money to make sure that people lacking in conscience can go right on exercising that same lack of conscience? Why make it easy in any way for these people to continue war? How can we know for sure that every dollar of our money will go to care for a atarving child?

A dollar haa to go through many hands to reacb such intended destination. We wouldn't like to think that instead of food, it may actually buy a bomb.

To be on the safe side, let's care for our own who are in need.

Now they are criticizing Roosevelt'a English. Funny, we thought it was his arithmetic that was wrong.

What Did The Saviour Look Like?

An article in The American Weekly, with the December 19 issue of The Detroit Sunday Times, will point out that an exhibition of 1,000 paintings by artists of many nations shows a wide difference in their ideals . . . but evidence has been found that a real likeness of the Divine features based on a sketch by St. Peter in the Catacombs has inspired the Christ portraits of all ages.

NEED FOR CONFIDENCE

President Roosevelt, in his message to Congress, suggested measures be taken to relieve some of the burdens placed on business by various New Deal acts during the past few years. Since then, however he has done practically nothing to give support to his suggestions. On the contrary he seems to have forgotten he made them.

It is a known fact that business is in a slump. What it needs now is relief from the unfair burdens it has been made to bear so it can work itself out of its difficulties. Men with capital to invest must be shown they can expect an equitable return on their money before they will be willing to put their money in enterprises of any nature. President Roosevelt could have aided considerably in injecting confidence into business had he chosen different guests to accompany him on his recent fishing trip. As it was he chose men who played important parts in sponsoring that legislation which has hung like a stone around the neck of business until it broke down under the added weight. Also this apparent indifference on his part gives rise to the question asked many times before in this column. Does he believe business can be hamstrung as it has been during the last few years, and then when it is no longer able to carry the load, can he think he can take it over much in the same manner as it has been done in Italy and Germany? Such a thing was inferred in an address given in Detroit, December 6, by Barton K. Wheeler, United States Senator, from Montana, when he said " it could happen here". Therefore, it is up to us all, including labor groups, to see that it DOES NOT HAPPEN HERE.

Michigan apples, wrapped in green cellophane and sealed with "Eat Michigan Apples" stickers were given away as one of the features in the Big Apple Dance presented recently at the Casino Room of the Book Cadillac Hotel, Detroit.

CHERCHEZ L'HOMME

"Find the man" should become the watchword of Michigan voters. Thomas E. Dewey, former son of this state, and recently elected Prosecuting Attorney of New York City, possesses the character qualifications we should demand in our next gubernatorial candidate.

The election of Mayor LaGuardia and Attorney Dewey, and the follow-up action of these officials have made every thinking citizen conscious of the results of good government administration. These two men made pre-election promises to eliminate corruption, graft, and vice in their city government, and are proving by their actions now that they meant what they said.

When men arrive on the scene to defy gangland and break up the vicious interrelation existing between politics and crime, all the nation pays them homage.

The people produce their leaders and the leaders produce what the people expect. Let us in Michigan set our standards high. Let us aspire to a liberal leader who is, as Senator Wheeler defines a liberal, "A man who believes in the American form of constitutional government and all the freedom it implies—the constitution was not drawn up to protect majorities, but minority groups." Let us aspire to a leader free from radicalism, hatred and political corruption. One who would be fearless in dealing with outlawed sit-down strikes, but who would sympathize with the cause of labor as well as capital. One who believes we should pay as we go, but not a man who deliberately misleads the people as to budget cuts; nor yet one who seems to economize while permitting corrupt practices.

Find the man!

EMBARRASSING MOMENT

It must have been extremely embarrassing for the sedate Senate to have a member of the House question the necessity of appropriating traveling expenses to and from Washington between the end of the Special Session and the beginning of the regular session January 1. The Senate passed this bill without a murmer of dissent and probably with it's tongue in it's cheek. And, as you know, at least 95 per cent of both Houses will spend the holidays in Washington and never had any intention of leaving there in the first place.

PERISHABLE PRODUCTS

An article we once read said that a hotel room was the most perishable product ocered for sale on the open market. If it wa snot sold every day, it could not be offered for sale again to make up for the day or days when it had not been bought. The same situation occurs when a man loses a day from his work. He can never again offer that day's labor for sale. It is gone forever. At the same time he must accept the loss he has suffered and make every effort to keep from losing more.

Everybody realizes the strike is the one medium which has been and still is, being used by labor to enable it to get for itself an equitable share of the profits created by its labors. But it is becoming more and more apparent that an abuse of this privilege is apt to do more harm than good. It is being said now, that much of the blame for our present business recession directly resulted from the sit-down strikes which took place early this year. Labor itself is realizing that industry can pay only so much and no more without impairing its hiring ability as well as that of the other businesses directly and indirectly connected with whatever enterprise suffers the strike.

Recent reports indicate it is the radical element in labor which is carrying on the present wave of unauthorized sit-downs. It is this element which has no wish to better labor conditions as a whole. They should be ousted from the unions immediately, and positive efforts made in the future to keep them outside its ranks. Only in doing this can labor leaders expect to keep their contracts with industry. And only in doing this can these same leaders keep their members from losing too many of their perishable days of labor.

WILL ECONOMIST EXPLAIN

Some things, most things we might say, which seem like ordinary common sense, practical and workable, are scoffed at by the economist. His answer is "According to the law of economics, it doesn't work out that way." As soon as he says "law", we back into the corner, for we know that through the ages, laws have been the foundations of progress.

But there is a fundamental bit of horse sense in man which makes him cling to certain ideas. For example, many of us find it difficult to be educated to the theory that by destroying or curtailing abundance, we can create plenty. It lacks sound reasoning, law or no law.

We are told that one-third of the nation is "underfed and underclothed". Instead of paying the farmer not to raise, or buying up his abundance, why not distribute the surplus where it is needed, and pay the farmer for his actual crops? When a government spends money to create scarcity, it adds government expense to that scarcity. And what happens to the underfed? Why he pays that added cost of government on every article he buys.

Does that make sense?

PARENT AND TEACHER

Report cards are coming home and parents are now able to draw some conclusion as to their children's progress during the first few months of this school year. Usually the card is a source of surprise to the parents, for either the child is above or below his expectation. If above, the gratified parent has no particular problem, but if below, it is his duty to investigate the reasons for failure.

There was a time when parents and teachers had no common ground. Children were sent to school, and once out of sight were dismissed from the parents' obligation. The school was an institute apart from the home. Not so today! The Parent-Teacher Association has effected the link between home and school. When a pupil lags, the teacher makes a point of investigating home conditions—or the parent ascertains if the teacher has the right attitudes and requisites.

And usually after a fair minded get-together between these two, there is an improvement—with the children receiving the benefit.

GRANGE FOR NEUTRALITY

Declaring the most "important question before the United States today is how to safeguard the peace of our nation," the National Grange Convention assembled at Harrisburg last week, adopted a seven-point program aimed at keeping the United States out of war.

The resolution, based on recommendations submitted by masters of seven State Granges representing the views of over 800,000 farm people, set forth the following points.

"We oppose any entangling foreign alliances that sooner or later may lead to war.

"We are unalterably opposed to any war of aggressive nature.

"We approve an armament program to fully protect our Nation from invasion.

"We oppose use of armament to protect investments in foreign lands.

"We favor stronger neutrality legislation to include embargoes on basic war materials, and also prohibit ships from carrying supplies to nations at war.

"We favor an act to draft capital and industry as well as manpower, thus taking all profits out of war.

"We approve settlement of international disputes by arbitration."

Apples are so versatile they can be expected to appear in most any form on the table. Strained apple sauce and baked apples are excellent for breakfast; apple sauce teams up both with gingerbread and with pork dishes. Don't forget, there are puddings, salads, apples-on-a-stick, fried apple rings, and that hardy perennial, apple pie.

FITZGERALD ANNOUNCES

Frank Fitzgerald, former Governor of Michigan has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for that office next year. Fitzgerald was elected in 1934 and was defeated by Gov. Murphy in 1936. The margin was not large and Fitzgerald believes he can defeat Murphy or any other Democrat in the off-yead election in 1938. At the moment, Harry Toy of Detroit, former Attorney General and Justice of the Supreme Court is an outstanding candidate for the Republican nomination and Melville B. McPherson of Kent county is also somewhat talked of as a possible candidate.

We have said many times that Frank Fitzgerald in his first message to the Legislature in 1935 outlined the most comprehensive and most intelligent and most far-reaching program of any Governor in Michigan's history. It was most unfortunate that his own lack of force, plus the opposition of Democrats and a handful of Republicans in the Legislature refused to put through that program. It would have simplified the Government of Michigan, saved its taxpayers many millions of dollars, given us the kind of government that the taxpayers — not the trough-feeders — yearn for. But it was not to be. Few, if any, improvements were made in the system during Fitzgerald's term. Under Gov. Murphy things have gone steadily from bad to worse until today we have the most cumbersome, the most inefficient and the most expensive government the State ever has known.

It is going to take a real he-man to bring any sort of order out of the present chaos. It is going to take a real patriot, one who has no future political ambitions, one who is ready and willing to work days and nights, Sundays and holidays, who must expect to be criticized and kicked around a lot but who fearlessly and honestly will give service regardless of personal cost. Some will wonder if Fitzgerald is the man who can do this, in view of his inability to put across his splendid program of 1935.

The brief program which Fitzgerald set forth in his announcement is interesting but not very impressive. The stuff he presents about Labor and all that is older than the hills. Every candidate for Governor in the last 30 years has offered some such planks and not one of them ever has done anything about it. Indeed, it is a question if the things Fitzgerald promises—conciliation of Labor disputes without strikes and removal of the causes for disputes — can be brought about by anybody under any sort of legislation. The American workingman and his employer are quite sturdy individualists, will have their disputes on occasion and will fight their battles according to their lights, law or no law.

One plank all will agree upon. That is his last one in which he pledges that, if elected, he will cut off some of the extravagances and wasteful expenditures now sapping the wealth of the State and reduce the army of employes to a squad of persons who are actually needed to perform the functions of their several offices. That is something the taxpayers are interested in. It is something that can be done, if the right man with a proper load of courage is at the helm.—Grand Rapids Herald.

COLOR ADDED

Do we just imagine it or is the complaint general? It seems to us that fruit and vegetables are being hurried to market far too soon. The latest thrust at American gullibility is the little printed tag across our oranges reading "Color Added." We say thrust at our gullibility because it is assumed that even when we know what is being done, we will go right on buying just the same, for we belong to the easy money class, "easy come, easy go."

Surely we aren't looking at the past through rose colored glasses when we recall bunches of celery bleached to the outer stalks, oranges ripened in the sun to mellow goldness, peaches that did not wither before they became soft enough to use, grapefruit with a flavor, and so on. Even potatoes are no longer left in the ground till the vines get brown. This is the age of rush, of trying to beat the other fellow.

Free distribution of drugs for the treatment of syphilis in patients unable to purchase them will be a major factor in the Michigan Department of Health's campaign to stamp out this disease, according to Dr. C. C. Slemons, commissioner.

Arsenicals and bismuth, the two drugs most commonly used to cure syphilis, will be distributed to physicians through all of the full-time county and city health departments, said Dr. Slemons.

DICKENS CLUB XMAS PARTY WAS DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR MONDAY

From the lovely wreath on the front door, to the brightly lighted tree in the dining room of the Clinton G. Cooper home, members of the Charles Dickens Club were reminded Monday that Christmas was but a fortnight away.

Attractive trimmings in the archways and a lovely arrangement of evergreen boughs and blue lights further carried out the Christmas motif.

After a short business session, the meeting was taken in charge by the program committee, who had planned a most pleasant and instructive hour. Mrs. P. D. Campbell read a beautiful Christmas story of the Restoration of Williamsburg and, interspersed with group singing of Christmas carols, was greatly enjoyed by all.

Members then found gifts awaiting them around the Christmas tree after which a delicious tea was served.

The tea table, most attractively set, was centered with small evergreen boughs and cones and lighted with red candles burning in green holders. Presiding at the table were Mrs. A. L. Foehtman and Mrs. Harry A. Craig.

Looking backward at the two profitable months just past and forward to many more weeks of study and inspiration, club adjourned, to resume meetings in January, 1938.

An old proverb says, "When your own court yard thirsts, do not pour the water abroad."

Speaking of five millions or more private employers in the United States, Congressman John Connor of New York, tersely observes: "We are picking on them, abusing them, and snooping on them. Yet the only place anybody can get a job is from a private employer."

Mexico City
Monday evening
Have lost track of the date

Dear Ken:

I don't know how we ever got this far away from home, but here we are in old Mexico. When we left home we hardly expected to go farther than San Antonio, Texas, but came on to Monterrey and there we met some folks who had been in Mexico City for a month. We got so interested that we could not bear to turn back home. Mexico City is 614 miles from Monterrey, but it only took two days to make it. Had a hard days driving yesterday, however, we were from 6:30 in the morning until after 10:00 at night dodging in and around and up and down the mountains through the clouds. Very hard driving through the fog, but were well repaid. We certainly will never regret this trip as long as we live. Are seeing things we have read about but never hoped to see. I believe the most interesting outside of the old ruins and mountains is the primitive Indians living in almost inaccessible places on the steep mountain sides. Of course we saw lots of Mexicans after crossing the border and we were very much interested in the way they lived, etc., but they are such a dirty people and these primitive Indians are so different. Their bamboo huts are as neat as can be, and their clothing is as neat, clean and white as the neatest family back home.

Came through tropical jungles yesterday where there are mountain lions, leopards, monkeys, hugo snakes, parrots etc. Of course we did not see any, for the noise of the cars on the highway drives them back. We stopped and saw coffee that had just been picked from the bushes by the Indians and saw it in the different stages of preparation for the market. I can't begin to tell you of the things we have seen, but it is all grand. This Pan-American highway is a great road and within a very short time the tourists will begin pouring in here. Quite a number now, of course, but nothing to what it will be as soon as people begin to realize just what there is to be seen in Mexico. It is a real trip into an old world and into the tropical jungles. Bananas, cocoanuts, alligator pears and even gardenias grow wild here. At the place where we stopped to see the coffee, the Indians picked hybiscus for us, the most beautiful flower imaginable.

We have had a lovely day here today. Mexico City is over 7000 feet above sea level and surrounded by mountains. The cloud formations have been so beautiful today too. This afternoon we visited an old monastery built in 1606 high up on a beautiful pine covered mountain on the Toluca road at an altitude of over 9800 feet.

We only wish that we could spend at least two weeks longer here, but that is impossible. So we will be seeing you before many moons. Expect to start on the homeward journey day after tomorrow, and are praying for nice weather through the mountains. The scenery there is said to be the most beautiful on the continent and from what little we were able to glimpse yesterday we can well believe it.

Yours very truly,
Don Clothier

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Law Stops Evasion of License 'Exam'

You can't get a new driver's license if your present one is good for another six months or more, Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, points out, citing a provision of the state's motor vehicle law as authority.

An unprecedented volume of applications for operators' license fees from persons whose present licenses will be valid for six months or more, has caused complications between the state and local governments in the matter of license fee refunds.

From each $1 fee charged for licenses, the state refunds 15 cents to the municipality in which the applicant lives. The first operation in Department of State routine, is to record fees attached to applications, crediting local governments with the proper sum. Applications filed too soon are not noted until records are checked; the rejection of such applications involves return of the $1 fee and deduction in revenue credit from the accounts of the local governments concerned, in each case. With applications being received at the rate of some 5,000 a day, sizeable deductions from local returns credited but not as yet paid, have caused misunderstandings.

Case attributes most applications in advance of expiration dates of current licenses, to a desire on the parts of applicants to evade the state's new license examination law which, it is believed, will be in preliminary operation by January 1st. Hundreds of such applications are being rejected daily.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT

Dental Health Education Program

Your District Health Department is launching throughout the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego a dental health education program. This program will be carried out by Dr. Nelson, our Children's Fund dentist, with the cooperation of the local dentists throughout the territory. Preceding our entrance into the county total enrollment in all the schools of that county will be checked by at least three responsible persons of that county for eligibility regarding the Children's Fund Clinic. After the lists have been checked throughout the county, appointments will be made for talks in the rural schools and in those schools that are not to be examined by other dentists, the examinations will be carried un by Dr. Nelson.

At the completion of the examinations cards will be sent home to the parents informing them whether or not it is necessary for their children to have corrective work. Those who are not eligible for the Children's Fund Clinic will be given cards to take to their own dentists where it will be necessary to provide for their own dental work. The other children will be given cards entitling them to service at the Children's Fund Clinic.

Dr. Nelson has already finished Otsego county and will next work in Charlevoix county following which he will go to Emmet county.

The desire for 100 per cent dental correction for rural school children of Charlevoix county originated in the minds of the Charlevoix County Health League as a result of the work carried on in the Tainter School, which for six consecutive years has obtained 100 per cent dental correction. Under the leadership of Mrs. Russell Barden, chairman, a plan was drawn whereby all schools would help carry out this program. Mr. Palmer, Charlevoix county school commissioner, has helped in carrying out these plans and deserves a great deal of credit for the work that has been accomplished.

It was decided at a meeting that a county dental chairman should be appointed and due to the excellent record of Mrs. Addie March, who for six consecutive years has had 100 per cent dental corrections in the schools where she has taught, she was chosen for this position. Mrs. March organized the Charlevoix County Dental Council to aid in carrying out this project. As a result of this program, the following results have been reported to the Health Department:

The Dental Health Educational Program will begin in Charlevoix County this week and Dr. Nelson has outlined the following schedule in which he will give talks to each school and in some school examinations will be given.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS
By Ann Page

Meats other than poultry are cheaper and will probably be appreciated as pre-holiday fare. Smoked hams and bacon, forequarter beef, lamb and fresh pork are all reasonable in price. Eggs are plentiful and cheap for the season. Use them freely in your holiday baking.

Fish of many varieties is attractive in price for everyday and fast day needs.

Fruits, particularly the citrus fruits and apples, are abundant and inexpensive. Some vegetables, however, were affected by last week's severe cold weather and are less plentiful and more expensive.

Seasonable foods make up the following menus:

Low Cost Dinner
Braised Chuck Steak
Potatoes Onions Carrots
Bread and Butter
Tapioca Cream with Bananas
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Roast Beef Pan-browned Potatoes
Celery Hearts Spinach with Onions
Bread and Butter
Baked Caramel Custard
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
Split Pea Soup
Baked Ham Sweet Potatoes
Creamed New Cabbage
Pear, Cranberry Watercress Salad
Apple Pie Cheese
Coffee Milk

Cupids business in Michigan is off fifty per cent or more, possible because of the exhorbitant examination fee of ten dollars charged by the M. D.s.

Special Session?

Several developments are complicating the prospect of another special session of the state legislature early in 1938.

1. Governor Murphy's candidacy for re-election is generally taken for granted. There are a number of administrative sores yet to be healed over before Murphy runs the risk of having his measures rebuffed in the legislature.

2. The main reason for a special session would be the passage of a lubor relations bill. With a business recession now in force and general layoffs looking for many workers, the time is not considered opportune for organized lubor to demand higher wages at the threat of strikes.

The Michigan Federation of Labor held a special meeting in Lansing last Sunday (Dec. 12) to discuss a policy on labor relations legislation, apparently in anticipation of n special session.

The governor's statement of Thanksgiving week indicated thut he would not tolerate with "wildcat" sit-down strikes brought about by a minority group.

30 Hour Week

A 30-hour week with 40 hours' pay is sought by C.I.O. workers in the Chrysler U.A.W. locul in the Detroit area. Their contract with the automobile company expires on March 31.

While this demand for u shorter week with the same pay is probably only a weapon for bargaining, the resolution indicates a trend towards higher manufacturing costs.

At a time when Congress is considering passage of an hour-wage hill giving the federal government the authority to estublish hour and wage levels throughout the nation, it is interesting to note that Michigan's averuge cost per man-hour in industries is exceeded only by those in Wyoming und Montana where little industry exists and is tied actually by the man-hour cost in New York state.

Figures compiled by the National Industrial Conference board from the last census of manufactures lists the following states with man-hour costs of 50 cents or over:

D. C. 64, Wyoming 61, Montana 61, New York 60, Michigan 60, Nevada 58, Illinois 58, California 57, Ohio 57, Washington 56, Idaho 55, New Jersey 54, North Dakota 54, Oregon 52, Colorado 51, Pennsylvunia 51, Kansus 50, Nebrasku 50, Indiana 50, Arizona 50.

At the bottom of the list are southern states such as Virginia, Louisiana, Tennessee, Arkansas, Florida, Alahamn, Mississippi, North Carolinn, Georgia and South Carolina with man-hour costs ranging from 40 cents down to 23 cents.

"Decentralization"

The Detroit district council of the C.I.O. recently appealed to Governor Murphy to fight widespread ndvance of unemployment, asking him specifically to stop layoffs by spreuding the work through a shorter week nnd to stop "decentrulization of industry such as farming work out of the state".

The reference of the automobile workers to "decentrulization" was viewed as a criticism of the policy of General Motors corporation, for one, in opening new plants in other states so that "all eggs wouldn't be in the same hasket".

If manufacturing costs are increased still more in Michigan ,the inevitable result would he a speeding up of this decentralization — "farming work out of the state", as the C.I.O. council puts it.

Of course, the only thing thut might slow up the movement would be a federal hour-wage law under either the A.F.L. plan of an outright minimum for the entire nation or the C.I.O.-favored plnn of regional hour-wage levels to be determined by another bureau at Washington.

In view of the fact that 90 per cent of all the automobiles in the world ure made in Michigan, the labor developments are worth watching.

Van Wagoner in Action

According to word received at the state cupitol, chances are pretty slim that congress will cut $200,000,000 from the federal roud fund for allotment to states.

Murrny D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, recently returned from Washington where he mobilized Michigun congressmen to stick to the highway spending program, using as a weapon the fuct that about $100,000,000 of the federal gasoline-oil tnx revenue last yenr was nnt used for highway purposes.

Economy and balance-budgeting are all right for speech-making, but they are a horse of a different color when it comes to the home districts. Congressmen are getting jittery, and defeat of the Roosevelt economy move is now generalyy conceded.

Michigan State Debt

In contrast to Michigan's sound financial condition, its state debt of some $22,000,000—the outstanding bond indebtedness of $72,000,000 being offset by a cash sinking fund of nearly $50,000,000—recent statistics by Dun & Bradstreet show that borrowing by state governments increased the state debts 34.25 per cent in the last seven years.

During the same period, Michigan's debt was reduced—not increased.

New York state accounts for more than one-fifth of the present total debt of the 48 states of which 27 have raised the debts, 18 have reduced them, and three have effected no change.

Louisiana heads the list of the higher per capita increase of $34.59, due chiefly to "Kingfish" Huey Long.

Holiday Trade Good

Most merchants are enjoying a good holiday trade, despite the "psychological panic" as economists call the present business recession.

If there really was a slump in October, it didn't sbow in sales tax collections which totalled $5,117,096 as compared to $4,419,336 last year. The tax increase, so far, for tbis year is now $7,750,000.

SOLVES RIDDLES OF GIVING GIFTS

This problem of giving the right gifts to the right persons is not so much of a problem but more of a game when it is done in the right manner.

What is so irritating as to receive playing cards when it's outdoor sports that are one's hobbies? Or to know that the first edltion gift is a prized possession of the giver, yet you are more interested in smokes, rare cheeses or candy?

It's all simple enough to solve, says Miss Frances Reis, instructor in related arts at Michigan State College.

"Play a game with your Christmas list this year. Jot down the things that symbolize each person you plan to give a present. The list can read something like this—so and so loves sports, the girl friend has a passion for bridge, that uncle of yours is an inveterate smoker, eousin enjoys reading, hrother is a cundid camera enthusiast.

"Many of your friends und relatives can be classed as home loving und they always will appreciate gifts for the home. Perhaps an improved kitchen knife of stainless steel or a good cun opener that euts around the curves will improve someone's disposition in 1938.

"Extra mirrors sometimes prove un attractive addition to a home. Sheets and towels and table linen keep wearing down to loose threuds and need replenishing. Lamps, bookends and figurines are appreciated by those who like to dress up the home with unusual knicknacks."

In the opinion of Miss Reis, shopping with an outline of useful suggestions adapted to thte individuals on the shopping list makes shopping easier and mnkes the gifts more of a pleasure to the receivers.

AT THE MOVIES

"This Way Please" Has Four Hit Tunes

Among the numerous attractions offered by the new musical "This Way Please," which opens Wednesday, December 22, at the Palace Theatre, are four new songs, destined to be nation-wide hits. The music for "This Way Please" goes a long way to udd to the splendid entertainment afforded by the film, which is the lightest and gayest of the season's new musicals.

The songs are essential parts of the story, and are spotted all through the picture, being sung in and around the theatre in which most of the action takes place.

"Is It Love or Infatuation," a ballad by Sam Coslow and Frederick Hollander, is presented first in an informal rehearsal, sung by Buddy Rogers and a chorus of girls, and also played by Rogers on a low clarinet, while the girls sing. Guitar accompaniment supports the number in this scene.

This song is used again by Betty Grable, when she begins singing it in an audition, when the theatré manager. has a brilliant idea. The shot suddenly fades to an actual stage show in the theutre, with Betty Grable singing the song accompanied by the orchestra. A second chorus is sung with sixteen chorus girls made up to look like Miss Grable, giving the effect of seventeen Betty Grables singing "Is It Love or Infutuation."

ARMSTRONG - NEWMAN WEDDING OF INTEREST IN CHARLEVOIX

Due to the wide acquaintance of the former Miss Ina Newman in this city, the following account of her recent marriage is of interest to Charlevoixans:

At an interesting ceremony in Fraternity United Church, Creighton Mine, last Saturday afternoon, Miss Ina Beatrice Newman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Newman, of Creighton Mine, became the bride of Dr. Charles Ashley Armstrong, son of Mrs. R. C. Armstrong and the late Rev. Dr. Armstrong, of Toronto. Rev. J. K. Moffatt, B. A., pastor of the church, officiated.

The church was decorated with shaggy bronze 'mums for the occasion. Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the church to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by Mr. Ralph Hawkins, of Creighton Mine at the organ, and Mr. Herbert Wilson, also of Creighton Mine, violinist. She was lovely in her wedding gown of white satin back crepe fashioned on long lines, its high neck caught with a gold clasp, and tiny white buttons trimming the back. With it she wore a matching white crepe halo hat and silver slippers, and carried a bouquet of Sunbeam roses and lilies-of-the-valley, with long tulle streamers in which lilies-of-the-valley, were tied.

Mrs. K. H. Betts, of Midland, Michigan, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor, gowned in royal blue crepe-back taffeta with maroon turban and silver slippers. Her bouquet was of American Beauty roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The groom was supported by his brother, Rev. E. Armstrong, of White River, and the ushers were Dr. P. Kyle, of Creighton Mine, and Walter McMillan, of Sudbury.

A reception followed at the bride's home from four to seven o'clock. Mrs. R. Burford, of Creighton Mine, and Mrs. Albert Cook, sister of the bride, from Charlevoix, Michigan, poured tea.

Later Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong left by motor for a short wedding trip, and will leave on December 8 for their new home at Port Simpson, British Columbia, where Dr. Armstrong will take charge of the United Church mission hospital.

Included among the out-of-town guests were the bride's sister, Mrs. Albert Cook of Charlevoix, Mich., and Mrs. B. K. Betts of Midland, Mich.

CUTTING UP CORN CUTS DOWN BORER

Michigan State College Advises on Methods of Pest Control

Favorable weather will see Michigan corn growing counties facing serious infestation in 1938 by the corn borer, warns C. B. Dibble, extension specialist in insect control at Michigan State College.

In 1937 the corn borer population increased in the principal corn counties.

Borer control can be practiced through the winter months at no cost. Labor in shredding up corn fodder is repaid. Dibble has figured out, by the extra amount of plant food absorbed by the corn stalk fibers when added to bedding. Thus the control work costs nothing.

"The amount of extra nitrogen absorbed from manure is alone enough to make the shredding job worthwhile," says Dibble. "The litter from uneaten fodder handles easier in shreds instead of broken stalks. Manure can be piled easier, spread easier out on fields and plowed under more easily."

Shredding is credited with killing 90 to 95 per cent of the borers that might be trying to winter over in the cornstalks. Tearing up the stalks exposes the rest of the borers, so that there is practically a complete control over any borers in the cut corn.

Borer counts in corn stubble indicate many of the pests are prevalent and trying to winter over. Next spring moths will emerge to lay eggs, increasing their own population by the hundredfold in the resulting larvae that eat up corn stalk and juices and riddle ears.

Poultry Infestation Cuts Down Laying Ability of Chickens

It's news when chickens get chicken or fowl pox. In fact poultrymen in at least 10 Michigan counties are learning that it is bad news for egg production.

Counties from which reports of chicken pox have been received by J. M. Moore, poultryman at Michigan State College, are Monroe, Lenawee, Hillsdale, Wayne, Saginaw, Washtenaw, Shiawassee, Macomb, Calhoun and Clinton.

Cankerous and watery eyes, water blisters on combs and heads and later small pox scabs are some of the symptoms of the external pox disease, not quite so serious. More serious is the internal type which leads to cankers on the trachea or windpipe, cutting off breathing. Birds gasp as if they had bronchitis, but the difference is that they have these cankers instead of the bloody mucous typical of bronchitis.

E. S. Weisner, pathologist at the college, suggests poultrymen follow protective measures if any symptoms of pox show up.

"Cater to the birds' appetites," Weisner advises. "Usually the mortality is not high unless complicated by roupy colds. Well grown pullets show no marked effect of the disease and occasionally continue in production, although the more serious internal type may take as high as 50 per cent of the flock. Most commonly the results are that the birds go off egg production six to eight weeks. No after effects impair in birds after recovery.

"Feed vitamin bearing foods and perhaps a moist mash to keep up their resistance and their appetites. Segregation of birds does not help, because if one or two in a pen start with pox the rest likely will show up with the same disease in a few days."

Agriculture

The House passed the 1937 farm bill and it now goes to conference with the Senate. Another precedent was set at this session when the House debated the measure for two weeks. That is the longest debate on record in recent years. When the final compilation is made it will probably comprise a volume of 2,000 pages. There isn't any excuse for anyone being unfamiliar with the problems of the farmer with such a document available. Everything concerning the farm problem was discussed. The farmer has had his day in court and next week the wage earners in the sweat-shop industries and child labor will come before the House. But that is another story.

The farm bill in brief is as follows:

Continuation of soil conservation program, with compulsory but farmer-approved machinery to regulate marketing.

Cotton—Acreage allotments, with a penalty of 2 cents a pound on sale of cotton produced on land not included in allotments.

Wheat—Acreage allotments: Farmer-approved marketing quotas when supplies exceed 25 percent above normal; 15cent penalty for sale of each bushel above marketing quotas.

Corn — Acreage allotments: Farmer-approved marketing quotas, when supplies exceed 15 percent above norma'; 15-cent penalty for sale of each bushel above marketing quotas.

Rice—Domestic allotments on basis of production; penalty of one-quarter cent a pound for sale of production above allotments.

In addition $1,000,000 was set aside to expedite foreign sales of agricultural products. A provision was made whereby the Secretary of Agriculture would participate in all hearings on freight rates for farm products.

Although the bill provides for continuation of the soil conservation program, the Boileau amendment which was adopted it is said will offset that provision. That amendment provides that no soil conservation payments shall be made where lands have been planted to soil crops which originally were used for soil depleting crops. Soil crops are usually regarded as grasses, clover and legumes and from which many northern farmers are making enough money to pay their taxes. And if no payments are to be made for such purposes it's going to react unfavorably.

Wages and Hours

The stage was set yesterday for a spectacular wage-hours battle in the House next week as the American Federation of Labor opened a drive to upset the Administration measure.

The path for action was cleared by the House Labor Committee last night in adopting, nine to six, a Committee amendment placing administration in the Labor Department instead of a five-man board.

Motion to substitute the federation 40-40 plan was made and then withdrawn, as backers agreed to make their fight on the floor.

The long controversy over wage-hours legislation created strange lineups. Backing the Black-Connery bill with amendments were House Democratic leaders, The White House, CIO and the wage-hours bloc.

Arrayed against the measure were the A. F. of L., a strong southern Democratic bloc, many Republicans, and a group of northern members fighting against the differentials allowed in the Committee bill.

Because of fear that dissension might imperil any legislation, the wage-hours bloc, which includes many northern members, agreed to accept a bill with differentials for the South.

Mrs. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey, chairman of the House Labor Committee, expressed confidence that action of the committee in wiping out the five-man board would aid the bill. She said that the action was taken with the understanding that it was approved by the A. F. of L.

Mrs. Norton denied that the proposal is similar to NRA. Under the proposed Labor Department Administration, a single administrator is authorized. Bu the also has power to name committees to recommend wage-hours for individual industry.

TWO ALBINO BUCKS ARE REPORTED BY HUNTERS

Upper and Lower Peninsulas Produce Freak Deer Specimens

Two albinos and a large buck apparently so old that it was wasting away were among unasual kills of the 1937 deer season rgported to the department of conservation.

The aged buck was turned in at the conservation headqaarters in Escanaba by a hanter who said that he shot it but was afraid to eat it because it appeared to be diseased. Although large af frame, the animal was extremely thin and had a poar set of antlers.

The head and feet of the animal were sent to Lansing for examination which showed that the antlers were typical of extreme age in a deer and that its teeth were so worn down that it probably had difficalty chewing any feed it ohtained, which would explain why the deer was little more than skin and bones. S. C. Whitlock, game diviaion pathologist who made the examination described the condition of the deer as "antiqaated".

One of the albinos was an almost all white buck with pink eyes shot near Crystal Falls. The other, shot near Atlanta, had white fore legs and pink hooves. Two to three albinos are usually bagged each deer season.

Approximately one per cent of all the examinations performed by the department laboratories free of charge for altar-bound couples have shown positive indications of syphilis. Dr. C. C. Slemons, state health commissioner, reported favorable acceptance of the new law.

Congress is not expected to distarb Michigan's Federal Aid highway program for next year.

This is the word brought back from Washington this week by Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, who was in the nation's capitol in opposition to cartailment of the program.

In fact, the commissioner expressed the opinion that no highway legislation will be enacted at the present special session of Congress. He said that Federal Aid appropriations beyond next year would probably be a matter for consideration at the next regular session.

Charlevoix County Post Takiog Part in Nation-Wide Move—Petitioos Will Be Circulated

An organized campaign to obtain the signatures of a majority of the citizens of Charlevoix county on petitions which call upon Congress to keep America out of war is to be launched immediately under the supervision of Charlevoix County Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. The appeal to Congress reads as followa:

"We, the undersigned citizens of the United States of America, call upon the Congress and the President to adopt and apply policies designed to keep America out of war and supported by a national defense program adeqnate for the protection of our country and its people."

The plan to convey to Congress tangible evidence of the prevailing sentiment against war is the chief objective of a nationwide campaign being conducted by 3600 local units of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, according to Commander Sam E. King.

"Under our form of government, the question of peace or war rests in the hands of Congress," Commander King pointed out. "We, the peopla, expect members of Congress to vote in accordance with the will of their constituents. Petitions bearing the signatures of 25 million American citizens will tell Congress, in unmistakable terms, that the vast majority of the citizens of the United States want America to keep out of war."

A quantity of petition blanks were received hy Commander King from national headquorters at Kansas City, Missouri. These petition blanks will he circulated by members of Post No. 1153 and distributed to various other local civic, patriotic, religious and fraternal groups.

Gold Star Mothers in this community will be given the first opportunity to affix their signatures to the petition, according to Commander King.

"It is the privilege of these mothers to be the first ones to raise their voices in opposition to war. Their signatures will be followed by the signatures of all war mothers, decorated heroes, disahled veterans, city and other public officials, and then the ran kand file of all citizens.

The V. F. W. campaign to keep America out of war is in complete harmony with the "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men" spirit of tho Christmas season. Let's make the most of it.

The Charlevoix Kiwanis Cluh played host at a Christmas dinner served at noon Wednesday, Decemher 22, to about 375 hoys and girls in the parlors of the Methodist church.

FISHING LICENSES EXPIRE JANUARY 1

ANGLERS ADVISED TO OBTAIN 1938 PERMITS

General License Costs $1; Non-Trout Permit 50c; License Age Lowered from 18 to 17 Years

With the ice fishing season already under way on the south arm of Lake Charlevoix above Ironton and at Boyne City, anglers are reminded that their 1937 fishing licenses expire December 31st.

All dealers and conservation officers throughout the state are being supplied with new licenses before that date.

Major changes in Michigan's 1938 fish laws include reduction of the age limit for having a license to fish, from 18 to 17 years, and designation of closed seasons for pike lakes which heretofore have been open the year around.

The license section also provides that residents desiring to take all species of fish shall be required to pay one dollar for this license to be known as the "general resident fishing license."

Resident persons desiring to take any species of fish not including brook, brown or roinbow trout shall be required to pay 50 cents for a license which will be known as the "special resident license."

Pike lakes in the lower peninsula will he closed from March 2 to April 30, inclusive; those in the upper peninsula from March 16 to May 14, inclusive.

The month of April also has been added to the closed aeason on the "all other lakes" classification and a closed season is provided in non-trout streams on great northern pike, pike-perch, muskellunge and perch.

A new ice fishing regulation provides that beginning January 1, ice fishermen may use two lines with a total of not more thon four hooks on all litnes. Lines must be under immediate control at all times. The regulations are the same as for fishing in open water.

These changes were included in the amendments to the inland fishing law enacted at the last legislative session and made effective as of January 1, 1938.

Ice fishermen formerly were restricted to not more than two lines with a single hook on a line.

RAYOERS WINNER OVER KALKASKA

SCORED 50 TO 10 VICTORY THERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Meet Gaylord Quintet on Local Court Tonight (Wednesday)—Fast Contest io Prospect

Charlevoix's Red Rayders opened defense of their Little Eight class C conference basketball title last Friday night with a 50 to 10 victory over Kalkaska on Kalkaska's court.

Led by Carey, who alone accounted for eleven points, it took the regulars six minutes to run up a 14 to 2 margin in the initial period. The reserves, through Allison's goal, increased the margin 16 to 2 at the quarter, but lost ground in the aecond period which closed with the Rayders out in front 18 to 7.

Coach Kipke alternated his regulars and reserves during the ramaining two periods. They scored 32 points to three for the losers with Carey adding 15 more to bring his evening's total to 26. That Kalkaska had nothing to match Charlevoix's accurate, speedy attack, is indicated by the score.

FARMERS' INCOME HIGHER LAST YEAR

INCREASE OF 14 PER CENT OVER 1936 RECORDED

Michigan Ranked First io Production of Cherries; Near Top in Many Other Crops

Cash income from Michigan crops and livestock for the calendar year 1937 is estimated to total $246,198,000 compared with $215,807,000 in 1936. Thus it is indicated that Michigan farmers received 14 per cent more income from sales of crop and livestock products (including Government payments) than was received a year ago. Attention is called to the fact that these figures relate to that portion of the farmers' crop and livestock sold for cash from January to December, inclusive, and not to the value of the totol production during the crop year.

The total farm value of the 24 principal field and fruit crops produced in Michigan during 1937 is estimated at $146,900,000, compared with a valnation of $173,724,000 for the production of these crops in 1936, or a decrease of 15 per cent. This estimate of farm value of total crop production does not include livestock products. This year with a two per cent larger acreage devoted to field crops and with the volume of production greatly in excess of that of a year ago, the value of crops is less due to lower price levels since harvest.

This season Michigan ranked first, compared with all other states, in the production of cherries; second in the production of field beans; third in quantity of potatoes and grapes; fourth in the amount of alfalfa hay, peaches, and pears; and fifth in production of apples and buckwheat.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION PROGRESS

REPORT MADE BY ATTORNEY FOR ORGANIZATION

Memberships Are Now Being Accepted in Four-County Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Co.

Submitted by Leon Miller
Attorney for the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company

The Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company is now sufficiently advanced so that memberships are being requested and accepted according to officers of the cooperative company.

Already a group of survey men are at work in several communities. The personnel of the organization has been completed and all the necessary legal steps have been approved by the Rural Electrification Administration at Washington. During the last two weeks several meetings have been held in varlous communities where the program has been carefully outlined and analyzed.

While no definite decision has as yet been given in regard to the source of power, this does not need to stand in the way of signing memberships, as whether power is purchased from municipal plants, private companies or its own plant constructed, no appreciable difference in rates will result. It is hoped that all farmers and resort customers along the contemplated lines will be visited very soon. The membership fee is only $5.00, which gives lifetime membership and which entitles the full use of electricity when it becomes availahle. This is necassary because each patron must be a member of the Cooperative Company and hos one vote. There are no financial donations or contributions asked from nhyone, but it is necessary to have free right-of-way and easements. All that is necessary is to become a membar.

Kindly have your tox receipt convenient and decide more or less what electrical appliances you will want. This informatinn will help the survey man upon his visit to your place. Mr. Colter, project supervisor, and Mr. Leon Miller, project attorney, state that everything has been completed and now the success of the program depends entirely upon the interest shown by farmers and resort owners. Many of you have been hoping for electricity for many years. This is your opportunity. Talk to your neighbors about the program. Attend any meetings in your locality.

IN MEMORIAM

Beaver Island Mourns

On the day when the books of another bygone year of life are balanced and when hearts are merry and glad; a cloud of gloom envelopes that Emerald Isle in Upper Lake Michigan. Yes, the cries of "Happy New Year" are present but these cries have a false, hesitating ring. Happy New Year. Last year they sang out these merry tunes, but even before the first day drew its shades to a close, these hearts sunk low in sadness.

Now one year later, an anchor—the symbol of the hearty fisher folk—is sunk deep in the midst of the mud at the bottom of the turbulent waters of grief. Yes, memories—sad ones—have stolen that hearty ring from the traditional Irish hearts.

One year ago today, thte first major tragedy that struck Beaver Island since the sinking of the Cliftan, sneaked from her bosom five loyal sons—two were adopted, but three received their birth and success on her very soil.

One year ago today, at exactly seven minutes after four o'clock in the afternoon, the tragic smoke shot and curled into the brisk New Year's air from the direction of Simmons Reef. And oh, the sadness that weighed upon the heart of every individual in that town could not possibly be described. Everyone was the loser, as a young husband, a faithful son, a dear relative, or a close friend was snatched from their midst.

Yes, their sadness was brim full, packed down, and overflowing; and time, the best healer, has not wiped out the loss from their hearts. The acute pain still pierces, so today they hesitate to sing in joyful song.

Yes, Bruce, Raymond, Everett, Leon and Capt., you have gone from our midst in body, but your memory lingers still, and may you all be happy in that great beyond. So untill we meet again—au revoir.

Lonely, she stood by the window
And clutched her child to her breast
And listened to the North wind blow
The tale of her husband's rest.

Those eyes that were once so bright
With the twinkle of sweet content,
Now tears dimmed their sight,
And another life was rent.

Closer, she cuddled her child
The only wealth that she had left,
While the roaring wind blew wild
Its story of sad bereft.

Then she peeked at the little head,
To sooth her aching heart,
And felt the steady tread
Of sorrow's poisoned dart.

Throughout the day she stood there
And a vigil she kept all night,
While the raging waters blared
Their victory in the light.

"Daddy has left us, my child,"
Then she clasped the babe still more,
"And the wind is blowing wild
And is saying—never more.

"Only yesterday he looked at you sleep
And kissed you the final good-by,
But little did he know we'd weep,
And in those waters, today, he'd lie.

"Daddy has left us my child,
We'll see his face no more,
For the wind is blowing wild
And is saying—never more."

MICHIGAN FARM SALES NOW TOP TOTAL FOR 1936

Where farm crops have been good there has been a vigorous, healthy demand for farm lands, says the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul.

In support of this trend it points to the fact that in Michigan 314 farms were sold by the bank in the first 10 months of the year, compared with 285 for the entire year of 1936. This is an increase for the 10-months period of better than 10 per cent over the 12 months of last year.

Thirty thousand acres in this state which the land bank had been compelled to take over, have thus been returned this season to the hands of private operators, most of them farmers who are going to live on the land they have bought.

Uncle Sam need not complain that Santa Claus has forgotten him this year. Already the European diplomats at Brussels have given him a whole bag to hold.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE SAVES DEPOSITORS AGAINST LOSS

Since January 1, 1934, when the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation began functioning, 100 insolvent insured banks have been placed in receivership or merged with the aid of loans by the Corporation, Chairman Crowley has pointed out.

The 259,000 depositors in these banks whose deposits totaled $68,012,000, were protected to the extent of $64,467,000, or more than 90 percent of their claims, by insurance, offset, pledges of security, preferment, or through loans and purchases of assets by the Corporation. All but 595, or less than one-half of one percent of the depositors were fully protected against loss, the chairman said.

Minimum standard requirements for all insured banks would give depositors even greater protection, Chairman Crowley stated.

He said: "No one can challenge the statement that federal deposit insurance has saved many depositors from ruin. Our record is such that today 13,876 banks out of 15,454 are insured.

"Nor can anyone properly question the assertion that since the inception of deposit insurance communities have recovered more promptly from the shock caused by a bank's closing than they did in the years before it was known."

He recalled that 16,800 banks closed between 1921 and 1933, their collapse wiping out $3,000,000,000 in deposits which were never recovered. The Chairman continued:

"Closing of those banks and the loss of that money carried misfortune and hardship into nearly all communities in the country. How much disaster would have been averted had deposit insurance existed is a matter of speculation.

"We do know, however, that depositors' recoveries would have been much greater. We also know that had the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation been in existence and covering any alzeable percentage of those institutions that many of them would have remained open.

"The corporation not only pays off depositors in closed insured banks but makes loans, wherever conditions warrant, to banking institutions that are in financial difficulty but may be rehabilitated. Thus the Corporation prevents their destruction and the resulting business unsettlement in the communities they serve."

LANSING LETTER

The new bureau will operate out of the state department of agriculture and will be the first state unit of its kind in the United States. Mrs. Stuart A. Frazer of Detroit, chairman of the Wayne County Consumers' Counsel, is credited with having sold the idea to administration leaders.

The consumers' bureau will serve as a clearing house for general information about products. In other words, it will seek to advise the consumer on what points to look for when he is buying an article. No advice would be given on any brand product.

Other objectives: Make advertising more factual, promote fair trade practices, watch state legislation, encourage grading of goods by labels, and discourage over-selling of installment payments.

Unemployment Insurance

When the legislature set July 1, 1938 as the date when payments could start from the Michigan unemployment compensation fund, the present business recession had not developed.

If pnyments could be made available early in 1938, the welfare load would be lightened as compensation could be paid to unemployed persons.

It is just nnother "straw in the wind" that Governor Murphy will call n second specinl session in 1938. A. F. of L. leaders nnticipnte such a call. After ngreeing on what kind of a labor relations law they would prefer, they recently endorsed Murphy for re-election.

The A. F. of L. wants congress to nmend the Social Security net so that nnemployment insurnnce benefits cnn be paid to workers engaged in strikes and so that the employer will foot the entire bill, thus elimnnting contributions from employees. The CIO favor use of some of the old age pension reserve at Washington for a vast housing program.

Work Projects

Every unemployed mnn in the nutomobile industry who has no savings nccount in reserve may be absorbed on WPA projects this winter, nccording to ambitions olnns advanced by Lou's M. Nims, state WPA director.

Cities are being asked to speed up plnns for new work projects which four yenrs ago provided relief checks for 187,000 persons and last yenr for some 75,000.

Street and sewer improvements and grnde separntions are favored.

Congress appropriated one nnd n half billion dollnrs to keep unemployed persons nt work during the present fiscal year ending next June 30. Within one month the Michigan relief load has increased 7,000 cases. State funds nnticipnted a load of 48,000 persons; today it is "over the top" by many thousands.

Schools' Plight

An appeal to Governor Murphy to include school finnncing in his call for a special session has been made by the Flint board of education. Flint schools will have to close one month early unless the legislnture amends a state law so that money can be borrowed in anticipation of the collection of delinquent taxes, so the governor was told.

The state loan bonrd is prohibited at present from approving loans against anticipated delinquent tax collections made by local governmental units. The law went into eccel fate this fall.

The 15-mill tax limitation amendment to the state constitution, which was adopted in 1932, put the skids under building of new school buildings. From 1923 to 1928 a total of $117,000,000 was spent on school building construction throughout the state. But during the past five years the expenditures have dropped to only about $10,000,000.

The tax limitation requires a two-thirds vote before more money can be raised. And then, the money must be repaid within five years.

According to the Michigan Education association, the situation is growing more serious each year.

Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction, is quoted: "Either the 15-mill tax limitation must be eliminated, so local communities will have financial ability to raise money for school construction, or the State and Federal governments must provide money for school construction."

Ford Housing Idea

Amendment of the present Michigan Housing Authority act to permit municipalities to participate in the federal loan benefits is sought by housing leaders.

The governor is being asked to include housing in his call for the special session, if and when it is held in 1938.

From Detroit comes interesting news to the effect that the Ford Foundation, a non-profit corporation operated for the "welfare of mankind" may construct 4,000 homes in Dearborn, each house on a quarter acre of land.

The foundation owns and operates Greenfield village and the Edison institute.

Gambling Again

One week after Attorney General Raymond W. Starr declared at Traverse City that slot-machines and organized gambling had been nearly eliminated in Michigan, Speaker Geo. Schroeder revealed here that the legislative council was considering revival of its gambling investigation.

The probe, as authorized by a house resolution, stirred up a lot of publicity but that was about all. One of the investigators, Representative John F. Hamilton (D) of Detroit, resigned from the committee in apparent disgust nt the ruling by the attorney general that the committee lacked legal authority.

Will nature destroy mankind as it did the huge dinosaurs? Scientists point out that the human race has traveled the same path of evolution. A feature in the American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald and Examiner.

The present congress is expected to enact a law defining the correct length for a railroad train. But some of us will stick to the Abe Lincoln opinion that " a train should be long enough to reach from the engine to the enboose."

THE HOLIDAY SEASON IS BRINGING 1937 TO A CLOSE.

ONCE AGAIN WE DO WANT TO EXPRESS OUR SINCERE APPRECIATION TO THE MANY FRIENDS OF THIS INSTITUTION AND TO WISH THEM WELL.

YOUNG AMERICA

We, as Americans, are constantly reminded of our good fortune in living in this country. We are a favored people in our opportunities and in our worldly possessions.

We are a new country and are developing a new era of civilization through science and invention. It follows, naturally, that we stress the possession of material comforts, that we are, as one Chinese writer puts it, "Slaves to the plumber"—to running water and bathrooms.

In striking contrast to our needs for living and our desires, is the Chinese philosophy, acquired in babyhood—a philosophy of acceptance of things as they are, and an independence of mind and spirit from physical comforts or worldly possessions. Their physical needs are the simplest, and they find happiness in thought, in learning, in beauty, and in their families. They find contentment within themselves, and they scorn our sympathy for them based on their lack of material possessions.

THAT BALANCED BUDGET

Everybody knows that at Christmas time they are apt to spend more than they earn, and that their budget will be out of balance as a result. The same thing occurs when a Nation overspends. If the individual spends fifty dollars more than he earned, he will have to make it up in the coming months. That is the same with government. It is all very simple, for when the father of the family plays Santa Claus for a while, he must pay for his pleasure. And if the government takes on the same role, it too must pay for its overindulgence.

The likeness continues straight through, with the exception the individual scrimps for a while and gets even again, for he has not tied himself to the system, but with governments, it does not work that way. When they overspend, they do so in a manner which makes it politically impossible for them to quit. They always promise they will stop when such and such a time arrives, hut that time never arrives. If they did quit they would commit political suicide and no politician wants to be out of a job, so they don't quit.

We will hear much about the budget in the noar future because the President promised he would balance it by 1938. He realizes the impossible feat he has chosen to perform without knocking over his house of cards completely, and therefore picked on the cuts which, if made, will directly cut down on the money the boys will have to pass out to their home constituents. The cuts will probably not be made and he can then say he offered a solution to the dilemma and because it was not followed, it is not his fault.

Let us not lose sight of the fact there are a good many other ways the budget could be balanced, and if this one fails, h eshould not stop there but press forward along other lines of attack. It will hurt politically if he does, but the time has come in America to forget politics for a while and work for the good of the whole nation instead of a few favored individuals.

If you like a good mystery, why don't you try to figure out what has become of prosperity?

Fifty members of county highway commissions, and boards of supervisors from the comties of the 29th senatorial district met at the court house in Gaylord, Friday, for a special conference on highway construction and maintenance.

The session was one of a series of five arranged hy the district association of highway commissioners and supervisors and was considered highly successful. The meetings are arranged to study highway problems as confronted hy road boards and supervisors.

Frank Lake, of Atlanta, was chairman and presented a highly interesting program.

Sidney Medalia, of Mancelona, and Eder Matthews, chairman of the Emmet county board of supervisors, were the guest speakers. The former discussed new laws and regulations covering road huilding and maintenance, and problems of road construction finance. Mr. Mednlia has given considerahle study to these problems and has served as a member of the Antrim county road board for many years.

Mr. Matthews discussed the value of cooperation between the road commissions and the boards of supervisors and the state laws which govern the road work through these two county departments. Mr. Matthews outlined the responslhilities of each group and also their responsibilities to the general public who pays the costs of highway work.

G. F. DeLaMater, Otsego county highway engineer, served as secretary of the meeting and discussed an engineer's duty to the road board and the board of supervisors.

A guest of the association was State Senator Otto Bishop, who was introduced and responded hrlefly.

TREATING OUR ILLS

The old Hebrew adage says, "A merry heart causeth good healing, hut a broken spirit drieth up the bones."

A writer for "The Forum," Winifred Rhodes, says that a medical msn in high position attributes half the general hospital cases to psycical and not physical illness. Again and again medical men find that treatment of the mind and spirit is more needed than treatment of the body.

"Every thought you let yourself think, every motion you permit yourself to enjoy leaves its mark and helps either to make your insufficient for life or to give you greater sufficiency.

"Let a man make it his habit to refuse pettiness day by day and to choose robustly, and he can little by little develop a soul which shall at last become equal to anything!

"The soul that knows true rellgion loses its feeling of having to struggle alone. It puts aside its dreads and fears. It lifts itself up into a mood of confidence in the universe. It learns how to draw conscious vigor from the source of all life."

WHAT TO BELIEVE

A young Chech doctor, after spending two years studying reasons for the long lives of peasants in a Balkan state, concludes it is due to the fact that these people live upon a diet of bread, beans, cheese, and a very few raw vegetables, avoiding fats, sugar, fruit, and meat to any extent.

Well.

We modern Americans are taught to count our vitamins, eat plenty of fresh fruit daily, travel with a lettuce sandwich, eat meat if we like it. We are enticed by colorful advertisements to make fancy deserts, urged to consume cod liver oil, warned against too much starch, - - - and so on.

For every "do" there is a "don't" until we sometimes wonder if anyone really knows what is good for the human race.

Just what assures a long life?

M. S. C. COURSES OFFER DAIRYMEN'S TRAINING

Two Eight-Week Courses Will Start on January 3rd

Training in all phases of Michigan's 57-million dollar dairy industry will be offered in two eight weeks courses in dairy production and dairy manufacturing to start at Michigan State College, January 3.

Students in the dairy production course will receive instruction and laboratory work in the feeding and management of dairy cattle, in addition to work with supplementary subjects, such as judging and testing, disease control, and animal breeding. Other work includes farm crops, soil management, and actual experience in the college dairy barns with representative dairy breeds.

Dairy manufacturing students will elect one of three subjects—butter making, market milk, or cheese making—and will receive intensive instruction and practical experience in the college dairy manufacturing plant. These courses are designed to furnish training that will lead students to responsible positions in commercial organizations. Besides the elected work, the dairy manufacturing student will receive instruction in creamery mechanics, dairy bacteriology, and dairy mathematics.

In addition to dairying, other eight weeks short courses that start January 3 include general agriculture, poultry, home economics, golf course management, commercial fruit production, forestry and wildlife conservation, agricultural engineering and practical floriculture. Particulars about these courses, which are open to persons at least 16 years old, may be obtained from the Michigan State College short course office, East Lansing.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

Sunday school, 12 o'clock.

Meets first Wednesday evening each month at 7:45 p. m.

Reading room open Saturday, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Christian Science" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, December 26.

The Golden Text, from Isaiah 55:1, is: "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Romans 15:4) "For whatsnever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 358): "Christian Science, understood, coincides with the Scriptures, and sustains logically and demonstratively every point it presents."

COLORS ENHANCE CHRISTMAS EATS

Even if low cost foods must be used the Christmas dinner table ought to be dressed up with clean linen and polished silverware as if the family were to dine upon peacocks' tongues.

Suggestions for fixing up the table and the menu are offered by Miss Evalyn Bergstrand, instructor in home management at Michigan State College. Trimmings from the Christmas tree, apples, cranberries and canned tomatoes all offer some of the typical Christmas color to help brighten up a dinner at home during the holidays.

Linen ought to be clean and fresh looking, the silver should be polished and the silver and dishes placed in orderly fashion. All these pointers, according to Miss Bergstrand, make an attractive table even when the foods must be low in cost.

Centerpieces can be cleverly made around a few red apples, with pine or spruce branches for the red and green of Christmas. Artificial snow or tinsel can add the wintry touch. Lighted candles on each side of the centerpiece can supplant the rest of the lights in the room for a cheerful atmosphere.

Cranberries are relatively inexpensive and these, too, can add a dash to meals in the form of sauce, cocktail, salad, garnish or dessert. Miss Bergstrand suggests sorting out the largest cranberries in the bag, pricking these with a needle and cooking them about three minutes in a thick sugar syrup. They simulate maraschino cherries.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By Ann Page

Food supplies and prices are such as to help a lean budget stretch over a lot of Christmas and pre-holiday fare. Meats are lower, with beef down to last year's holiday level, and poultry is reasonable in price. Butter is high, but eggs, though higher, are still reasonable for the season.

Apples, oranges and nuts, suggestive of knobby stockings hung from the mantelpiece, are all plentiful and inexpensive. Cranberries are about half last year's price.

Plentiful supplies of all old-fashioned and traditional vegetables are in market together with fresh green beans, lima beans, broccoli, mushrooms, spinach and a variety of salad greens.

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

Housing

This newsletter is written on Saturdnys and todny the House is considering the small home amendment to the Federal Housing Act. The bill is designed to stimulate small home construction of which it is estimated there is a shortage of 2,300,000. Heretofore the down pnyment was 20 per cent of the cost. Under the proposed bill the down pnyment is cut in half. In other words, on a home costing $5400 the down pnyment will be $540. Interest charge will be set at 5 per cent. The loans will be available for city ahd rural districts.

A new feature is the insurance of construction loans over $16,000 and up to $250,000 for multi-family projects or group of individuals buildings. The developer only gets insurance up to 80 percent but nfter the units are sold the individual buyer can get up to 80 percent.

Under Title 3 of the present lnw provision was made for the establishment of national mortgage associations with capital at $200,000,000 by private subscription with nuthority for loans by purchnse of mortgages and so forth, and the privilege of issuing debentures in twelve times the amount of capital.

Under Title 3 as carried in the present lnw no national mortgage associations have been organized. Under the present bill the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is nuthorized to invest in national mortgage associations to the amount of $50,000,000 and such nssociations could he authorized to issue their other ohligations in the amount of twenty times their capital. Such associntions would he permitted to make loans directly on the large senle housing operations, hut can only purchnse other insured loans which are made hy other lending institutions. They may purchase real estate mortgnges whether insured or not but can only issue debentures, against and not in excess of, the amount of the insured mortgages.

Wages and Hours

The House disposed of the Wnges and Hours Bill by a vote of 216 to 198 which sent it bnck to committee. The bill is dead for this session. That action climaxed a week of bitter dehate which at times became personal. A coalition of Southern Democrats and Republicans alded by Wm. Green of the A. F. of L. killed the bill. That was one of the pet administration measures and even the speaker of the House was active in attempting to secure its passage. Charges flew in all directions. The southern pine and southern textile industries were accused of having had a million dollar lobby. Tho supporters of the bill are in an ill mood and say the fight will continue. Sweatshops and child lahor must go they say.

Ludlow Petition

The Ludlow Resolution which would require a national referendum on war is scheduled to come up hefore the House on January 10th. The resolution was released from committee when 218 Congressmen signed the petition. President Roosevelt has hinted that he is not for the measure. In order to carry and become an amendment to the Constitution it must pass hoth houses by a two-thirds majority after which it goes to the legislatures for ratification. Thirty-six states must act on it favorably. That is a long hard row to hoe and what will eventually become of it only time can tell.

Irish Free State

Your Congressman joined with other members of the House in signing a memorial to President DeValera of the Irish Free State commending th elrish people on their new Constitution and expressing confidence in the future of their nation.

AT THE MOVIES

Techalcolor Film Set in South Seas

The most successful color film that has yet reached the screen is the first Technicolor sea story, "Ebb Tide", which opens Saturday, December 25, at the Palace Theatre. There has been no setting so far which shows itself so perfectly adapted to Technicolor photography as the South Seas locale of this story by Robert Louis Stevenson and Lloyd Osbourne. The lush tropical vegetation, the bright hlue of Pacific skies, and the water shading of the South Pacific all needed to be filmed in color, and in "Ebb Tide" all their beauty is recorded to the best possible advantage. The result is a film of unique beauty.

The cast of "Ebb Tide" is headed hy Oscar Homolka, Frances Farmer, Ray Milland, Lloyd Nolan and Barry Fitzgerald.

New "Hopalong" Film Comes to Local Screen

"Texas Trail", latest in the series of popular Clarence E. Mulford's Hopalong Cassidy Western adventure films, which opens Wednesday, December 29, at the Palace Theatre, was adapted for the screen from Mulford's latest best-selling novel, "Tex".

The picture, which shows a hard-riding bunch of cowpunchers and their efforts to round up a herd of wild horses for the government, only to be hijacked after their herd is complete, stars William Boyd and features a splendid supporting cast headed by George Hayes, Russell Hayden, Judith Allen and Billy King.

County Wide Bangs Disease Program Now Complete

As we near the end of 1937 one of our big objectives has been reached and that is to have all cattle in Charlevoix county free from both Bangs Disease and Tuberculosis. Charlevoix county now becomes the second county in Michigan to have a clean slate and due to this is receiving considerable publicity all through the state. Out of state buyers are being advised to come to this section for their purchases which means continued good prices for dairy stock.

A crew of 6 state inspectors has been busily engaged in making these tests since November 8. The job was finished on December 13. A complete check shows 8,297 cattle tested in 1054 herds, resulting in 27 reactors and 20 suspects being funnd. These reactors either have been or are being sold and will not be a source of infection any longer. These reactors are sold under Federal supervision in Detroit and the proceeds of the sale coming back to the owner. In addition the Federal indemnity is paid so that the owners nre pretty well compensated for their loss. On a percentage basis it means only .0033 of 1 percent. In the case of the T. B. tests only 1 reactor was found in 11,636 cattle. So we are indeed proud of the efforts being devoted to keeping our cattle free from disease.

While we realize that many dairymen have been inconvenienced by the frequency of these tests, I am sure that we are all glad the job is done and in all probability it will not have to be done for a three year period.

Yardstick Set Up For Measuring Farm Productive Capacity

Through an error the soil conservation committeemen selected from Melrose and Evangeline townships were omitted from last week's list for which we offer our humble apologies. Following are the committeemen, the first named being chairman and a member of the county board of directors.

Melrose and Evangeline—Peter A. Jensen, chairman, Boyne City; Clyde Clute, vice chairman, Boyne City; Anton Holmberg, 3rd member, Clarion; Robert Cilke, 1st alternate, Boyne Falls; Robert B. Tainter, 2nd alternate, Boyne City.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration has set up a yardstick to measure the productive capacity of farms under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program, Charles D. Sheppard, chairman of the Charlevoix county committee declared today.

"Score cards" or appraisal sheets have been prepared and distributed, or will be distributed soon, to all counties in the state. Chairmnn Shepard said, information received from Maurice A. Donn, chairman of the Michigan agricultural conservation committee, showed the appraisal work is completed in most of the northern counties, while in the southern half of the state the work has just started, or is scheduled to begin soon.

"Field appraisal under the 1938 program," Mr. Shepard said, "is in line with the major shift of emphasis in the program from reduction in production to establishment of definite production goals.

"Next year a farmer will have a goal to shoot at, rather than a base to reduce from. In this way, he will be able before the planting season to map out his cropping system for the year. He will know just how much he can earn in payments, and he will know what practices to follow to earn those payments.

"The producing ability of the land will be taken into consideration by the county committee in establishing the goals for individual farms under the 1938 program.

"But because of the different conditions which force some farmers to farm the way they do—taxes, debts, drought, flood, etc. — other things such as the old historic bases, will be taken into consideration in establishing individual farm goals.

"The field appraisal for 1938 will give a clearcut picture of the productive ability of our land today, along with a comparison of the producing ability of farms. In addition, the appraisal will show us what must be done in years to come, if we are to restore and to maintain the ability of our farms to produce."

BANG'S DISEASE CAMPAIGN IS UNDER WAY

Eighty Percent of Charlevoix County Herds Have Been Tested

With some testing completed in every county in the state, progress of the Bang's disease testing and eradication in cattle in Michigan is reported by Dr. B. J. Killham, extension specialist in animal pathology at Michigan State College.

First county in the state to get a complete check on all its dairy and beef cattle is Antrim with 1,310 herds, also first in the United States. Eight reactors were discovered.

Cooperation of the federal bureau of animal industry, the state department of agriculture and the extension service of Michigan State College including the county agricultural agents is facilitating the program. Ultimately all of Michigan's 1,600,000 cattle are to undergo the test.

In Charlevoix county, progress reported by Dr. Killham indicates 327 herds totaling 1200 animals have been 80 percent tested.

Federal indemnities are being applied to reactors. Disease cuts production and endangers human health, causes losses in the calf crop and decreases value of infected cattle. For grade animals, up to $25 is being paid in indemnity to make up any difference between appraised value and net return to Detroit for meat purposes. For purebred cattle the federal indemnity provides for as much as $50 of the difference.

Three times the disease prevalence found in the statewide tuberculosis check in cattle is expected in the Bang's disease survey. The testing is a part of a program to assure consumers wholesome food products.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE NEWS BULLETIN

Marc 1 Deadline Final, Case Notes

Investigators of the Department of State, and other representatives throughout the state, have reported to Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, that despite publicity to the contrary, many motorists of the state expect an extension of the March 1 deadline for the purchase of 1938 plates or half-year permits.

Case stressed the fact that the 1937 legislature designated March 1 as the final date for plate or permit purchase each year, left no state official authority to grant any extension. Last year there were three extensions, Case pointed out: '30 day periods granted on January 1 and February 1, and one for 15 days, by legislative resolution, making March 15 the final day.

"If the majority of the motorists try to buy their plates on the last day—as they have in the last several years as successive deadlines approached—it will be impossible to handle the volume," Case points out.

The Secretary of State also called attention to the charge of 25 cents authorized by the 1937 legislature for issuance of half-year permits, to cover bookkeeping costs and cost of plates involved by the credit system.

A Wisconsin lady, halted by game wardens, hid a dozen muskrat pelts in her bloomers. She was lucky in that she wasn't shooting bears or elephants.

DRUMMOND ISLAND PRODUCED MANY BUCK DEER

Records Show Two of Every Five Hunters Were Successful

A record number of deer was killed on Drummond Island during the recent season, including a high percentage of young bucks. Department of conservation workers counted 406 bucks, five bear and one coyote.

Nearly half, or 45.9 percent, of the legal bucks killed by the 954 non-local hunters, was in the one and one-half age classification, additional proof that the mild winter last year allowed a greater percentage of fawns to reach maturity. The winter of 1936-37 was exceptionally mild and no abnormal mortality occurred in the island deeryards.

Drummond Island hunters had good luck. Two of five were successful in getting their bucks, though there was no tracking snow until the last two days of the season. They reported that rabbits are scarce on the island.

DEER HERDS IN GOOD CONDITION FOR WINTER

Conservation Department Research Finds Few Are Diseased

Michigan deer will enter the winter in excellent condition according to findings of department of conservation game division workers who have completed laboratory examinations of deer shot during the season from several sections of the lower peninsula.

Traveling in the division's laboratory trailer, the game division workers autopsied or examined available animals, finding no evidence of destructive disease or parasitism in Michigan deer herds.

Lungworm infection was found to be common though light in character and with no indication of damage present. Tapeworm cysts, gastric disturbances and skin tumors also were found but were in no case serious.

RAYDERS TROUNCE GAYLORD QUINTET

SCORED 42 TO 14 VICTORY HERE WEDNESDAY

Reserves Scored Aoother Victory by Wioning Fast Prelimioary 21 to 9 — Petoskey Next

Maintaining their stride in quest of northern Michigan class C basketball honors, Charlevoix's Red Rayders polished off Gaylord by a 42 to 14 count at the local gym last Friday night.

It was the Rayders third consecutive win by top-heavy margins and, like in the previous contests, Coach Kipke's first-string players saw action in only a part of the contest.

In Wednesday night's contest, the starting line-up piled up a 15 to 2 margin before stepping out for the reserves in the first quarter. Gaylord was limited to a pair of free throws. Gaylord played the reserves on even terms for the remainder of the first and portion of the second quarters und then the varsity went in to run up the count again. Charlevoix led 31 to 9 at the close of the third period.

Carey and Richardson scored heavily for Charlevoix the former making 14 and the later 11 points. Gallagher accounted for nine. Isaacs was high for the visitors with seven points.

Gordon Tabraham of Cadillac refereed in a satisfactory manner, calling the fouls close.

The line-ups:

CHARLEVOIX (42)	FG	FT	P
Carey	7	0	2
Allison	0	1	0
Richardson	5	1	1
Brown	3	0	0
Gallagher	3	3	3
Withers	0	2	1
	18	7	7

GAYLORD (14)	FG	FT	P
Glasser	0	0	1
Lovelace	2	0	2
Madsey	1	1	3
Isaacs	1	5	3
Mazur	0	0	1
	4	6	10

With Tom Carey in the leading scoring role the Rayder reserves turned in another good performance by defeating the Gayiord reserves by a 21 to 9 count in an interesting preliminary game. Gaylord trailed by only one point at the half, but were limited to a single free throw in the remaining two periods.

The Rayders travel to Petoskey for a return engagement with the Northmen in a game scheduled for Saturday night, January 1st.

ENORMOUS VOLUME MAIL HANDLED AT LOCAL POSTOFFICE

While it may not be an indication of over-abundant prosperity, the volume of mail handled hy the iocal postoffice during the Christmas season is certainly proof that the Yuletide spirit was not iacking in this community.

Postmaster J. M. Foster today released figures showing that 35,000 letters went out; sales included 24,000 1½ cent stamps, 5,000 more than last year; 13,000 3 cent and 5,000 2 cent stamps; 240 sacks of parcel post were sent out in three days, and that during the pre-Xmas rush, 500 sacks of parcel post were received.

While no accurate ügures were available to compare the 1937 volume with that of 1936 Mr. Foster believes this year to be far out ahead. The regular postoffice force was augmented hy several extras and for several days prior to Christmas, efforts of the men were taxed to keep the incoming and outgoing mail cleared.
